PREFACE.

The Proprietors, in submitting to their Subscribers and the Public the Eighth Edition of Kelly's Directory of Wiltshire, Dorsetshire and Hampshire with the Isle of Wight, trust that it may be found equal in accuracy to the previous Editions.

Every effort has been made to render it as perfect as possible. Lists of Hundreds and Poor Law Unions are included in the Topography of each County; it is stated under each parish in what Petty Sessional Division, Hundred, Union and County Court District, and Division of the County, pursuant to the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885," as also in what Diocese, Archdeaconry, and Rural Deanery it is situate; full particulars of the Cathedrals in these Counties and their establishments will be found, and the College and University of every beneficed Clergyman have been given, as far as they can be ascertained; the population from the Census of 1881 is given, and the Post Office Savings Banks and Government Annuity and Insurance and Telegraph Offices have been noticed; the names of the Parish Clerks are given under each Parish; lists of Farm Bailiffs of Gentlemen farming their own land have been added, with a table of Agricultural Statistics.

A New Map for each County is prefixed, prepared expressly for this Edition.

The County Councils will be found duly inserted, with the names and addresses of the Members.

A sketch of the Geological features of each County, by Mr. W. J. Harrison, of the School Board, Birmingham, is prefixed.

The Proprietors have to thank those Clergymen and other Gentlemen who have given the work the benefit of their local knowledge by the assistance rendered to their Agents while collecting the information.

 The Letters S.O. and R.S.O. at the end of addresses in various parts of the book are abbreviations adopted by H.M. Post Office to represent Sub-Office and Railway Sub-Office; and if these Initial letters, with the Name of the County, are added to the addresses of letters in lieu of the usual name of Post Town, the delivery of such letters will be accelerated.

HAMPSHIRE.

HAMPSHIRE, or the county of Southampton, is on the south coast of England, forming an irregular square, and lying about midway between the two southern ends of the island. A broad channel lies between the mainland and the Isle of Wight, which is reckoned as a part of the shire. The town of Southampton, with its neighbourhood, forms a shire. Hampshire is bounded on the north by Berks, on the east by Surrey and Sussex, on the south by the English Channel, the Solent and the channels of the Isle of Wight, and on the west by Dorsetshire and Wiltshire. Its length from north to south is about 55 miles, its breadth 40 miles; its area, including the Isle of Wight, is 1,050,116 acres; being the ninth English shire, and ranking among the largest.

The Isle of Wight is 22½ miles from east to west, 14 from north to south, 60 in circumference and contains 93,342 acres.

The population of the shire was, in 1801, 219,290; 1811, 246,514; 1821, 282,897; 1831, 313,976; 1841, 354,682; 1851, 245,370; 1861, 481,815; 1871, 524,836; and in 1881, 575,409, viz. 281,310 males, and 294,099 females. The number of houses were, inhabited, 109,340; uninhabited, 6,765; and building, 1,400.

Although much of the soil is poor, the tillage of Hampshire is, on the whole, good, and the produce is large; it yields much grain, and on the chalk downs sheep are fed and race horses trained. The meadows are small. The chalk lands are adapted for pasture. Many hogs are fed in the forests, and Hampshire bacon is well known. Hampshire yields wheat, barley, oats, rye, peas, trefoil, grass, wool, bacon, honey, chalk, lime, whiting and clay. In the Wealden district hops are grown: orchards are extensive, and yield much of their produce for making cider, except on the north side of the South Downs. Much waste land has been taken in, but there are still 100,000 acres of waste and forest on the west border; of this, the New Forest, on the west, is about 92,365 acres, of which, under the Act 40 & 41 Vict. cap. 121, the Crown has a right to plant 1,600 acres, and the plantations are under the superintendence of the Commissioners of Woods and Forests; Woolmer forest, in the north-east, 5,949; Alice Holt, in the east, 2,744. Large portions of Woolmer and the neighbouring parishes were inclosed in 1858. There is likewise the Forest of Bere, in the south-east, with 11,000 acres; Waltham Chase, near Bere, has been inclosed; and Parkhurst Forest, in the Isle of Wight, about 3,000 acres. Harewood Forest is about 2,000 acres, near Andover.

In the southern half of Hampshire the average rainfall is 30 inches yearly; but the northern half of the county is rather drier, and there about 28 inches fall yearly. There are 30 places where gauges are placed to measure the quantity of rain that falls daily: in 1878 most rain (35½ inches) fell at Southampton, and least (23 inches) at Hartley Grange, Stratfield Turgis and Bournemouth.

The northern part of the shire is mostly watered by the Wey, Enborn and Loddon, feeders of the Thames. The Rother, a feeder of the Arun, flows in the east. The rivers falling into the English Channel are the Titchfield, Hamble, Itchen, Test or Anton, Exeor, Beaulieu, Boldre, Avon and Stour; the two latter flow along the western border from Wiltshire. The Southampton Water runs for 10 miles up the middle of the shire, and into it many of the rivers fall. On the south-west shore is a wide inlet, in which are Hayling Island and Portsea Island, each about four miles long, which divide it into three parts, Chichester Haven on the east, Langston Haven in the middle, and Portsmouth Haven on the west. The Itchen is made navigable for 13 miles, from Southampton to Winchester. The Basingstoke canal runs from Basingstoke to the Loddon and the Wey, and so to the Thames. The Arundel, Chichester and Portsmouth canal is in the east; it likewise joins the Wey. There are many ports on the coast; they are Emsworth, Havant, Portsmouth, Fareham, Gosport, Southampton, Redbridge, Lymington, Christchurch and Warsash; besides Cowes, Newport, Ryde and Yarmouth in the Isle of Wight.

TIDAL STREAMS ALONG THE COAST OF HAMPSHIRE.—On both ebb and flood there is a considerable indraught into all the deep bights from Portland to the Owers off Selsey Bill on the Sussex coast, quite sufficient, if a vessel comes within its influence, to lead her into danger. At the Needles, at full and change, the western stream makes at 10h. and the flood or eastern stream at 3h. 40m., the velocity of both being from 3 to 4 knots, increasing to 5½ between Hurst Point and the Island, and diminishing to about 2 knots south of the bridge; in the Solent the flood stream makes at 4h. and near the Bramble, half an hour later. In Freshwater Bay, about one mile south-west of Brook Point, on the west coast of the Isle of Wight, and the same distance of Atherfield Point, rather more to the south, the western stream makes at 10h. 25m. running at the rate of 1 knot, and the flood stream at 2h. 35m. from 2 to 2¾ knots, both streams taking the direction of the coast. At Bournemouth, Christchurch and other places facing the Isle of Wight there is this peculiarity, that there is high water twice in every tide, partly caused by the tidal wave up channel first producing the ordinary high water and the reflex wave after passing the Isle returning on the inside, but the same thing occurs in the Solent and also as far to the westward as Portland.

The railways chiefly belong to the South Western system. The main line from London is by Woking, Brookwood (with a branch through Aldershot to Farnham), Basingstoke, Micheldever, Winchester and St. Deny's (branch to Fareham Junction) to Southampton, continued thence by Brockenhurst (with a branch to Lymington and a line, opened in 1888, to Bournemouth, giving more direct access to that town), and Ringwood (branch to Christchurch), and thence by Poole Junction to Dorchester and Weymouth. From Eastleigh and Bishopstoke, on the above line, a branch by Fareham Junction forms the line to Gosport and Stokes Bay by one branch, and by Cosham to Portsmouth and Southsea by another. From Botley, on this line, is a branch to Bishop's Waltham.

The present communication with Portsmouth is, however, principally by the Direct Portsmouth, a portion of the South Western system; this line, leaving the main line at Woking, passes by Guildford, Haslemere, Rogate, Petersfield, Rowland's Castle and Havant to Portsmouth and Southsea. There is a branch from Guildford by Alton and Alresford to Winchester, also a short branch from Rogate to Midhurst in Sussex, whence there is railway communication to Petworth and Horsham by the Mid-Sussex line.

Portsmouth has also a third communication with London by the London, Brighton and South Coast railway, by Havant, with a branch to Hayling.

There is a line from Salisbury through Romsey to Bishopstoke Junction and another to Ringwood, and a short line from Andover Junction through Stockbridge to Mottisfont, joining the Salisbury and Bishopstoke line, which afford accommodation for the centre of the county. The trunk line from Basingstoke passes by Andover to Salisbury, and thence to the West of England. From Winchester the Great Western Company have constructed a line to Didcot, connecting their system with the south, and in the north the county is connected by a line from Basingstoke to Reading with their system, and also with the narrow gauge lines to the north of England.

The South Eastern railway have stations at Aldershot and Farnborough on their line from London to Reading.

The Midland and South Western Junction Railway Company's line from Andover Junction through Swindon, Wilts, into Gloucestershire gives communication from north to south.

The railways in the Isle of Wight are five; one from West Cowes to Newport, another from Ryde through Brading, Sandown and Shanklin, to Ventnor; a third from Newport to Sandown; the line from Newport to Ryde direct, and one opened in 1889 from Newport to Yarmouth and Freshwater.

The manufactures are of some importance, but not great, pottery ware being made at Fareham and neighbourhood, and exported to the Continent and Channel Islands. At Ringwood linen collars are made by females, and also knitted woollen gloves: paper is made in the county, mostly that peculiarly for bank notes; also parchment, sail cloth and sacking: watch fusee chains are produced at Christchurch. Some salt is made; fishing is carried on in the sea coast towns; there are oyster beds at Emsworth and Hayling Island. Portsmouth is a great dockyard, and naval and military station. Southampton has large steam docks and a growing trade; it is likewise the great station for the steamships to Bremen, Havre, St. Malo, Jersey, Guernsey, Spain, Portugal, the Mediterranean, East Indies, China, Australia, New York, West Indies, California, the Pacific, Madeira, Cape de Verde, Brazils and River Plate; it is the head quarters of the Ordnance Survey in the United Kingdom; and it is an emigration station. Cowes is a place for building yachts and ships, and for repairing ships, and is the station of the Royal Yacht Squadron. Ryde is the head quarters of the Royal Victoria Yacht club, and Southampton of the Royal Southern Yacht club. At Southampton are several carriage works. There are many visitors to the Isle of Wight and to Southampton, and the other bathing-places on the coast—Southsea, Bournemouth, Hayling, Fareham, Anglesey and Lymington. Winchester is the seat of a cathedral and college, and there is an Agricultural College at Charborough, on the borders of Wilts. At Portsmouth is a convict prison; and at Parkhurst, Isle of Wight, a prison for convict boys; at Gosport are Haslar Royal hospital and the Royal Clarence victualling yard. At Aldershot is the great military camp.

Hampshire is in the western circuit, the diocese of Winchester and province of Canterbury, and forms, excluding the Isle of Wight, the archdeaconry of Winchester, with the rural deaneries of Alresford, Alton western division, Alverstoke, Portsea Island, Andover, north, south and west divisions; Basingstoke, north-east and south-west divisions; Bishop's Waltham, Havant, Fawley, Fordingbridge, east and west divisions; Odiham, Petersfield, Romsey, Southampton and Winchester. There are 349 civil parishes, and parts of three others. Winchester is called a city. The Isle of Wight forms an archdeaconry in three deaneries.

The county has one court of quarter sessions, and there are 14 petty sessional divisions: namely, Alton in the east; Andover in the west; Basingstoke in the north-east; Droxford, Fareham in the south-east; Kingsclere in the north; Lymington in the south-west; Odiham in the north-east; Petersfield and Ringwood in the south-west; Romsey in the south-west; Southampton in the south; Winchester in the midland; and the Isle of Wight in the south. Winchester, Portsmouth and Southampton have separate jurisdictions.

Winchester is the assize town; Southampton has assizes for its own shire. The sheriff's and the insolvent courts are held at Winchester; but district county courts are now held at Andover, Alton, Basingstoke, Bishop's Waltham, Christchurch, Fordingbridge, Lymington, Petersfield, Portsmouth, Romsey, Southampton and Winchester; and Newport and Ryde (Isle of Wight).

The municipal boroughs are—Andover, population in 1881, 5,870; Basingstoke, 6,681; Bournemouth, 16,858; Christchuch, 16,591; Lymington, 4,366; Newport, Isle of Wight, 9,357; Portsmouth, including Landport, Portsea and Southsea, 127,989; Romsey, 4,204; Ryde, Isle of Wight, 11,461; Southampton, 60,051; and the city of Winchester, 17,780. Other principal towns are Aldershot, population in 1881, 20,155; Alresford, 2,027; Alton, 4,092; Fareham, 7,183; Gosport, 6,581; Havant, 3,032; Petersfield, 1,646; and East Cowes, 2,512, West Cowes, 6,772, and Ventnor, 5,504, in the Isle of Wight.

The Superintendent Registrar's districts are:—

Hampshire was first peopled by the Iberians or Euskardians; afterwards by the Celtic Welsh, called Segontiags, who were driven out by the Belgians, of whom three tribes seem to have held Hampshire in the time of the Cæsars, namely—the Regni on the coast, the Belgians in the middle, and the Attrebates on the north. In the year 43 of the common era, and in the reign of the Emperor Claudius, the Belgians were overcome, and the Romans became masters. These made towns and roads. Venta Belgarum, now Winchester, was a chief place, with many roads leading from it. Clausentum was near Southampton. Silchester was a great station, and is supposed to have been the Calleva of the Romans, and to have been called by the Welsh Caer Segont. There were other Roman towns and camps not so well marked. Andareon seems to have been at Andover. There are camps at Tuksbury Hill, Egbury, Ladle Hill, Beacon Hill, Woolbury, Bury Hill, Somborne, Quarley Mount, Haydon Hill, Godshill and Castlefield. Some of these were, perhaps, Welsh, Danish, or English.

In the sixth century, the Romans having left, and the Welsh being in power, some of the English chiefs landed. Porta founded Portsmouth. In 519, Cerdic, of the blood of Woden, began the kingdom of the West Saxons, the kings of which were very powerful, and many of them Bretwalds, and afterwards became kings of England. The Isle of Wight formed a small kingdom under Wessex and Sussex. The Meanwara, too, had a commonwealth by themselves in Meon, Mainsbridge and Mainborough. Winchester was the capital of Wessex and for a long time the capital of England. In the ninth and tenth centuries the Danes wasted Hampshire. Winchester, in civil wars, was frequently attacked. In the Parliamentary war, several battles and sieges took place in Hampshire. There are many Roman, monastic and castellated antiquities, some of which are in good preservation. Hampshire is the birth-place of the poets Young, Warton, Dibdin and Watts, of Bishop Wickham, Sir William Petty, Jonas Hanway, Brunel, Charles Dickens, Sir James Lancaster and Pococke.

The Royal Hants County Hospital, founded in 1736, was the earliest provincial hospital in the kingdom; the yearly fixed income from endowments is now (1889) about £1,264, and from subscriptions to about £3,000. The new building, situated in the Romsey road, Winchester, is a structure of red brick in the Elizabethan style, from designs by Mr. W. Butterfield, and was erected at a cost of £30,000: it contains 108 beds; the yearly average number of in-patients is about 600; out-patients, about 950. Physicians, Beresford Nathaniel Earle M.D. and W. M. Harman; surgeons, T. C. Langdon F.R.C.S.Eng. and William England M.D.; house surgeon, Trayton Charles Pagden; secretary, Major W. Parker Terry; matron and lady supt. of nurses, Mrs. Suckling; dispenser, S. W. Joyce.

The Royal South Hants Infirmary, situated in Fanshawe street, Southampton, erected in 1838, is an extensive structure in the Italian style and contains over 100 beds: attached to the building is a beautiful chapel in the Perpendicular style, erected in 1858 by Dr. Oke, with part of the money entrusted to him for charitable purposes by the late Miss Dowling: Mrs. Osborn, widow of the late Dr. John Osborn, endowed a cot in perpetuity at this infirmary, in memory of her husband, at a cost of £600. The yearly average of in-patients is about 1,000 and of out-patients, 4,000; the income, arising from investments, subscriptions and donations, is about £4,000 a year. A new out-patients' building was added in 1889. G. Scott M.D. and J. L. Thomas M.D., C.M. physicians; K. Lake M.D. consulting surgeon; A. B. Wade M.D., C.M. W. Sims M.B. and H. Wynter Shettle L.R.C.P.Edin. surgeons; J. R. Keele L.R.C.P.Lond. assistant surgeon; Charles H. Bromley L.D.S.Eng. dentist; J. J. Burnett, auditor; T. A. Fisher Hall, hon. sec.; Percy George Lewis, house surgeon; Rev. W. S. Stevens B.A., LL.B. chaplain; Miss Goodman, matron; F. S. Angel, collector.

Haslar Royal Hospital, near Gosport, for sick and wounded seamen and marines, was established by the instrumentality of John, fourth Earl of Sandwich, and first Lord of the Admiralty of George II.; it is on a scale commensurate with its object; it is a quadrangular building, 1,600 feet long, with fine piazzas, having a small chapel, named St. Luke's, and stands on a spot of ground formerly called "Haslar Farm." There is also a museum in the establishment to which the public have free access: the hospital is available for 2,000 patients. Doyle Money Shaw C.B. inspector-general in charge.

The Royal Victoria Hospital, at Netley, is a noble and most extensive building, for the reception of invalided soldiers; erected at a cost of over £400,000. Her Majesty laid the foundation stone in May, 1856, and the hospital was opened in March, 1863; it is available for 1,000 patients; principal medical officer, Surgeon-General Sir Thomas Longmore C.B.

The National Sanatorium, Bournemouth, is a splendid stone building, for the reception of convalescent consumptive patients of both sexes, and for those suffering from other diseases of the chest, who may benefit by a temporary residence in a dry and salubrious locality; this institution was opened in 1855; the cost was about £15,000; Arthur W. Blomfield esq. (now Sir Arthur Blomfield) was the architect; it is supported partially by voluntary contributions; it contains 62 beds and is lighted throughout by the electric light. W. V. Snow M.D. and W. Frazer B.A., M.D. physicians; J. D. D. Douglas M.D., C.M. A. E. B. Love and H. G. Turner, surgeons; Henry Grabham Lys M.B., M.R.C.P.L. resident medical officer and local sec.; W. H. Beckley, 28 King street, St. James's, London s w sec.

The Hants County Lunatic Asylum, at Knowle, in Fareham parish, about 3 miles north-north-west of the town, was built in 1852, and has been considerably enlarged; it has a dining hall capable of holding 500 patients, and a chapel has been erected in the vicinity of the building to seat the same number; the farm consists of about 120 acres of land, and there are commodious farm buildings: there are at present about 930 patients. Resident officers, Thomas Blair Worthington B.A., M.D., M.Ch. superintendent; Morgan Ignatius Finucane M.R.C.S.Eng. senior assistant medical officer; Walter Harold Bailey Shaw B.A., M.B., B.C. assistant medical officer; Henry Cook, storekeeper; Miss Emma Hanks, matron. Non-resident, Rev. George Hodgson Mason B.A. chaplain, Wickham; Frederick Marks Aylen, clerk to the asylum and visitors, Southsea.

Her Majesty's Prison, Winchester, was built in 1849; Capt. Chas. W. Hill, governor; Rev. John Arthur Ladbrooke B.A. chaplain; Rev. Luke Gunning, Catholic chaplain; Charles de Lacy Wickham L.R.C.P.Edin. medical officer; Alfred Jannaway, chief warder; Miss M. E. Young, matron.

The Hants Reformatory, Netley, is a plain building of red brick, consisting of a central block with wings, and will hold 90 boys, who cultivate 35 acres of land; the institution was certified December 29th, 1885, and was subsequently destroyed by fire and rebuilt in 1865: the Rev. John Compton M.A. Minstead rectory, Lyndhurst, hon. sec.; William F. Harold, master.

COUNTY COUNCIL OF HAMPSHIRE.

Local Government Act, 1888, 51 & 52 Vic. c. 41.

Under the above Act, Hampshire, except certain boroughs, for which see below (a), after the 1st April, 1889, for the purposes of the Act, became an administrative county (sec. 46), governed by a County Council, consisting of chairman, aldermen and councillors (the number of councillors being determined by the Local Government Board) to be elected in manner prescribed by the Act (sec. 2).

The chairman shall, by virtue of his office, be a justice of the peace for the county, without qualification (sec. 46).

The police for the county will be under the control of a standing joint committee of the Quarter Sessions and the County Council, to be appointed as therein mentioned (sec. 9).

The coroners for the county will in future be elected by the County Council, and the clerk of the peace shall be appointed by such joint committee, and may be removed by them (sec. 83-2).

The clerk of the peace for the county shall also be the clerk of the County Council (sec. 83-1).

The administrative business of the County (which would, if this Act had not been passed, have been transacted by the justices) shall be transacted by the County Council.

(a) Each of the following large boroughs shall be, for the purposes of this Act, an administrative county in itself, and is to be called a County Borough (sec. 30), of which the municipal corporation shall have the power of a County Council (sec. 31)—Portsmouth and Southampton.

Meet at the County Hall, Winchester.

Chairman—Right Hon. Lord Basing.

† Under the Provisions of the Local Government Board's Provisional Order Confirmation (No. 2) Act, 1889, the Isle of Wight will become a separate administrative county district from the County of Southampton, and by Art. XX of the said order, on the 1st of April, 1890, the 13 councillors elected to represent the Isle of Wight on the council for the County of Southampton, as marked † shall go out of office, and fresh elections for County Councillors for the Isle of Wight Electoral Divisions will take place in January, 1890.

GEOLOGY OF HAMPSHIRE.

In the Proceedings of the Winchester and Hampshire Scientific and Literary Society for 1873 we have a list (compiled by Mr. W. Whitaker, F.G.S.) of 315 papers, books, &c., which relate to the geology of this county and its immediate neighbourhood. Foremost among these are the excellent coloured maps of the Government Geological Survey, showing the exact position of the various strata, on the scale of one inch to the mile. Mr. Whitaker's own "Memoir on the Geology of the London Basin" describes minutely the north and north-east of Hants, and the eastern district round Petersfield is described in the "Memoir on the Wealden District," by Mr. W. Topley.

In the Journal of the Geological Society there are valuable papers by Sir Charles Lyell, Professors Owen and Prestwich, Messrs. Clarke, Codrington, Meyer, Woodward, and others; Mr. Caleb Evans has well described the neighbourhood of Portsmouth in the "Proceedings of the Geologists' Association," vol. ii.

The general arrangement of the beds of rock which form Hants is not difficult to understand. The chalk forms a great fold or curve, or roll, occupying a large tract in the centre of the county, and dipping or inclining both to the north and to the south. In both these directions it is overlaid by much newer strata—sands and clays of Tertiary age—those on the north forming part of what is called the London Basin, and those on the south the Hampshire Basin. In the east of the county, however, the chalk has been so worn away by the various agents of denudation—rain and rivers, frost, ice, and snow, the sea, &c.—as to expose certain rocks which lie beneath it, and which are therefore the oldest that occur in the county. These old rocks form the termination of a considerable tract called the Wealden, which stretches through Kent and Sussex to the sea.

We shall now describe the strata in succession, commencing with the lowest or first-formed.

Neocomian or Lower Cretaceous Formation.—Four subdivisions have been traced in the beds of this age by the officers of the Geological Survey: the lowest of these, called Atherfield Clay, just touches the county boundary along the railway east of Bramshot and south of Hind Head. Next are the Hythe Beds, composed of sandstones and limestones about 300 feet thick; these form the high ridge extending by Hind Head, Greyshot Down, Bramshot, and Rake Common: they dip to the west and are overlaid by the Sandgate Beds, composed of sands and clays about 60 feet in thickness: these occupy low ground about half-a-mile in width, and extending from Petersfield to two miles north of Headley, beyond which point they cannot be traced; they are exposed in the railway cutting north of Rake. In the cutting at Petersfield we see the Folkestone Beds overlying the last-named strata; they are sandy, with a bed of coarse grit, coloured red by iron and known as carstone: the thickness of this last division is about 100 feet: it can be traced from Frensham Common through Woolmer Forest and Greatham to the west of Petersfield, whence it curves eastwards.

The above strata are collectively known as the Lower Greensand; their fossils, such as ammonites, nautili, &c., indicate their deposition in a sea of moderate depth. Economically they are not of much importance; the carstone is used for pavements and building walls. In his "History of Selborne," Gilbert White writes:—"From a notion of rendering their work the more elegant and giving it a finish, masons chip this (Woolmer Forest) carstone into small fragments, about the size of the head of a large nail; and then stick the pieces into the wet mortar along the joints of their freestone walls; this embellishment carries an odd appearance, and has occasioned strangers sometimes to ask us pleasantly 'whether we fastened our walls together with tenpenny nails?'"

The Upper Cretaceous Formation.—The first stratum of this division is called the Gault; this is a stiff blue clay about 100 feet thick, which is worked for brick-making in some pits half-a-mile south of Petersfield, and extends thence by Stroud Common, Greatham Mill and Worldham, through Alder Holt Wood towards Farnham. At the junction of the Gault with the Lower Greensand a bed of phosphatic nodules occurs.

The Upper Greensand.—This rock is not true to its name in this neighbourhood; it is here calcareous and of a whitish hue, resembling indeed the lower beds of the Chalk: it extends from Binstead, through Selborne, to Buriton and East Meon. The beds are well exposed in quarries and deep road cuttings, and the Malm rock (a hard sandstone) forms a well-marked cliff 30 or 40 feet in height. Of fossils, Pectens and Nautili are most common; there is a good collection (made by Mr. W. Curtis) in the museum at Alton.

In the North of Hants there is an exposure of the Upper Greensand at Kingsclere and Burghclere, running east and west for about 5 miles: this outcrop is geologically termed an inlier, as it is surrounded by higher strata (chalk), by whose denudation it has been exposed to view. A similar inlier occurs further west at Shalbourne, which, however, barely enters Hampshire. These two inliers owe their exposure to a line of elevation running east and west; the beds curve over, dipping on one side to the north and on the other to the south; they consist here of greenish sands and irregular beds of gritty sandstone overlaid by yellowish-white malm rock.

The Chalk.—This is a soft, white, earthy limestone, perhaps the most widely-known of all the British rocks. It forms the centre of Hants, stretching from Inkpen Beacon, Kingsclere, and Odiham on the north to Landford, Hursley, and Hambledon on the south, a distance of about 22 miles. The mass of chalk here exposed and extending westwards into Wilts, is the largest expanse of this rock in the British Islands; from it the North and South Downs run eastwards, and the Berkshire Downs and Chiltern Hills north-east.

Forming the base of the chalk we find a stratum 2 or 3 feet thick, called the Chloritic Marl, because it is speckled with green grains: it contains a band of (so-called) coprolites, which, when ground up and chemically prepared, form a valuable manure. This bed extends from Alton to Selborne, and thence to East Froyle, where it has been largely worked. Above this comes the Chalk Marl, 40 or 50 feet thick, which is simply chalk with a slight admixture of clay; next we get the chalk without flints 400 or 500 feet thick, and lastly the chalk with flints, about 200 feet thick. All these chalky strata lie in the form of a great arch; on the north they dip sharply to the north, then about Andover they lie horizontally, but following them southwards we soon find them inclining in that direction, and they pass down underneath newer rocks, beneath the Solent, rising up again in the Isle of Wight. In the isolated chalk ridge called Portsdown we have a repetition of this arch on a smaller scale.

Chalk is so homogeneous a rock that it would not be easy to discover its dip, were it not for the nodules of flint in the upper beds, which usually occur in lines along the planes of bedding. Flint is nearly pure silica: it existed dissolved in the water of the sea in which the chalk was formed, and in the water which has since percolated through it; it was deposited on and around the various sponges, echinoderms, &c., which lived in such numbers on the floor of the chalk ocean, and has also filled up fissures, and replaced chalk and organic matter at intervals since that period. The Lower Chalk is harder than the Upper, since the silicious matter, which in the latter is aggregated into nodules, is in the former equally dispersed throughout the rock, forming about 4 per cent. of its mass.

Chalk contains many fossils, visible enough to the naked eye. Large Ammonites are common near Selborne, Belemnites looking like pointed pencils abound, globular sea-urchins, of the genera Ananchytes, Micraster and Galerites are common, with bivalve shells like Pecten nitidus, Inoceramus Cuvieri, &c., but these are not all; when we disintegrate the rock and examine it microscopically we find it largely formed of the tiny shells of creatures called Foraminifera, whose descendants now inhabit the North Atlantic, their débris forming the soft greyish-white ooze on which the Anglo-American telegraph cable lies.

Chalk is quarried at many points in Hants to burn into lime; the rock in Harewood Forest near Andover, which is very soft and white, is especially suited for this purpose. It absorbs water rapidly, so that the hills, or downs as they are called, are always dry, and even the valleys between are usually without the running streams which are found on other formations. By the carbonic acid gas contained in the rain-water the chalk is dissolved and carried away in solution, so that no thickness of soil is formed, and the beautiful curves which characterize the scenery are formed of the solid rock covered only with a short, sweet herbage, which forms admirable pasturage for sheep. Swallow-holes are hollows connected with fissures in the chalk; in the pond at Alresford said to have been formed by Bishop Lucy in King John's time, the water sometimes disappears, being carried off by such an opening. The pot-holes, filled up with gravel, which are so noticeable in the sides of railway-cuttings through the chalk, have also been formed by the dissolving of the rock by the percolation of carbonated water.

THE TERTIARY EPOCH.—EOCENE FORMATION.—The strata which rest upon the chalk are of very much newer age than it. The chalk, as we have indicated, accumulated on the bottom of a deep sea; it must have been consolidated and elevated so as to become land, and then again depressed, before the beds of clay and sand of Tertiary age, which we are now about to describe, were laid down on it. These beds once covered it over everywhere, but after the great, though slow, earth-movements took place, which resulted in throwing the rocks of the south of England into long folds or undulations running east and west, the newer beds were worn off the anticlinal curves, or tops of the Hampshire folds, and so the beds which occupy the northern hollow or synclinal fold were separated from the similar strata which lie in a similar hollow in the south, between Portsmouth, Romsey, &c. The occurrence of patches of Tertiary strata—outliers as they are termed—which are found at various points between the London Basin on the north, and the Hampshire Basin on the south, confirm the fact of their former connection. We shall describe these two areas separately.

LONDON BASIN.—In the absence of the Thanet Sand, we find the Woolwich and Reading Beds resting directly upon the chalk; they have a high northerly dip, and so cover a narrow tract of country from Inkpen, by East Woodhay, Old Basing, and near Odiham. These beds are mottled sands and plastic clays about twenty feet thick; they are sometimes worked for brickmaking. Except a few oyster-shells (Ostrea bellovacina), fossils are scarce or absent.

The London Clay is bluish-grey or brown in colour, and about 50 feet thick; it has a rather broad outcrop between the Woolwich and Reading Beds on the south, to the Thames on the north. Mr. Bristow records numerous fossils from the steep sides of a brook on the southern corner of Kingsclere Common, including such shells as Pectunculus brevirostris, Turritella imbricataria, &c.

The Bagshot Beds are of a sandy nature, but with some thin bands of clay. They form much heath and waste land at Silchester Common and West Heath, and again on the east side of the river Loddon, to the north of Aldershot and Winchfield, extending as far as the Blackwater on the north and east, and forming a region of sandy flats and ridges, on which the troops frequently exercise. Fossils are all but unknown in these beds.

THE HAMPSHIRE BASIN.—Here again the Tertiary strata occur in the same order, but with a southerly dip, and covering more ground; moreover, beds are found at the top of the series which are newer—later formed—than any which occur in the north or London Basin.

The Woolwich and Reading Beds extend from near West Bourn by Bishops Waltham, Michelmarsh and Tytherley, then curving round to the south-west, past Sherfield English; these strata are commonly termed the "Red," or "Plastic" clay; they are worked at many points for brick and tile-making, and preserve their character unchanged over great distances.

The London Clay or Bognor Beds occur between West Bourn and Havant, and extend thence to Timsbury. On the south side of the Portsdown ridge we find a repetition of these two series of Tertiary strata, forming North Portsea, Fareham and South Hayling: the beds were once continuous over the top of Portsdown, but all the elevated portion has been swept away. In the Dockyard Extension Works at Portsmouth, in 1870, the London clay was finely exposed in sections 500 feet long and 60 feet or more in depth, and the "Plastic Clay" lying beneath it was also reached. Large collections of fossils were made by Messrs. C. J. A. Meyer and C. Evans, some of which were new to science, and have been since described by Dr. H. Woodward (see "Quart. Journ. Geol. Soc.," vol. xxvii. p. 74 and p. 90).

The Bagshot Beds.—These are sands and clays extending over a considerable area, forming, indeed, all the south-west of Hants between Southampton and Romsey and the sea, including the New Forest. Several subdivisions can be traced in them: (1.) The Lower Bagshot Beds. From clays of this age, at Bournemouth, Messrs. J. S. Gardner and W. S. Mitchell have obtained large numbers of well-preserved plant-remains, chiefly leaves of the cinnamon, fig, the fan palm, beech, maple, elm, acacia, ferns, &c.: on the whole these indicate a warmer climate than now prevails in this latitude. These beds are of fresh-water origin, and were deposited by a large river running from the west.

Next come sands and clays called the Bracklesham Beds, and above them the Barton Beds; the latter form the north part of the New Forest, and extend to the sea, forming the cliffs at Barton, so noted for the fossils they have yielded. Remains of a few fishes, of a crocodile, and of about 200 species of marine shells have been found, with large Nummulites, foraminifera which are named from their resemblance to pieces of money (nummus, a coin).

The Headon Beds form the south part of the New Forest, reaching from Beaulieu Heath to Hordwell Cliff; at the latter place they include beds of clay which are highly fossiliferous; bones of reptiles and mammals (the Palæotherium, &c.) occur with both brackish-water and marine shells. The Headon strata are sometimes called the Fluvio-marine Series, to indicate their formation in and near the estuary of a great river.

View of the Malm rock (or Upper Greensand) Escarpment at Hartley, between Alton and Selbourne. A hard calcareous sandstone (Malm rock or firestone) forms a cliff 40ft. high; softer beds of the Upper Greensand undulate lower down; while the gault forms the flat foreground. Woods called "hangers" grow on the sides of the cliffs.

In the Brockenhurst Series, which occurs at the place of that name in the New Forest, and at Roydon, Whitley Ridge, and Lyndhurst, we find numerous corals and many marine shells.

Professor Judd would term the Barton Clay Upper Eocene, and all the other Tertiary beds here named he places in the OLIGOCENE FORMATION, a term first introduced by the German geologist, Professor Beyrich, for strata, which on the Continent overlie, and are not closely related to Eocene strata.

OUTLIERS OF EOCENE AGE.—At Horsdon Common, Conholt, Windmill Hill, East Stratton, and two or three other places, detached patches of the Woolwich and Reading Beds occur, resting on the exposed tract of chalk which now separates the Tertiary rocks of the London and Hampshire Basins. These outliers are but the remnants of beds, certainly some hundreds of feet in thickness, which have been denuded by the combined agencies of the weather and the sea.

PLEISTOCENE OR POST-TERTIARY DEPOSITS.—Hampshire has none of the Boulder clay, or erratic blocks, which in counties north of the Thames tell of the passage of glaciers or icebergs over the surface. But the thick gravel beds, with which the hills are often capped and the plateaux covered, are perhaps of quite as early a date. These occur on ground east of Southampton, 420 feet high, and also cover the New Forest at a considerable altitude: on Portsdown Hill, at a height of 300 feet, we get an old sea-beach. These facts indicate a considerable elevation of the south of the county since the time of formation of these gravel beds at or a little below the sea-level. The chalk of the western part of Hants, bordering Wiltshire, is thickly strewn with blocks of a coarse sandstone, the well-known "grey wethers," or sarsen-stones: these are probably the remains of a bed of sandstone forming part of the Bagshot Series, which formerly extended far in this direction. In the "Geological Magazine" for 1866 (vol. iii. p. 296), there is an account, by Col. Nicolls, of some large sarsen-stones found in the neighbourhood of Southampton, and preserved in the court-yard of the Hartley Institute. At some points, as at Upton Grey, there is much "clay with flints" lying on the chalk, representing indeed its insoluble residue, and formed from it: where this occurs the oak grows well, while on a chalky subsoil we seldom see this tree. Lastly, we get deposits of gravel on the sides and at the bottom of the existing valleys, formed and still forming by the rivers which have scooped out these valleys.

PREHISTORIC MAN.—In gravel beds on Southampton Common and near Bournemouth, occurring at heights of 120 to 160 feet above the sea, and far above the level of the neighbouring streams, flint implements have been discovered by Messrs. Read, Jas. Brown, Stevens, Dr. Blackmore, and others, most of which are now in the Blackmore Museum at Salisbury: they are roughly chipped oval or pointed lumps of flint, and belong to the Palæolithic or Older Stone Period: the men who used them were quite ignorant of the use of metals. Other flint tools of lighter and more elegant form, such as arrow-heads, celts or axe-heads, and flakes or knives, have been found at Horndean, St. Mary Bourne, Portsmouth, Andover, Bishopstow, &c.; these mostly occur on or near the surface, and are usually rubbed or polished: they are assigned to the Neolithic or Newer Stone Period. Clerk of the Peace, Thomas Hughes Earle, Winchester

ABBOTT'S ANN is a village and parish, 3 miles south-west from Andover, situated on the river Anna, and on the road from Andover to Salisbury, in the Western division of the county, Andover union, county court district and petty sessional division, partly in the hundred of Wherwell, but chiefly in the hundred of Andover, rural deanery of West Andover, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Mary was rebuilt in 1716, in the then prevailing semi-Classic style, by Governor Pitt, founder of the Chatham family: it is of brick, and has chancel, nave and square embattled tower surmounted by four pinnacles, and containing 5 bells and a clock: there are memorial garlands in paper hanging round the church, some of them upwards of one hundred years old, an ancient custom now rarely met with: there are seven stained windows; the east was erected by the scholars of the late rector in 1868, and another in the chancel is erected to the above-mentioned Governor Pitt: the organ was erected in 1888 by subscription, at a cost of £260. The register dates from the year 1562. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value tithe rent-charge £790, with 50 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of and held since 1879 by the Rev. James Burrough Fenwick M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, and rural dean of Andover south. Here is a Congregational chapel. Thomas Best esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and swedes. The area is 3,351 acres; rateable value, £3,557; and the population in 1881, including the tithing of LITTLE ANN, was 675.

LITTLE ANN lies to the east; St. John's Cross, half a mile south. Sir Richard Colt Hoare states two camps as being mentioned by Polydore Virgil: these still exist, the one called Bury Hill and situated on an eminence west from Andover, and in the parish of Clatford, strongly fortified by nature as well as art: the other, called Folksbury, or Balksbury Camp, with a single vallum, is nearly square: it is in Andover: in Domesday Book it was called the manor of Anna. Roman remains of tesselated pavements in good preservation found in this parish are in the British Museum.

ALDERSHOT is a town and parish, 35 miles from London, 3½ north-east-by-north from Farnham and one mile from the Basingstoke canal, and station on the London and South Western and South Eastern railways, adjoining the county of Surrey, in the Northern division of the county, Farnham union, and Farnham and Aldershot county court district, Odiham petty sessional division, Crondall hundred, rural deanery of Odiham and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. Prior to the establishment of the camp here in 1854 this was a mere village, but it has now grown into a considerable town, situate to the south of the barracks, and consisting of several streets. The town was made a Local Government District by the Act 20 & 21 Vict. c. 22, and is under the management of a board of 12 members, 9 chosen by the ratepayers and 3 by the Secretary of State for War. The Aldershot Gas and Water Co. supplies both town and camp. The parish church of St. Michael is an ancient brick edifice, in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave of five bays, north aisle, south porch and embattled western tower containing 3 bells: the nave and north aisle have been restored: in the chancel are tablets to the Tichborne family, who were the ancient proprietors of a manor and lands in this parish: a stained window was placed in the chancel in 1886 by the parishioners in memory of the late Capt. G. Newcome: there are 600 sittings, half free. The register dates from the year 1571. The living is a vicarage, yearly value about £160, with residence, in the gift of the lessees of the tithes, and held since 1873 by the Rev. Henry James West, of the University of London, surrogate. Holy Trinity church has been erected in Victoria road, at a cost of about £8,000, and the district attached in 1878 is confined to the new part of the town: the church is in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave with clerestory, aisles, north and west porches and vestry: the walls are of Bargate stone facings, with concrete core lined with brick work, and Bath stone dressings: the building is lighted by two large windows at the east and west ends, filled with Geometrical tracery, and the aisles and clerestory with triplet lancet-head windows: the chancel arch is boldly moulded and of great height: there is a very fine organ: the carved stone pulpit was presented by Mrs. Anderson and the brass lectern by Mrs. McDonald: Mr. Stapley, of Farnham, was the architect: there are 800 sittings, half free. The register dates from the year 1878. The living is a perpetual curacy; the endowment consists of £200 from the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, with pew rents and the endowment of the late T. Anderson esq. of Waverley Abbey: the whole is valued at about £400 a year: the patrons are Viscount Midleton, General Sir A. Lawrence K.C.B. W. Wainwright esq. J.P. Rev. David Anderson and Rev. C. D. Lawrence; the Rev. John de Verd Leigh M.A. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge, has held the living since 1889. A vicarage house was erected 1884 at a cost of £2,300, partly defrayed by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners and partly by subscription. The Trinity iron mission hall is in St George road. The Catholics have an iron chapel in Queen's road dedicated to St. Joseph, with 400 seats. The Wesleyans have a handsome church and Soldiers' Home, situate in Grosvenor road, erected in 1874 at a cost of about £20,000: there are 1,250 sittings, about one half free: the home is maintained by voluntary subscriptions and is open free to all soldiers. The English Presbyterian church, situated in the Victoria road, was erected in 1863, at a cost of £5,000: it has 700 sittings. The Primitive Methodists have a Rotunda chapel, situate in Victoria road, with 550 sittings and Soldiers' Institute, erected at a cost of £6,500; and a small brick chapel in the Ash road, erected at a cost of £1,100, which will hold about 200. The Baptist chapel, situate in Tichborne street, Cargate, erected in 1886, at a cost of £1,000, will seat 400; built by Mr. George Kemp; the land was presented by Mr. W. Allden. The Particular Baptist chapel, situate in Victoria road, has about 200 sittings. The cemetery of 6 acres is near the Redan Hill, and was formed in 1860, at a cost of £1,700: there are two chapels, one for Church of England and one for Nonconformists: it it is under the control of a burial board of 9 members. The Lock Hospital, in the Farnham road, has been handed over by the War Department to a committee composed of 6 guardians of the Farnham union and 6 of the Hartley Wintney board: the above unions contribute respectively two-thirds and one-third of the balance required from the poor's rate: Mr. G. V. Knight is chairman and Mr. W. E. Foster is chairman of the house committee; Dr. Gibson is the medical officer and Mr. S. G. Wells, solicitor, clerk. Here is a county police station. Here are two brick and tile works. There are several music halls. The theatre was destroyed by fire February 8th, 1889. Races are held here in the spring: the race course is situated in the Long Valley adjoining Ewshot, also at the North Camp. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor of Crondall. The lands in pasture principally belong to Major Newcome J.P. Messrs. Trimmer, Simmonds, Tice, Allden, Russell and Stevens; the Crown owns nearly all the other land. In 1841 the parish contained about 2,700 acres of heath and common land, 731 acres of arable land, 19 acres of hop land, 530 acres of meadow and pasture land, 130 acres of wood land, and 20 acres of building sites and gardens. The area is 4,148 acres, chiefly common and heath, and 30 of water; rateable value, £52,000; the population in 1881 was 20,155, including 10,428 military in the South Camp; civil population is estimated to be now about 12,000.

Parish Clerk, William Fludder.

Aldershot Camp.—In 1854 a camp was established, he Government having for that object purchased a large ract of heath and common lands of 4,000 acres, which xtends into the neighbouring parishes of Farnborough, Yateley and Crondall: the Camp, North and South, consists f ranges of wooden huts in parallel lines, on the south of which permanent barracks have been erected for all branches f the service, with quarters for officers, riding schools, tabling, hospital and other buildings suitable for the troops. The Queen's Pavilion, for the reception of Her Majesty, is a building of wood and corrugated iron, with grounds beautiully laid out. The officers' club-house is also of corrugated ron, standing in extensive grounds on the Farnborough road, bout half way between All Saints' church and the Basingtoke canal: a library has just been added: there are illiard rooms, cricket, lawn tennis and polo grounds and acket court for the use of the members. There are two tations at the North Camp, one on the South Eastern railay and the other on the South Western railway, half-a-ile apart. The Camp is the head quarters of a military istrict, the remainder of Hampshire being in the Southern ilitary district, the head quarters of which are at Portsouth. All Saints' church was erected in 1863 for the use f the troops: it is a Gothic building of red brick with Bath tone dressings, consisting of chancel, nave of six bays and isles, north and south porches, and has eleven stained winows and will hold 1,050 persons: a brass was placed here in anuary, 1884, to the memory of the officers and men of the st batt. Roy. Irish Fusiliers, late 87th Foot, who died during he Egyptian campaign in the previous year: over the comunion table is a beautiful stained window to the non-commissioned officers and soldiers who fell in the Indian mutiny: he western window is to the memory of Gen. Sir John Pennether, late commander of the Aldershot camp: there are 44 ablets to the memory of officers, non-commissioned officers nd soldiers: six sets of old regimental colours are deposited ere. There is an iron church in the South Camp, which is sed also by the Presbyterians, holding 900. The North Camp hurch is a structure of wood and iron, used by the Church of ngland and other denominations, holding about 1,000. The atholics have a church in the North Camp, erected in 1861, edicated to St. Louis, and having 1,000 sittings, and one in he South Camp, erected in 1855, dedicated to SS. Michael nd Sebastian, and having about 1,500 sittings. There are arious institutions for the benefit of the soldiers, including n amateur theatre in the South Camp. A hospital for the ilitary has been erected on an eminence called Gun Hill, ear the South Camp and overlooking the town, from which gun is fired by electric current from Greenwich daily at and 9.30 p.m.: it is a handsome building of brick with Bath stone dressings, and has a clock tower and clock with four dials, 8 feet in diameter, illuminated; it will hold upwards of 250 patients. The cost of the building was upwards of £45,000: Messrs. Martin, Wells and Co. were the builders, who in 1884 erected extensive works here and executed large Government contracts for the War Department in all parts of England: the colossal bronze equestrian statue of Field Marshal 1st Duke of Wellington, by M. D. Wyatt, which had stood since 1846 on the top of the arch at Hyde Park corner, London, was taken down in 1883 and subsequently removed and re-erected on a site in the South Camp, on a pedestal of red Corshill stone, and the adjacent ground planted with trees; the statue in its new position, was unveiled August 19th, 1885.

ALRESFORD, NEW and OLD.

NEW ALRESFORD is a union and small market town and station on the Mid Hants branch of the South Western railway, 57¼ miles from London by road, 19 north-east from Southampton, 10 south-west from Alton and 6½ north-east-by-east from Winchester, on the old road to the latter city, it is a polling place for the Eastern division of the county and a district of the petty sessional division, county court district of Winchester, rural deanery of Old Alresford, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. Alresford was incorporated at an early period, and sent a member to Parliament in the reign of Edward I. which privilege has long since been lost. By the "Municipal Corporations Act, 1883," the corporation has ceased to exist since March, 1886. An interesting feature here are the streams of pure water, which abound with trout, and in which watercress is extensively grown for the London and other markets: they take their rise principally from a sheet of water, which is the source of the river Itchen, called Alresford Pond, covering an area of 23 acres. The Bishop of Winchester holds a court-leet at Michaelmas. The church of St. John the Baptist is a plain building of rubble, consisting of chancel with chancel aisles, nave, aisles, north porch and square embattled western tower containing 8 bells and a clock: the three-light east window is stained and was erected by Captain George Marx to his parents: there is a handsome carved oak reredos erected by Mrs. Marx to the memory of her husband, Captain Marx: in the basement story of the tower there is worked a small stone crucifix of very ancient date, and it is therefore probable this portion of the church escaped the fire which destroyed the previous fabric about the year 1689: there are 865 sittings. The register dates from 1724 for baptisms, 1740 for marriages and 1698 for burials. The living is a rectory, yearly value £180 with about 14 acres of glebe and an annual rent-charge on the Mid Hants railway of £41, net yearly income £260, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1879 by the Rev. William Orde Newnham M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. Here is a Congregational chapel, and one for Primitive Methodists. The charities amount to about £50, arising from various bequests, the chief of which are Pink's £20, Harris's £10, Wither's £7 10s. and Dunn's £5, all distributed in provisions, clothing and money. A fire brigade has been formed and engine-house erected in 1881. The market is held on Thursday for the sale of corn and seed, but the business transacted is very limited. The fairs are the last Thursday in July (styled the July Lamb Fair), the first Thursday in September, the first Thursday after October the 16th, and the last Thursday in November for sheep and cattle. There is also a pleasure fair held in October. There are two branch banks, a savings bank and a brewery. The town has some land and the fair tolls given by a former bishop of Winchester; the trustees were the bailiff and burgesses, but the money is now vested in trustees under a scheme prepared by the Charity Commissioners in accordance with the "Municipal Corporations Act, 1883." Langtons, the seat of Edmund Huntly Hooper esq. and Lady Maud Hooper, is pleasantly situated at the entrance to the town from the east; Arlebury, that of Arthur H. Wood esq. on the Winchester road, about half a mile west of the town. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are Lord Ashburton and Arthur H. Wood esq. The soil is chalky loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and turnips. The area is 686 acres; rateable value, £5,260; the population in 1881 was 1,550, including 55 in the Industrial Home (since removed) and 76 officers and inmates in the workhouse.

Parish Clerk, James Sait.

Old Alresford is a parish in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of Fawley, Winchester petty sessional division (Alresford district) and county court district, Alresford union, rural deanery of Old Alresford and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, separated from New Alresford by one of the streams which are tributary to the Itchen. The church of St. Mary is a structure of bricks and flint, consisting of a tall massive western tower with a fine peal of 6 bells and clock: it was built in the year 1753 with the absence of ecclesiastical style which distinguished churches of that period, but has been greatly improved by the substitution of stone mullions for the old wooden sash bars and by the addition of a transept in the Early English style: a chancel arch has been inserted and the whole interior rendered of an ecclesiastical character: Admiral Lord Rodney, who died in 1792, lies buried here: there are about 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1556. The living is a rectory, yearly net value £500, with residence and about 26 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Sir Frederick Larkins Currie bart. M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge. The charities are £3 10s. yearly, arising from bequests in 1700. In 1852 the Misses Onslow erected almshouses in memory of their mother: they will hold three couples, who live rent free. Here is a Home for the orphans and fatherless children of Primitive Methodists and others, who are recommended by the quarterly meetings of the denomination and elected by the annual conferences; they are eligible between the ages of five and ten years, and remain in the institution till fourteen, when situations are obtained for them; the present number in the home is 26, viz. 11 girls and 15 boys; the secretary is the Rev. W. E. Crombie, 17 Wandle road, Croydon, Surrey. In the parish are Old Alresford House, the seat of W. W. Bulpett esq. D.L., J.P. and Upton House, the seat of Joseph Fell Christy esq. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor The principal landowners are T. A. Houghton J.P. and W. W. Bulpett D.L., J.P. esqs. The soil is chalk; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and turnips. The area is 3,639 acres of land and 32 of water; rateable value, £3,954; the population in 1881 was 477.

Parish Clerk, Stephen Merritt.

GODSFIELD, 3 miles north-east from New Alresford station, formerly extra-parochial, is now a parish in Alresford union, adjoining Armsworth and belongs to Thomas A. Houghton esq. J.P. In the year 1138 Henry de Blois, Bishop of Winchester, established a commandery here, and gave it, with adjoining lands, to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem; their ancient chapel still remains, but is not used. The area is 507 acres; rateable value, £183; the population in 1881 was 15.

ALTON, in the Eastern division of the county, is a market, union and county court town, parish and railway station on a branch of the South Western railway, 47 miles from London, 17 north-east from Winchester, 11 south-by-east from Basingstoke and 8¾ south-west from Farnham, in the petty sessional division and hundred of the same name, and rural deanery of Alton western division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The river Wey rises close to the town. The only historical event connected with Alton is the defeat of the Royal forces, under Colonel Boles, by the Parliamentarians, commanded by Sir William Waller, in 1643. This place returned a representative to Parliament in the reign of Edward I. The Local Government Act of 1858 was adopted here August 28, 1860, and the town is governed by a local board of 12 members and is lighted with gas supplied by a private company. The church of St. Lawrence is an ancient and spacious edifice of stone, supported by lofty columns of the Perpendicular style, and has a double nave: from the centre of the church on the south side rises a Norman tower (with clock and 8 fine-toned bells), which is surmounted by a spire: it has a south porch: the church was restored in 1867 at a cost of about £3,600: a new organ chamber was added, also a fine-toned organ: there are two handsome stained windows at the east end, very large; one of them was filled with stained glass in 1884, in memory of Louis Leslie M.D. who had practised as a physician in this town and neighbourhood during 40 years: there are about 800 sittings, of which nearly half are free. The register dates from the year 1615. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value about £400, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Winchester, and held since 1881 by the Rev. Francis Whyley M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. The vicarial rent-charges are commuted at £280 yearly, with an additional £1 per acre on hop land. The church of All Saints, situated on the Winchester road, is a stone building in the Early English style, erected in 1874, from designs by Mr. F. C. Dyer, architect, London, at a cost of about £3,500 raised by subscription: it consists of chancel, nave, aisles, transept, south porch and organ chamber, and has sittings for 400 persons, all of which are free: in 1881 a square tower and spire was erected with one bell; in 1885 a clock and another bell were added, at a cost of £190; the dial is composed of opal glass for illuminating. The register dates from the year 1875. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £300, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1887 by the Rev. George Covey Stenning M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge. Here are a Congregational chapel in Normandy street, with 500 sittings, and a Wesleyan chapel in West end, High street, seating 300: and a meeting-house for the Society of Friends, and a Baptist chapel. A cemetery of 3 acres, situated at the north end of the town, was formed in 1854, at a cost of £1,200; it is under the control of a burial board of 9 members. Charities amounting to £74 yearly are distributed. Thomas Geale devised, in 1653, four tenements in Church street, to be converted into almshouses, and which are now inhabited by eight poor persons appointed by the vicar and churchwardens for the time being. Normandy Cottage, Normandy street, is supported by Mrs. H. Chalcraft, for the residence and maintenance of six aged women. The Town Hall, situated in Market square, was built by subscription in 1813: it is a square brick building, the lower portion being used by corn merchants; the upper floor is a spacious room adapted for balls and assemblies. A market for corn is held every Tuesday, and one for cattle and sheep every alternate Tuesday; a considerable lamb market is held on the Butts, near the town, the day after Stockbridge fair, in July. The annual fairs are on the last Saturday in April (for sheep and cattle) and the 29th of September (for horses, sheep and occasionally hops). A plot of ground, about ¾ of an acre, has been given by Henry Hall esq. in a commanding and advantageous position in the centre of the town, on which the following public buildings have been erected: the Mechanics' Institute, the Curtis Museum, Assembly Rooms and the Inwood Cottage Hospital, from designs by Charles E. Barry esq. architect; they are detached buildings, forming three sides of a square, built of red brick. The Mechanics' Institution was established in 1837, and removed to the present building in 1880, and has 360 members; it has a reading room well supplied with daily and other newspapers and monthly magazines, and a library containing 2,000 volumes. The Curtis Museum is worthy of attention chiefly from its containing a good local collection of geological specimens and birds: lectures are delivered in connection with the institution in the assembly rooms. The Inwood Cottage Hospital, established in 1869, was found insufficient for the demands made on it, and the new one, which was opened in 1880, at a cost of £2,231, provides 8 beds: the hospital is supported by Causton's gift (£100) Charity Commissioners; Inwood's gift (£1,350); Duncan's gifts (£150) and Bennett's gift (£200), (these three last are India 3½ per cent), and the hospital is also largely supported by voluntary contributions of the inhabitants. The Assembly Rooms, erected by a public company, form a fine building; the large hall will hold 600 persons, and there are committee and other rooms for the public. Here are two breweries, a paper manufactory, iron foundry and a private lunatic asylum. Works on the south side of the town for obtaining a supply of water for the town were commenced in May, 1876, under the Local Board and were completed at a cost of £6,000, under the direction of Messrs. Gotto and Beesley, of George street, Westminster: the water is obtained from a well sunk 140 feet into the lower chalk; the supply is constant, and hydrants are fixed at short distances in case of fire. A fire brigade was established in 1863, consisting of the leading tradesmen of the town—numbering at present 16 members—who muster the first Wednesday of every month for drill, and have two fire engines, one of which has steam power: a sum of £800 was subscribed on the formation of the brigade. The H Co. of 1st Volunteer Battalion Hants Regt. meet at the Town Hall. Thedden Grange, the seat of John Gathorne Wood esq. J.P. is situated 2½ miles west from Alton; the grounds are extensive and beautifully wooded; near it a chapel of ease was erected in 1854 with sittings for about 90, the whole expense borne by the late John Wood esq. Montagu George Knight esq. J.P. of Chawton, is lord of the manor of Alton Eastbrook, and Henry John Dutton esq. of Alton Westbrook. The principal landowners are Montagu G. Knight esq. J.P. John Gathorne Wood esq. J.P. and Winchester College. The soil is clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are corn and hops. The area is 3,925 acres; rateable value, £19,737; the population in 1881 was 4,497, including 113 officers and inmates in the workhouse.

ANSTEY is a tithing of the parish, about 1 mile north-east. Henry Hall esq. is lord of the manor of Anstey.

Parish Clerk and Sexton—St. Lawrence, John Robert Henwood Adams.

Parish Clerk—All Saints, William Pickett.

ALVERSTOKE is a parish and village and urban sanitary district, 2 miles south from Gosport and 15 miles by road and 2½ by steam launch west from Portsmouth. The parish includes the town and port of Gosport, the chapelries of ANGLESEY and the districts and hamlets of ELSON, with HARDWAY, FORTON, BROCKHURST and BRIDGEMARY incorporated as an union: it is in the Southern division of the county, county court district of Portsmouth, petty sessional division of Fareham, rural deanery of Alverstoke and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. STOKES BAY pier and station are in this parish, and the Gosport Road station of the South Western Company's Stokes Bay branch is contiguous to the Stoke and Bury roads, and about half a mile from Alverstoke village. The church of St. Mary is a building of stone in the Early English style, originally Norman, and consisting of nave of 5 bays and aisles with chancel, and was enlarged in 1865 by lengthening the nave and aisles one bay, and erecting a chancel with aisles and vestry; the western tower, partly of brick, contains a clock and 2 bells: the chancel, built in 1865, cost £3,000, and the new nave, built in 1885, £6,000: there are sittings for 800 persons, of which 680 are free. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, with the chapelry of Anglesey annexed, tithe rent-charge for 1888, £1,002 3s. 8d. gross yearly value £1,159, including 49 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1888 by the Rev. the Hon. Alan Brodrick M.A. of Balliol College, Oxford, hon. canon of Winchester and rural dean of Alverstoke. There are charges on this rectory of £50 for the vicarage of Forton, £50 for the vicarage of Elson, and £50 for the vicarage of St. Matthew's, Gosport. Alverstoke cemetery, situated in Ann's Hill road, near Bury cross, is between 8 and 9 acres in extent, and has two mortuary chapels; it is under the control of a burial board of 9 members: the cost of formation in 1854 was £3,000; it was enlarged in 1887 by the addition of 2½ acres, at a cost of £1,200. The charities amount to £18 yearly. Haslar Hospital, Forts Monckton and Gilkicker, and the Blockhouse Fort, Brown Down Battery, Fort Gomer and Fort Grange are in this parish; Fort Rowner is partly so. Holmes' almshouses, for 2 poor widows, were rebuilt by the churchwardens of Alverstoke, Thomas Walpole being rector, in 1849; the appointments are in the gift of the rector and churchwardens of St. Mary's church. Bricks are made in this parish; the proprietors of brick fields are Charles William House, Privett; William Rapley, Forton, and W. H. Walter, Forton. The principal landowners are the War Department and the Admiralty, Mrs. Purvis, Col. Martin, Charles William House, John Carter, Montague H. Foster, Woodman Hill and William Grant J.P. Alverstoke incorporation comprises Alverstoke and Gosport, and Burrow Island or Rat Island; rateable value, £61,010; for officers, see Gosport. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are market garden produce, wheat and cereals. The population of the entire parish in 1881 was 21,581 (15,220 in Alverstoke, including 23 in the Coast-guard station, 169 officers and inmates in the workhouse and 6,581 in Gosport); area, 3,812 acres of land and 1,223 of water and foreshore.

CLAY HALL is a portion of this parish, in which there is a mission chapel and Sunday school; also the Haslar Hospital cemetery.

Parish Clerk, George Biddle, 18 High street, Gosport.

AMPFIELD is a hamlet and ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1841 from the civil parish of Hursley, from which it is 2½ miles west, 4 north-east from Romsey and 3 north-west from Chandler's Ford station, on the Salisbury branch of the South Western railway, in the Western division of the county, Buddlesgate hundred, Winchester petty sessional division and county court district, and in the rural deanery, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Mark is a building of blue brick and stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel and nave, south aisle, north porch, with a western octagonal spire containing 2 bells: the east, west and two north windows are stained; the east, the gift of Sir William Heathcote bart. and the west by the Rev. Wilson and Lady Heathcote: there are three stained windows in the south aisle to the memory of members of the present vicar's family: the church was built at the sole cost of Sir William Heathcote bart.: at the western entrance of the churchyard is a fountain, curiously built of stone, and surmounted by a cross: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1841. The living is endowed partly with the interest of a fund, towards which the late Joseph White esq. of Ampfield House contributed £500, and partly by portions of the rectorial and vicarial tithes of Hursley, gross yearly value, £274: it is in the gift of the Rev. Gilbert Vyvyan Heathcote, and held since 1853 by the Rev. John Frewen Moor M.A. of Oriel College, Oxford. Ampfield House, a red brick mansion, surrounded by finely timbered grounds, is the residence of David Faber esq. J.P. The principal landowners are the representatives of the late Sir William Heathcote bart. who are lords of the manor and the Rev. John White. The soil is sand and loam; subsoil, sand and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 3,676 acres; and the population in 1881 was 434.

AMPORT (or AMPORT ST. MARY) is a village and parish on the River Anna, 2 miles south from Weyhill railway station, 2¾ north-east from Grateley railway station, in the Western division of the county, Andover hundred, petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Andover western division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, 4½ miles west-by-south from Andover. The parish extends 4 miles to West Cholderton. The church of St. Mary is an ancient cruciform edifice of flint, principally in the Decorated style, and consists of chancel, nave and transepts, with central square tower containing 5 bells; it has been enlarged and restored; the whole of the windows are stained, inclusive of a handsome wheel design at the west end; in the chancel are a sedilia and piscina of the Decorated period: there are 220 sittings. The register dates from the year 1660. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £847, with residence, net £510, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Chichester, and held since 1886 by the Rev. William Awdry M.A. of Balliol College, Oxford, prebend of Chichester, formerly fellow of Queen's College, Oxford. Here is is a place of worship for Primitive Methodists. Pursuant to the will of the Rev. Thomas Sheppard D.D. dated 1815, £10,208 6s. 8d. was invested in £3 per cent. stock in the names of the master and fellows of Magdalen College, Oxford, the interest now amounting to £297 6s. 4d. to be applied to the maintenance of a school and an almshouse for 6 widows of upwards of 50 years of age, each inmate having two rooms and receiving weekly ten shillings and clothes and medical attendance; the trustees are the vicar of Amport and the rectors of Quarley and Thruxton. Amport House, the seat of the Marquess of Winchester, is a handsome white brick building in the Elizabethan style, built by the late marquess in 1857, and standing in a well-wooded park of 200 acres. The Marquess of Winchester, who is lord of the manor, and R. A. Routh esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is very light; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 3,933 acres; rateable value, £4,053; the population in 1881 was 677, including the tithings of EAST CHOLDERTON and SARSON.

MIDDLECOT, 4 miles west, is a tithing. EAST CHOLDERTON is a tithing and hamlet, 1 mile north, adjoining Thruxton. SARSON is a tithing adjoining Amport, but including the hamlet of DANSEY, which is partly in Appleshaw parish.

ANDOVER.

ANDOVER is an ancient municipal borough, market and union town, and station on the South Western railway, giving name to the hundred, and petty sessional division, in the Western division of the county and is in the rural deanery of Andover (western division), archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, 66¼ miles from London, 18 north-east from Salisbury and 19 west from Basingstoke. The town stands on the river Anton, near the skirts of an extensive tract of woodland bordering on Salisbury plain; it is principally disposed in three broad streets. The London and South Western railway line to Salisbury has a junction station here of their line to Romsey and Southampton and the Midland and South Western junction railway have constructed a line from this town northwards to Swindon, thence to Cirencester, Gloucestershire. Since the opening of the South Western railway many buildings and a district called Newtown have sprung up in its vicinity. The town is well supplied with water and lighted with gas. Several packs of hounds are kept in the neighbourhood.

The borough dates its incorporation from the time of King John, and was represented in Parliament in the reign of the first Edward, but afterwards suffered its privileges to sleep till the 27th of Elizabeth, from which period it returned two members until 1867, when the "Representation of the People Act" reduced the number to one. By the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885," it was entirely disfranchised. Andover gives the title of viscount to the Earl of Suffolk.

The corporation consists of a mayor, 4 aldermen and 12 councillors, who also act as the Urban Sanitary Authority: it has a separate court of quarter sessions and commission of the peace.

The church of St. Mary is a handsome edifice of stone, erected at a cost of nearly £30,000, at the expense of the late Rev. William Stanley Goddard D.D. formerly head master of Winchester College : it is in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave of five bays and aisles, south porch with a lofty western tower, with crocketed pinnacles, which contains a peal of 8 bells and a clock, and is a conspicuous object from all parts of the neighbourhood : in the galleries are the remains of two curious tombs, taken from the old church, which have been restored, one representing a male and female kneeling, with a tomb between them ; the other has on the left the figure of a man seated ; on the right are seven figures kneeling ; an inscription underneath bears date 1611 : there are several very handsome stained windows, two being in memory of the Goddard and Gales families : the organ is a fine one, and stands in a chapel erected from designs by W. White esq. F.S.A. under whose direction the whole church has been thoroughly refitted : there are sittings for 850, all free. The register dates from the year 1580. The living is a vicarage, with Foxcotte chapelry annexed, tithes commuted at £570, with house, in the gift of Winchester College, and held since 1889 by the Rev. Philip Richard Pipon Braithwaite M.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge.

The Baptist chapel in High street is a building of stone and white brick, with two stone porticoes and a circular stained window, built in 1866 by public subscription, at a cost of about £1,100, and will seat 400. The Congregational church in East street was formed in 1662 ; the present building was erected in 1700 ; and was re-seated and new class rooms added in 1879, and will seat about 600. The Wesleyan Methodist chapel, Winchester street, and the Primitive Methodist chapel, East street, will seat about 450.

The Cemetery is at the north end of the town, adjoining the church, and was formed in 1869 ; it is about 4 acres in extent, and has a chapel for the use of Nonconformists, and an excellent mortuary ; the cemetery is under the control of a Burial Board of 7 members.

The Cottage Hospital in the Junction road is a handsome red brick building, erected in 1876, at a cost of over £2,000, chiefly through the liberality of Sir Charles Pressly K.C.B. the late Henry Thompson esq. and the late Mr. William Gue, and is supported by voluntary contributions and a small endowment ; the hospital contains 8 beds, and the average annual number of patients is about 40.

There are almshouses in Marlborough street for six poor men, founded in 1686 by John Pollen esq. formerly one of the representatives of this borough ; also almshouses for four aged women, and another for four women, called Spital Almshouses ; and another for four women, endowed with 3s. 6d. a week, situate in the Common Acre. Charities producing £200 are distributed yearly.

The spacious Town hall, erected in 1825, at a cost of £7,000, stands on arches, and is a stone building in the Classical style ; the large room is capable of seating 300 persons and is used for concerts, lectures and meetings ; it contains also a council chamber, a bench room for criminal business, and other rooms.

A corn market is held every Friday under the Town hall. A market for the sale of fat and store stock is held at Mr. G. K. Reynolds' repository, in Bridge street, every Monday. A market, on Friday, is held by Mr. Allan Herbert, at the "Masons' Arms," Winchester street, for the sale of pigs, sheep and fat and store cattle. There is a sheep fair on the 17th November, and a wool fair commencing on the last Friday in June. Weyhill, where a very large fair is held, is 3½ miles west and its proximity contributes materially to the commercial prosperity of Andover : this fair, one of the largest in the county, is visited by farmers from almost every part of England. There are also two very considerable sheep fairs held at Appleshaw, 5 miles north-west from Andover.

At the foot of Bury Hill, on the Pillhill Brook, are the Waterloo foundry and ironworks, conducted by Messrs. Tasker and Sons, general engineers, ironfounders and agricultural implement manufacturers. There are breweries and two banks.

Catherine Anson, in 1570, appropriated an acre of ground planted with trees, as a walk, for the recreation of the townspeople.

The Roman road from Winchester to Cirencester passed near Andover, and is still visible in Harewood, near Wherwell ; and the Portway crosses this road to the north. A Roman station is supposed to have existed here, a supposition which acquires a probability from the remains of several Roman encampments in the immediate neighbourhood, and of a large one on the summit of Bury Hill, about 2 miles south-west. Folksbury, or Balksbury, is a large camp, 1 mile south-west. The Devil's Ditch is 3 miles north-west. On Danebury Hill, a long elevated ridge which terminates in a lofty headland overlooking Salisbury, is a complicated circular entrenchment, with very high ramparts ; and near it are several barrows, one of them called Canute's Barrow. Another camp occupies the summit of Quarley Hill, on the borders of the plain and 8 miles west from Andover, and various tumuli are scattered over its neighbouring downs.

The Mayor and Corporation are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are the Earl of Portsmouth, Thomas H. Earle, Albemarle Willoughby Dewar, Frederick Ellen, Alfred Butterworth, and J. P. Good esqrs.

The area is 9,601 acres of land and 14 of water ; rateable value, £25,611 ; the population in 1881 was—of the parish and municipal borough, 5,654, including 120 officers and inmates of the workhouse.

Parish Clerk and Organist, Jn. Wm. Chuter, 1 Union st.

HATHERDEN is a hamlet 3 miles north. By an Order in Council, dated May 7, 1858, all parts of the parish of Andover north of the South Western railway were formed into an independent district, named the district chapelry of Christ Church Smannell with Hatherden, and was formed into an ecclesiastical parish in 1875, when Smannell was separated from Hatherden. Christ Church is a modern flint and brick building in the Early English style, consisting of apsidal chancel and nave, and north and south porches, with bell turret and 2 bells : there are 180 sittings. The register dates from the year 1858. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £148, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Carston Dirs Kebbel B.A. of University College, Oxford. At Wildhern is a Primitive Methodist chapel to hold 250 persons. The principal landowners are Alfred Butterworth, Thomas Hughes Earle and Thomas Child. The area is 2,854 acres ; the population in 1881 was 327. WILDHERN, 3 miles north from Andover, is in this parish.

Parish Clerk, George White.

SMANNELL is a hamlet 2½ miles north-east, formed into a separate ecclesiastical parish in 1875. Christ Church, a modern building of flint and brick in the Early English style, consists of apsidal chancel, nave of three bays and north aisle, south porch, with bell turret, containing one bell, and has sittings for about 200. The register dates from the year 1857. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £120, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Robert Hawley Clutterbuck A.K.C. who is also rector of Knights Enham. The Baptist chapel was rebuilt in 1882, and will seat about 100.

LITTLE LONDON, 3½ miles north ; WOODHOUSE (or Woodhams), 3 miles north ; EAST ANTON, 2 miles north ; and FINKLEY, 3 miles north-east, are hamlets in the ecclesiastical parish of Smannell. Near Finkley are two barrows. Thomas Hughes Earle esq. is the principal landowner. The area is 2,954 acres ; the population in 1881 was 561.

CHARLTON, 1½ miles north-west, where there is a place of worship for Primitive Methodists seating 180, a Mission hall and a National school, is a hamlet in the parish of Andover.

ANDWELL is a small village, formerly extra parochial, but now a parish, 2½ miles west from Hook station of the London and South Western railway and 4 east from Basingstoke, in the Northern division of the county, hundred, union, petty sessional division, and county court district of Basingstoke, and consists of a mill and a farm, the property of Winchester College. There is no church, but there are interesting remains of the Benedictine Priory formerly occupied by a colony of monks from the Abbey of Tiron. The Governors of Winchester College are lords of the manor. The soil is clay, sand and gravel with peaty substance; subsoil, clay. The crops are chiefly wheat, barley and roots; watercress is largely grown in the parish. The area is 143 acres; rateable value, £158; the population in 1881 was 45; there are only eight houses.

ANGLESEY (or ANGLESEYVILLE), a chapelry, in the parish and incorporation of Alverstoke, Southern division of the county, county court district of Portsmouth, petty sessional division of Fareham, Alverstoke rural deanery and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese, is a village of modern date, commanding extensive views of the Isle of Wight, Spithead and the Motherbank, 2 miles south from Gosport and 15 west from Portsmouth by road and 2½ by steam launch. The earliest building, Uxbridge House, was erected in 1826, the first stone having been laid by Henry William, first Marquess of Anglesey K.G., G.C.B. The Gosport terminus of the South Western railway is about 2 miles north. The Gosport Road station of the South Western railway is about 1 mile north, and Stokes Bay station and free pier on the same railway are contiguous to the village, and form the shortest route for the Isle of Wight. Forts Gilkicker and Monckton are also contiguous. St. Mark's church, opened in the year 1844, is a building of red brick with stone dressings, in the Late Perpendicular style, having chancel and nave: it has 374 sittings, of which 200 are free. The register dates from the year 1845. The living is a chapelry annexed to Alverstoke, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1888 by the Rev. the Hon. Alan Brodrick M.A. of Balliol College, Oxford, rural dean of Alverstoke and honorary canon of Winchester, who resides at Alverstoke. Here is a large hotel with assembly room; and there is also a reading room and baths, with pleasure gardens attached.

Parish Clerk, John West.

ASHE is a village and parish, 1½ miles east from Overton station, on the South Western railway, 7 miles west from Basingstoke and 5¼ east-north-east from Whitchurch, in the Western division of the county, Whitchurch union, Overton hundred, Basingstoke county court district, Kingsclere petty sessional division, rural deanery of Basingstoke south-western division and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of the Holy Trinity, rebuilt in 1878 on the site of the old church, is an edifice of flint with stone dressings in the Early English style, from designs by Sir George Gilbert Scott R.A. architect, and consists of chancel, nave, south porch and spire: the east window is stained: the 14th century screen has been restored to its original position: the churchyard was enlarged in the year 1879, the land being the gift of the late Lieut.-Col. Portal: there is a handsome lych-gate: there are 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1606. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value from the tithe rent-charge £378, net £308, with 27 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Rev. F. W. Thoyts M.A. and held since 1889 by the Rev. Ernest Thoyts M.A. of Oriel College, Oxford. Ashe Park, now unoccupied, is approached by a long avenue leading from the Andover road; the mansion is in the French style, and was erected by the owner in 1865 on the site of the former edifice: it is situated on an eminence, and has a wide and pleasant view of the surrounding country; the park lands cover an area of 50 acres, and are planted with oak, ash and elm. Ashe Warren, formerly a farmhouse, has been converted into a gentleman's residence, and is now the property and seat of the Hon. Henry Augustus Stanhope. M. Portal esq. of Laverstock, is lord of the manor and, with the Hon. H. A. Stanhope and Mr. Alexander Cunningham, of Litchfield Grange, principal landowner. The soil is light; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 2,107 acres; rateable value, £4,219; the population in 1881 was 198. There is a mission church at South Litchfield.

ASHLEY is a small village and parish, about 2 miles east from Horsebridge station on the Andover and Redbridge branch of the South Western railway, 8½ north from Romsey, 3¾ miles south-east from Stockbridge and 7 west from Winchester, in the Western division of the county, Buddlesgate hundred, Stockbridge union, Winchester petty sessional division, Romsey county court district, Romsey rural deanery and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Mary is a very ancient structure of flint and stone, in the Early English style, and has chancel, nave and a belfry, consisting of two recesses in the west gable, having a bell hung in each: it was restored in 1858, when a floriated cross was erected on each end: the whole building is covered with ivy: there are 75 sittings. The register dates from the year 1725. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £220, with residence and 40 acres of glebe, in the gift of and held since 1843 by the Rev. James Hannay M.A. fellow of Worcester College, Oxford. In the parish are vestiges of several Roman camps and a circular entrenchment of considerable dimensions, supposed to be Danish or British. Ashley House, the seat of Miss Taunton, is a brick building, erected in 1854 by the Misses Taunton: it stands on a considerable elevation, and commands extensive views of the surrounding country. Miss Taunton is lady of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is clayey loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area is 1,801 acres; rateable value, £1,027; the population in 1881 was 125.

ASHLEY WALK township was formed by an order of the Poor Law Board, dated the 23rd November, 1868, out of the following places, formerly extra-parochial, in or adjoining the New Forest, part of Godshill, Godshill Wood, Godshill Inclosure, Ashley Walk, Ashley Lodge, Mudmore, Ogdens, Amberwood, Eyeworth Lodge, Miller's Ford and Greenhouse Farm, in the union of Fordingbridge; the river Avon bounds it on the west. Godshill is 2 miles east of Fordingbridge station, in the New Forest division of the county, Fordingbridge union and county court district, and petty sessional division of Ringwood. On a hill here are the remains of an encampment, supposed to have been formed by Cerdic, who landed in 495: on one side the hill is perpendicular; on the other three it is encompassed by a double trench. Divine service is held in the schoolroom on Sunday afternoons at 3 p.m. The principal landowners are Lieut.-Col. Sir Edward Hulse bart. B.A., D.L., J.P. of Breamore House, Salisbury; Charles Glynn Prideaux-Brune esq. of Plumber, Dorset, and the Crown. The soil is of a mixed character—sand, gravel and clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 8,471 acres; rateable value, £801; the population in 1881 was 294.

Letters are received through Salisbury viâ Fordingbridge, arrive at 7 a.m. The nearest money order & telegraph office is at Fordingbridge

ASHMANSWORTH is a parish 7 miles south-west from Newbury station and 8 north-west from Whitchurch, in the Western division of the county, Evinger hundred, Kingsclere union and petty sessional division, Newbury county court district, rural deanery of Andover northern division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. James, is an ancient fabric in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a wooden bell-cote on the western gable, containing 3 bells: there are 85 sittings. The register dates only from the year 1811, the earlier register having been destroyed by fire. The living was formerly a chapelry, annexed to the rectory of East Woodhay, but is now a vicarage, gross yearly value from tithe rent-charge £371, with 27 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1884 by the Rev. Eimer Thomas Coles T.A.K.C.L. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel, built in 1888. The Earl of Carnarvon is lord of the manor; the Earl of Portsmouth, Mr. C. A. E. Fermor and William Gatty esq. lessee under the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, are the principal landowners. The soil is rather heavy; subsoil, red marl and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and turnips. The area is 1,808 acres; rateable value, £1,133; the population in 1881 was 212.

AVINGTON is a pleasant village 4½ miles north-east from Winchester, 4 west from Alresford and half a mile south from Itchen Abbas station, on the Mid Hants branch of the London and South Western railway, in the Western division of the county, hundred of Fawley, Winchester petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Old Alresford and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, situated on the river Itchen. The church of St. Mary is an ivy-covered building of red brick, consisting of chancel and nave, and a square embattled western tower containing a fine peal of 6 bells: it was erected about the year 1735 in the style prevailing at that period, at the expense of Margaret, Marchioness of Carnarvon, the first wife of James Brydges, third and last Duke of Chandos, whose only daughter married, as his second wife, Richard, Earl Temple, second Marquess, and afterwards created Duke of Buckingham and Chandos: the pews are of mahogany: there are 90 sittings. The register dates from the year 1623. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value about £320, including 25 acres of glebe and house, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1872 by the Rev. William Edward Green M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford. Avington House, the seat of Edward Shelley esq. is a large red brick mansion, standing in a park of about 300 acres and the home park about 80 acres, on the Itchen: it was the residence of King Charles II. whilst the king's house (the present barracks) at Winchester was being built: the site on which the conservatory stands was then occupied by the banqueting-room: the stone pillars which sustained the roof form the support of the present conservatory. Edward Shelley esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is loam and chalk; subsoil clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and turnips. The area was extended by order, March, 1839, by addition of detached portions of other parishes, and the area is now 3,025 acres; rateable value, £2,056; the population in 1881 was 204.

BADDESLEY (or NORTH BADDESLEY) is a village, situated on an open heath, on the road from Romsey to Portsmouth, 3 miles west from the Chandlers Ford station on the Salisbury branch railway, 77 miles from London, 3 east from Romsey, 12 south-west from Winchester, 6 north from Southampton, in the New Forest division of the county, Hursley union, Romsey petty sessional division, King's Somborne hundred, Winchester county court district, rural deanery of Romsey, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The village consists of a few small houses, principally with thatched roofs. The church of St. John, situated near the site of the ancient chapel of the same name, belonging to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, was rebuilt in 1608, and is a small edifice of flint and stone, consisting of chancel and nave, with gallery at the western end, south porch and a western tower with 2 bells: the desk and chain to which the Bible was formerly attached still remain: two stones in the tower bear the date 1674: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1682. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £110, in the gift of Tankerville Chamberlayne esq. and held since 1885 by the Rev. Edward Thomas Hoare M.A. of Caius College, Cambridge, who resides at Chilworth. Tankerville Chamberlayne esq. of Cranbury Park, Winchester, is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is sand and loam; subsoil, clay and gravel; there is much bog land in the parish. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 2,582 acres; rateable value, £2,665; the population in 1881 was 358.

SOUTH BADDESLEY, situated on the sea coast, 3 miles east from Lymington station, is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1859 from the civil parish of Boldre, and includes the hamlets of EAST END, NORLEY, PITTS DEEP, and LOYAL COURT, and is in the New Forest division of the county, New Forest hundred, Lymington petty sessional division, union and county court district, and in the rural deanery of Fawley and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Mary, built in 1858 at the expense of the late W. P. Williams-Freeman esq. of Pylewell Park, is a plain cruciform building of stone, having chancel, nave, transepts, spire without tower or porch, but having one bell: it will seat 260 persons: the sittings are all free. The register dates from the year 1858. The living is a perpetual curacy, yearly value £100, in the gift of W. Ingham Whitaker esq. and held since 1877 by the Rev. John William Hall M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. Pylewell Park, the seat of W. Ingham Whitaker esq. J.P. is a fine building of stone, with a south-east aspect and commands a good view of the Solent: it stands in a park of 228 acres. The principal landowners are W. Ingham Whitaker esq. who is lord of the manor, J. Duplessis esq. Wilfrid Weld esq. and J. P. Heseltine esq. The soil is chiefly loam; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 3,000 acres; the population in 1881 was 473.

BASING or (OLD BASING) is a parish and considerable village, in the Northern division of the county, Basingstoke hnndred, petty sessional division, union and county court district, and rural deanery of Basingstoke north-eastern division and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, 2 miles north-east from Basingstoke on the river Loddon. The South Western and the Basingstoke branch of the Great Western railways, and Basingstoke canal pass through the parish; a high embankment of the South Western is near the church. The church of St. Mary, originally Norman, is an ancient structure of flint and stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles extending to the whole length of the nave and chancel, and an eastern embattled tower with pinnacles, containing a clock and 2 bells, the others having been taken away and deposited in neighbouring churches at the time of the destruction of Basing House; there is a handsome grey font of the 15th century, also tombs of the Paulet family in the chancel, and the six Dukes of Bolton lie in the south chapel: among the monuments is one by Flaxman, to Henry, sixth Duke of Bolton, Admiral of the White, who died 24th December, 1794. The church was restored in 1874, under the direction of T. H. Wyatt esq. architect, at a cost of £2,800; some tiles of the 13th or 14th centuries were found during the progress of the work in the flooring of the church, as well as fragments of Norman carving: an organ was added in 1878, at a cost of £414: there are sittings for 600 persons. The register dates from the year 1655. The living is a vicarage, with that of Up-Nately annexed. The tithes of Basing parish were commuted in 1840, the vicarial for £475, the rectorial for £705. The rectorial tithes of Basing and Up-Nately belong to the President and Fellows of Magdalen College, Oxford. The vicarial, together with 20 acres of glebe, make up the value of the living, which is augmented to the present vicar by a grant from Magdalen College. There is a vicarage house, erected in 1866, by the patrons and the vicar at a cost of between £2,000 and £3,000. The living has been held since 1864 by the Rev. Robert Falkner Hessey M.A. formerly Fellow and Tutor of Magdalen College. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel, built in 1867. Besides the Duke of Bolton's charity of £24 yearly, left in 1694, there are smaller charities left by Henry Lamport, of this parish, the Upton family and William Barber, of this parish, and by Mr. Charles Webb of Basingstoke. The Union workhouse for Basingstoke district, erected in 1836, stands in this parish; it is capable of containing 426 inmates, but at present (1889) there are not more than 180; for particulars see Basingstoke. Basing has been distinguished as the scene of a severe battle, fought in 871, between the Danes and the English, when the latter, under the command of Alfred and his brother, King Etheldred, were defeated. There appears to have been a castle here at some remote period, for in a grant made to the priory of Monks Sherborne, in the reign of Henry II. mention is made of the Old Castle of Basing: this appears to have been rebuilt in a magnificent style by Sir William Paulet K.G. first Marquess of Winchester: on the breaking out of the civil war Basing House was put into a state of defence, and garrisoned and held for four years, by John, the fifth Marquess of Winchester, for King Charles I. (of whom there is a full length portrait in the house at Hackwood), but was carried by storm by Oliver Cromwell, who destroyed the place; the area of the works occupied 14½ acres; the form was irregular, ditches very deep, the ramparts high and strong, as is evinced by the remains: the north gateway and a portion of the outer wall are still standing. Some interesting excavations have been made in the ruins by order of Lord Bolton. About a mile and a half south of the village, and situated partly within the parish, is the park and stately mansion of Hackwood, the property of Lord Bolton, described under Basingstoke. Lord Bolton J.P. is lord of Basing manor, the Rt. Hon. Lord Basing J.P. of Byfleet Manor, and Chaloner Wm. Chute esq. J.P. of the Vyne, near Basingstoke, of Cufauds manor. The chief landowners are Lord Bolton J.P. Chaloner W. Chute esq. J.P. and Lord Basing J.P. the trustees of the late G. Lamb esq. and S. James A. Salter esq. F.R.S. of Basingfield. The soil is London and plastic clay and chalk; subsoil, clay and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area is 5,585 acres of land and 50 of water, rateable value, £14,383; the population in 1881 was 1,310, including 191 officers and inmates of the union house.

Parish Clerk, Daniel Weston.

BASINGSTOKE.

BASINGSTOKE is a municipal borough, market, railway and union town, and a polling place for the Northern division of the county, in the petty sessional division, union and hundred of Basingstoke, rural deanery of Basingstoke south-western division and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, and is situated in a fertile part of the county, on the South Western main line to Southampton; the South Western line to Andover, Salisbury and the West of England joins here, as does also the Great Western Railway from Reading to Basingstoke: it is also the terminus of the Basingstoke canal, and is situated on the river Loddon, 46 miles from London by the old road and 47¾ by railway, 19 north-east from Winchester, 15½ south from Reading, 16 south-east from Newbury and 32 north from Southampton. According to Domesday Book Basingstoke was a royal manor, which had never paid tax or been distributed into hides, and had, at the survey, a market.

Basingstoke sent members to Parliament from the 23rd Edward I. to 4th Edward III. when at the solicitation, as is supposed, of the inhabitants the privilege ceased.

The town possesses a charter of incorporation, granted by James I. and confirmed by Charles I.; and under the Act 5th and 6th William IV. is governed by a mayor and four aldermen and twelve common councilmen, who also act as the Urban Sanitary Authority. Magistrates for the town are also appointed under a commission of the peace, in pursuance of the Act. The police force, formerly under the control of the town council, is now merged in the county police. A court-leet is held under the lords of the manor, the jurisdiction of which extends over 19 tithings.

The town is lighted with gas from works situated in the Basing road, erected in 1834 by a company, which was incorporated in 1887; and supplied with water obtained from the chalk at South View, raised by steam pump from a well in the Reading road to the tanks at South view: there is sufficient pressure to throw a constant supply of water to a considerable height, in cases of fire, through hydrants in different parts.

The church of St. Michael and All Angels is a stone building in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, with clerestory, aisles, side chapel, now used as an organ chamber, south porch and a western embattled tower, with angle turrets, containing 8 bells: the nave is said to have been erected in the reign of Henry VIII. under the direction of Fox, Bishop of Winchester, and is a good specimen of the architecture of that period: galleries have been erected on both sides of the church, which is capable of seating 1,400: there are seven stained windows and a carved oak pulpit on stone base, placed in memory of Bishop Wilberforce: a small library, the gift of Sir George Wheler knt. vicar of the parish 1685-94, is deposited in the parvise above the south porch. The register of baptisms, marriages and burials dates from the year 1638. The living is a discharged vicarage, yearly value from tithe rent-charge £497, gross £532, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the President and Fellows of Magdalen College, Oxford, and held since 1864 by the Rev. James Elwin Millard D.D. formerly fellow of that college, hon. canon of Winchester and rural dean.

Here is a Catholic chapel, dedicated to the Holy Ghost, situated in the Burgess road.

The Congregational Church is the oldest nonconforming body in the town, dating back to 1662, when the Rev. John Hook, one of the ejected clergy of the Church of England, and a chaplain of Savoy Hospital, became its pastor: its place of meeting until 1710 was in Cross street, when the building in London street was erected, which was enlarged in 1860 to its present dimensions: the style of architecture is Roman Doric, and the building will seat about 600. An organ was erected by subscription in 1876. The pastor is maintained and the expenses defrayed on the voluntary system, pew rents having been abolished about 1873. Commodious class rooms were added to the large school room at the rear of the church in 1872 at a cost of £500. There is also a Congregational chapel at Worting Town End, and one in New road; also other places of worship for Primitive Methodists, the Countess of Huntingdon's followers, Wesleyans, Particular Baptists and the Brethren, and a meeting house for the Society of Friends, together with permanent "Barracks" for the Salvation Army.

The Cemetery, situated at the highest point of the town, with the ancient burial ground, or Liten, in which the ruins of the Holy Ghost chapel stand, covers an area of 6¼ acres: it contains two mortuary chapels: the town council is the burial board: the Holy Ghost chapel, a once beautiful edifice in the Late Perpendicular style, was built by Sir William, afterwards Lord Sandys, who, with Richard Fox, Bishop of Winchester, obtained a licence to found a free chapel here and therein likewise to instruct youth in literature.

The Society of Friends have a small burial ground adjoining the cemetery.

The Town Hall was erected in 1832, and consists of a reading room, justice and council rooms, with retiring room, handsome stone staircase leading to a spacious hall or ball-room, with ante-room, town clerk's and borough surveyor's offices: the business of the Savings Bank is conducted here every Wednesday and Saturday, and behind the building is a market for the sale of meat, poultry, fish and vegetables: the cost of erection and the site amounted together to upwards of £10,000: a handsome clock tower was erected in 1889 at the sole expense of Major John May, the cost of which was £1,200.

The Corn Exchange, erected at a cost of between £4,000 and £5,000, opened in February, 1865, is a handsome building, with 150 stands: the capital was originally raised by shares of £25 each, which have been paid off by the corporation, to whom the building now belongs.

The principal market day is Wednesday for corn and cattle; there is also a market on Saturday for meat, poultry, fish and vegetables; new shops in connection were added in 1885.

Basingstoke is situated in the centre of an extensive agricultural district, and has a considerable trade in corn, malt, coals, timber and other merchandise. Here are large iron foundries for the manufacture of agricultural and other implements, clothing factories and breweries.

The K Company of the 1st Volunteer Battalion of the Hampshire Regiment, formed in 1875, has a strength of 120; its armoury at the New Drill Hall on Sarum hill, opened in Jan. 1884 is a building of brick and corrugated iron, and has a total depth of 100 feet and a frontage of 50 feet. The hall is arranged for the holding of public entertainments, a stage with fittings and dressing rooms, having been erected at one end. Attached to the hall is the New Masonic Hall, built in 1885.

The Mechanics' Institute and Club, New street, is affiliated to the Hants Union Club, and was established 1841: the present hall, built in 1870, at a cost of £1,200 (including £300 for site), is a brick building, containing a club room, capable of holding 200, large reading room, library of 3,000 volumes, class rooms, and librarian's residence: it is supported by the subscriptions of members, of whom there are now (1889) 350.

There was formerly here an hospital, the sick-house of Merton College, Oxford, founded 1261 by Walter de Merton, Bishop of Rochester and founder of Merton College, Oxford, and dedicated to SS. Mary and John the Baptist.

The charities belonging to the town are very considerable, and were left by the Duke of Bolton, Sir James Lancaster, Richard Aldworth esq. founder of the Blue Coat School; Richard Deane, Francis Russell and John Hall esqrs. and Messrs. Wigg, Smith, Payne, Stocker and Pemerton, and in modern times by the Rev. James Blatch, late vicar, Robert Cottle, Charles Webb, Dr. Sheppard and Mrs. Sheppard, his widow, who was also a benefactor to the National Schools for boys and girls. The amount for distribution in money and kind is now (1889) £500 yearly.

There are almshouses in London street, founded in 1607 by Sir James Deane knt. for 8 aged persons, two of whom are elected from the parish of Deane: there is an annual distribution of £123 6s. 8d. among the inmates, each of whom receives 6s. 4d. per week and 13s. 4d. at Christmas. Almshouses, in Hackwood road, were founded by Joseph Page esq. of Enfield, Middlesex, in 1806, for three indigent persons, each of whom receives 6s. weekly and coals; there are also three almshouses in Reading road, unendowed, for three poor widows, each of whom receives £1 13s. 4d. at Christmas from the corporation charities.

The Cottage Hospital, situated in Hackwood road, was built and furnished in the year 1878, at a cost of nearly £2,000, raised by subscription from the inhabitants of the town and neighbourhood: its object is to supply the sick and suffering poor with medical attendance and careful nursing in a quiet home: it will hold 13 beds, and during the year 1888 relief was afforded to 43 patients: the hospital depends for support on voluntary contributions.

St. Thomas' Home, situated on the north side of the town on an elevated and healthy site, and erected in the year 1874 from designs by Mr. A. R. Barker, architect, is an institution for friendless and fallen women: it comprises five cottages, two laundries, chapel, superior's and warden's rooms, infirmary, general kitchen and offices, sufficient to hold sixty penitents and the working staff, superintended by the sisters of St. Thomas the Martyr, Oxford. The Rev. Reginald F. Bigg-Wither M.A. is the warden and the bishop of the diocese is visitor: the land has been purchased, the present buildings erected and the institution maintained by voluntary offerings and annual subscriptions. The new chapel was designed by Mr. Woodyer.

Among the eminent natives of this place may be noticed John de Basingstoke, a distinguished scholar of the 13th century, and archdeacon of Leicester about the year 1230; also Sir James Lancaster knt. an eminent navigator in the reign of Elizabeth; Dr. Joseph Warton F.R.S. who was head master of Winchester College, and his brother, the Rev. Thomas Warton B.D. professor of poetry at the University of Oxford and poet laureate, born here in 1728: the father of the Wartons was vicar of Basingstoke, also professor of poetry in the above university; his remains lie in the chancel of St. Michael's church.

About a mile south is Hackwood House, the property of Lord Bolton, a large and handsome mansion, designed by Inigo Jones; it stands in a well-wooded park of about 700 acres, stocked with deer and abounding with fine old oak, beech and other timber trees, and is now in the occupation of Charles Hoare esq.

Some excavations made on the South View estate, Basingstoke, by Mr. C. F. Cooksey, in June, 1882, resulted in the discovery first of some urn burials, and subsequently of a Celtic hut dwelling, in which three finely-wrought arrow-heads and some bronze ornaments were found.

The corporation are lords of the manor, and there are numerous landowners.

The soil is chiefly loam; the subsoil is chalk. The land is mostly arable, producing abundant crops of sainfoin, turnips, wheat, barley and oats.

The area is 4,172 acres, about 107 of which are common, restricted to certain householders of the town; rateable value, £40,201; the population of the municipal borough and parish in 1881 was 6,681.

WINKLEBURY is a large circular camp, 2 miles north-west.

EASTROP-next-BASINGSTOKE is a parish, adjoining on the east the town, of which it may be considered a suburb. The church of St. Mary was a plain brick building, supposed to be ancient, and in 1886 was rebuilt (except the chancel) of stone and flint. The register dates from the year 1750. The living is a discharged rectory, tithe rent-charge £85, gross yearly value £96, in the gift four turns out of five of the present rector, and held since 1879 by the Rev. Richard John Shields M.A. of University College, Durham. Part of Hackwood House and Park are in this parish. Lord Bolton, with the trustees of Mrs. Simpson, are the principal landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are roots, sainfoin, wheat, barley and oats. The area is 310 acres; rateable value, £1,655; the population in 1881 was 148.

SCHOOLS:—

Queen Mary's School, formerly the Holy Ghost school, was founded & endowed by Lord Sandys in 1555: it was rebuilt on a new site in 1855, under the direction of a scheme of the Court of Chancery, dated 11th June, 1852: a new school room was added in 1874, & in 1879 additional class rooms & dormitories were built, making accommodation for 150 boys; it is a handsome brick building, pleasantly situated on the Andover road, having 3 acres of recreation ground attached. The capitation fees for all boys is £8 yearly. The Crown has the patronage; the Queen is the visitor, & the governing body consists of 8 trustees, of whom 3 are elected by the Town Council, 3 by the Municipal Charity Trustees, the vicar & mayor being members ex-officio: the school has an endowment of £300 yearly, arising from land & houses, & the second master is entitled to £20 yearly from Sir James Lancaster's charity. There are 6 scholarships of £10 yearly, & 60 boys are now (1889) in attendance; Rev. James Herbert Chadwick M.A. head master

The Blue Coat School was founded in 1646 by Richard Aldworth esq. & has an endowment of about £270 yearly value, derived from rents & bequests. There are five exhibitions of £12 for boys attending elementary schools, & ten exhibitions of £16 yearly for boys attending schools of a higher class

A School Board of 7 members was formed May 14, 1885; Francis Samuel Chandler, Church street, clerk to the board; C. J. Finlinson, attendance officer

Board, situated off the Southern road, were opened on Feb. 16th, 1888, at a cost of £12,000; will accommodate 1,300 children; average attendance, 978; George Gage, master; Miss E. R. Sealey, girls' mistress; Miss Isabella Coleman, infants' mistress

Holy Ghost (mixed), built in 1884, for 70 children; average attendance, 45; Mrs. Evans, mistress

BAUGHURST is a village and parish, 7 miles north-west from Basingstoke, 5 east from Kingsclere, 5 south from Aldermaston station on the Hungerford and Reading branch of the Great Western railway, 10 south-east from Newbury, in the Western division of the county, hundred of Evingar, union and petty sessional division of Kingsclere, county court district of Newbury, rural deanery of Basingstoke north-east division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, on the Berkshire border. The old church, an ancient Norman structure, partly fell down in 1845, and the present church of St. Stephen is a building of flint and stone, erected on the same site and, in part, of the old materials, in the Early English style: it consists of chancel, nave, south porch and a spire on the south side of the nave, 100 feet high and containing 5 bells: the roof is of oak and finely ribbed: the interior has an oak screen, the gift of Archbishop Warham: the east chancel window is stained: the church was repaired and repaved with encaustic tiles in 1885, at a cost of about £400: there are 250 sittings, all free. The register, including Inhurst, dates from the year 1678. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £340, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1867 by the Rev. William Marriner M.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford. There are Wesleyan, Baptist and Primitive Methodist chapels here. The charities amount to £2 10s. yearly, and are distributed to the poor by the rector, in clothing. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are the lords of the manor. The principal landowner is the Duke of Wellington. The crops are the usual cereals. The soil is chiefly clay; subsoil, clay. The area is 1,682 acres; rateable value, £2,042; the population in 1881 was 487.

INHURST, 1 mile north, and HAM, 1 north-west, are tithings in this parish.

Parish Clerk, William Henry West.

BEAULIEU is a parish and liberty, 7 miles north-east from Lymington, 6 miles east from Brockenhurst station on the London and South Western and 3½ south-east from Beaulieu Road station on the Southampton and Dorchester railway, and 8 south-west from Southampton, viâ Hythe, in the New Forest division of the county, hundred of Beaulieu, union of New Forest, Southampton county court district, Lymington petty sessional division; it is situated on a navigable river bearing the same name, which has its rise near Lyndhurst, and flows into the Solent, or Isle of Wight channel. Beaulieu is on the road between Hythe and Lymington. On the eastern side formerly stood Beaulieu Abbey, founded by King John in 1204, noted in history as having afforded an asylum to Margaret of Anjou, wife of Henry VI. after the battle of Barnet, and also to Perkin Warbeck in the reign of Henry VII.: the ruins of the abbey are situated in a valley, surrounded by a stone wall which is mantled with ivy, and is in many places nearly perfect; the entrance is by a stone gateway, near to which is a square edifice, supposed to have been the abbey gate-house, but converted into a family seat after the Dissolution; the hall is vaulted: eastward are the cloisters of the old abbey and a long building which, from the extent and height of the apartments, is supposed to have been the dormitory of the abbey or domus conversorum. The present church was formerly the refectory of the ancient abbey: it is a stone building, in the Early English style, consisting of nave with strong buttresses, small belfry with 1 bell, and contains some stained glass: the pulpit, which is of stone, is very remarkable, and is similar to that at Magdalen College, Oxford: there are about 450 sittings. The register dates from the year 1654. The living is a donative peculiar, yearly value £350, in the gift of Lord Montagu J.P. and held since 1886 by the Rev. Robert Fraser Powles. The fairs, which are for horses and cattle, are held on the 15th April and 4th September. To the north-east is Beaulieu Heath, part of a large tract of heath-land joining the New Forest. On the coast are salterns. Palace House, an ancient residence, is the seat of Lord Montagu D.L. Selkirkshire, J.P. Hants, who is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is chiefly loam; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are the usual cereals. The area is 8,521 acres of land and 1,397 water and foreshore; rateable value, £6,413; the population in 1881 was 928.

BUCKLERSHARD is a hamlet in this parish, 2 miles south, on the west bank of the river Beaulieu. OTTERWOOD is a hamlet half-a-mile east; PENERLEY, 1 mile north-west. SOWLEY is a hamlet 5½ miles south-west, near the Solent; here is a large pond.

Parish Clerk, Walter Payne.

DENNY LODGE township was formed under an order of the Poor Law Board, dated 16th March, 1868, and was added to the New Forest Union by a subsequent order dated 6th April, 1868; it includes the following places: Ramnor Cottage, New Enclosure Cottage, Lady Cross Lodge, Whitley Ridge Lodge and Gardener's House in Whitley Ridge Walk; Denny Lodge and Beaulieu Road or Blackdown in Denny Lodge Walk; Kingshot, Sandy hill, Ipersbridge, Roughdown, Gatebridge, Cowleaze, Otterwood and Hill Top, mostly in Denny Lodge Walk; and Decoy Pond Farm, Culverley Cottage and part of Ipley Farm. Lord Montagu D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is clay and gravel; subsoil clay; the chief crops are barley, oats and wheat. The area is 16,599 acres; rateable value, £3,454: the population in 1881 was 287.

BISHOP'S SUTTON is a village and parish, 1½ miles east-south-east from New Alresford, the nearest railway station, 9 east from Winchester and 56 from London, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of Bishop's Sutton, union of Alresford, Winchester petty sessional division (Alresford district), Winchester county court district, rural deanery of Old Alresford and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Nicholas is an old Norman building of flints, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a small wooden western belfry containing 3 bells : there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1720. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £213, including 23 acres of glece, in the gift of Miss Helen Tanner, of Easthampton Lodge, Shobdon, Herefordshire, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Donald Marten Wilson M.A. of New College, Oxford. Endeavours are now (1889) being made to provide a vicarage house. The Bishops of Winchester formerly had a palace here. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners, who are lords of the manor, are, with Mrs. Wyndham, W. W. Bulpett esq. D.L., J.P. Arthur S. Yates esq. and Mrs. Brindley, the principal landowners. The soil is chalk and clay ; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and turnips. The area is 3,738 acres ; rateable value, £3,303 ; the population in 1881 was 463.

Parish Clerk, William James Corbett.

BISHOP'S WALTHAM is a small market town and head of a county court district and terminus of a short line from Botley junction on the London and South Western railway, 82 miles from London (and 66 by road), 14 north from Gosport, 10 south-south-east from Winchester and 8 north from Fareham, in the Eastern division of the county, in the hundred of Bishop's Waltham, Droxford petty sessional division and union, rural deanery of Bishop's Waltham and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The town is lighted with gas and supplied with water by two limited liability companies. The church of St. Peter is an ancient structure of stone and flint, in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave and aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower, surmounted at the south-west corner by a round turret, containing 6 bells and a clock, the pendulum of which weighs 492 lbs. : Dr. Ward, one of the translators of the Bible in the reign of James I. is buried in the chancel ; he was chaplain to Bishop Andrews, and rector of Bishop's Waltham : in 1849 the west end of the nave was completely rebuilt, at a cost of £284 ; and in 1868 the church was thoroughly restored, at a cost of £1,304, and an organ was added in 1873 : there are sittings for 1,000 persons, those in the nave being free. The register dates from the year 1612. The living is a rectory, tithes commuted in 1840, for £1,250, net yearly value about £900, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1833 by the Rev. William Brock M.A. of Queen's College, Oxford. Here is a Congregational chapel in Lower lane, erected in 1862, to seat 300 ; a Primitive Methodist chapel in Bank street, which will seat 80 ; and another of the same denomination at Waltham Chase, in this parish, built in 1869, to seat 100. There are numerous small charities distributed in doles to the poor of the parish chiefly on St. Thomas' day, the annual value of which, including the endowment to the grammar school, is about £150. To the south-west of the town are the ruins of Waltham Palace, once the palace of Henry de Blois, Bishop of Winchester, which was nearly demolished in the Civil Wars, but even now traces of its former magnificence may be discovered : the palace was visited by Henry II. who held a council of the nobles of the realm here (previous to his embarkation at Portsmouth for France) to concert measures for carrying on the Crusades. Waltham Chase was formerly a large common, but has been inclosed. There is a reading room and library of about 700 volumes in St. Peter's street, established in the year 1873. The market and fairs formerly held here have now become extinct. Lodge 2,335 Bud of Friendship Independent Order of Oddfellows, Manchester Unity, Southampton district, meets at the Crown hotel every alternate Monday. Court Royal Albert 4646 of the Ancient Order of Foresters hold their meetings first Monday in calendar month at King's Head inn, St. George's square. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are John Edwards esq. ; Robert Anthony Burrell esq. J.P. of Fairthorne, Botley ; Thomas Wynn Hornby esq. J.P. of the Hook, Titchfield ; Walter Jervis Long esq. of Preshaw House, Corhampton ; William Knapp Jonas esq. Mill House ; James Clark esq. and General Elrington C.B. of Vernon Hill House. The soil is partly clay ; other parts, sand and loam ; subsoil, gravel, chalk and flint. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 7,408 acres of land and 27 of water ; rateable value, £13,886 ; the population in 1881 was 2,484.

ASHTON, 1 mile north, and WEST HOE, three quarters of a mile south-east, are tithings ; DEAN, 1 mile north, and DUNDRIDGE, 1 mile north-east, are hamlets.

Parish Clerk, Ernest Arthur Grounsell.

BISTERNE is a tithing and parochial chapelry, 3 miles south from Ringwood station and 6 north from Christchurch harbour, in the New Forest division of the county, Fordingbridge county court district, union and petty sessional division of Ringwood, in the rural deanery of Fordingbridge western division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, situated in the valley of the Avon. The church of St. Paul, erected in 1842, chiefly through the exertions of the late John Mills esq. is a building of brick with stone dressings in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel and nave and a western bell turret containing one bell: the east and west windows are stained: the edifice is surmounted by a pinnacle at each corner and is almost entirely covered with ivy; it is the church for a district of considerable extent: there are 200 sittings. The register of marriages dates from the year 1864; baptisms and burials from 1874. The living is a chapelry, annexed to the vicarage of Ringwood, in the gift of King's College, Cambridge, and held since 1884 by the Rev. William Douglas Bodkin M.A. of that college; the Rev. Cecil Henry Salt is curate in charge. John Mills esq. J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner, and has a seat here called Bisterne Park, with a large plain mansion, pleasantly situated in a park of 150 acres. The soil is loam; subsoil, gravel. The crops are various. The population in 1881 was 650.

SANDFORD is a hamlet, 3 miles south-east of Ringwood.

BITTERNE is a village and ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1853 from the civil parish of South Stoneham, and under the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885," is included within the extended parliamentary borough of Southampton, is in the Southern division of the county, Mansbridge hundred, Southampton county court district and petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of Southampton, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, situated on the east bank of the estuary of the Itchen river, communicating by Northam bridge with Southampton, from which it is distant about 2 miles north-east, and by the Cobden Free bridge, higher up, with Southampton, St. Deny's and other places round. The Southampton and Netley railway passes near the village and has a station at Bitterne Road. The church of the Holy Saviour, consecrated in 1853, is a building of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, north porch and a tower, with spire, containing one bell: the south aisle was erected in 1885 at a cost of £1,600, which was defrayed by the late vicar: there are about 700 sittings. The register dates from the year 1853. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value commuted at £210 and pew rents, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1887 by the Rev. Edward Ballachey Hill M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford. Here are Congregational and Wesleyan chapels. Here is a reading room which was established by the late vicar. The Workman's Hall, in Brook road, was built in 1882, being founded by the late Miss Martin, of Bitterne Lodge; president, Vice-Admiral Thomas Hutchinson Mangles Martin J.P. of Bitterne Lodge. Bitterne Manor House, near Northam bridge, stands on part of the site of the Roman station of Clausentum; it is the seat of Steuart Macnaghten esq. J.P. Bitterne Grove is the seat of Mrs. Hamilton. Heathfield House, the seat of General Henry Phipps Raymond J.P. is a building in the Italian style, very prettily situated in extensive and well-timbered grounds, and commanding very fine views. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are W. H. Richardson esq. M.A. Captain Douglas & H. H. Culme Seymour esq. M.A. The population in 1881 was 2,063.
Parish Clerk, James Hodkinson.

Trinity church is a handsome stone building in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave and south aisle and south porch with western pointed spire containing one bell: it was completed in 1851 at a cost of £2,300: the old parish church is now used as a mortuary chapel: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1586. The living is a rectory, yearly value £244 10s. in the gift of and held since 1881 by the Rev. Reginald Whitehall Margesson B.A. of Hertford College, Oxford. On Blendworth Down is a barrow. Cadlington is the seat of Ashley G. Williams esq. Sir Arthur Clarke-Jervoise bart. is lord of the manor, owning nearly the whole of the parish, and Ashley G. Williams and G. A. Gale esqrs. are also landowners. The soil is of a chalky nature: subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 2,333 acres; rateable value, £1,721; the population in 1881 was 298.

WHITEHILL and FOREST GREEN are 1½ miles south-east on the Sussex border; WELLSWORTH, 2 miles south-east; PADNOLL, 2 miles south-west, in the forest of Bere.

BOARHUNT (or BURHUNT) is a small parish, 3 miles north-east from Fareham station, 8 north from Gosport, in the Southern division of the county, hundred of Portsdown, Fareham union and petty sessional division and Portsmouth county court district. The church of St. Nicholas is a building of flint and rubble, of date anterior to the Conquest, in the Early English style; hardly any of its ancient features have been altered, although at various times restored: it consists of chancel and nave, with small belfry containing one bell: the font is Saxon: there is a peculiarly interesting Saxon window in the chancel, obscured on the inside by a fine 16th century tomb to the Henslowe family: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1682. The living is a peculiar donative, consolidated with Southwick, under which place particulars will be found. NORTH BOARHUNT is about 1½ miles north from the church, and is the most populous part of the parish. Here is a small Wesleyan chapel. On Portsdown is a monument to Lord Nelson, erected about the year 1814, which serves as a landmark; it consists of a stone column about 120 feet high, having a bust of Nelson let into the stonework at the summit; at the base, facing the south, is the following inscription: "Consecrated to the memory of Lord Viscount Nelson, by the zealous attachment of all those who fought at Trafalgar, to perpetuate his triumph and their regret. MDCCCV." On the north side of the base is the following in smaller letters: "The British Fleet consisted of twenty-seven ships of the line: of France and Spain, thirty-three, nineteen of which were taken or destroyed." Fort Nelson is extensive, and will hold guns of large calibre and forms one of the hill defences of Portsmouth harbour. The view from Portsdown is very fine, overlooking Portsmouth harbour, its shipping, the towns of Portsmouth, Gosport and Fareham, and the Isle of Wight with the Channel. Thomas Thistlethwayte esq. is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is loam and clay; subsoil, chalk and clay; market gardening is extensively carried on. The area is 2,004 acres; rateable value, £1,735; the population in 1881 was 288.

BOLDRE is a very extensive parish, extending into the New Forest, 2½ miles south-east from Brockenhurst station, 97½ miles from London, 15½ south-west from Southampton and 1 north from Lymington, and comprises the tithings of PILLEY and WARBORNE, WALHAMPTON, BATTRAMSLEY, SOUTH BADDESLEY and EAST BOLDRE (South Baddesley will be found in this work under a separate heading; Sway, formerly part of this parish, now forms a separate parish): it is in the New Forest division of the county, Lymington union, petty sessional division and county court district, partly in the east division of the hundred of New Forest and partly in the hundred of Christchurch, rural deanery of Fordingbridge eastern division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester: the river Boldre flows through the parish. The church of St. John, not mentioned in Domesday Book, built circa 1120-1130, probably by Richard de Redvers Sr. situated, like almost every church in the Hampshire woodlands, on rising ground, is a very ancient edifice of stone, in the Norman and Early English styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch, and on the south side of the chancel a low embattled tower, partly rebuilt in 1697, and containing 7 bells: the fabric of the church belongs chiefly to the 12th century, the oldest portion, including a Norman arcade of three arches, being on the south side: in the belfry is a piscina, in good preservation, also a fine monumental bust, in alabaster, of John Kempe esq. who represented the borough of Lymington in the reign of Charles I.; a striking east window has been inserted by Mrs. J. Lane Shrubb, of Boldre Grange, in memory of her husband: the west window is a memorial to Charles Winston esq. author of several standard works on painted glass: the churchyard is a picturesque spot, surrounded with stately forest trees and underwood: here was buried William Gilpin M.A.Oxon. who died April 5th, 1804, sometime vicar of Boldre and prebendary of Salisbury, well known as the author of "Forest Scenery:" his grave is on the north side of the churchyard: the church was restored in 1855, and has sittings for over 200. The register dates from the year 1596 and contains an entry of the marriage of the poet Robert Southey to his second wife, Caroline Anne Bowles, 4th June, 1839. The living is a discharged vicarage, yearly value about £300, in the gift of John Peyto Charles Shrubb esq. and held since 1875 by the Rev. Edward Henry Elers M.A. of University College, Oxford. The extensive district from and including the manor of Christchurch, with the Priory, to the New Forest on the Beaulieu side, was granted by Henry I. to de Redvers; the Earldom of Devon was later granted to this family. Warborne is the seat of David Jones esq. and Vicar's Hill the residence of Edward Henry Pember esq. Q.C., M.A., J.P. Boldre Grange is a spacious residence, the seat of Mrs. Shrubb, commanding a lovely prospect of the river Boldre, Lymington and the Solent. The principal landowners are J. P. Heseltine esq. John Morant esq. David Jones esq. W. Ingram Whitaker esq. Mrs. Shrubb, James Knapton-Knapton esq. and E. H. Pember esq. J.P., Q.C. The soil is clay and loam; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 12,022 acres of land and 1,233 water and foreshore; rateable value, £9,476; the population in 1881 was 2,145.

Parish Clerk, Albert George Jenvey, Pilley.

BOTLEY is a parish, small market town and junction station on the London and South Western railway, 79 miles from London, 4 south-west from Bishop's Waltham and 6 north-east from Southampton, situated on the river Humble, which is here navigable for barges, in the Southern division of the county, hundred of Mansbridge, Southampton petty sessional division and county court district, South Stoneham union, rural deanery of Bishop's Waltham, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The station, on the Southampton, Gosport and Portsmouth branch of the South-Western railway, is half a mile north-east from the town, and from here branches the line to Bishop's Waltham. The church of All Saints, consecrated in 1836, is a building of white brick in the Early English style, consisting of chancel (added in 1859), nave, aisles, west porch, and a western tower, with clock and four pinnacles, containing 3 bells: the old parish church stood a mile from the town and part of the nave still remains: there are 420 sittings. The register dates from the year 1679. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £391, net yearly value £348, including 12 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of and held since 1855 by the Rev. John Morley Lee M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, hon. canon of Winchester, rural dean of Bishop's Waltham, and surrogate. Here is a Congregational chapel. £7 10s. from Penford's charity is distributed yearly. Considerable trade is done here in timber and flour. A market for corn and cattle is held every alternate Monday. The market house, erected in 1848, at an expense of between £600 and £700, is a building of brick and stone, and contains a portrait of the late James Warner esq. one of the founders of the Botley and South Hants Farmers' Club. The celebrated William Cobbett long resided at a farm here. Two portions of the ecclesiastical district of St. James, West End, known as Botley Gate and Long Common, as well as a portion of the parish of Droxford, known as Steeple Court, have been united for all ecclesiastical purposes to the parish of Botley. Edmund Warner esq. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Tudor Crawshay esq. of Forest House, Pontypridd; John Gater esq. C. E. Carey esq. and Henry Jenkyns esq. C.B., M.A. of Botley Hill House, Curdridge. The soil is various; subsoil, loam. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,830 acres and 20 of water; rateable value, £5,239; the population in 1881 was 1,077, including part of Hedge End.

BOURNEMOUTH.

BOURNEMOUTH is a rising and very pleasant watering-place, and municipal borough, in the parishes of Christchurch and Holdenhurst, parliamentary borough of Christchurch, New Forest division of the county, petty sessional division of Ringwood, union and hundred of Christchurch, Fordingbridge rural deanery western division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese; it is 5 miles north-east from Poole, 5 west-south-west from Christchurch, 104 from London by road and 107½ by rail. There are lines connecting this place with the South Western system, a line, opened 1888, from Brockenhurst through Christchurch to the East station, reduced the distance from London to 107½ miles, and a line from Poole to the West station; these two stations have been rebuilt and are spacious red brick structures in the Queen Anne style; there is a line now connecting the two stations.

The town has increased rapidly, and contains many capacious and elegant mansions and villas, and is much frequented by invalids on account of its mild and genial atmosphere, its facilities for bathing, the pine woods and the beautiful scenery in its neighbourhood. Bournemouth is preeminently adapted for a watering-place for summer and winter; in the latter season it is sheltered from cold winds.

Sir James Clarke and Drs. Aitkin and Granville, in their respective publications on climates, constitutions and watering places, strongly recommend this favoured spot, for preserving the health that is good, and strengthening the constitution that is impaired.

The pine woods and groves for which this district is justly celebrated contain, it is computed, nearly three millions of trees, composed of the following species:—the Pinus Sylvestris (Scotch Fir), Pinus Maritama, or Pinaster (the clustered Pine), Pinus Austriaca, or Nigricans (Black Austrian Pine), Pinus Strobus (the Weymouth Pine, or White Pine of the Americans), and the Pinus Insignis, or Californica (Oregon Pitch Pine); the medicinal properties thrown off by these is invaluable to those possessing a weak constitution and suffering from pulmonary disorders.

The pier, opened 1880, is of iron, with pitch pine floor, designed by and erected under the superintendence of the late Eugenius Birch esq. C.E.; its length is 838 feet; for a distance of 650 feet it is 35 feet wide, but the remainder is 110 feet; it also contains handsome and sheltered seats with central band stand: at the entrance there is an ornamental structure and waiting rooms, and over the centre portion is a clock tower: running round the exterior of the broad end and passing under one part of the pier is an inclined landing stage for steamers and boats, having a length of about 1,060 feet: the total cost was £23,000.

The harbour of Poole is entered from the Great Bay, west of the Isle of Wight, and is sub-divided into the Christchurch, Hengistbury, and Poole Bays, Bournemouth being situated at the centre of the latter bay. The splendid scenery of hill and dale, studded with well-built residences, forms a picturesque view; the terraces, slopes, and roads are irregularly laid out. On the borders and in the vicinity of Bournemouth are many handsome residences of the nobility and gentry; the country consists partly of wood and forest lands, and partly of common and down lands, covered with heath and gorse.

The town hitherto governed by a Board of Improvement Commissioners of 17 members; but application has been made to Parliament for an Act creating this town a municipal borough, and for a charter of incorporation, under which a division into wards is contemplated.

St. Peter's ecclesiastical parish was formed in 1845 from the civil parishes of Christchurch and Holdenhurst. The church of St. Peter was originally a mere sea-side village church: to this a south aisle was added, afterwards a north aisle; later a clerestory was built over the roof of the old chapel, the last remains of which were then cleared away; it is in the Modern Gothic style and has chancel, chancel aisles, north and south transepts, south porch, and a western tower with pinnacles, containing 8 bells, and spire, together rising to a height of 195 feet (the organ is on the north side): there are two vestries, one over the other, for which the fall in the ground affords facilities; they are for the clergy and choristers: the chancel has oak roof and the sanctuary a groined stone roof: there is an elaborately-sculptured reredos, which was erected by Mr. Earp: on either side of the sacrarium, in the eastern bay, is an inlaying of marble and alabaster, and in the next arcade sedilia: the two western bays have rich iron grilles dividing them from the transepts: the seats for the choir are of oak, and richly carved: the piers are generally clustered shafts of marble and stone, the marble used being Purbeck and Devon: the pulpit is an elaborate specimen of carving, by Mr. Earp. The whole was carried out from the design of the late E. Street esq. Two stained memorial windows—one to the late vicar, the other to the wife of Benjamin Lancaster esq.—have been inserted; the former is at the north end of the western transept and the latter at the west end of the church: there are 1,250 sittings, of which 400 are free. The churchyard has been laid out with great taste, the arrangement of the graves being quite unique, some being in arbours and others on terraces; many of the memorials are very handsome, several being of Sicilian marble: a handsome stone cross which stands in the churchyard on the south side of the church was erected in 1871 at the cost of a gentleman who had been a liberal contributor to the church. The register dates from the year 1845. The living is a vicarage, with an endowment of about £150 yearly and residence, in the gift of Sir G. E. M. Tapps-Gervis-Meyrick bart. and held from 1881 by the Rev. George Stopford Ram M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford, who died Nov. 1889.

The ecclesiastical parish of the Holy Trinity was formed in 1867 from Holdenhurst civil parish. The church, erected in 1869 from designs by Charles Fergusson esq. of Carlisle, is a cruciform building of diapered red brick, in the Lombardo-Gothic style, and consists of apsidal chancel with small aisles (the northern one containing the organ chamber and vestry), clerestoried nave of five bays and aisles; in 1877 a tower was erected, which forms the main entrance from the old Christchurch road and stands to the south of the western porch, being connected with the church by a corridor, extending from north to south; the tower is of brick, in harmony with the body of the church and rises to a height of 112 feet to the apex of a saddle-back roof containing 5 bells and a clock: the stained east window, of seven lights, was erected by public subscription to the memory of Robert Kerley esq. the donor of the site of the church: the pulpit is of alabaster and coloured marble, erected by the congregation in memory of Captain Maxwell Falcon R.N. in 1872: there are sittings for 1,000, of which 350 are free. The register dates from the year 1867. The living is a vicarage, endowed with £150 and pew rents and house, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1867 by the Rev. Philip Frank Eliot M.A. of Trinity College, Oxford, canon of Windsor.

The ecclesiastical parish of St. Clement was formed in 1872 from Holdenhurst civil parish. The church, situated in Knole road, Boscombe, and erected in 1872, is a building of stone, with Bath stone dressings, in the 14th century style, from designs by Sedding, and consists of chancel, nave of six bays, north aisle, with lady chapel and north porch: the entire cost of site, building of church, schools and vicarage house, and of the endowment of living, was defrayed by Edmund Christy esq. of The Knole: a very handsome reredos and a stained east window (the latter in memory of the late Lieut. Christy), were added in 1883, by Joseph Christy esq. brother of the founder, at a cost of £2,000: there are sittings for about 500 persons. The register dates from the year 1872. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £283, with residence, in the gift of Edmund Christy esq. and held since 1880 by the Rev. William Purton M.A. of Trinity College, Oxford.

The ecclesiastical parish of St. Michael was formed in 1874 from the parish of St. Peter. The church of St. Michael and All Angels is a building of stone, with Bath stone dressings, in the Early English style, and was erected in 1876 from designs by F. Norman Shaw: at present it consists of chancel, nave and aisles, south porch, to which it is intended to add a tower: a reredos of Caen stone and alabaster with red marble shafts was added in 1884: a stained east window was erected in 1883, in memory of the late George Durrant esq. by his niece, Miss Durrant; the subject is illustrative of the text, "Come unto me all ye that labour:" a handsome marble pulpit has very recently (1889) been placed in the church as a memorial of the mission conducted by the Rev. H. Armstrong Hale in the church in 1887; the pulpit consists of a drum supported by a massive column and a light arcade of smaller pillars; the pulpit has five panels, the centre one being an alabaster carving of St. Michael triumphing over Satan; the side panels are filled by carvings of subjects from the old and new testaments; the cost was about £300: there are 860 sittings, of which 460 are free. The register dates from the year 1874. The living is a vicarage, endowed with £150 yearly, in the alternate gift of Miss Durrant, of Norwich, and Mrs. J. B. Wanklyn, of Cheam, Surrey, and held since 1881 by the Rev. Frederick E. Toyne.

St. Stephen's ecclesiastical parish was formed in 1882 out of the parish of St. Peter, the temporary church of St. Stephen having been erected and opened for service in August, 1881, when the foundation stone of the present church was laid, which was consecrated June 10th, 1885:

it is designed as a memorial to the late Rev. Alexander Morden Bennett, founder and first vicar of St. Peter's church: at present the nave, with aisles, only has been erected; this is clerestoried, and of six bays, the western bay being the baptistery: a handsome marble font has been placed in the south aisle in memory of Elizabeth Brackenbury at a cost of about £200, which was subscribed by the ladies of the congregation: in the southern transept is the organ: the walls are of brick faced outwards with Swanage stone, and internally with Bath ashlar work: in October (1889), being the first anniversary of the death of the present vicar's wife, it is intended to place a memorial marble pulpit at a cost of £400, which is subscribed by the members of the congregation: J. L. Pearson esq. of London, was the architect, and the builders Messrs. E. Abley and Co. of Salisbury: the church when completed is to consist of chancel, nave with double aisles, transepts, a chapel opening out of the north transept, vestries on the south of the chancel and a western tower with spire, together 220 feet high: it is estimated the total cost of the church will be £30,000: His Royal Highness Prince Oscar of Sweden was married at this church 17th March, 1888: there are about 700 sittings. The living is a vicarage; the future presentation is to be in the trustees of Keble College, Oxford, the Rev. Alexander Sykes Bennett M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford, son of the late Rev. A. M. Bennett, having been appointed the first vicar.

St. Paul's church, situate at the junction of St. Paul's and Littledown roads, is a chapel of ease to Holy Trinity; a portion of the building having been consecrated in February 1881; the church, with additions, was reopened in Sept. 1887; it is of Purbeck stone, with Bath stone dressings, in the Early English style, and consists of apsidal chancel, nave of two bays, north aisle, south porch and low square tower rising from the east end of nave: the sittings are for 750 persons, about half that number being free.

St. Swithun's church, Gervis road east, is a chapel of ease to St. Peter's, and was erected in 1876: it is of Purbeck stone with Bath stone facings, and at present (1889) consists of chancel and temporary nave: there is a very handsome reredos in white marble, the work of Mr. Earp: the building at present has seats for about 400, but when the design is carried out and the whole completed there will be 800 sittings.

St. Ambrose, Westbourne, a chapel of ease to St. Peter's, is a brick and stone building, erected in 1880, and consists of chancel and part of nave; it will seat 350 persons, and cost about £2,800.

The Catholic Oratory of the Sacred Heart is an edifice of stone, in the Gothic style, erected in 1875, consisting of chancel, nave, aisle and south porch, west embattled tower with pinnacles; the tower is 80 feet high and is furnished with an Angelus bell: the High altar, St. Joseph's altar and Lady altar, each with its reredos, are of Caen stone, richly carved: it will seat about 400 persons.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian church occupied a temporary building in 1857 at the foot of Richmond hill, which was replaced by a stone building in 1872, at a cost of £4,000: in 1887 a new site was obtained in the Exeter road, when the present handsome Gothic structure was erected: the building is of Purbeck stone, with Bath stone dressings: it consists of nave, aisles, tower with spire 140 feet in height, situate at the north-east angle: the rostrum, which is a noticeable feature of the interior, is placed at the south end and at the opposite or north end is a gallery for organ, choir and worshippers: the cost of building, including site, sessions house and class room for Sunday school, was about £12,000, and there are sittings for about 700.

The Society of Friends erected a meeting-house in Avenue road in 1871: the building is of red brick, and will seat about 90 persons.

The Baptist chapel, Lansdowne road, erected in 1876, at a cost of about £4,000, from designs by C. C. Creeke esq. is a building of white brick with stone facings, in the Gothic style, the front being of Bath and Swanage stone: it will seat 650.

The Richmond Hill Congregational church is a cruciform building of stone, and opened for public worship in 1859, at a cost of nearly £4,000, and enlarged in 1872: it will seat 800 persons.

The East Cliff Congregational church, situate in the Holdenhurst road, was erected in 1879, at a cost of £4,000, on the site of a Mission Hall: it is of white brick with Bath stone facings, and having a tower 90 feet high, in which a clock has recently (1889) been placed: the church has now been enlarged, and school-room, new class rooms, lecture hall and library, also a house for the minister built, the whole alterations and additions amounting to about £3,200: the sittings are of pitch pine, and seats are provided for 900 persons.

The Punshon Memorial Wesleyan church is a stone building, chiefly in the Early English style, and consists of nave, chancel, tower, with spire, also minister's vestry: the cost of the building, including site, was £15,178 and was opened for divine worship in June, 1886: the sittings are for about 700 persons: annexed are schools with class-rooms.

The Primitive Methodists have a small chapel off the Commercial road, and the Brethren hold services in the Belle Vue assembly rooms, and the Unitarians hold a service every Sunday morning at the West Cliff assembly rooms.

The Cemetery, with mortuary chapel, constructed in 1878, by the Burial Board, is situated on the Wimborne road, about a mile from the centre of the town: the chapel consists of nave, chancel, transepts, tower and spire one hundred feet high, containing one bell; at the base of the tower there are finely carved figures of the four Evangelists: the transepts and chancel comprise the consecrated portion, while the nave is the Nonconformist section: the area of the ground is twenty acres, and the total cost was £20,000.

The Gas and Water Company's works are situated about a mile west of the town; the water supply is obtained from the neighbourhood of Longham, Dorset, and is of the purest quality.

The Royal Victoria Hospital, erected as a memorial of the jubilee of Her Majesty's reign, is built of Purbeck stone with Portland stone dressings, and contains on the basement floor, the heating chambers and coal cellars; and on the ground floor, house surgeon's sitting and bed rooms and matron's sitting and bed rooms: in the east wing are men's surgical ward, nurses' day-room, separation ward and operating theatre; and in west wing, out-patients' apartments, general waiting room, consulting rooms, dispensary and mortuary: first floor central, women's surgical wards, spare wards and committee rooms; and east wing, women's six-bed medical ward, with bath room: there are 24 beds: the architects are Messrs. Creeke and Gifford, of Bournemouth: the site, which is valued at £1,200, was given by the late W. Clapcott Dean esq.

The National Sanatorium for Consumption and Diseases of the Chest, is a splendid stone building for the reception of convalescent consumptive patients of both sexes, and for those suffering from other diseases of the chest, who may benefit by a temporary residence in a dry and salubrious locality: this institution was opened in 1855; the cost was about £15,000; Arthur W. Blomfield esq. now Sir Arthur Blomfield, was the architect; it is supported partially by voluntary contributions and contains 62 beds; it is lighted throughout by the electric light.

Firs Home for Advanced Consumption.—The Home is intended for (A) Advanced cases of chest disease, which require removal from any of the Institutions in Bournemouth intended solely for convalescents, preference being in all instances given to patients from the National Sanatorium. (B) Advanced cases of chest disease, if resident in private dwellings in Bournemouth. (Except under special circumstances, no case will be admitted under this class which has not been resident at least one month.) (C) Patients nominated for the Sanatorium awaiting their turn for admission: it will hold 20 patients.

The Herbert Convalescent Home is situated in the Alumhurst road, Westbourne, and was founded as a memorial to the late Lord Herbert of Lea, and was opened in 1867; the total cost of the buildings, with fittings, was about £5,500. The committee of the Salisbury Infirmary are entitled to the use of one half of the beds, the remainder are appropriated to patients who are recommended by subscribers and benefactors from all parts. The Home is supported by voluntary subscriptions and donations, and is managed by a committee, and under the charge of the matron, Miss Lucy Barton.

The Alexandra Hospital for children with hip disease (Helen branch), West Hill road, was established in 1874, and has 21 beds.

London Samaritan Society, Shaftesbury Lodge, Poole road, is open for the reception of patients from all parts of the kingdom, irrespective of religious tenets.

The Hahnemann Convalescent Home, situated in West Hill road, was established in 1878 for convalescent cases, treated on homœopathic principles; 27 patients can be received.

Bournemouth is divided into two sections by the brook from which the name is derived, along the banks of which a beautifully laid out pleasure ground extends for fully a mile. From the centre of the town diverge roads leading westward to Poole, eastward to Christchurch and north to Wimborne. The commodious and spacious reading-rooms and library, which are pleasantly situated on the beach, are well supplied with the London and provincial newspapers and periodicals; the library consists of several hundreds of standard and useful works: adjoining are the baths.

The Hotel Mont Doré is situated on an eminence near the centre of the town. Adjoining the hotel is a large bath establishment, containing Turkish and other baths, and a winter garden has lately been added, comprising a covered lawn tennis court and concert hall.

The principal hotels are :—The Royal Bath, which occupies a commanding position near the beach and overlooking the bays ; it stands in its own grounds of 5 acres and was considerably enlarged in 1887. The Imperial, a new and noble building in a commanding position among the pine woods and near to the beach. The Highcliffe, on the West Cliff (the highest point in Bournemouth), which has a frontage of 150 feet facing due south. The Belle Vue and Pier, on the beach opposite the pier and facing the sea due south, is the oldest established hotel in Bournemouth. The Royal Exeter was visited in April, 1888, by Her Imperial Majesty the Empress of Austria and Her Royal and Imperial Highness the Archduchess Valérie. The Boscombe Chine hotel, is beautifully situated in considerable grounds in the most prominent position on the East Cliff, facing south and commands magnificent views of the west end of the Isle of Wight and the English channel ; it is close to the Boscombe Chine gardens, beach and pier. The Pembroke, situated on the West Cliff and commanding a fine view of the business portion of the town, is a commercial house, though ample accommodation is provided for private families ; and the Lansdowne, situated close to the pine woods and near the sea.

Bourne Hall, Poole road, was opened in 1880 as a residence for those who, not being absolute invalids, find it to their advantage to reside in Bournemouth for climatic benefit, sea air and rest.

The Bournemouth Club, situated close to the pier, at the foot of the West Cliff, is a well-arranged building in the Classic style of architecture, from designs by Messrs. Tuck and Burton, erected in 1871 ; the present number of members (1889) is about 194. The Yelverton Club, for tradesmen, is in Yelverton road ; the present number of members (1889) is about 100.

The Shaftesbury Hall and Gymnasium Company have erected buildings from the designs of Messrs Crecke and Gifford, architects. The site is in the St. Peter's road, a central position near the Arcade and General Post Office, and the buildings form two distinct structures. The Shaftesbury Hall and Gymnasium comprise a large and lofty hall, about 70 feet long and 50 feet wide, approached by an arched porch and vestibule from the St. Peter's road and by a spacious corridor from the old Christchurch road, and three other occasional exits or entrances in case of crowding or necessity. Approached from this vestibule are two cloakrooms and the necessary offices, also two flights of stairs leading to a raised gallery over them. At the north end of the hall is a raised platform, and from it are entered three committee-rooms and offices, and a staircase leading to the gymnasium floor. Under the hall there is a gymnasium 18 feet high, 48 feet by 57 feet, with two dressing-rooms adjoining, and approached by steps leading from the St. Peter's road, and the stairs from committee-room. The elevation is of red brick with Bath stone dressings and carvings.

The Cairns Memorial House was purchased by a committee appointed for that purpose, as a memorial to the late Earl Cairns, who was the president of the Bournemouth branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, and forms the centre of the Bournemouth Y. M. C. A. and a seaside home for rest and recreation for young men. It comprises on the basement floor (which, owing to the fall of the site, is wholly above ground at the back) a spacious dining-room with kitchen and offices and attendants' living and bed rooms. On the ground floor there are rooms connected by double doors, extending 46 feet from front to rear, used as reading-rooms, also on this floor are the Young Men's parlour and secretary's room. The first floor is nearly occupied by a large lecture hall, 35 feet by 23, a library 23 by 17, and a second parlour. The upper floors are divided into sixteen dormitories and a bath-room. The Association has a flourishing boating club with its boat house situated on the beach.

The Digby Institute, situated in Beckford road, is an imposing and lofty pile of buildings centrally situated, built of red bricks with elaborate stone dressings and was designed and built by Messrs. Lawson & Donkin, local architects and builders. It is the home of the Y. W. C. A. : it holds over 100 girls and is very successful under the care of Miss Wingfield Digby (after whom the institute is named). There are two large public meeting-rooms of about 60 feet by 40, also spacious dining and drawing rooms and a large number of good bedrooms. There is a lift and the premises are well fitted up throughout. The principal part of the ground floor consists of shops which are let to various tradesmen.

The Post Office, erected in 1880, at a cost of about £2,500, is of Bath stone, in the Classic style, and contains, in basement, sorting room, battery room, and stores, on ground floor, public office, 31ft. by 21ft. sorting office 33ft. by 22ft. and postmaster's room ; on the first floor, letter carriers' office and instrument rooms.

The Government School of Art (in connection with the South Kensington Museum), was established here in 1880, and is held at 101 Old Christchurch road.

There are four banks, all situated in the Old Christchurch road, namely, the Wilts and Dorset Limited, the National Provincial Bank of England Limited, Messrs. Eliot, Pearce & Co. and the Dorsetshire Bank (R. & R. Williams & Co.).

The Theatre is situated in the Albert road.

Bijou Hall, Albert road.

Four newspapers are published here : "The Bournemouth Visitors' Directory," twice a week ; the "Bournemouth Observer," twice a week ; "The Bournemouth Gazette" and "Bournemouth Guardian," weekly.

Bournemouth is the head quarters of the 4th Volunteer Battalion of the Hampshire Regiment and of the 2nd Volunteer Dorset Brigade Southern Division Royal Artillery.

On the West Cliff is the Coast Guard station, having 1 officer and 6 men attached : from this spot are the most magnificent sea views in or near Bournemouth : on the right, or south-west, are the Isle of Purbeck, Corfe Castle, Poole Harbour and Branksome Tower : on the left, or south-east, the Isle of Wight and the Needles, and Hengistbury, or Christchurch Head.

Sir G. E. M. Tapps-Gervis-Meyrick bart. is lord of the manor of the hundred of Westover, and, with James Edward Cooper-Dean esq. J.P. principal landowner.

The population in 1881 was 7,544 in St. Peter's parish ; 2,396 in Holy Trinity parish ; 4,371 in St. Clement's parish ; 3,812 in St. Michael's and All Angels parish ; and 16,859 in the Local Board district, which includes 64 in the National Sanatorium and 35 in the Herbert Convalescent Home.

Rateable value of the town £218,982.

Boscombe is an important and rapidly rising suburb of Bournemouth, situated on the coast to the eastward, and is now extending towards the London and South Western line of railway, which divides it from Springbourne ; it is separated from Bournemouth by the Boscombe Chine Gardens, which are a great attraction, and form one of the approaches to the beach and pier. A railway station has been lately opened here and has proved a great convenience to the neighbourhood. A portion of Boscombe is included within the ecclesiastical parish of Pokesdown. Boscombe Pier, the property of the Boscombe Pier Company Limited, was opened 29th July, 1889, for steamboat traffic and promenade, the landing stage for the embarkation and disembarkation of passengers is 150 feet long and continued round the end of the pier, and has a depth of 14 feet of water. The total length of pier is 600 feet, with a breadth of 22 feet, and affords a comfortable promenade ; there are continuous seats around the structure with 15 shelters of ornamental design interspersd. The cost was about £12,000. The engineer was Archibald Smith esq. and the contractors Messrs. Howell, of Poole. There are here many houses of good class occupied by resident gentry. Here is a temporary iron church called St. George's-in-the-Wood, which is attached to the vicarage of St. Clement's : it has sittings for about 200 persons. The Baptist chapel is a plain Gothic building of white brick with stone facings, erected in 1875, at a cost of about £1,200, and will seat 250 persons. The Congregational church, situate in the Christchurch road, is a stone building in the Early English style, erected in 1887, at a cost of £1,800, and has sittings for 300. The Wesleyan chapel, in Ashley road, is a brick building with stone facings, and has sittings for about 260. The orphanage and industrial home of the Sisters of Bethany, founded in 1875, has for its object the care, teaching and training for service of children who are orphans, or who, from any other circumstances, have a special claim upon charity : they come from all parts, but the greater number from the poorest localities of the east end of London, and from other large towns ; they are received from the age of two and remain till fit for service. The Convent of the Cross, Boscombe park, boarding and day school for young ladies, is under the patronage of the Catholic Archbishop of Westminster and the Bishop of Portsmouth, and is situated on the sea coast, near Boscombe station : the extensive grounds are thickly covered with pine trees : every facility is given for sea bathing : the course of instruction given by the nuns, comprises a sound English education ; pupils may be prepared for local examinations ; English, French and German nuns teach their respective languages : the establishment is in connection with others of the institute in France and Belgium. Here is also the Boscombe Cottage Hospital and Provident Dispensary, established in 1876, and containing 12 beds and 1 cot. Elm Temperance Hall, Haviland road, has seats for 300.

SPRINGBOURNE is a suburb north of Bournemouth, from which it is separated by the railway. Here is a Wesleyan chapel, erected in 1867 ; also a Primitive Methodist chapel, erected in 1884.

FREEMANTLE is a district adjoining Boscombe, the whole of which is within the ecclesiastical district of Pokesdown.

BRADLEY is a parish and small village, 6 miles north-west from Alton, 8 south from Basingstoke, 7 north-east from New Alresford, in the Northern division of the county, Bermondspit hundred, Basingstoke union, petty sessional division and county court district, Alton rural deanery western division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of All Saints, which is very ancient, has a chancel, nave, south aisle and an arcade of three arches, south porch, and is surmounted by a dovecote tower, in which is 1 bell: it was almost rebuilt in 1876 of flints and seated with open benches: there are 120 sittings. The registers date from the year 1725. The living is a rectory, yearly value £185, with 21 acres of glebe, and residence, which was restored in 1884, in the gift of Charles J. E. Rumbold esq. and held since 1882 by the Rev. Alfred Edwin Daniel B.A. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge. Here are two charities producing £18 5s. yearly, distributed at the sole discretion of the rector. In Bradley Woods there are the remains of an old castle called "Hurst Castle" or "Bradley Castle." A. F. Jeffreys esq. J.P. Burkham House, Bentworth, and J. H. Hope esq. of Preston House, Preston Candover (who is lord of the manor), are the principal landowners. The soil is light; subsoil, chalk or gravel. The usual crops are grown. The area is 975 acres; rateable value, £592; the population in 1881 was 75.

BRAMDEAN is a parish, 3½ miles north-east from Ropley station on the Mid Hants branch of the South Western railway, 5 miles south-by-east from New Alresford, 9 east from Winchester, in the Eastern division of the county, Meon Stoke hundred, Alresford union, Alresford district of the Winchester petty sessional division, county court district of Winchester, rural deanery of Old Alresford and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of SS. Simon and Jude is a small flint edifice, dating back to the beginning of the thirteenth century and consisting of a chancel, transept, nave, south aisle and north porch, and small spire containing 2 bells; the south transept was added when the building was restored: there are several stained windows, one to the memory of the Hon. Mrs. Legge, made at Metz; another to the Rev. Egerton A. Bagot; a third, in two lights, to General Cowper Coles; and a fourth as a memorial of Field Marshal Sir William Gomm; the three-light east window in the chancel represents the Crucifixion, and the four single lights the Evangelists; there is a small window in the tower representing the Baptism of Our Lord: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1573. The living is a rectory, yearly value £226 10s., tithe rent-charge £210, with residence and 11 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1887 by the Rev. Henry Llewellyn Hussey M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. The charities amount to £9 yearly, derived from a gift of £6 left by the Hon. Mrs. Legge for the respectable poor and £3 per year left by Mr. Turner to be given to three respectable families of the Church of England. On the estate of William H. J. Greenwood esq. in this parish is the site of the celebrated Roman pavement, the remains of which are in the possession of the Winchester poratcorion. Woodcote Manor, the residence of Fraucis Seymour Haden esq. is an Elizabethan mansion standing in a park of 50 acres. There are three manors within the parish, one belonging to the see of Winchester, one to Magdalen College, Oxford, and Woodcote Royal manor, which belongs to the Greenwood family. The principal landowners are W. H. J. Greenwood, Edwin Budd esqs. the Rev. the Hon. Augustus Legge and Magdalen College, Oxford. The soil is light loam and gravel; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and turnips. The area is 1,237 acres; rateable value, £1,533; and population in 1881, 262.

WOODCOTE is about half a mile east. Bramdean Common, 1½ miles north-east, covers 150 acres, half of which is wood. A small chapel of ease (iron) was erected here in 1883.

BRAMLEY is a parish and pleasant village, 5 miles north from Basingstoke, 4 south from Mortimer station on the Basingstoke and Reading branch of the Great Western railway, in the Northern division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, union and county court district of Basingstoke, rural deanery of Basingstoke north-eastern division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester: a feeder of the river Loddon traverses the parish. The church of St. James is an ancient structure of flint and stone in the Norman and later styles, consisting of chancel, nave, and an embattled western tower with pinnacles, erected in 1635-40, restored in 1885, and now containing 6 bells, and a south transept attached to Beaurepaire House, and known as the Brocas aisle: the old doorway, long walled up, but now visible on the interior, is of the Norman or Transition period; it was discovered in 1874, and above it, beneath the plaster, was found a very ancient and interesting fresco painting of the murder of Thomas à Becket, assigned to the thirteenth century: and there are also other remnants of fresco painting, which seems to have originally covered the whole of the interior walls: the present windows date from the Perpendicular period: the chancel is separated from the nave by a Perpendicular rood-screen, above which stood at the time of the Reformation a rood or image and a rood-loft, removed in 1573: in the south chapel is a marble monument with recumbent effigy, by Banks, to Bernard Brocas: there are mural tablets to Thomas Shaw D.D., F.R.S., the celebrated Oriental traveller, principal of St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, professor of Greek, and sometime vicar of Bramley, where he died 15 August, 1751, and likewise to Lough and Green, former vicars: there are also several fine brasses: there are about 200 sittings. The register dates from 1580, and the churchwardens' account books from 1523. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value from tithe rent-charge £150, with residence, in the gift of the Provost and Fellows of Queen's College, Oxford, who grant a beneficial lease of the great tithes, £510, with the rectory house, to the vicar for the time being: the Rev. Charles Eddy M.A. late fellow and tutor of that college, has been vicar since 1869. The Duke of Wellington, who is lord of the manor, Alfred B. Welch-Thomson esq. of Beaurepaire, and Queen's College, Oxford, are the chief landowners. The soil is chiefly sand and clay; subsoil, sand and clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans, oats and barley. The area is 2,255 acres; rateable value, £2,821; the population in 1881 was 449.

BRAMSHAW is a parish, 14 miles north from Lymington, 6 miles west from Totton station, 6 miles north-west from Redbridge station and 11 north-west from Southampton, partly in Cawden hundred, Wiltshire, and partly in Redbridge hundred, New Forest division of the county of Hants, Romsey petty sessional division, New Forest union, Southampton county court district, rural deanery of Amesbury, Alderbury portion, Salisbury archdeaconry and diocese: the whole of the Hampshire portion is within the New Forest. The church of St. Peter, situated at the northern extremity of the village, on an acclivity thickly planted with trees, is an ancient building reconstructed about 1830, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave and transepts, with square brick tower, mantled with ivy and containing 2 bells: some portions of the Norman foundations and Early English windows remain: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1598. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £160, with residence and 12 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Salisbury, and held since 1889 by the Rev. Arthur Charles Bradley Dobie B.A. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge. Here is a Wesleyan chapel, erected 1883. The principal landowners are George Edward Briscoe Eyre esq. J.P. Mrs. Heathcote, William Morgan Benett esq. and John Jeffreys esq. The soil is of a mixed character, clay and sand; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The number of acres is 3,493 in Hants and 1,578 in Wilts; rateable value of Hants portion, £1,895; and of Wilts portion, £1,614; the population in 1881 was 795, of which 296 are in Wilts; the principal part are engaged in agriculture.

Brook lies to the south, partly in the Hants portion and partly in the Wilts portion.

Wall Letter Box.—Cleared at 6 p.m. week days; sundays, 9.30 a.m

Fritham is a hamlet in the Hants portion of this parish. A school-chapel was opened and licensed by the Bishop of Salisbury in 1861; service is held every Sunday afternoon, at 3, by the vicar.

Furzley, a hamlet of this parish, is in Wilts.

BRAMSHOTT with the hamlet of LIPHOOK is a parish, situated near the Sussex border, 1 mile north from Liphook station on the London and South Western railway, 9 miles north-east from Petersfield, in the Eastern division of the county, Finch Dean hundred, Petersfield union, petty sessional division and county court district, and in the rural deanery of Petersfield and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Mary is a cruciform structure of local stone, principally in the Early English style, with Perpendicular insertions, and consists of chancel, nave of four bays, transepts, aisles, western porch, and low central tower, with spire, containing 6 bells: the nave and aisles were rebuilt in 1872, at a cost of £2,500, under the direction of S. C. Capes esq. architect: the north aisle contains a stained window in memory of the Rt. Hon. Sir William Erle P.C. late Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, placed by his neighbours, and in the south aisle there are stained windows to the memory of William Barrington Tristram esq. of Foley, who died March, 1877, and of Lady Hawkshaw, of Hollycombe: there are 350 sittings. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a rectory, yearly value £643 gross, £500 net, with residence, in the gift of the Provost and Fellows of Queen's College, Oxford, and held since 1869 by the Rev. William Wolfe Capes M.A. formerly fellow and tutor of that college. The Rev. John Monkhouse, a late rector of this parish, bequeathed nearly the whole of his property to the Provost and Fellows of Queen's College, Oxford, in trust, for the purpose of educating the children of this parish; most of this was spent in defending the will; the residue is applied to the support of the schools of the parish. There is a Catholic chapel, dedicated to the Immaculate Conception, erected in 1870 (with resident priest), attached to Woolmer Lodge. The Bible Christians have a chapel at Liphook. Bohunt farm was formerly a detached part of Sussex, but in October, 1844, was made part of Hampshire. Here is a paper mill; and edged tools are made at Conford. Woolmer Lodge is the residence of Sir Archibald Keppel Macdonald D.L., J.P. Here are three manors, Henry Charles Butler esq. is lord of the manor of Bramshott; Sir Archibald Macdonald D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor of Woolmer, and Lancelot Tristram esq. of the manor of Foley. The principal landowners are the lords of the manors, William Henry Chalcraft esq. and the trustees of the late Rt. Hon. Sir W. Erle P.C. The chief crops are barley, wheat, hops and roots. The area is 6,676 acres, a large portion of which is waste land; rateable value, £7,276 14s.; the population in 1881 was 1,476.

Liphook is a considerable hamlet and railway station, 1 mile south-west, on the London and Portsmouth direct line. There is a public reading room and library for the use of parishioners and visitors; the library contains 600 volumes; also an assembly room, under the management of trustees, used for public meetings, lectures and entertainments.

WOOLMER FOREST (part of), Wheatsheaf Common (part of), Conford, Passfield and Hammer Vale are in this parish.

BRANSGORE is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1874 from the parishes of Christchurch and Sopley, 6 miles south from Ringwood, 4 north-east from Christchurch and 3 south-west from Holmesley and 4 east from Herne stations on the London and South Western railway, in the New Forest division of the county, hundred, union and county court district of Christchurch, Christchurch sub-division of the Ringwood petty sessional division, rural deanery of Fordingbridge western division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church of St. Mary, erected in 1822, is an edifice of brick and stone, in the Perpendicular style, and has been entirely restored and enlarged at a cost of £1,200, and the church re-seated; it consists of apsidal chancel and nave; three stained windows (the gift of J. Henry Dart esq. of Beech House), representing the Birth, Death and Resurrection of Our Lord, have been placed in it: a set of brass hanging lamps have been presented in memory of Percy Jesson by his family; an organ has also been presented and a brass lectern: there are sittings for 350 persons. The register dates from the year 1822. The living is a vicarage, now of the yearly value of £230, including 5 acres of land, with house, having been augmented in 1876 by J. Henry Dart esq. in the gift of trustees, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Frederick Echlin Molyneux B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The vicarage house, a brick building near to the church, was erected in 1844 and considerably enlarged in 1884: it stands in its own grounds adjoining the church, and is well sheltered. The Wesleyans have a small chapel here. Beech House, the residence of Mrs. Dart, pleasantly situated on an eminence, surrounded by woods, was built in the reign of Charles II. and enlarged in the beginning of the present century: the principal entrance is by the west front: to the right is the handsome library, on the left is the spacious dining-room; in the south-east wing is the richly decorated drawing-room; the grounds and lawns are to the east, where there are varieties of flowers and exotics in profusion; the late owner erected a tower which commands extensive views, and also made in the grounds some ornamental lakes. Heathfield, the residence of Evelyn G. Saye esq. is pleasantly situated, encompassed by plantations of evergreens and commanding extensive views. Sir George Eliott Meyrick Tapps-Gervis-Meyrick bart. D.L., J.P. and Col. Sir G. F. C. Pocock bart. are the principal landowners. The soil is gravel and clay, and in some parts yields good crops of wheat, barley and oats. Some of the inhabitants work here in brick-making, which is carried on to some extent, but the greater part are employed in agriculture. The population in 1881 was 953.

GODWIN'S CROFT, 1 mile south-east; Thorney Hill, 1 mile north-east; Neacroft, half-a-mile south; and Middle and Lower Bockhampton, half-a-mile west, are within this parish.

BREAMORE or BREAMER is a liberty, parish and village and station on the Salisbury and Dorset railway, 8 miles south from Salisbury and 3 north from Fordingbridge, on the west bank of the Avon, in the New Forest division of the county, on the Wiltshire border, hundred, union and county court district of Fordingbridge and Ringwood petty sessional division. The living being a donative, it is not under episcopal jurisdiction, but it is locally contained within the diocese and archdeaconry of Winchester and the rural deanery of Fordingbridge western division. Breamore is several times named in Domesday Book, and was formerly the site of a priory, which anciently stood upon the bank of the Avon, near to the mill, which is itself mentioned in Domesday. A few stone coffins, long since removed to the churchyard, and a base or capital here and there, in cottage gardens, are the only traces remaining of the priory buildings. The parish church of St. Mary, a building of flint and stone, dates from a much earlier period than the dissolved priory, some portions of the present structure being of Early Norman date, and features exist which indicate a still earlier foundation : it consists of a chancel, nave, south porch and a central tower, containing 4 bells: the chancel was restored in 1874 by the present rector: the ancient porch, south-west of the church, has a chamber over it (now closed), in which are the remains of some frescoes : there are 250 sittings: near the porch is a venerable yew tree, which is probably from 800 to 1,000 years old. The register dates from the year 1675. The living is a donative, and is held with South Charford, gross yearly value from tithe rentcharge £877, net £707, with residence, in the gift of and held since 1868 by the Rev. Edward Parker Dew M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel. John Dodington in 1638 left an annuity of £5 yearly in succession out of a tenement, situate at Sandy Balls, Fordingbridge, on trust to pay over the rent to the overseers of Breamore, Fordingbridge, Harbridge and Ringwood respectively for ever, for binding poor children of the several parishes apprentice. Henry Johnson in 1703 left £100 in trust that £5 should yearly be given to apprenticing a poor child of the parish, except in such years as a £5 formerly given should become due, when it should be applied to a poor child of Wood Green. Here was once a priory of Austin Canons, founded by an Earl of Devon in 1132: its revenues were estimated at £154. The manor of Breamore, which formerly belonged to the priory, has been held for many generations by the family of Hulse, now represented by Sir Edward Hulse bart. B.A., D.L., J.P. of Breamore House: this mansion is a large and handsome building, in the Elizabethan style, almost entirely modern, and replaces one of similar style, which was burnt October 19th, 1856: it stands in a park of 137 acres and is backed by woods, which skirt the Salisbury downs : near the house is a curious maze or labyrinth, some centuries old. The soil of the parish is loam ; subsoil, gravel. There is a large common with grazing land on Breamore downs. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 3,643 acres of land and 35 of water ; rateable value, £3,808 ; the population in 1881 was 560.

SOUTH CHARFORD is 1½ miles north from Breamore, and the same south of Downton ; it is an ancient parish, mentioned in Domesday as "Cherdeford." From an ancient MS. service book, given to South Charford by Sir John Popham in 1408, but now in the British Museum Bibl. Reg. xxi. it appears that a parochial church and graveyard were dedicated for this parish on the feast of St. Agnes, 1404, by Nicholas, Bishop of Christopolis, a suffragan bishop of Wells diocese, who was acting under the authority of Archbishop Arundel, during a vacancy in the see of Winchester. The church was built at the expense of Sir John Popham, who was lord of the manor of Charford, and with the consent of John London, at that time prior of Breamore. Not a stone of the church is now visible, but some mounds near Charford farm-house are supposed to cover its ruins. That portion of the parish which lies on the east bank of the river Avon is annexed to the living of Hale ; that on the western bank pays tithes commuted at £162 15s. to the living of Breamore. The area is 855 acres ; rateable value, £932 ; the population in 1881 was 86.

BROCKENHURST is a parish, with a station 94 miles from London, 4½ north-by-west from Lymington and 16 south-west from Southampton, in the New Forest division of the county, Lymington petty sessional division, union and county court district, eastern division of the hundred of New Forest, rural deanery of Fordingbridge eastern division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. Brockenhurst is a junction station of the branch to Lymington with the Southampton and Dorchester line of the London and South Western railway, and a line has been made from this junction to Christchurch, shortening the distance to Bournemouth by 15 miles. The village is delightfully situated on the high road from Lyndhurst to Lymington, and commands beautiful prospects of a portion of the New Forest; the river Boldre passes by the northern extremity of the village. The church (not dedicated) is a building of stone and brick in the Early Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave, western tower with spire and three bells : it has an old Norman font similar to that in Winchester Cathedral and a fine Norman arch at south door: there are 150 sittings. The registers date from, baptisms, 1693 ; marriages, 1629 ; burials, 1,680. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £60 tithe, £60 Ecclesiastical Commissioners, total £120, with vicarage house, built in the year 1879 on a forest site granted by the Crown, in the gift of John Morant esq. and held since 1888 by the Rev. Thomas Clarke B.A. Pembroke College, Cambridge. Here is a chapel for Baptists with school attached. Brockenhurst Park is the seat of John Morant esq. D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor and principal landowner ; the mansion is built of stone and stands in a well-wooded park of 425 acres and near the high road to Lyndhurst and Lymington. Lady Cross Lodge is the residence of Edward Lionel Munro esq. and Hincheslea of Francis Frederic Lovell esq. J.P. The soil is marl and loam ; subsoil, gravel and in parts clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and grass. The area is, according to ordnance map, 6,973 acres, and in the population returns for 1881, 4,006 acres of land and 38 of water ; rateable value, £6,010 ; the population in 1881 was 1,027.

BROUGHTON is a pleasant village, 3 miles north-west from Horsebridge station on the Andover and Redbridge branch of the London and South Western railway, 4 south-west from Stockbridge and 9 north-west from Romsey, in the Western division of the county, hundred of Thorngate, Romsey petty sessional division and county court district, Stockbridge union, rural deanery of Romsey and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Mary is an ancient structure of flint, in the Early English style, and has chancel, nave, aisles, north and south porches, with massive low square embattled western tower containing 5 bells and a clock: it was reseated in 1853: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1665. The living is a rectory, with the rectory of Bossington annexed, joint yearly value £917, with residence and 32 acres of glebe, in the gift of William H. Baring esq. and held since 1842 by the Rev. Stanlake Lee M.A. of Queen's College, Oxford. There are chapels for Baptists and Wesleyans. Henry Smith's charity, of £22 yearly, is for clothing, and other charities, of £16 yearly, are distributed by the rector and churchwardens, and £20, which was left by the late T. Baring esq. is distributed by the rector alone. A fair is held on the first Monday in July. Broughton House, the residence of James George Edwards esq. is pleasantly situated at the south of the village. William Henry Baring esq. J.P. who is lord of the manor, and J. H. Brewer esq. are the principal landowners. The soil and subsoil are chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 4,330 acres of land and 39 of water; rateable value, £3,529; the population in 1881 was 904.

FRENCHMOOR, formerly extra-parochial, is a separate parish. The acreage is 371; rateable value, £182; the population in 1881 was 8.

Parish Clerk, Christopher Robinson.

BULLINGTON is a parish situated on the river Test, 3 miles west from Micheldever station on the South Western railway, 61 from London, 4 south from Whitchurch and 1½ south from Sutton Scotney station on the Didcot, Newbury and Winchester line of the Great Western railway, in the Western division of the county, Andover union, county court district and petty sessional division, Wherwell hundred, rural deanery of Andover southern division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church of St. Michael is a small and plain but ancient building, partly in the Norman style, erected in the 12th century, consisting of chancel, nave, north porch, and a low square bell-cote containing 3 bells: the organ was presented by Mrs. Lloyd, wife of the late vicar: the east window is stained: the church was restored in 1871, at a cost of about £1,000: there are 90 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from about 1725; marriages, 1755. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of Tufton annexed, tithe rent-charge £170, net yearly value £220, in the gift of William Henry Iremonger esq. J.P. of Bournemouth, and held since 1888 by the Rev. Stanley Thomas Courtney T.A. of King's College, London. Here is a parish room, erected in 1887. Here is an old Roman encampment, called "Tidbury Ring," where many ancient coins have been found. Peter James Duff Hawker esq. J.P. of Hurstbourne Priors, Whitchurch, is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Messrs. Wickham, Lord Calthorpe, the Earl of Portsmouth, F. Padwick and P. J. D. Hawker esqrs. and the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The soil is loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,626 acres of land and 9 of water; rateable value, £1,129; the population in 1881 was 157.

BURGHCLERE is a village and parish, with stations on the Didcot and Winchester branch of the Great Western railway (Burghclere for south end of parish, and Highclere and Park for north end of parish), 4 miles south from Newbury, 5 west from Kingsclere, in the Western division of the county, Kingsclere petty sessional division and union, Evingar hundred, county court district of Newbury, rural deanery of Andover northern division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The old parish church of All Saints, thoroughly restored in the year 1861, by the Earl of Carnarvon, the Dowager Countess of Carnarvon, and a former rector, Rev. George Wallace, is an edifice of flint in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, transept on the north side, and small shingled tower on west side containing one bell: there are 150 sittings, all free. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1559; burials, 1561; marriages, 1656. The church of The Ascension, erected in 1838 and much enlarged and re-seated in 1875, is a cruciform building of flint in the Late Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave and transepts, and shingled spire containing 5 bells, a fifth bell being added in 1887: there are 240 sittings, all free. The living is a rectory, consolidated with the chapelry of New Town, joint gross yearly value £1,200, net £350, with residence and 188 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Earl of Carnarvon, and held since 1889 by the Rev. Alexander Colvin Blunt M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford, hon. canon of Winchester, rural dean of Southampton and surrogate. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel, erected 1864 for 50 persons. Petty sessions, for Kingsclere division, are held at the "Carnarvon Arms," Whitway, monthly; and the board of guardians of the Kingsclere union meet at the same place once a fortnight; for particulars see Kingsclere. This place seems to have been a Roman station. On the summit of Beacon Hill, which is 870 feet in height and about a mile to the west, are the remains of a British encampment, and to the south are the Seven Barrows. Adbury Park is the seat of Mrs. Fox: the mansion is handsome and commodious, surrounded by extensive and picturesque grounds, and commands a charming prospect. Mrs. Arkwright has also a pleasant residence here, called Adbury House. Burghclere Manor House is a fine old residence in extensive grounds, at present occupied by William Holding esq J.P.: it belongs to the Earl of Carnarvon P.C. The principal landowners are the Earl of Carnarvon P.C. who is lord of the manor, William Howley Kingsmill esq. J.P. and Mrs. Fox. The soil is various, chiefly gravel and chalk hills, with alluvial soil in the bottoms; there is also a considerable extent of down land. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 5,267 acres; rateable value, £5,204; the population in 1881 was 753.

WERGS, 1 mile north-east, Whitway, 1½ north-by-west, Palmer's Court and Heatherwold, and Adbury are places in this parish.

BURITON is a village and parish 2 miles south from Petersfield, near the Sussex border, Eastern division of the county, hundred of Finch Dean, Petersfield union, county court district and petty sessional division, rural deanery of Petersfield and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The London and South Western railway runs through this parish. The church of St. Mary is an ancient edifice of flint and stone, consisting of chancel and nave, aisles and south porch, with a square western and embattled tower, covered with ivy, containing 5 bells and clock: the nave is Norman, of the 12th century, the chancel Early English, and contains a beautiful sedile, piscina and aumbry: there is also a fine rood-screen, which was re-erected at the time the church was restored, an exact copy of the former one of the 16th century workmanship: there are several monuments—the most conspicuous one is that of the Bilson family, the earliest dating 1595 to Leonard Bilson: the church was restored in 1878, at a cost of £2,300: it contains three stained windows, one in memory of Mrs. J. Bonham-Carter, who died in 1862, and of Mrs. Sumner, wife of the late rector, who died in 1875; and the east window, put in in 1887, in memory of J. Bonham-Carter esq.; an oak reredos, a memorial to the Rev. J. Sumner, the late rector, erected Dec. 13, 1888, to whose memory a fine oak eagle lectern was given by the parishioners Easter, 1888: there are 400 sittings. The register of burials dates from the year 1678; baptisms and marriages, 1695. The living is a rectory, to which Petersfield and Sheet were formerly annexed, but by an Order in Council, dated August 13, 1886, these two latter, together with Lower Weston and Lower Nursted, were constituted a separate parish: the net value of the living is £500, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1886 by the Rev. John Wycliffe Gedge M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, H.M. Inspector of schools and diocesan inspector in Winchester diocese. Here is a small Primitive Methodist chapel, erected in 1848 and restored in 1881. On the downs to the west are barrows. Gibbon, the author of the "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," lived at Buriton Manor House in the eighteenth century, and his father is buried at Buriton. John Bonham-Carter esq. is lord of the manor, the Rev. Augustus Legge, J. Rowe Bennion esq. and Laurence Cave esq. of Ditcham Park, are the principal landowners. The soil is various; subsoil, rock, clay and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans, oats and hops. The area is 6,435 acres; rateable value, £8,171; the population in 1881 was 1,153, but since the Order in Council, 1886, by which Lower Weston and Lower Nursted were transferred to Petersfield, the population is only now 843.

DITCHAM PARK, formerly the seat and property of the Cowper and Coles family, was purchased in 1868 by Charles Cammell esq. by whom it was much enlarged and improved, but was sold in 1885 to Laurence Cave esq.; it is 2 miles south-east: fine views are obtained hence of the Isle of Wight and a portion of the English Channel; the mansion was burnt down in March, 1888, but has since been rebuilt and is now ready for occupation. Nursted House, the seat and residence of John Rowe Bennion esq. was purchased by him in 1863 from Gen. Hugonin: it is situated 1 mile north-east from Buriton and 1¾ miles south-south-east from Petersfield.

BURLEY is a township, by rail 100, by road 88 miles from London, 4 miles east from Ringwood and 9 north-west from Lymington. Holmsley station, on the Southampton and Dorchester railway, is in this township, 3 miles south-east from the village, in the New Forest division of the county, Northern division of the hundred of New Forest, Fordingbridge county court district, Ringwood union and petty sessional division, rural deanery of Fordingbridge, western division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. Part of Ringwood formerly intersected the Ville of Burley, but it was formed into an ecclesiastical parish in 1840, and was made a township by an order of the Poor Law Board, dated 23rd November, 1868, when the extra-parochial parts of the New Forest known as Burley Walk and Holmsley Walk were added to the Ville, the whole to be henceforth styled "Burley Township;" since that time all those parts of Ringwood parish which intersected the Burley township have been transferred to Burley, and the tithes appropriated to the use of the incumbent of Burley, which has thus become a rectory. The church of St. John the Baptist, built in 1839, is a plain building of brick, consisting of nave, with a western bell cote containing one bell: a chancel, vestry and south porch were added in 1887, from designs by Mr. W. Butterfield, at a cost of £1,600, which was raised by contributions from residents in the neighbourhood and parishioners of St. Michael's, Paddington, where the present rector was formerly curate: there are 280 sittings, all free. The register dates from the year 1839. The living is a rectory, yearly value from tithe rent-charge £106, and £90 the tithes of the part of Ringwood annexed to the parish, net yearly value £150, subject to the payment of a pension of £60 to the late rector and including 5 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Ringwood, and now (1889) vacant. A good rectory house has been built on land given by the Crown, with funds supplied by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, aided by private subscriptions. Here is a Congregational chapel. Eyre's charity of about £30 a year, belonging to the Dissenters, was left many years ago by a person of that name, who also bequeathed an annual sum of £3 for the education of eight poor children and £3 for clothing the poor. There is also a charity of £3 derived from land left by William Etheridge in 1716, to be paid every year to the poor in bread. The manor of Burley was royal demesne until the time of James I. who granted it to a subject at the same time as other manors adjacent to the Forest: it is entirely surrounded by open forest lands and woods over which the manor has extensive rights. Burley Manor House, pleasantly situated in a well-wooded park of 80 acres, is the seat of William Clement Drake Esdaile esq. J.P. who is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is sandy loam; subsoil, sand and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, hay, oats, barley and roots. The area of the township is 11,270 acres; rateable value, £3,860; the population in 1881 was, of the township, 633, and of the ecclesiastical parish, 633.

PICKET POST, occupying an elevated site in the New Forest, on the road to Southampton, is within the township of Burley. From the summit of the eminence, a beautiful and extensive view is obtained of the surrounding country.

PRESTON CANDOVER is a parish and village, 8 miles south from Basingstoke and 6 miles north from Alresford station on the South Western railway, in the Northern division of the county, hundred of Bermondspit, Basingstoke union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Old Alresford and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The original church of the Virgin Mary, an ancient structure, has been pulled down except the chancel which is used as a mortuary chapel and still contains a brass plate, representing a female figure arrayed in the fashion of the time of Queen Elizabeth; the inscription shows it to be Catherine Dabrigecourt, a member of an old Hampshire family, formerly owners of Stratfieldsaye: there is also a marble tablet to the Hall family, whose descendants, bearing the name of Fitz-Gerald, are at present owners of the greatest portion of the parish. The new church is situated more in the centre of the village and is built of flints with brick and stone dressings in the Transition style, and consists of chancel, nave and north aisle, with tower and spire containing 5 bells: there is a lych gate: there are about 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1688. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of Nutley annexed, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Winchester Cathedral, the Ecclesiastical Commissioners are the impropriators of the great tithes; the net yearly value of the living is £300, with residence and about 40 acres of glebe, held since 1862 by the Rev. Sumner Wilson M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford. The Primitive Methodists have a place of worship here, erected 1865. Thomas Hall left an endowment of £12 with 8 acres of land which is applied to the parish school. Preston House, the seat of Henry John Hope esq. is pleasantly situated on the Basingstoke road. North Hall, the seat of Lieut.-Col. Richard Purefoy Fitz-Gerald J.P. stands at the south end of the village. Mrs. Fitz-Gerald of Shalstone, Bucks, is lady of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is chalky loam and gravel; subsoil, chalk and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, turnips and oats. The area is 3,413 acres: rateable value, £2,168; and the population in 1881 was 414.

CATHERINGTON is a parish, giving name to a union, 4 miles north-west from Rowland's Castle station on the direct Portsmouth line of the South Western railway, 5¾ miles north-west from Havant, 10 north from Portsmouth, 7 south-by-west from Petersfield, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of Finch Dean, Petersfield petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Havant and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The most populous part of the parish is called HORNDEAN, situated about one mile from the church, and on the high road from Portsmouth to Petersfield; the union house is in this portion of the parish. The church of St. Catherine was originally built by a brother of King Stephen: the building is of flint, partly in the Norman style; it consists of chancel, nave, aisles and square embattled tower containing 6 bells: it was restored in 1883 at a cost of about £4,000, the architect being Mr. B. Edmund Ferrey F.S.A. of London, and the contractor Mr. John Edney, of Horndean: the windows in the Hyde chapel are stained, presented by Mrs. Whalley-Tooker in memory of her husband, the late Hyde Whalley-Tooker esq.: the tower and baptistery were restored at the expense of the late Miss Barnes and a new organ was presented by J. D. Antill esq.: here is a monument of Sir Nicholas Hyde, chief justice of England, younger brother of the great Lord Clarendon, and in the churchyard one to Mrs. Kean, wife of the tragedian Edmund Kean, and Charles Kean, their son, and his wife Eleanora; Admiral Sir Charles Napier is also buried here: there are several mural tablets to the Napier family: there are 320 sittings. The register dates from the year 1602. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £280, with residence, in the gift of and held since 1877 by the Rev. Robert Fitzgerald Maynard M.A. of Caius College, Cambridge. There is a Mission room at Lovedean in which service is held during the week and school on Sundays. Richards' charity consists of £300, the interest of which is distributed yearly at the discretion of the vicar. There is a charity of £16 yearly, called Appleford's bequest, which is applied to the maintenance of the schools. Catherington House, the seat of Colonel George Briggs J.P. was built by the first Viscount Hood; Queen Caroline was entertained here previous to her trial. St. Catherine's, the residence of Albert Wm. Still Barnes esq. J.P. is pleasantly situated near the church; Merchistoun Hall, John Dudley Antill esq. is a seat here. Hinton House was at one time the property and residence of the Hydes, Earls of Clarendon, and it was here the marriage of the Duke of York (afterwards James II.) with Anne Hyde took place; the Hinton estate is now held by Hyde Salmon Whalley-Tooker esq. J.P. who is a lineal descendant in the female line: a mansion was erected in 1868, on the site of old Hinton House; it is a flint stone building, pleasantly situated, commanding some extensive views. Bere Forest is partly within the parish. Hyde Salmon Whalley-Tooker esq. J.P. who holds the manorial rights, Sir Arthur Clarke-Jervoise bart. George Alexander Gale esq. and Sir Arthur Colin Curtis bart. the lay impropriator, are the principal landowners. The soil varies from a loam and chalk to stiff clay; subsoil, chalk and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The parish and hamlets contain 5,276 acres; rateable value, £6,486; the population in 1881 was 1,321, including part of Denmead and 30 officers and inmates of the Workhouse at Horndean.

CHALTON (or CHALKTON) is a village, 4 miles north from Rowland's Castle station on the direct Portsmouth line of the South Western railway, 5½ south from Petersfield, 7½ north from Havant, on the Sussex border, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of Finch Dean, Petersfield petty sessional division and county court district, Catherington union, rural deanery of Havant and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Michael is an ancient structure of flint and stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, north porch, and a western embattled tower, partly covered with ivy, containing 3 bells: the church was re-seated and much improved, and the organ rebuilt in the year 1879: there is a leper's window in the south wall of the chancel: there are 150 sittings. The registers, including Idsworth, date from 1538; they have been well kept, and are particularly clear and legible throughout. The living is a consolidated rectory, formed in 1767, and consisting of Clanfield and Chalton, with the chapelry of Idsworth annexed, tithe rent-charge £811; the joint gross yearly value is £934, including 18 acres of glebe, 12 acres being in Chalton and 6 acres in the parish of Clanfield, with residence, net yearly value £400, in the gift of trustees for the present incumbent, and held since 1875 by the Rev. Campbell Lock M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. On the downs are many barrows. The manor of Chalton appears to be co-extensive with the upper half of the Finchdean hundred, which has an area of 10,560 acres, and consists of the parishes of Chalton, Clanfield, Catherington, Idsworth and Blendworth, formerly known as the "Fir Manors." Sir Arthur Clarke-Jervoise bart. of Idsworth Park, Horndean, is the lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is light; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,749 acres; rateable value, £1,979; the population in 1881 was 208, exclusive of Idsworth tithing, which will be found under a separate heading.

CHARFORD NORTH and SOUTH are decayed parishes, for which see Breamore and Hale.

CHAWTON is a small village and parish, 1 mile south-south-west from Alton, on the road to Petersfield, in the Eastern division of the county, Alton hundred, union, county court district and petty sessional division, rural deanery of Alton western division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. One of the sources of the river Wey is in this parish. The village is situated in a valley watered by land springs, called Lavants, which occasionlly overflow the adjacent lands. The church of St. Nicholas is picturesquely situated, surrounded by lofty elms and beeches. The old church, built in the sixteenth century, was destroyed by fire in March, 1871, with the exception of the chancel, which still remains, and to this were added the present nave, north aisle and western embattled tower and with pinnacles, west porch, in the Early Decorated style: in 1884 4 new bells were given by A. Shaw Stewart esq. which with the 2 old ones now make a very good peal: the walls are built of flints, intermixed with ironstone, and faced with Bath stone: Mr. Blomfield was the architect: the church contains some handsome old monuments of the Knight family, and there are several modern stained windows in the chancel: in 1880 the west window was filled with stained glass in memory of Edward Knight esq. by his children: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1596. The living is a rectory; the tithes are commuted at £490 yearly, with 60 acres of glebe land and residence, in the gift of Montagu G. Knight esq. J.P. and held since 1876 by the Rev. Charles Edward Knight, of Trinity Hall,Cambridge. Harford's charity arising from land amounts to £4 yearly. Here is a Working Men's Club, which is well supplied with newspapers. Near the church is Chawton House, a fine old Elizabethan mansion, the seat of Montagu George Knight esq. J.P. which has been in the possession of the same family since the beginning of the sixteenth century, some portions of the existing building having been erected by John Knight in 1533. Montagu George Knight esq. J.P. is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is marl; subsoil, gravel and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and hops. Area, 2,674 acres; rateable value, £2,922; the population in 1881 was 473.

CHERITON is a parish, 8 miles east from Winchester and 2½ south from New Alresford, situated on a small stream tributary to the Itchen, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of Fawley, union of Alresford, Winchester petty sessional division (Alresford district), and county court district of Winchester, Old Alresford rural deanery and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Michael is a plain old Gothic structure of flint, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a very massive, low, square, flat-roofed tower with 6 bells, and was restored in 1879: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1556. The living is a rectory, with the chapelry of Tichborne annexed, in the peculiar jurisdiction of the rector, and in the gift of the Crown, joint yearly value £1,000, with residence, and held since 1878 by the Rev. Alexander Orr M.A. of Oriel College, Oxford. The parish has the privilege of sending four boys to the Grammar school of New Alresford. The Rev. Morgan Jones bequeathed a sum of money, producing about £12 yearly, for the instruction of twenty poor children; this is now given to the Board school. Mrs. Godrich, by her will, left a sum of money now producing about £18 yearly, to be distributed in bread to the poor of the parish. Here is a Congregational chapel. A battle was fought here in the reign of Charles I. called Alresford fight, when the Royalists were defeated. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are Sir Henry A. J. D. Tichborne bart. and the Earl of Northesk. The soil is chalk and clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and green crops. The area is 3,063 acres; rateable value, £2,777; the population in 1881 was 613.

CHILBOLTON is a village and parish, 5 miles south-east from Andover and about 1½ north-east from Fullerton station on the Andover and Redbridge branch of the London and South Western railway, in the Western division of the county, Wherwell hundred, Andover union, county court district and petty sessional division, rural deanery of Andover southern division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, situate on the river Test. The church of St. Mary was erected about the year 1300, and was gradually restored from 1869 till 1878: it is in the Early Decorated style, and has chancel, nave of two bays, aisles, south porch with small south-western tower with a wooden bell chamber, low octagonal broach spire and 3 bells; the chancel is under a separate roof of much lower elevation than the nave: the pulpit screen and reading desk are good specimens of Perpendicular wood carving: the stained east window of the chancel and the west window are Perpendicular work: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1699. The living is a rectory, tithes commuted for a rent-charge of £620, with residence and 10 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1889 by the Rev. Charles Collier M.A. Trinity College, Dublin, and ad eundem of Oxford, F.S.A. A sum of money was left by Dr. Layfield, a former rector, for apprenticing the children of parents resident in this parish. Sir William Jones, the celebrated Oriental writer, was for some time a resident at the rectory house here, being on a visit to Dr. Shipley, Bishop of St. Asaph, and many of his letters are dated from it. The Dean and Chapter of Winchester are lords of the manor, and also the principal landowners. The soil is chalk; subsoil, same. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area is 3,100 acres; rateable value, £1,986; the population in 1881 was 343.

CHILCOMB is a parish and sequestered, scattered and retired village, situate in a valley, 2 miles south-east from Winchester railway station and 69 from London, in the Western division of the county, hundred of Fawley, and Winchester petty sessional division, county court district and union and in the rural deanery, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester; the river Itchen flows through a portion of the parish. The church of St. Andrew, which has been restored, is a small Norman structure of flint with stone dressings, supposed to have been built in 1066, having chancel and nave, with a low wooden tower containing 2 bells: there are 84 sittings. The register dates from the year 1556. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £170, with residence and about 11 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1884 by the Rev. Ninian Hozier Barr M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. It is proposed to build a new church at the Winchester end of the parish, for the increasing population now worshipping in a Mission Room. St. Catharine's hill is much frequented by visitors. Lime of superior quality is burnt here. The Bishop of Winchester is lord of the manor. The Dean and Chapter of Winchester are the principal landowners. The soil is calcareous loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 2,299 acres; rateable value, £4,053. The population in 1881, 300.

Parish Clerk, George Coanter.

CHILWORTH is a scattered parish, 2½ miles south-west from the Chandler's Ford station on the Salisbury branch of the South Western railway, 4 south-east from Romsey and 5 north from Southampton, on the road from Romsey to Portsmouth, in the New Forest division of the county, hundred of Mansbridge, union of South Stoneham, Southampton petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Romsey, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church (not dedicated) is a small stuccoed building, consisting of nave, north and south short transepts, north aisle and small gallery, north porch with west embattled tower and octagonal spire, containing 2 bells and clock, jetted with slate, and was built at the sole expense of Peter Serle esq.: the chancel window is adorned with figures of the Evangelists. The churchyard contains a mausoleum of W.H. Pitt esq. dated 1823, and a monument to the Hon. Richard George Quin, late of Chilworth Manor, dated 1843: the church is seated with benches for 80 persons. The register dates from the year 1721. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £70, in the gift of the trustees of the late J. B. W. Fleming, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Edward Thomas Hoare M.A. of Caius College, Cambridge. A new vicarage house has lately (1889) been erected near the church. The charities amount to £27 8s. 2d. yearly; the Hon. Richard George Quin left £800 in the 3¼ Per Cents.: the interest for medical aid and clothing now amounts to £23 8s. 2d. half of which is given in clothing and half to medical aid: George Frederick Pitts, 1828, gave £100 and the interest for bread on Easter day and Christmas day; £10 of this money was paid for legacy duty, £12 5s. 10d. further was applied in the various expenses, and the remaining £77 4s. 2d. was laid out in the purchase of a perpetual annuity of £4, granted by John Fleming and John Brown Willis Fleming and charged upon Smith's close of land in this parish, which is distributed at Easter and Christmas in bread. Manor House is the residence of Cecil Sayers esq. The trustees of the late J. B. W. Fleming are lords of the manor and chief landowners. The soil is loam and sand; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,540 acres; rateable value, £1,132; the population in 1881 was 227.

CHRISTCHURCH.

CHRISTCHURCH is a parliamentary and municipal borough, a union town and seaport, formerly a market town, with a station on the London and South Western railway, in the New Forest division of the county, the head of a hundred and in the Ringwood petty sessional division, rural deanery of Fordingbridge western division and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, 104 miles from London, 25 south-west from Southampton, 5 north-east from Bournemouth, 10 north-east from Poole and 9 south from Ringwood. A new line, called the Bournemouth Direct railway, was opened in March, 1888; this has considerably decreased the distance between London, Christchurch and Bournemouth: this railway leaves the main line at Brockenhurst, passing in a south-westerly direction and forming a junction with the old line from Ringwood at Christchurch. The harbour of Christchurch, now blocked by sandbanks and shoals, has this peculiarity—that there is high water twice every tide: this arises from its position in relation to the Isle of Wight and various points of land on the coast, particularly that on which Hurst Castle is situated. The Avon is crossed by two bridges, one of five, the other of three arches: the Avon is here joined by the Stour, over which a bridge was erected in 1882 at Tuckton, thus affording easy access to Southbourne-on-Sea and adjacent places. Mention of the town is first met with about the year 900, in the account given by the Saxon chronicler of the contest for the crown between Edward the Elder and his kinsman Ethelwald in 901; the latter having collected troops to support his pretensions, marched to Wimborne, in Dorsetshire, of which place he took possession, and afterwards continued his progress to Tweonea, or Twynham (now called Christchurch), which he also captured; Edward hastened to attack his rival, who, on his approach, retreated to Wimborne, whence he shortly afterwards fled in the night, and escaped to Northumberland. It is stated by the historians Stowe and Speed, that Hengist, the English conqueror, effected his second invasion of Britain at Hengistbury Head, a promontory one mile south of Christchurch, and at this spot a deep fosse and extensive earthworks may still be traced. In Domesday Survey the town is described as a burgh and royal manor, under the name of Thuinam, containing 31 messuages: it was fortified in the reign of Henry I. by Richard de Redvers, Earl of Devon, who also erected the castle, the ruins of the keep of which, on the summit of an artificial mound, are of prodigious strength; the walls, which still remain, are more than ten feet thick.

The former Corporation of Christchurch was prescriptive, and not included in the Municipal Corporations' Act; it consisted of a mayor, elected by scot and lot, on the 14th September—the mayoralty commencing at the Michaelmas court-leet of the lord of the manor—and sixteen burgesses; by the new charter, granted May 1886, the corporation now consists of mayor, four aldermen and twelve councillors. This borough regularly sent two members to parliament until the passing of the Reform Act, since which it has returned but one: by the Boundary Act, passed in 1832, the chapelry of Holdenhurst was included in the parliamentary borough and comprises the increasing town of Bournemouth.

The town is pleasantly situated: it consists of one broad line of street, called the High street, Church street, Castle street, Bridge street, Purewell, Bargates and the Barrack road. The streets are lighted with gas: the works, situate at Purewell, were established in 1852, at a cost of £2,000.

Here, on the banks of the Avon, is the majestic and ancient priory church. The church of the Holy Trinity was the collegiate church of the priory, which was so ancient that there are no authentic records of its original establishment: according to Camden it was founded in Early English times, on the ruins of an ancient heathen temple: the inmates of the priory were secular canons of the Order of St. Augustine; and in the reign of Edward the Confessor there was a prior and 24 canons: William Rufus bestowed the church and convent on Ralph Flambard, afterwards Bishop of Durham, who, on his elevation to the deanery, rebuilt the church, about the year 1075, on an enlarged scale, and dedicated it to Christ: on the disgrace of the bishop they were granted by Henry I. to Baldwin, son of Richard de Redvers, who procured a change of the order from secular to regular canons, and introduced a certain number of the latter, and placed them under the government of a prior: at the Dissolution the annual revenue of the priory was £544 6s. according to Speed, £317 7s. 9d. according to Dugdale: the church was then granted to the inhabitants by Henry VIII. for a parochial church: the church displays considerable portions of the work of Bishop Flambard; in its general design it comprehends a nave of seven bays and aisles, a transept, with chapels or chantries projecting eastwards, a choir and its aisles, a lady chapel, built in 1398, by Lady Alice West, a western embattled tower with pinnacles, containing a clock and 8 bells, and a capacious north porch (the bells were re-hung, and one re-cast, the late Earl of Malmesbury supplying the timber; the cost, including provision for 2 additional bells, was nearly £500): the tenor bell weighs 32 cwt.; on the 5th bell is the following inscription, "Let it be of good omen (O Bell, since you have been called All Saints), May the virtues of the bell make us live healthily;" 6th bell, "Come (St. Augustine) presently to our aid, even before the great bell Augustine rings, that the Holy Sacrificial Lamb may drive away pestilence:" the nave is formed by a double row of massive square pillars, ornamented with demi-columns, and semicircular ornamental arches springing between them from grouped pilasters; this is considered one of the most perfect specimens in England of the style of Norman architecture: the north transept, though much altered, displays evident proofs of the Norman style: the chancel and the whole of the eastern portion of the building are more modern than the transept and nave: the windows are large and ornamental, and the vaulting is handsome: in the choir are the stalls and seats of the priory establishment; these are ornamented with carvings of a most grotesque description: this church contains a magnificent ancient sculptured altarpiece, representing the root and branch of Jesse; the figures, foliage and architecture are combined with happy effect: there are many curious and interesting tombs and monumental effigies in different parts of the building; one to Margaret de-la-Pole, Countess of Salisbury, ob. 1541; one by Sir Francis Chantrey to Mrs. Barnis; another, by Flaxman, to Vicountess Fitzharris, representing that lady instructing her infant sons in the Scriptures; and near to the western entrance is a handsome marble monument to the poet Percy Bysshe Shelley, erected by his son, Sir Percy Shelley bart. of Boscombe House. A substantial, though plain, English oak roof, designed by Mr. Edmund Ferrey (in harmony with the other mediæval roofs of the church) was fixed over the north transept in 1882: there are about 950 sittings in present use, all free. The register, including Hinton Admiral, dates from the year 1586 baptisms, 1576 marriages, 1634 burials. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £356, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Winchester, and held since 1884 by the Rev. Thomas Henry Bush M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge.

St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Purewell, is a red brick building in the Gothic style, erected in 1866 and has sittings for 132 persons.

The Congregational chapel, in Millhams street, is a building of white brick, erected in 1886-7, and contains about 800 sittings: extensive Sunday school and class rooms have since been added.

The Baptist chapel, in High street, was erected in 1875, and is a plain brick building with sittings for 192.

The Wesleyan chapel in Purewell, has sittings for about 350; it is a plain building of brick, and was erected in 1834.

The Purewell Mission hall, situated at Purewell cross, s a red brick building, erected in 1880, by Miss Long, late of this town.

At Stanpit an iron building has recently been erected at the expense of a gentleman in the neighbourhood, and is called The Village Room, used for various purposes.

The Cemetery, opened in 1858, is under the control of a Burial Board of 9 members, and is situated in Jumper's road, about half a mile west of the town; it has two handsome Gothic mortuary chapels, and comprises about 14 acres.

The Town Hall, situated in High street, and erected in 1859, is a building of red brick, with stone facings.

Considerable employment is derived from the fishery; there is also a small trade done in the manufacture of watch and clock fuzee chains and hooks. Here are two breweries. Markets were formerly held here on Mondays, but have long since been discontinued.

The Artillery Barracks are situated half a mile west of the town.

The Police station, in Stour road, erected in 1881, is a brick building, and is a branch of the Hants County Constabulary.

In connection with the church are several charities. Clingan's charity, for apprenticing poor boys of Christchurch, has an income of about £100; the Hospital of St. Mary Magdalen charity, formerly a hospital for lepers, annual income about £100, now distributed in charity to the poor; Admiral Brown's gift, income £74, a portion of which is distributed to the poor of this parish. There are other charities of various characters, the yearly income of which is about £70.

A newspaper, the "Christchurch Times," is published every Saturday morning; an edition of the "Bournemouth Observer" on Wednesdays, and the "Bournemouth Observer and Chronicle" is published on Saturday; W. Tucker and Son, agents.

Large quantities of salmon are taken here in the rivers Avon and Stour.

The King's Arms Hotel from its balcony commands fine views of the Needles, and in the opposite grounds are the ruins of the old castle and priory.

Hengistbury Head has at its base a beautiful beach, with southern aspect, well sheltered from a northern breeze. From here, and in the vicinity of Southbourne-on-Sea, extensive views of land and sea may be obtained.

The mansion erected by Gustavus Brander esq. on the site of the ancient priory was the residence, in 1807, of the late Louis Philippe.

The inhabitants have the benefit of some common lands, of which the town common, of 100 acres, is the principal.

The Common Field, called Portfield, has for some years been inclosed and is largely built on. Upon its inclosure a Recreation ground of 10 acres was allotted for the use of the parishioners, and has since been fenced and planted. It is now under the control of the Town Council. A stint ground of 15 acres was also allotted for those who had rights of pasture in the Common Field.

The principal landowners in the municipal borough of Christchurch and immediate neighbourhood are the Earl of Malmesbury, who is lord of the manor of the ancient borough of Christchurch, and is lay rector of the Priory church and owner of the tithes, Sir G. E. M. Tapps-Gervis-Meyrick bart. D.L., J.P. the trustees of the late Sir W. Rose K.C.B. Frank Ricardo esq. The Rev. Gustavus Brander, John Sloman esq. Frederick Miser esq. James Druitt esq.

The area of the parish of Christchurch by the Ordnance Survey of 1871 is:

| | Acres. |
|---|---|
| Land | 20,984·683 |
| Public roads | 305·767 |
| Railways | 39·406 |
| Water | 118·279 |
| | 21,448·135 |

Rateable value, £105,731; the population of Christchurch parish in 1881 was 12,989 (which includes part of Bournemouth); of the parliamentary borough, 28,535; and of the old town, 2,681.

Hurn and East Parley are small hamlets, 3 miles north-west, situated on the river Stour, with a station on the London and South Western railway. At East Parley is a small school church, erected in 1868, and seating 130 persons, and served by the clergy of St. Peter, Bournemouth. There is also a small Baptist chapel. In the vicinity is Heron Court, the seat of the Earl of Malmesbury, well known for its paintings and flower gardens: the library contains the valuable collection of books formed by James Harris esq. author of "Hermes," and ancestor of the present Earl: this noble residence is situated near to the river Stour, and in the midst of thick woods and plantations richly interspersed with the Portugal laurel and rhododendrons.

Tuckton and Wick together form a tithing of Christchurch, on the Stour. The former is 1 mile south-west and the latter is a quarter of a mile south.

Here is the Home of Hope for destitute girls from all parts, supported by voluntary contributions; there are 20 inmates.

Parish Clerk, James Baker Jenkins.
Sexton, James Thomas Hyde.

CHURCH OAKLEY is a small village and parish half a mile south from Oakley station on the Andover and Salisbury branch of the South Western railway, 5 miles west from Basingstoke, 50 from London, in the Northern division of the county, hundred of Chuteley, Basingstoke union, county court district and petty sessional division, rural deanery of Basingstoke south-western division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Leonard is a building of flint, with Bath stone dressings, in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave of 2 bays and aisles, and a western tower with four pinnacles containing 5 bells: the pulpit is of alabaster and is finely chiselled: there is a lych gate: the church was rebuilt in 1869, from the designs of T. H. Wyatt esq. at a cost of about £6,000: an organ was purchased by subscription in 1874: the "Malshanger aisle" contains tombs of the Warham family, and an ancient stained window, portraying William Warham D.C.L. Lord Chancellor: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £380, with residence and 26 acres of glebe, in the gift of Queen's College, Oxford, and held since 1887 by the Rev. Francis Glynne Hume M.A. of that College. Mrs. A. Bramston left £21 yearly for bread, meat, clothing, or other useful articles to the poor of Deane and Oakley. The Rev. J. Scott Ramsay, who has been many years resident has a large establishment with a strong staff of masters for preparing pupils for army, university and civil service examinations. Malshanger, the seat of Wyndham Spencer Portal esq. J.P. is situated in a well-wooded park, and commands an extensive and pleasant view of the surrounding country: it immediately adjoins the site of an ancient mansion (of which a lofty octagonal tower is still standing), formerly the residence during the 15th and 16th centuries of the Warham family. William Warham, the most illustrious member of this family, was born here, and filled high offices in the State during the reigns of Henry VII. and Henry VIII. being successively Keeper of the Rolls, Ambassador to Philip Duke of Burgundy, Keeper of the Broad Seal, Bishop of London, Chancellor of England and Archbishop of Canterbury, which last honour he enjoyed 28 years; he died in 1532 and was buried at Canterbury. In the adjoining village of Ibworth, parish of Hannington, is a small timbered house, also the property of Mr. Portal, which is termed "Warham Cottage." Part of Oakley park is in this parish, but the mansion is in Deane. The Manor House is the residence of William Wither Bramston Beach esq. M.P., M.A., J.P. who is lord of the manor, and W. S. Portal esq. J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is a light loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area is 1,605 acres; rateable value, £3,421; the population in 1831 was 297.

CLANFIELD is a parish and village, 2½ miles north from Horndean, 6 south-west from Petersfield and 7½ north-east from Havant station on the Portsmouth line of the South Western railway, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of Finch Dean, Catherington union, Petersfield petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Havant and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. James is a building of flint and Bath stone, erected in 1879 on the site of the old church, from designs by Mr. R. J. Jones, of Ryde, at a cost of £1,460: it consists of chancel, nave, south porch and a western bell turret containing 2 bells: the font, bells and west window are all that remain of the old church: the interior is of red and white brick, and there is a handsome reredos of encaustic tiles: there are 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1547. The living is a rectory, annexed to that of Chalton, tithe rent-charge £811, joint gross annual value £934, net £400, in the gift of trustees for present incumbent, and held since 1875 by the Rev. Campbell Lock M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, who resides at Chalton. Here are Wesleyan and Congregational chapels. The interest on £200, left by Mr. Richards, in the year 1850, is distributed by the rector. Sir Arthur Clarke-Jervoise bart. of Idsworth Park, Horndean, is chief landowner and lord of the manor. The soil is light and dry; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,404 acres; rateable value, £887; the population in 1881 was 279.

UPPER CLATFORD is a parish in the Western division of the county, hundred of Pastrow, union, petty sessional division and county court district of Andover, rural deanery of South Andover and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, 1½ miles south from Andover and 1½ miles north from Goodworth Clatford station on the South Western railway, on the river Anton and the Pillhill brook, which here flows into the Anton. The Andover and Redbridge railway crosses this parish. The church of All Saints is a plain stone building, consisting of chancel, nave, a south porch of red brick and a south western pinnacled tower containing 4 bells: a singular arcade of two arches with piers of Norman character, divides the chancel from the nave, and there are the remains of an original Norman door in the south wall: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1571. The living is a rectory, tithes commuted at £525, net £385, with about 40 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1887 by the Rev. John William Boyd M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge. The Primitive Methodists have a chapel here, erected in 1883. At the foot of Bury hill, on the river Anna, is an extensive iron foundry, known as the Waterloo ironworks, conducted by Messrs. Tasker and Sons, general engineers, iron founders and agricultural implement manufacturers, having a siding connected with the railway. A Working Men's Hall, capable with the school of holding 500 persons, has been erected, at the expense of the Messrs. Tasker; it is also used as a library and reading rooms. Red Rice House, the property of Thomas Best esq. but now the residence of Henry Adolphus Simonds esq. is a noble mansion, very prettily situated in a well-timbered park of about 100 acres; it was formerly the residence of Governor Pitt, and was purchased by the grandfather of the present owner from Lord Berwick in 1845. Clatford Lodge is the residence of Henry Hammans esq. On Bury hill are the very perfect remains of an early encampment. Thomas Best esq. who is lord of the manor, Edwin Lywood esq. and Messrs. Tasker are the principal landowners. The soil is light loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. COLDEN COMMON is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1843 out of the parishes of Owslebury and Twyford, 2½ miles from Shawford railway station and 5 miles south from Winchester; it is in the Western division of the county, Winchester petty sessional division and county court district, and in the rural deanery, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of the Holy Trinity is a small modern structure of flint with stone dressings, in the Transition style, consisting of chancel, nave and south porch, with an open turret containing one bell: there are several stained windows: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1843. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £183, with residence and four acres of ornamental grounds, in the gift of the vicar of Twyford and the vicar of Owslebury alternately, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Alfred Peter Lovekin M.A. Cantuar, formerly of King's College, London. Here is a chapel of the Bible Christians, erected in 1866; it is a red brick building. Brick making is carried on here. The area is 1,618 acres; the population in 1881 was 713.

Sexton, Charles Venn.

COLEMORE (or COLMER) is a parish, 6 miles south from Alton railway station and 6 north-west from Petersfield, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of East Meon, Petersfield petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Petersfield and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The name is spelt in Domesday Book, Colemere; Colmer in the registers, 1563-1750; it has also been written Colmar without any apparent authority. The church of St. Peter ad Vincula, formerly cruciform, is a small edifice of flint, with stone dressings, consisting of chancel and nave, north transept, south porch and a short tower containing 2 bells: the north-eastern portion is Norman and the remainder Early English: the chancel screen is of old oak, the Norman font of Purbeck marble: in 1845 the church was re-seated with open benches and the porch added; a belfry was erected in 1866, and the chancel partly rebuilt in 1874-5: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1563. The living is a rectory, with that of Priors Dean annexed between A.D. 1161 and 1170, tithe rent-charge £500, joint net yearly value £326, including 30 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of and held since 1853 by the Rev. Thomas Hervey M.A. of Clare College, Cambridge. The manor of Colmer and Priors Dean was given by King John to the priory of Southwick by grants in 1198, 1202 and 1203: on the dissolution of the priory it was granted in 1540 by Henry VIII. to Queen Catherine Howard, and at her death to Edward Elrington: in 1602 it belonged to John Compton of Priors Dean, and through his great-grandson, Compton Tichborne, descended to the Tichborne family. The land chiefly belongs to the Tichborne trustees, but a hide of land, 390 acres in extent and forming a quasi-manor by itself, is now held by George Arthur Jervoise Scott esq. D.L., J.P. of Rotherfield Park, Alton; William Nicholson esq. M.P., J.P. of Basing Park, Alton, also owns 350 acres in the parish. The soil is clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are cereals. The area is 1,472 acres; rateable value, £739; the population in 1881 was 110.

Parish Clerk, Elijah Kemp.

COMBE is a small village and parish, situated in a deep valley on the Berkshire border and surrounded by downs, 6 miles south-east from Hungerford station, in the Western division of the county, Pastrow hundred, petty sessional division of Kingsclere, Hungerford union and county court district, rural deanery of Andover northern division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Swithin is a small, plain flint fabric in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, and low wooden tower at the west end with one bell; it was restored in 1881 by public subscription at a cost of £1,495: there are 180 sittings. The registers date from the year 1516. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £180, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and held since 1856 by the Rev. George Pearson M.A. of New Inn Hall, Oxford. Here formerly stood a convent connected with a priory in the Abbey of Bec in Normandy. There is a charity of £20s. a year, left by the late Mr. Skinner, formerly lessee of the great tithes, to be given to the poor either in bread or money on Christmas Eve. The manor is held by the Provost and Fellows of King's College, Cambridge, who are the sole landowners. The soil is rather heavy; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 2,226 acres; rateable value, £890; the population in 1881 was 134.

COMPTON is a village and parish, 2½ miles south from Winchester, situated on the river Itchen, in a narrow dell, open to the east and on the road from Winchester to Southampton; the South Western railway has a station half a mile distant at Shawford; the parish is in the Western division of the county, hundred of Buddlesgate, Winchester petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of All Saints is a small Norman structure, built of flint and rubble, consisting of chancel and nave, with windows of later date and a north porch: it has a wooden tower and 3 bells and ancient Norman font. In the churchyard is buried George Isaac Huntingford, successively bishop of Gloucester and of Hereford and warden of Winchester College, born 1748, died 1832, and in the church is a marble monument to his memory; here he commenced the earliest portion of his ministry as a curate, and he afterwards selected this as his last resting-place: there are 130 sittings. The register dates from about 1678. The living is a rectory, tithes commuted at £394 yearly, with 2 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1871 by the Rev. Charles Wickham M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford, and surrogate. On the remaining portion of the Down there are some barrows, and at the north-western extremity are traces of Oliver Cromwell's temporary encampment, whence he bombarded the Castle of Winchester, then garrisoned and defended for the king. The entire parish belongs to the Dean and Chapter of Winchester and the trustees of the Heathcote estate, who are also lords of the manor. The soil is chalk; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and turnips. The area is 2,098 acres of land and 12 of water; rateable value, £6,938; the population in 1881 was 275.

SILKSTEAD, 2 miles south-west, is partly in this parish and partly in that of Hursley. SHAWFORD, with a station on the London and South Western railway, is half a mile south-east, partly in this parish and partly in that of Twyford, which see.

CORHAMPTON is a small village and parish, 4 miles north-east from Bishop's Waltham and 10 north-west from Fareham, in the Eastern division of the county, lower half of the hundred of Meon Stoke, Droxford union and petty sessional division, Bishop's Waltham county court district, rural deanery of Bishop's Waltham, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester: Corhampton closely adjoins Meon Stoke and Exton, which form almost one town on the Meon river. The church (patron saint not known) is an ancient and very curious edifice of stone, in the Saxon style, consisting of chancel, nave, vestry, south porch and a bell cot on the western gable containing 2 bells: the chancel arch is a good specimen of Saxon: there is a stone chair built up in the south wall of the chancel: the church contains memorials to the Long family and to John Henry Campbell Wyndham esq. There is an ancient yew tree in the churchyard, which measures 26 feet in circumference, and is presumed to be more than 1,000 years old; under the tree is an oblong stone, bearing five crosses and which is supposed to have been the Saxon altar-stone removed at some remote period: there are 90 sittings, all free. The register of marriages dates from the year 1677; baptisms, 1678; burials, 1695. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value about £50, including 70 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Mrs. King Wyndham, and held since 1874 by the Rev. Harloe Robert Fleming M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. There was formerly an endowed school here for eight free boys, founded under the will of Mr. William Collins, who in the year 1669 left an estate situated at Nursted and now producing £22 yearly; under this will 8 boys from the following parishes, viz. 3 from Corhampton, 2 from Droxford, 2 from Meon Stoke and 1 from Exton, are now educated at Exton school, erected by the joint subscriptions of the two parishes: in the old school Sir Nicholas Hyde, chief justice of the King's Bench, who died in 1631, at Hinton Lodge, received the rudiments of his education. On the Down are barrows. Preshaw House, the property of Walter Jervis Long esq. J.P. is pleasantly situated in the parish; close to the house is an elegant chapel built by the late Walter Long esq. and opened at Christmas, 1864; it has since been altered by the present owner; divine service is held here twice a day on Sundays and is attended by the residents in the neighbourhood: the Rev. Claude Smith Bird M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, who resides at Winchester, has held the chaplaincy (which is in the gift of Mr. Long) since 1877. The widow of Richard King Wyndham esq. who is lady of the manor, and Walter Jervis Long esq. J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is chalky loam; subsoil, chalk, stone and flint. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 2,289 acres; rateable value, £885; in 1881 the population was 200.

CRAWLEY is a village and parish, 5 miles north-west from Winchester and 4 east from Stockbridge station on the Andover and Redbridge branch of the South Western railway, in the Western division of the county, Buddlesgate hundred, Winchester petty sessional division, union and county court district, and in the rural deanery of Winchester and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Mary is an ancient flint and rubble structure and exhibits an appearance of the Early English style: it consists of chancel, nave, vestry and south porch, with square tower and 5 bells: it has been re-seated and re-roofed: in 1887 the chancel was rebuilt and an organ chamber added by the rector and his family, at a cost of £1,200: during the alterations many traces of an earlier Norman edifice were discovered: a stained chancel window was inserted to Archdeacon Jacob; and a smaller stained window in the nave to Mrs. Kennard, ob. 1880: there is a brass in the chancel dated 1558 to 1609 to Michael Renniger, rector of Crawley, archdeacon of Winchester and chaplain to Queen Elizabeth: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1649. The living is a rectory, with the chapelry of Hunton annexed, joint yearly value £850, with 9 acres 2 roods of glebe and residence, in the gift of Queen's College, Oxford, and held since 1835 by the Rev. Edward Melford Mee M.A. formerly fellow, tutor and junior bursar of that college. On Crawley Down, in this parish, is a barrow. Crawley Court, the seat of Adam S. Kennard esq. J.P. is a handsome mansion of red brick and small flints, erected in 1877 in the modern Elizabethan style; the grounds are tastefully laid out: it has a tennis court, built originally for the use of George IV. when he resided at Rookley. Rookley, 3 miles south-west, on the borders of Up Somborne, is the seat of Edmund William Pyle Taunton esq. and Northwood, 2½ miles south-east, of Philip Vanderbyl esq. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are Adam S. Kennard esq. Philip Vanderbyl esq. George Morris esq. and Mrs. G. Pern. The soil is loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 3,607 acres; rateable value, £3,817; the population of the civil parish of Crawley in 1881 was 455.

CROFTON, 1½ miles south-east from Titchfield and 3 south-west from Fareham station, is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1871 from the civil parish of Titchfield, in the Southern division of the county, Portsmouth county court district, Fareham union and petty sessional division, Alverstoke rural deanery and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. STUBBINGTON hamlet is the centre of this parish. The present church of the Holy Rood was erected in 1878, at a cost of £4,000: it is of flints with stone dressings, in the transitional Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave and aisles, dwarf tower at the north-west angle with a bell turret containing one bell: Sir Frederic Sykes bart. presented a very fine organ in 1873: the east window is stained, and was erected in 1884 by Seymour Robert Delmé esq. in memory of his brother, Henry Peter Delmé esq. late of Cams Hall, Fareham, whom he succeeds: the west window was erected in 1887 by Thomas Eastman esq. in memory of his wife, and in 1889 an addition of 3 life-size figures of the Apostles, painted on Minton tiles, were added in the chancel by the late Hon. Miss Baring: there are 600 sittings. The old church of the Holy Rood is now used as a mortuary chapel. The register dates from 1837. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £300, from the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1874 by the Rev. Pitt Cobbett. A vicarage house was built in 1874 by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. Seafield, the property of the Rev. Rupert William Pain M.A. a modern mansion standing in grounds of 75 acres, and commanding beautiful views, is at present occupied as a scholastic establishment. The principal landowner is Seymour Robert Delmé esq. of Cams Hall, Fareham, who is lord of the manor. The soil is various; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, turnips and oats. The area is 4,500 acres; the population in 1881 was 1,060.

CRONDALL (or CRONDELL) is a large village and extensive parish, 4 miles west-north-west from Farnham station, in the Northern division of the county, hundred of Crondell, Odiham petty sessional division, Hartley Wintney union, Farnham county court district, rural deanery of Odiham and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The parish is divided into four tithings—viz., Crookham, Crondall and Swanthorpe, Dippenhall and Ewshott. The church of All Saints is a large edifice of stone and brick, in the Norman style, advancing to Early English, consisting of chancel and nave, with massive brick embattled tower at the east end, with pinnacles, erected in 1659, containing 6 bells, to which chime hammers have been added, which enables one person to chime the whole peal: the interior is a beautiful specimen of Norman architecture: it was restored in 1845, at a cost of nearly £1,900, and again repaired in the year 1871, at a cost of £800: there is a brass in the sanctuary, dated 1571, to Sir Edward Throgmortin and his children; also one, dated 1641, to John Eggar: in the chancel there is a brass figure (not dated), almost life-size, representing a priest in full vestments, supposed to be the last Catholic priest of this church: on the vestments are the Fylfot cross, which has been adopted by the burial board as their seal: there are 520 sittings, free. The register dates from the year 1567: one of an earlier date has been found, 1546. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £593, in the gift of C. J. Maxwell-Lefroy esq. and held since 1833 by the Rev. William Dann Harrison M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford, who is also vicar of and resides at South Stoneham; the Rev. Radford Ellis Wright B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin, has been curate in charge since 1887. Here is much hop land, for which an extra charge of 13s. 4d. an acre added to the vicarial rent-charge has been commuted for a fixed annual sum. The rectorial tithes, commuted at £1,963 a year, are now under the control of the trustees of St. Cross Hospital, Winchester. Here are Congregational and Bible Christian chapels. A cemetery of 2 acres was formed in 1880 at a cost of £700: it is under the control of a burial board of 5 members. Elizabeth Oliver, housekeeper to Henry Maxwell esq. of Ewshott House, gave a sum, which at present amounts to £1,238 15s. 2d. 2¾ per cent. Consols, for the purpose of educating children of the poor inhabitants of the parish (both charities now vested in trustees appointed by the Charity Commissioners): Mr. Maxwell also gave a building to be used as the school-room. Andrew's charity of £16 16s. yearly is for clothing. The parish is rich in antiquarian interest. In the "Codex Diplom." vol. iii. is found the Saxon charter of King Edgar, anno 976, granting the lands of Crondell to the church of St. Peter, Winchester, the present cathedral. An ancient encampment exists at Barley Pound, near to which were discovered some years ago the foundations of a Roman villa, and a tesselated pavement, since destroyed, but which was of considerable beauty. At the south-east extremity of and partly in this parish, on the edge of Ewshott Heath, is Cæsar's camp, with a double ditch and most commanding crelline: across the valley of Boarley the opposite bluff has on it the foundations of an old beacon, and is thence called Beacon Hill. In the year 1828 a most rare and interesting collection of gold coins, of the Merovingian and other early French mints, was found near Hampton Gutter by the late C. E. Lefroy esq. of Ewshott House, and are now deposited in the Kensington Museum: they may be conjectured to have been dropped in a purse (of which some of the ornaments were also found at the same time) by some traveller on his way from our southern coast to London, perhaps as long ago as the sixth or seventh century. Three public-houses of the sign of the "Horns," in this part of the parish, show the proximity, in times gone by, of the deer of the royal forests. The Bishops of Winchester have an ancient right of free warren over some of the lands of the parish, and have also 163 acres in the parish. Clare Park is the seat of Lieut.-Col. George Francis Birch J.P. situated 1 mile, and Itchel Manor, Charles James Maxwell-Lefroy esq. about 1 mile from the church. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are the Crown, Charles James Maxwell-Lefroy esq. (who is also lord of the manor of Ewshott), Lieut.-Col. Birch, J. Lindsay Johnston esq. Messrs. Barton, Chaundler, Eggar, Hazell, and the Rev. A. A. Welby. The parish of Crondall comprises a great variety of soils, from the Bagshot sands of Crookham and Ewshott to the chalk and clays of the other tithings. The land in cultivation is light; subsoil, sand, gravel and chalk. The crops are a succession of grain; hops are also extensively cultivated. The area is 9,741 acres; rateable value, £18,196, including the above tithings; the population in 1881 was 3,188—viz., Crookham, 1,155; Crondall and Swanthorpe, 1,600, including 176 in the Hartley Wintney Workhouse school; Dippenhall, 291, and Ewshott, 433.

Parish Clerk, Samuel Cranstone.

Crookham and Ewshott tithings were, in 1842, formed into an ecclesiastical parish. Christ Church, at Crookham, erected in the year 1841, at a cost of £3,422, is brick building in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, transept, north aisle, south porch and vestry, added in 1877, with a small bell turret containing one bell. The stained east window was put in in memory of Miss Dyson, 1879; the west window is also stained: there are 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1842. The living is a perpetual curacy, yearly value £300, in the gift of the vicar of Crondall, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Wilfrid Gordon Wickham, of St. John's College, Oxford. The poor in the tithings of Crookham and Ewshott have £94 yearly in fuel, derived from the investment of a sum of money obtained by sale of allotments to government. Almshouses have been erected with the proceeds of a legacy bequeathed by Miss Isabella Cottrell, of Bath, for the benefit of the poor.

EWSHOTT is an ecclesiastical parish, formed March 16, 1886, from the parish of Crondall and ecclesiastical parish of Crookham-cum-Ewshott. St. Mary's church, Ewshott, erected in 1873, on site given by J. Lindsay Johnston esq. is a small stone building in the Early English style, consisting of chancel and nave, and a bell turret containing one bell: there are 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1886. The living is a perpetual curacy, yearly value £164, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Thomas Robinson B.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. Dinorben Court, the Lea, and the Knoll and Court Moor, are the principal residences in Crookham. A part of the Aldershot Camp is in Ewshott tithing. The population of Crookham is estimated at 800; that of Ewshott 400.

FLEET ecclesiastical parish will be found under a separate heading.

Upper Swanthorp (or Swanthrop) is 2 miles south-west; Itchel Manor, 1 mile west.

CRUX EASTON is a parish and small village, 6 miles north-west from Whitchurch and 7 south from Newbury, in the Western division of the county, hundred of Pastrow, Kingsclere petty sessional division and union, Newbury county court district, rural deanery of Andover northern division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. It is stated that the name is a corruption of Crook's, so called from having been given by William the Conqueror to his huntsman Crook or Crooch. The church of St. Michael is a small structure of brick, erected in 1775, on the site of the old church, and consists of chancel and nave, and has one bell hung in the roof: the font is of carved Italian marble: there are 120 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1702; marriages, 1754; burials, 1742. The living is a rectory; the tithes are commuted at £205 yearly, net yearly value £180, including 27 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1882 by the Rev. William Edwin Lowsley Caudwell, who is also vicar of Woodcott. Roman pottery and Norman remains have recently (1889) been discovered here. Pope occasionally visited this village, and there are some lines of his in Dodsley and also in the parish register, on a grotto constructed by nine sisters, daughters of Mr. Lisle, who inhabited the mansion. The Earl of Carnarvon, who is lord of the manor, and the Rev. W. E. L. Caudwell are the chief landowners. The soil is heavy; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and turnips. The area is 1,099 acres; rateable value, £689; the population in 1881 was 56.

Parish Clerk, George Hinton.

CURDRIDGE is a tithing, 3 miles south-west from Bishop's Waltham, and near the Botley station on the South Western railway; it was formed into an ecclesiastical parish in 1838 from the civil parish of Bishop's Waltham; it is in the Eastern division of the county, Droxford union and petty sessional division, and Bishop's Waltham county court district, rural deanery of Bishop's Waltham and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Peter, built in 1887, at a cost of about £3,300 and opened Nov. 6th, 1888, is an edifice after the style of the 15th century, of flint, with stone dressings, and consists of chancel, nave, south porch, and has one bell, and it will seat 250 persons: at present (1889) it is without tower, but it is intended to erect one 80 feet high: there is a small memorial brass to Elizabeth Parker Hughes, daughter of the Rev. Henry Howell, a former incumbent of this parish: T. G. Jackson esq. of 4 Nottingham place W. was the architect: the memorial stone was laid 29 Nov. 1887, by Miss Burrell, of Fairthorne, who was a large contributor towards the building fund besides presenting the pulpit, lectern and massive brass communion rail; the pulpit is of carved oak: the organ was presented in memory of the late Rev. Henry Jenkyns D.D. canon of Durham, and Harriet, his wife, by their children: the font of handsome carved Caen stone was presented by Edward Henry and Mrs. Liddell, of Kitnocks; all inside work usually stone is of chalk from Betchworth, including chancel and organ chamber arches: the facing of all the windows on the south side and the east window of chancel are worthy of attention; the windows are of Messrs. Powell and Sons' muff glass. The register dates from the year 1835. The living is a vicarage, endowed with £100 out of the tithes of the mother parish, net yearly value £250, including 5 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1867 by the Rev. George William Hills, of St. Bees: the vicarage house, situated close to the church, was built in 1883. There is an iron chapel belonging to the Brethren here, which will seat 70; and a reading room and library of 500 books. Penford's charity of £7 10s. yearly, left by Miss Penford, of Bishop's Waltham, is for distribution. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor; the principal landowners are Robert Anthony Burrell esq. J.P. Henry Jenkyns esq. C.B., M.A. Thomas F. Wood esq. and Mrs. E. Powell. The soil is loam and chalk; subsoil, chalk and flint. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The population in 1881 was 525.

EAST DEAN is a parish on the Wiltshire border of the county, 7 miles north-west from Romsey and 1 east from West Dean station on the Salisbury branch of the South Western railway, in the New Forest division of the county, Romsey union, petty sessional division and county court district, Thorngate hundred, rural deanery of Romsey and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church (not dedicated) is a small ancient stuccoed structure, partly of Dorset red sandstone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave and north porch, with wooden belfry at the west end containing one bell and small gallery at the west end: the building is very old and is said to have a history of 700 years; it is in great need of repair: there are 90 sittings. The register, including the earlier register of Lockerley, dates from the year 1682. By an Order in Council (Dec. 1884) the chapelries of Lockerley and East Dean were separated from the parish of Mottisfont, and together constituted a separate parish, perpetual curacy and benefice, named "The Perpetual Curacy of Lockerley with East Dean." The living is a chapelry annexed to Lockerley, joint net yearly value £135, tithe commutation £206, with 3½ acres of land, in the gift of Frederick G. Dalgety esq. of Lockerley Hall, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Stafford Faulkner Bourdillon B.A. Edward Stephen Williams M.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge, is curate in charge. East Dean House is the residence of the Hon. Henry Dugdale Curzon B.A., J.P. who is lord of the manor, and with Captain William Baring the chief landowners. The soil is loam and clay; subsoil, chalk and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,073 acres; rateable value, £1,397; the population in 1881 was 179.

PRIOR'S DEAN is a parish 5 miles north-west from Petersfield and 4 north-west from Liss station on the direct Portsmouth line of the South Western railway, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of East Meon, Petersfield petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Petersfield and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The neighbouring scenery is wild and romantic. The church (not dedicated) is a small but ancient building of stone in the Norman and Early English styles, consisting of chancel, nave, north porch, and in the nave is a curious timber structure which carries the belfry containing 2 bells, and has a Norman doorway: there are several ancient monuments of the Compton and Tichborne families: on the north side of the chancel is a tomb of marble and alabaster with kneeling effigies, to Elizabeth Tichborne and her children; on the south side is a monument with busts, to Sir John Compton, knighted by James I. in 1625, and Dame Bridget his wife, 1634, erected by their grandson Tichborne Compton esq. to whom there is likewise a monument with bust; he died in 1657: the chancel also retains a brass to John Compton and Joan his wife, 1605: the church was restored in 1857, when a new chancel arch was built and a new font provided; a new buttress at the south-west, and a footway of encaustic tiles in the chancel were added in 1884: there are 80 sittings: in the churchyard is a large box tree and a yew tree. The register dates from 1538. The benefice is a chapelry, annexed to the rectory of Colmer, by Richard Fitz Turstin, the sheriff, who was parson of Alton and Colmer between 1161 and 1170; the tithes are commuted at £287 and included in the value of Colmer, in the gift of and held since 1852 by the Rev. Thomas Harvey M.A. of Clare College, Cambridge, who resides at Colmer. Goleigh Farm is the property of Winchester College. The manor (some particulars of which are given under Colmer) and nearly the whole of the parish belong to the Tichborne trustees. The old manor house was once the seat of the Tichborne family. The soil varies from a stiff clay to very light soil; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat and oats. The area is 1,596 acres of arable land; rateable value, £891; the population in 1881 was 165.

Parish Clerk, Elijah Kemp.

WEST DEAN is a parish, partly in Hants but principally in Wilts, and particulars will be found in Kelly's Directory of the latter county.

DEANE is a parish and pleasant village 2 miles east from Overton station and 1¼ south-west from Oakley station on the Andover and Salisbury branch of the South Western railway, and 6 west from Basingstoke, in the Northern division of the county, Basingstoke union, petty sessional division and county court district, Overton hundred, rural deanery of Basingstoke south-western division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of All Saints, rebuilt in 1818, is an edifice of flint and stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel and nave, south porch and a western embattled tower with 4 pinnacles containing 5 bells: it was re-pewed in 1865: the windows are stained; the east window, representing the three hours darkness, is very handsome, and is believed to have cost 300 guineas; it was brought from Belgium: over the communion table is a painting of the Saviour on the Cross: in the church are several monuments to the Bramston, Wither and Harwood families and others: there are 100 sittings. W. W. B. Beach esq. M.P. has given an additional piece of land for the burial ground. The register dates from the year 1659. The living is a rectory, in the gift of William W. B. Beach esq. M.P. tithes commuted at £325, net yearly value £260, with 56 acres of glebe with residence, and held since 1873 by the Rev. Francis Osborn Giffard M.A. of St. John's College, Oxford. The father of the authoress Miss Jane Austen was rector of Deane for some years. W. Bramston left in 1826 £12 yearly for repair of this church. There is a charge on the manor of Ashe of about £70 yearly for the support of two aged persons of this parish in the almshouse at Basingstoke. There is also a clothing charity for this and the adjoining parish of Church Oakley, usually distributed on St. Thomas' day. Oakley Hall, the property of William Wither Bramston Beach esq. M.P., J.P. and residence of William Cooper esq. is situated close to the South Western railway, which intersects the park: the mansion was built in 1795 upon the site of the former edifice, and altered in 1860; it is situated in the midst of an extensive and well-wooded park, covering about 490 acres, which extends into Church Oakley parish. William W. B. Beach esq. M.P., J.P. who is lord of the manor, and Lieut.-Col. Sir Nelson Rycroft bart. J.P. of Kempshott Park, are the landowners. The soil is gravelly; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and roots. The area is 1,557 acres, including woods; rateable value, £3,621; the population in 1881 was 145.

DENMEAD, the principal village of which is called BARN GREEN, is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1880 from the parishes of Hambledon and Catherington and part of the Forest of Bere, 6 miles north-west from Havant station, 6 north from Cosham station, 7½ south-east from Bishop's Waltham, 8 south-south-west from Petersfield, 9 north from Portsmouth, in the Eastern division of the county, Droxford hundred and petty sessional division, Catherington and Droxford unions, Bishop's Waltham county court district, rural deanery of Havant, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The chapelry of Denmead had its church desecrated at the Reformation, and that building is now used as a farmhouse. The new church of All Saints is a flint building in the Early English style, erected in 1880 at a cost of £2,000, and consists of chancel and nave, with north-eastern bell turret and south porch: it is seated with chairs and holds 240 people, and is free and open: on the north side is a stained window to the memory of Mr. William Griffin, the donor of the land for the church: there is also a brass over the entrance doorway to Col. Thomas Butler, of Bury Lodge, Hambledon, one of the principal benefactors to the church: the east window is stained and was put in at the expense of Mrs. Garnett to the memory of Thomas Garnett, jun.: a plain Latin silver cross with large topaz in the centre was presented by C. D. Vesey esq. The register dates from the year 1881. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £300 and house, close to church, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1880 by the Rev. Fredk. Chas. Green M.A. of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge. There is a Mission-room at World's End, a building belonging formerly to the Hambledon School Board, which being found useless has been sold for that purpose. The principal landowners are Winchester College, the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and the Commissioners of Woods and Forests, T. Thistlethwayte esq. and a number of smaller proprietors. The following places are within the parish: ANMORE is half a mile east; ANTHILL, half a mile north-west; APLESS, 1½ west; BROADWAY, 1½ east; BUNKER'S HILL, half a mile south-west; BUNN'S LANE, 2½ west; CRABBICK, 1 west; EASTLAND GATE, 2 east; ERVILL'S, 1½ west; FURZE HILL, 1 south-east; PIPER'S HILL, 1½ south-east; SOAKE, 1 east; and WORLD'S END, 1½ west.

LITTLE CREECH, formerly extra-parochial, is now annexed to this parish; it has 286 acres and belongs to the Crown; it is 1 mile south-west.

There is an undenominational chapel situate between Barn Green and Anmore, which formerly belonged to the Baptists. There is also a Primitive Methodist chapel at World's End.

The area is about 3,500 acres; rateable value included in Hambledon and Catherington; the population in 1881 was 863.

DIBDEN is a parish and village, 4 miles south from Redbridge station on the London and South Western railway and 9 by road from Southampton, in the New Forest division of the county, union of New Forest, Lymington petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Fawley, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. This place was anciently called Depedene, on account of its situation in a thickly-wooded dell, and was of some importance at the time of the Conquest: it is bounded on the east by the Southampton Water. The church (dedication unknown) is an edifice of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles with south porch: there are some stained windows and an ancient font: the church was restored in 1862, and the north aisle rebuilt in 1874: an embattled tower was built in 1882, and a peal of 8 bells fixed in it in 1887: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1625. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £415, net yearly value £400, including 7 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Edward Nourse Harvey esq. J.P. and held since 1860 by the Rev. Edward Carlyon B.A. of Exeter College, Oxford. The Romsey Charity Commissioners, who are lords of the manor, William Gascoigne Roy esq. of Byams, Marchwood, and the Rev. G. Wrenford Southouse M.A. are the principal landowners. The surrounding scenery is very beautiful, and the air healthy. The soil is sandy; subsoil, loam. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats, and much is in pasture. The area is 3,837 acres; rateable value, £4,058; the population in 1881 was 502.

DOGMERSFIELD (called in Domesday Book, ORMESVELDS) is a parish, 2½ miles east-by-north from Odiham and 2 south from Winchfield station on the London and South Western railway, by which line it is 42 miles from London, in the Northern division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Odiham, union of Hartney Wintney, Basingstoke county court district, rural deanery of Odiham, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The Basingstoke canal passes through the parish. All Saints' church was erected in 1843: it is a handsome stone edifice in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and tower containing 4 bells and a clock: several of the windows are stained: there are 210 sittings. An older church still remains: it is in the park adjoining Flood's farm, but is not used, although only erected in 1806 to replace the ancient church then pulled down. The register dates from the year 1695. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £330, with residence and 6 acres of glebe land, in the gift of Sir Henry B. P. St. John-Mildmay bart. D.L., J.P. and held since 1888 by the Rev. William Vincent Barnard M.B. of New College, Oxford. The poor have in charities about £17 10s. yearly, distributed in clothing. Dogmersfield Park, the seat of Sir Henry Bouverie Paulet St. John-Mildmay bart. D.L., J.P. is a handsome structure, situate in a finely-timbered park of about 1,000 acres, including two beautiful sheets of water of about 50 acres in extent; he is lord of the manor, and owns the whole parish, with the exception of three cottages. The soil varies, in places stiff clay, and other portions loam; subsoil, clay and sand. The land is chiefly pasture. The crops of grain are wheat, oats and barley; a few hops are cultivated. The area is 1,728 acres; rateable value, £1,911; the population in 1881 was 293.

DROXFORD (or DROKINSFORD) is a parish and small town, pleasantly situated on the river Meon, the head of a union and petty sessional division, 5 miles east from Bishop's Waltham, the nearest railway station, 8 north-north-east from Fareham, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred and county court district of Bishop's Waltham, rural deanery of Bishop's Waltham, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Mary and All Saints is a building of stone and flint, in the Norman, Early English and later styles, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, south aisle, south porch and a western embattled tower, with turret, containing 4 bells and a clock: the chancel arch and the north and south doorways are Norman, and the nave arcades Early English: a Mixed style of architecture pervades the remainder of the building: in the north aisle is the recumbent stone effigy of a lady, found in "Palace meadow," in this parish about 1820: the stained east window and all the fittings in the chancel were presented by Capt. C. Jackson R.N.: the church was repaired and repewed in 1847: in 1872 it was again restored, at a cost of about £800, and a new organ introduced, which cost £150: the brass eagle lectern was presented in 1875 by the late R. R. Goodlad esq. of Hill place, in memory of Emma, his wife: attached to the church is a library of very valuable theological books: there are 350 sittings, one-third of which are appropriated. The register of marriages and burials dates from the year 1633; baptisms, 1635. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £750, net £600, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1868 by the Rev. Robert Everson Harrisson M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge. The charities, amounting to £13 13s. yearly, are distributed to the widows and aged poor of the parish on St. Thomas' day. The poor parishioners have the dividend of £215 £2¾ per Cent. stock, purchased with £168 left by John Dee, John Arthur and the Rev. James Cutler about the middle of the last century. There is also a charity called the "Boucher charity." Here is a brewery. The Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Manchester Unity, 6,374, "Loyal Pride of the Valley," is held at the White Horse inn every fourth Monday in the month. The principal landowners are the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, who are lords of the manor, F. J. Minchin esq. Mrs. King Wyndham, of Corhampton; Thomas Henry Wilson esq. and W. H. Myers J.P. of Swanmore. The soil is chalky, loam and clay; subsoil, chalk, stone, flint and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and some land in pasturage. The area is 6,937 acres of land and 33 of water; rateable value, £9,797; and the population in 1881 was 2,285, including 92 officers and inmates of the workhouse.

HILL is a tithing, 2 miles south-west.

DUMMER and KEMPSHOTT is a parish and village, 5 miles south-west from Basingstoke and 13 from Winchester, in the Northern division of the county, petty sessional division, union, highway district and county court district of Basingstoke, hundred of Bermondspit, rural deanery of Basingstoke south-western division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of All Saints dates from the 13th century, and probably stands on the site of the earlier church, which, according to Domesday Book, existed in 1086; it consists of chancel and nave, western porch of the 15th century, and a wooden belfry, containing 5 bells; the pulpit of carved oak and a curious baldachino or canopy, immediately to the west of the chancel-arch, which formerly covered the rood or crucifix, are both of the 15th century; traces of the rood loft remain in the north and south walls: in the church are some curious brasses; one records in Leonine or rhymed Latin verse the memory of William Dummer, alias Farley, and Ellen (Dummer), his wife, lady of the manor of Dummer, both of whom died in 1427: by her first husband, Sir Nicholas Atte More, she was the ancestress of William Atte More, alias Dummer, who died in 1593, and lies buried beneath a stone whereon is a brass in beautiful preservation, inscribed with his arms and a curious English rhymed epitaph, while in the adjacent wall his effigy appears, together with that of his wife and infant son who died before him: with him the long line of Dummer of Dummer, who had held the lordship of the manor from the reign of Henry I. (more than 400 years), ended, and the estates passed to the Millingate family, and again about the end of the 17th century to the Terry family, by whom they were held till 1864: there are about 180 sittings. The register dates from the year 1540. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £472, gross yearly value £578, including 80 acres of glebe and a residence, in the gift of and held since 1882 by the Rev. George Jones M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel, built in 1862 and enlarged in 1867. The Rev. William Marriott, then rector, in 1606 left £1 yearly for the purchase of 3 Bibles, to be given away on Easter Monday, and there are others of £2 a year for the relief of the poor. The Rev. George Whitfield M.A. the friend and coadjutor of John and Charles Wesley, had temporary charge of this parish. In the summer of 1888 an ancient burial urn was discovered near Dummer Church; further excavations brought to light about 12 vases of very slightly baked clay containing burnt human remains and bones; on one vase was placed a food vessel, once no doubt containing provisions for the long journey to the other world: the excavations were made by the curators of the Southampton and Reading museums, and specimens are in the Institute: the vases are of very high antiquity of the Stone age, and numerous flints were found in the adjoining field. The manor house, the ancient seat of the Dummer family, stands near the church, enbosomed in trees: the thickness of its walls attests its age, and parts of it are probably as old as the 14th century, though it has received frequent additions: it was sold by the Terry family, together with a considerable part of the parish, in 1864 to the Rev. T. J. Torr, and again 10 years later to Sir Nelson Rycroft bart. J.P.; Mrs. William Puckle is the present occupier. Col. Sir Nelson Rycroft bart. J.P. of Kempshott park, is lord of the manor and principal landowner, the other landowners being the Rev. Thomas Joseph Torr M.A. and Mrs. Adams, of 51 Bedford square W.C. The soil is clay, with a subsoil of chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 2,869 acres, of which about 120 are wood; rateable value, £2,352; the population in 1881 was 390.

Acting Parish Clerk, William Willis.

POST OFFICE.—Rowland Davis Drinkwater, receiver. Letters arrive from Basingstoke at 8 a.m. & leave at 5 p.m.; sunday 11 a.m.; Worting the nearest money order & Basingstoke the nearest telegraph office

National School (mixed), originally founded by John Millingate esq. in 1610, rebuilt in 1815, & enlarged in 1846, when a teachers' residence was added, & again enlarged in 1870: it has two endowments, amounting to £14 a year, & will hold 70 children; average attendance, 73; Miss Kate Gillingham, mistress; Miss Annie Gillingham, assistant mistress

Kempshott was a tithing and a separate manor, and is situated 3 miles west of Winslade, from which parish it is entirely detached, and has been added, for civil purposes, under the provisions of the Divided Parishes Act (39 and 40 Vic. c. 61, 1876), to the parish of Dummer. Kempshott house, an imposing structure, stands on a slight eminence in the midst of a well-wooded park of 150 acres, and fronts the London and Southampton road: it was for many centuries the residence of the Pinke family, who sold it in 1773, since which time it has changed hands frequently; towards the end of the last century it was occupied by the Prince of Wales, afterwards George IV. as a hunting seat: the ancient Manor House was pulled down in 1774, and the present mansion erected on a new site: it was, however, greatly added to and improved in 1873, and is now the residence of Col. Sir Nelson Rycroft bart. J.P. who owns the manor and land. In Domesday Book, Kempshott appears as a separate manor under the name of Campessete. The area is 555 acres.

DURLEY is a parish and small village, situated on a small rivulet, which turns several corn mills, 3¾ miles west from Bishop's Waltham station and 7 north-east from Southampton, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred and county court district of Bishop's Waltham, Droxford union and petty sessional division, rural deanery of Bishop's Waltham and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of the Holy Cross is a cruciform building of stone in the Early English style of the 13th century, and consists of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and a western turret with dwarf shingled spire, containing 3 bells: it was thoroughly restored in 1879 at a cost of £1,410, and has sittings for about 200 persons. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a rectory, formerly united with Upham, the tithes are commuted at £410 yearly, net annual value £220, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1873 by the Rev. Richard Ferguson M.A. late Fellow of Pembroke College, Cambridge. Here is a Wesleyan chapel, which will seat about 80. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are George Edward Gillat, George William Palmer, John Pilling, William Thresher and Edmund Bernard esqrs. The soil is sandy loam; subsoil, clay and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 2,496 acres; rateable value, £2,825; the population in 1881 was 476.

EASTLEIGH is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1868 from the civil parish of South Stoneham, and includes the tithings of BARTON PEVERIL, EASTLEIGH and BOYATT: it has a station on the London and South Western railway, one mile south-west from Bishopstoke, 5½ miles north-east from Southampton, in the Southern division of the county, Mansbridge hundred, South Stoneham union, Southampton petty sessional division, county court district and rural deanery of Bishop's Waltham and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The railway station (formerly called Bishopstoke) on the South Western railway is at Barton Peveril in this parish, and from it two lines diverge, one to Portsmouth, Fareham and Gosport and the other to Salisbury. The church of the Resurrection, built in 1868, at a cost of £2,300, is an edifice of Plymouth stone, with Bath stone dressings, in the Early Decorated style, from designs by the late Geo. E. Street esq. R.A. and consists of chancel, nave, transept, south porch and a bell-cote containing one bell; also a north aisle, north transept and organ chamber, added in 1884: there are 370 sittings. The register dates from the year 1868. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £170, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1868 by the Rev. William Arthur Longlands B.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge. Here is a Bible Christian chapel. St. Mary's Home (Catholic) for domestic servants, built in 1884 by Miss Simeon, of Eastleigh, is a commanding structure of brick with stone dressings, facing the park, and has a chapel adjoining; the Rev. Luke Gunning is the priest. The Mission Hall, a brick building, erected by Miss Perks, of Winchester, in 1834, will hold about 300 persons. Immediately adjoining the railway station is the Junction family hotel, also in close proximity to the Itchen, which affords excellent trout fishing. Tankerville Chamberlayne esq. of Cranbury Park, Winchester, is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and beans. The soil is light sandy; subsoil, generally gravel. The population in 1881 was 1,017.

EASTON is a large village and parish, 3 miles north-east from Winchester station, situate on the river Itchen, in the Western division of the county, hundred of Fawley, Winchester petty sessional division, union and county court district, Alresford rural deanery and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Mary is an ancient edifice of flint with stone dressings, in which the Norman and Early English styles are blended together: it has a most curious chancel and nave, and a low capped tower containing 3 bells: it contains a mural monument to Agatha, relict of William Barlow, Bishop of Chichester, which records the singular fortunes of their five daughters, who were married to five bishops: the church was restored in 1872: there are 206 sittings. The register dates from the year 1692. The living is a rectory; the tithes have been commuted at £620, with modern residence and 5 acres of glebe, net yearly value £420, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Benjamin Pidcock B.A. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge. Here is a small Wesleyan chapel. Edward Shelley esq. is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is chalk and loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 2,762 acres of land and 19 of water; rateable value, £3,134; the population in 1881 was 484.

Parish Clerk, Thomas Sturges.

EASTROP is a parish forming a suburb of Basingstoke, which see.

ECCHINSWELL (in Domesday Book ECHINSWELLE) is a pleasant village, situated on the north of the downs, 6 miles south from Newbury and 2 north-west from Kingsclere, in the Western division of the county, Kingsclere union and petty sessional division, Evingar hundred, Newbury county court district, rural deanery of Andover northern division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester: a small stream rises close to where the old church was and flows on to the river Emborne. The place takes its name from the Saxon word Eikena, an oak, and means the well by the oaks. The old church of St. Lawrence was demolished and a new one, also named St. Lawrence, built in 1886, at a cost of £5,000: it is in the Early English style, and is built of cut flint with stone dressings; it consists of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and wooden spire with 2 bells: there is a magnificent oak screen and three of the windows are stained: there are 200 sittings, all free: the architects were Messrs. Bodley and Garner, of London. The separate register dates only from the year 1844; the earlier register is included in that of Kingsclere. The living, which is a vicarage with that of Sydmonton, was, in 1852, separated from Kingsclere, yearly value £275, with residence, in the patronage of the vicar of Kingsclere for the time being, and held since 1884 by the Rev. Wilfrid Anderdon Boyce B.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. A parsonage house was built in the year 1853. The cemetery is close to the vicarage house. Here is a Congregational chapel, built in 1860, to seat 150. The Earl of Carnarvon P.C. is lord of the manor. The chief landowners are William Howley Kingsmill esq. J.P. of Sydmonton Court, and Mrs. Digweed, late of Ecchinswell House. The soil is generally rich loam; subsoil, chiefly gravel and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats, with rich pasture lands. The valley is peculiarly productive, yielding crops and general farm produce in great abundance. The area is 2,245 acres; rateable value, £2,239; the population in 1881 was 445.

Parish Clerk, John Stevens.

POST OFFICE.—George Maslen, receiver. Letters from Newbury arrive at 8.20 a.m.; dispatched at 4.40 p.m.; on sundays at 10.45 a.m. Kingsclere is the nearest money order & telegraph office

ELDON (or UPPER ELDON) is a manor and parish, 5 miles north from Romsey and 2½ north-east from Mottisfont station on the Andover branch of the South Western railway, in the Western division of the county, King's Somborne hundred, Romsey petty sessional division and county court district, Stockbridge union, Romsey rural deanery and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church of St. John the Baptist is an ancient building, in the Early English style and of simple character, very much dilapidated, but put in order for occasional services and served from Michelmersh. The living is a sinecure rectory, £45 yearly tithe rent-charge, in the gift of John Hussey esq. of Crewkerne, Somerset, who owns and cultivates all the land. The soil is chalk and gravel; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 276 acres; rateable value, £194; the population in 1881 was 6.

Letters are received through Stockbridge S.O. at 7.30 a.m. & collected by the postman

ELING is a parish and village, 86 miles from London, 5 west from Southampton, 6½ south from Romsey and one mile south from Totton station on the Southampton and Dorchester branch of the South Western railway, in the New Forest division of the county, hundred of Redbridge, New Forest union, Lyndhurst district of the Lymington and New Forest petty sessional division, Southampton county court district, rural deanery of Fordingbridge eastern division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, situate near the head of the Southampton Water, on the western side. Eling parish is divided into the following tithings:—BARTLEY-REGIS, BAULDOXFEE, BISTERN WITH BARTLEY, COLBURY, DURLEY, NORTH ELING, SOUTH ELING, LANGLEY, LOPERWOOD, MARCHWOOD, RUMBRIDGE, TATCHBURY, GREAT and LITTLE TESTWOOD, WADE and WIGLEY OWER and ST. MARY ELING and TOTTON are all ranged round the western head of the Southampton Water, forming an almost continuous town, with a brewery, steam flour mills, pickling timber works, steam saw mills, timber wharves and other waterside business places. The parish of Eling is divided into five ecclesiastical parishes, viz. Eling St. Mary (the mother church), North Eling, Netley, Marchwood and Colbury. St. Mary's parish contains the villages of ELING and TOTTON. The church of St. Mary, situated upon a spur of Eling hill and overlooking Southampton Water, is a very ancient edifice of flint and stone, having chancel with two bays, nave of three bays, aisles and south porch and embattled western tower, with clock and 6 fine-toned bells, the earliest built portion being a mixture of Saxon and Norman styles: in 1865 the chancel, south aisle and greater portion of the nave were rebuilt in the Early English style: the interior was thoroughly restored and reseated, and a handsome carved stone reredos, representing the Nativity, erected: three handsome stained glass windows now adorn the chancel. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £630, net yearly value £700, including 200 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of William Phillips esq. and held since 1885 by the Rev. Joseph Clarke M.A. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge. The New Forest Union house is in this parish; for particulars of union see Southampton. A fair is held at Eling on July 5th.

Totton, the principal place in the parish, is situate at the extremity of the Southampton Water, where the river Test flows into it; here are also about 50 acres of excellent salt marsh, over which the inhabitants enjoy a right of common run for feeding cattle, except from Hock Monday (the second Monday after Easter Day) till the 14th of August, when only seven persons are privileged to turn in one horse each to feed over the whole; it is then locked up (usually for about one month), until the grass is cut in allotments by different owners and carried, when it is again thrown open; Charles M. Green, hayward. This has been a place of great commerce, particularly in the coal, timber and corn trades, but since communication was opened by railway from Southampton to Salisbury, the business done has been considerably less: here are a steam flour mill and steam saw mills, and at Testwood there is a salmon fishery, which is renowned for the excellence of its salmon. Here are Congregational, Primitive Methodist and Presbyterian chapels, and almshouses for poor widows, built by Miss Bourne. Several gentlemen have seats in the parish; the principal are Col. E. Birch-Reynardson C.B., J.P. Rushington Manor, and Lieut.-Col. C. W. Bruce J.P. of Testwood House. The principal landowners are Mrs. Vaudrey, who is lady of the manor, C. Roy Saunders esq. Col E. Birch-Reynardson C.B., J.P. and Lieut.-Col. Bruce J.P. The area is 18,581 acres of land, of which about 10,000 are in the New Forest, 726 water and the rest woodland, arable and pasture; rateable value, £30,087; the population of the entire parish in 1881 was 6,032, and 106 officers and inmates of the New Forest workhouse, of which 1,890 are in the mother church district.

Parish Clerk, Thomas Smith.

ELLINGHAM is a parish, near the river Avon, 2 miles north from Ringwood station and 4 south from Fordingbridge, in the New Forest division of the county, Ringwood hundred, union and petty sessional division, county court district of Fordingbridge, rural deanery of Fordingbridge western division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of All Saints, now called St. Mary's, is an edifice of stone in mixed styles, consisting of chancel and nave, south porch and a western belfry of wood, containing one bell: the church is believed to occupy the site of an ancient priory, and retains a good rood-screen of oak and monuments to Alice Beconsawe, 1622, and William Mist, 1780: it was thoroughly restored in 1885, when a north vestry with organ chamber was added, by the Earl of Normanton, at a cost of about £2,000, and will seat about 200 persons: in the churchyard is the tomb of Lady Lisle, who being accused of harbouring rebels in her house, Moyles Court, after the battle fought by the Duke of Monmouth, at Sedgemoor, July 6, 1685, was beheaded although she had a son in the king's army in that battle: she was the widow of Colonel John Lisle, one of the judges of Charles I. who had retired to the Continent on the eve of the Restoration and had been assassinated at Lausanne. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1595; marriages and burials, 1596. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £145, net yearly value £162, including 3 acres of glebe and grant from Queen Anne's Bounty, with residence, which was restored in 1883, in the gift of the Earl of Normanton, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Thomas Ernest Langford Sainsbury M.A. of Trinity College, Oxford. Here was once a priory, founded in 1163 by W. de Solarüs and dedicated to St. Mary; it was attached to the abbey of St. Sauveur le Vicomte: on the dissolution of alien priories in the reign of Henry VI. the revenues, together with the tithes of the parish, were annexed to Eton College. Lady Elizabeth Tipping, in 1687, left a piece of land called "Venge," of 1½ acres, and a piece of land called "The Butts," of half an acre, both situated in a meadow called "Wide meadow," now producing £4 yearly, to be given to the poor on St. Thomas's day: Mr. Colthurst's trust of £333, in the £2¾ per Cents. now producing £9 15s. for the poor, is vested in the vicar and churchwardens; and there are three almshouses, founded by Mrs. Harding, but not endowed. Moyles Court, the ancient seat of the Lisle family, and the residence of Frederic Fane esq. is the property of the Earl of Normanton, lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is sand and gravel; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 2,537 acres of land and 22 of water; rateable value, £2,535; the population in 1881 was 284. Part of the parish is detached and situated in the New Forest.

ROCKFORD is 1 mile east; Blashford Green is on a brook of the Avon, three-quarters of a mile south. HIGHWOOD is also in this parish

ELLISFIELD (or ILLSFIELD) is a parish and secluded village, 5 miles south from Basingstoke railway station, in the Northern division of the county, hundred of Bermondspit, Basingstoke union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Basingstoke south-western division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Martin is a building of flint and stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, vestry and a western embattled tower, containing 5 bells: the church was restored in 1872, and the tower rebuilt in 1885 in memory of Mrs. Pigott, and the bells were re-hung in 1887, in memory of Henry Welch-Thornton esq. of Beaurepaire, patron of the living: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1668. The living is a rectory, the tithes of which have been commuted at £402, gross yearly value £420, including 20 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Alfred Welch-Thornton esq. and held since 1885 by the Rev. Eversfield Botry-Pigott, of Magdalene College, Cambridge. This parish had two churches until the reign of Edward III.: its name is said to have been derived from Ella, the founder of the kingdom of Sussex or South Saxons, who here defeated the Britons. The land chiefly belongs to the Earl of Portsmouth, who is lord of the manor, Lord Bolton, Francis Michael Ellis Jervoise esq. M.A., J.P. of Herriard House, Basingstoke, the Rev. E. Botry-Pigott and Col. Ives. The soil is clay and chalk; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and roots. The area is 2,360 acres; rateable value, £1,699; the population in 1881 was 254.

Parish Clerk, William Franklin.

ELSON and HARDWAY are hamlets constituting an ecclesiastical parish, taken in 1845 from the parish of Alverstoke, on the shore of Portsmouth harbour, about 2 miles north from Gosport, and 16 north-west from Portsmouth by road and 2½ by steam launch, in the Southern division of the county, Alverstoke incorporation, Portsmouth county court district, petty sessional division of Fareham, rural deanery of Alverstoke and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Thomas, erected in 1845, by subscription, aided by parliamentary grant, is a building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave and a western turret containing one bell: there are two stained windows: all the sittings are free, and number 409. The register dates from the year 1845. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £188, with residence, in the gift of the rector of Alverstoke, and held since 1873 by the Rev. John Charles Dawkins M.A. of Durham University. At Hardway are Wesleyan and Baptist chapels. Fort Elson and Fort Brockhurst, at Elson, form part of the sea and land defences here. The principal landowners are the War Department and the Admiralty and G. Paul esq. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay and brick earth. The area is 2,000 acres; the population (including Fort Elson and Fort Brockhurst) in 1881 was 1,981.

HARDWAY is a hamlet beautifully situated on the shore of Portsmouth harbour. BRIDGEMARY is also a hamlet in Elson parish, situate on the road to Fareham. Priddy's Hard adjoins Hardway.

ELVETHAM is a scattered village and parish, in the Northern division of the county, hundred of Odiham, Hartley Wintney union, Basingstoke petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Basingstoke north-east division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese, 2 miles north-west from Fleet station on the London and South Western railway, 5 north-east from Odiham and 10 west-by-north from Basingstoke. The church of the Blessed Virgin Mary was completely restored and enlarged by the late Lord Calthorpe in 1840-41, at a cost of £3,000; it consists of nave, south porch, tower with pinnacles, containing one bell and beautiful spire: it is in the Norman style, built with flint and quoined with Bath stone: in 1872 it was re-seated with stalls for the choir at the east end: there are in the church three handsome candelabra, the gift of the Hon. Misses Calthorpe, and also a very handsome service of communion plate, presented by an anonymous donor: in 1889 a beautiful reredos was erected by the Hon. Isabel Calthorpe to the memory of her sister: there are 200 sittings, all free. The register dates from the year 1638. The living is a rectory, yearly value tithe rent-charge £300, with house and 12 acres of glebe, in the gift of Lord Calthorpe, and held since 1876 by the Rev. William Gill L.Th. Durham. A small church was erected, in 1876, at Hartford Bridge: it is a timber building, and consists of chancel and nave, and cost £250; half the amount was given by Lord Calthorpe, and the remainder raised by subscription. The water near Hartford Bridge is strongly impregnated with iron. Lord Calthorpe has had a new water supply laid on from the plantation at Stow hill for the benefit of the inhabitants. The charities amount to £70 yearly, for bread and clothing. Lord Calthorpe D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner: his seat, Elvetham House, is a handsome modern mansion, beautifully situated in a well-wooded park of 300 acres; it was formerly the seat of the Earls of Hertford, one of whom here entertained Queen Elizabeth and her suite for four days: the late Lord Calthorpe thoroughly restored this noble residence. The soil is various; subsoil, sand and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, roots and clover. The area is 3,200 acres; rateable value, £5,394; the population in 1881 was 469, including part of Fleet.

EMPSHOTT is a small parish, 6 miles south-east from Alton, 5¾ north from Petersfield and 4 north-west from Liss station on the direct Portsmouth line of the South Western railway, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of Selborne, Petersfield petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Petersfield and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of the Holy Rood is a small and interesting edifice of stone, in the Later Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave with arcade of pillars, north porch and spire surmounted by a remarkable oaken glazed belfry containing one bell: there is a handsome rood screen and a very ancient font: the church was restored in 1859 and an oak roof added in 1869 at the expense of the late J. W. Scott esq.: there are 130 sittings. The register of marriages and burials dates from 1722; baptisms, 1718. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value about £180, with residence, in the gift of the representatives of the late Rev. Thomas Butler, and held since 1869 by the Rev. Peter Rivers de Jersey M.A. of Trinity College, Oxford. Lithanger, the residence of Mrs. Rickman, commands extensive views of great beauty. The representatives of the late Rev. Thomas Butler, of Theale Rectory, Reading, Berkshire, are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are Arthur Jervoise Scott esq. Mrs. John Butler and Mrs. Rickman. The soil is marl; subsoil, rock. The crops are principally cereals, but some hops are grown. The area is 761 acres; rateable value, £1,038; the population in 1881 was 158.

EMSWORTH is a small town and station on the London, Brighton and South Coast railway, formed in 1841 into an ecclesiastical parish out of Warblington parish, in the Southern division of the county, hundred of Bosmere, Havant union, Portsmouth county court district, Fareham petty sessional division, Havant rural deanery and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, 76 miles by rail from London, 9 north-east from Portsmouth and 2 east from Havant, on the old road to Chichester, on the Sussex border of the county, at the head of an inlet of the sea called Emsworth channel and opposite to Thorney, formerly an island, but now connected with the mainland, the intervening channel having been reclaimed. The proprietary chapel of St. Peter is now disused for religious purposes. The church of St. James was erected in 1840, at an expense of £1,200: it is in the Norman style, built of flint with stone dressings, and consists of chancel, nave and aisles, with two octangular turrets, with clock and one bell, terminating in low spires at the north-west and south-west corners: there are 960 sittings. The register dates from the year 1841. The living is a rectory, with residence in the gift of the rector of Warblington, who has endowed it with its own rectorial tithes, amounting to £180 yearly, and held since 1889 by the Rev. Frederick Parker Napier B.A. of London University. There are Baptist, Congregational and Primitive Methodist chapels (the latter erected in 1877). Emsworth Proprietary Hall, now the property of a limited association, was erected in 1790 as a chapel, for which purpose it was used until 1852, when it fell into decay, and in 1876 was purchased by the company and fitted up, at an expense of £600, for lectures and entertainments; it will hold 300 persons and has a tower at the front containing a clock. Here is a reading room, supported by subscription. The manufacture of sail cloth, sacking, rope, twine and fishing nets is carried on and there is a small ship yard and one brewery. This place is a member of the ports of Portsmouth and Chichester and carries on a trade in the importation of coal and exportation of timber and flour: there are several vessels employed in the coasting trade and a considerable number of boats in the oyster fishery, for which this town has long been celebrated: the oyster trade is now very considerable owing to the establishment of beds in the deeps: these beds are stocked partly by the native fish of Emsworth and partly by the importation of oysters. The principal landowners are the trustees of John Fenwick. The area is 610 acres; rateable value included in Warblington; and the population in 1881 was 1,780.

Parish Clerk, John Chitty.

EVERSLEY is a village and parish, 6 miles north from Winchfield station on the London and South Western railway and 14 north-east from Basingstoke, in the Northern division of the county, hundred of Holdshott, Hartley Wintney union, Basingstoke county court district, Odiham petty sessional division, rural deanery of Basingstoke north-east division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church of St. Mary the Virgin contains some good ancient and modern monuments: it is a building of brick in the Saxon Transition style, and consists of north and south chancel, nave of six bays, and aisle with embattled western tower with pinnacles and 2 bells. This parish will ever be memorable as having been the scene of the clerical teaching of the Rev. Charles Kingsley M.A. Regius Professor of Modern History in the University of Cambridge: he was ordained to the curacy in 1842 and was appointed to the rectory by Sir John Cope bart. in 1844; here he wrote most of the works with which he has enriched English literature; he remained rector here until his death, on the 23rd of January, 1875, aged 55; he is buried in the churchyard; the grave is marked by a white marble cross, placed there by his widow, with the inscription, "Amavimus, amamus, amabimus:" in 1876 the church was thoroughly restored at a cost of £1,200 as a memorial to the late Canon Kingsley: there are 4 stained windows and several tablets and a recumbent figure in the chancel to the memory of Dame Marianne Cope, who died in 1862: a new organ was added in 1886 at a cost of £150: there are 200 sittings. The living is a rectory, yearly value of £515, with 113 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Rev. Sir William Henry Cope bart M.A. and held since 1886 by the Rev. Arthur Lawrence B.A. of St. Mary Hall, Oxford. Bramshill House, the seat of the Rev. Sir William Henry Cope bart. M.A. lord of the manor and principal landowner of this parish, is a large mansion, situated in a well-wooded park of 600 acres. The soil is gravel and loam; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The entire area is 5,224 acres; rateable value of Eversley, £3,652; Bramshill rateable value, £1,243; the population in 1881 was—of Eversley, 688, and the united tithing of GREAT BRAMSHILL, 138, and LITTLE BRAMSHILL, 27.

EWHURST is a small parish, 6 miles north-west from Basingstoke, the nearest railway station, and 3 south-east from Kingsclere, in the western division of the county, hundred, union and petty sessional division of Kingsclere, Basingstoke county court district, rural deanery of Basingstoke north-eastern division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Mary, existing in the reign of King Edward I. and originally a plain building in the Early English style, was rebuilt in 1872-3 at the cost of W. H. C. Plowden esq. whose ancestors for generations past lie buried here, and is now a cruciform structure of flint with stone facings, in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave and transepts, turret on west gable, with one bell, bearing an inscription of the Ayliffe family: the interior is fitted with open seats; the whole of these seats, the pulpit, reading desk and communion table are of beautifully carved oak; the lectern is of polished brass and the font is of stone, with carved oak cover; the windows are stained, illustrating various scenes in scripture history, and each inserted in memory of some member of the Plowden family: there is a handsome brass tablet with floral wreath in memory of the wife of Sir Robert Macreth, of this parish, who died June 5th, 1784: there are 30 free sittings and none appropriated. The register dates from the year 1684 for baptisms, marriages 1682, burials 1687. The living is a rectory, yearly value £100, in the gift of the Duke of Wellington, and held since 1880 by the Rev. Robert Haynes Cave M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford, who is also rector of and resides at Wolverton. The Manor House, a handsome mansion, with park and extensive grounds, ornamented with a fine artificial lake covering 11 acres, is the residence of General Lord Alexander George Russell C.B. The Duke of Wellington is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is chalk and clay; the subsoil chalk and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and grass. The area is 466 acres of land and 11 of water; rateable value, £640; the population in 1881 was 34.

The church of SS. Peter and Paul is a small edifice of stone in the Early English and later styles, consisting of chancel and nave, south porch, and a small turret with shingled spire at the west end, containing 2 bells: it was nearly rebuilt in 1847, at the expense of the late Miss Touchett and Mrs. ffarington, and contains three tablets to the Young family, dated 1686 and 1737, and one with a curious chronogram to Dr. James Young, dean of Winchester: there is a tablet to the Henslow family, dated 1698: the chancel, which inclines slightly towards the south, retains its original piscina: there are 180 sittings, partly free, but a few are appropriated. The register of marriages and burials dates from the year 1579, baptisms from 1720. The living is a rectory, tithes commuted at £473, net yearly value £260, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Henry Howard Letchworth M.A. of Oriel College, Oxford. Old Winchester Hill, 2 miles east, on which are many barrows, is celebrated for having been one of the spots on which Cæsar encamped; a coin of the Seventh Legion, picked up on this hill, is now in the possession of the Rev. C. J. Hume M.A. rector of Meon Stoke, who is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Walter Jervis Long esq. J.P. of the Holt, Upham, Mrs. King Wyndham, of Corhampton, and William Woods esq. of Warnford Park, Bishop's Waltham. The soil is chalk and clay; subsoil, gravel, chalk and stone. FACCOMBE is a parish, 9 miles south-west from Newbury station and 8½ north-by-east from Andover, in the Western division of the county, Pastow hundred, Andover petty sessional division, Andover union and county court district, rural deanery of Andover north division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Barnabas is a flint edifice in the Early Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave and a square western tower and 3 bells: it was consecrated 1866. The former church was at Netherton, but has been demolished: there are 120 sittings. The register dates from 1675. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £790, with glebe, in the gift of and held since 1858 by the Rev. Charles Henry Everett B.A. of Balliol College, Oxford. There is a chapel for Primitive Methodists. Faccombe Manor House, the seat of Allan Borman Heath esq. J.P. who is lord of the manor of Faccombe and owner of the entire parish, is very prettily situated in a park of about 50 acres: considerable additions were made in 1880 so as to form a suitable family mansion for the estate, which comprises an area of about 4,500 acres: the style of the additions has been kept in harmony with the character of the remainder of the Manor House, which was built during the last century. The soil is various, light loam and rubble; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and turnips. The area is 2,630 acres, including woods; rateable value, £1,500; the population in 1881 was 221.

FAREHAM.

FAREHAM (called in Domesday Book Fernham) is a market, railway and union town, seaport, situated at the head of a deep inlet of the sea, forming the western branch of Portsmouth Harbour, and extensive parish in the Southern division of the county, 84 miles by rail, 72 by road from London, 9 north-west from Portsmouth, 17¾ south from Winchester, 18 west from Chichester and 12 south-south-east from Southampton, hundred and petty sessional division of its name, county court district of Portsmouth, rural deanery of Alverstoke, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester.

Fareham anciently sent members to Parliament, but petitioned to be excused, on account of the expense, about the reign of King Edward the Third. The Public Health Act of 1845, was adopted here September 18, 1849, and the government of the town is vested in a Board of Health, comprising a chairman and eight members.

The town consists principally of one street, about a mile in length, running east and west, the High street diverging from the main street towards the north; there are several other good streets, the most favoured for the residences of private families being the Osborn road and Southampton road, running parallel with Osborn road. The town is well drained on modern principles, lighted with gas supplied by the Fareham Gas Co. and the streets are macadamized and flagged. There is a good supply of pure water pumped from wells in the chalk formation of Portsdown hill; the works were established in 1859, and now belong to the local board and include a reservoir capable of holding 120,000 gallons; the daily average consumption is about 200,000 gallons.

Fareham is a junction station (for Gosport and Stokes Bay) on the old Portsmouth line of the London and South Western Railway viâ Bishopstoke and Cosham; at the latter place is a branch to Havant which gives communication with Chichester, Brighton and the South Coast. At the east end of the town this line is carried over the extreme end of Portsmouth Harbour by a lofty viaduct of 17 brick arches. The railway station is at the west end of the town, on the Titchfield road, and has been reconstructed in connection with a new line which has this year (1889) been opened between Netley and Fareham, and which gives an alternative route between Southampton and Portsmouth.

The ancient parish church of St. Peter was, in 1812, with the exception of the chancel and tower, pulled down and a plain brick building erected: the bells were rehung in 1883 by Mr. Thomas Mallaby, of Masham, Yorks, and increased to 8, the two new ones being cast by Messrs. John Warner and Sons, of London: in 1888 the church was partially restored, a new chancel built in the Early English style and the old 13th century chancel restored as a side chapel, the old pews and side galleries removed and open seats substituted, a handsome alabaster pulpit put up in memory of late vicar, Rev. W. S. Dumergue, and a new wood block floor laid down: in 1889 a stained window was put up at the east end of the old chancel in memory of Admiral Carter: it is intended to rebuild the nave entirely: the architect of the new part of the church is Sir Arthur Blomfield A.R.A.: there are 1,100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, yearly value about £500, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1885 by the Rev. Thirlwall Gore Browne M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge (third son of the patron).

As the town extended westward, another church was considered necessary, and Lady Thompson supplied the funds, by her will, to erect Holy Trinity church, to which a district was assigned in 1835: it is Gothic, and built of light bricks with stone dressings, and has a small chancel, nave and aisles, north and south porches, embattled western tower, added in 1837, contains clock and 2 bells, and is surmounted by a spire: the chancel windows are stained, and represent Faith, Hope and Charity: there are three galleries: there are several memorial tablets, including two in the chancel, that on the south side being to Vice-Admiral Sir Charles Thompson bart. M.P. who died March 17th, 1791; the one on the north side is to the memory of his wife, Dame Jane Thompson, and their youngest son, the Rev. Sir Henry Thompson bart. who for nine years had the church under his spiritual charge: the church is now (1889) being restored: there are 700 sittings. The register dates from the year 1836. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £160, in the gift of Mrs. Kirby, and held since 1856 by the Rev. Frederick Smith B.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. The population of this district in 1881 was 2,739.

Here is a Catholic chapel, dedicated to the Sacred Heart, in Hartlands road. The Congregational chapel is in West street and contains 500 sittings. The Wesleyan chapel is also in West street, and was built on a new site in the year 1875, at a cost of about £3,000, in the place of the old building erected in 1812: it will seat 400 persons. At Uplands, also in this parish, is a small iron church, erected in 1878, by Mrs. Huddart; it is styled the Louisa Meeting house, and is used by the same denomination.

The surplus of fund left by William Price to found a school is distributed to widows.

The Foresters' Hall, West street, was erected in 1881; it contains a spacious room, capable of holding 300 persons, and which is let for various entertainments.

The Town Hall is the private property of Mr. Henry Gilbert, and is used for concerts and exhibitions; it is also licensed for the performance of plays, and is protected by a licence under the new Act for the performance of copyright music: it will seat 400 persons.

A Market Hall has been erected on a site belonging to Price's Charity, by free subscription. The market is held on alternate Mondays.

An iron water fountain, presented by Thomas Burrell esq. of this town, is on the quay.

Fareham is the head-quarters of the K Co. of the 3rd Volunteer Battalion of the Hampshire Regiment, and there is a volunteer fire brigade, with engine house in Quay street.

The Hants County Lunatic Asylum, at Knowle, in this parish, about 3 miles north-north-west of the town, was built in 1852, and has been considerably enlarged: it has a dining hall capable of holding 500 patients, and a chapel has been erected in the vicinity of the building to seat the same number: the farm consists of about 120 acres of land and there are commodious farm buildings; there are about 930 patients.

There is an Industrial Home at Wallington for girls between the ages of 12 and 14 years, under the management of a committee of ladies, of which Edgar Goble esq. is honorary secretary and Col. Powys assistant secretary; Miss Gittens is lady correspondent: it was established in 1869 by Lady Larcom, and on her leaving the neighburhood Mrs. Deane, of Fairfields, undertook the management: it subsequently outgrew the care of one lady, and was in 1884 handed over to the Church of England Central Society for providing homes for waifs and strays. The object is to train servants for housework, laundry and cooking. There is a large laundry attached, and three laundry women are employed. The girls, who now number 26, are trained for domestic service, and subscribers can have servants from the home. With the exception of a few subscriptions, the home is self-supported.

The Rural Sanitary Hospital, situated about one mile north of the town, was built in 1887, at a cost, including the land, of about £3,500.

In 1850 Joseph Paddon esq. of Fareham, erected two almshouses on the Wickham road, in memory of his wife; they are for two aged females, who live rent free and receive a small weekly money allowance.

The late Mr. Thomas Stares, of Wallington, introduced here the manufacture of coarse pottery, and the West and other parts of England, the Channel Islands and a portion of the Continent are supplied from this town with red pottery.

There is an extensive steam flour mill, a large tan yard and several brick and tile yards; malting is also carried on.

Ships of 300 tons burden are enabled to arrive at the quays. The exports consist principally of oak, timber, bark, hoops, red pottery and bricks. There is a Custom House establishment in Hartlands road.

The Capital and Counties Bank Limited have a branch establishment in West street. The "Red Lion" is the chief hotel for families and commercial gentlemen, and has a posting establishment attached.

A portion of the parish is situated on an eminence, commanding a fine sea view. Here are several handsome residences, amongst which may be mentioned Blackbrook House, the seat of Sir William Biddulph Parker bart.; Uplands, the residence of Mrs. Gordon, of Fyvie; Roche Court, situated about a mile to the north of the town, the residence of the Rev. George Sloane-Stanley; Heathfield House, occupied by Admiral Robert Tryon, about a mile west; and Cams Hall, the seat of Seymour Robert Delmé esq. are situate on the opposite side of the inlet of the sea bounding the town on the east.

Immediately above Cams hill, to the north, commences the western ascent of Portsdown hill, a lofty ridge extending about 7 miles east, and on which are five extensive forts, forming a portion of the defences of Portsmouth harbour and neighbourhood.

The geological formation here consists of chalk, and the town is situated on the London clay, in what is called the Hampshire basin.

The Ecclesiastical Commissioners, S. R. Delmé esq. and the Vicar of Fareham are the lords of the manor.

The area is 6,356 acres of land and 236 of water; rateable value, £30,692; the population of the parish in 1881 was 7,183, including 11 in Fort Wallington, 113 officers and inmates in the workhouse, 899 in the Lunatic Asylum, 307 in Hilsea Barracks and 23 in Fort Fareham; both these forts form part of the defences of Portsmouth harbour.

CATISFIELD is a pleasant hamlet, containing several good residences, 2 miles west, and adjacent to the town of Titchfield.

CROCKER HILL is a small hamlet about 2 miles north of the town and partly in the parish of Wickham. Here is a small chapel of ease.

FUNTLEY is a hamlet about 1½ miles north-west. Here is a chapel of ease and two brick and tile works.

WALLINGTON is a hamlet adjoining the town on the north-east. Here is a large tan yard.

Parish Clerk, Holy Trinity, James Buckmaster, West st.

FARLEIGH WALLOP is a parish 4 miles south from Basingstoke, in the Northern division of the county, hundred of Bermondspit, union, petty sessional division and county court district of Basingstoke, rural deanery of Basingstoke south-western division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester; it derives its adjunct from the Wallop family, who acquired the manors of Farleigh and Cliddesden by marriage with the heiress of the de Valoynes in 1414, and who still own both parishes: John Wallop esq. of Farleigh was raised to the peerage as Viscount Lymington in 1720, and further created Earl of Portsmouth in 1743, which titles are held by his descendant, the present possessor. The church of St. Andrew is a small cruciform building, with chancel, nave, north and south transepts and aisles with square tower at west end containing 3 bells: it was built by the 1st Earl of Portsmouth, who pulled down the ancient church, which was situated near the house, and was much dilapidated; the present building was restored, re-seated and new tower added in 1871-2. The register was included with that of Cliddesden till 1813. The living is annexed to that of Cliddesden and is in the gift of the Earl of Portsmouth. The charities consist of the interest of £247 2s. for the joint benefit of the poor of this parish, and of those of Cliddesden and Hurstbourne Priors. Farleigh Wallop, the ancient seat of the Wallop family, where Sir Henry Wallop entertained Queen Elizabeth for several days in 1591, was burnt down in 1661; the present house was built on the same site by the 1st earl, and is now occupied by Mrs. Routh; it is situated in a well-wooded district and commands extensive views. The Earl of Portsmouth is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and roots. The area is 1,675 acres; rateable value, £1,281; the population in 1881 was 106.

Parish Clerk, John Taylor.

FARLEY CHAMBERLAYNE is a parish, 5½ miles north-east from Romsey station and 6 south-west from Winchester, in the Western division of the county, hundred of Micheldever, Hursley union and Winchester petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Romsey, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. John is a small building of stone and stucco, consisting of chancel and nave, with small gallery at the west end and small square west wooden tower containing 3 bells: it was for nearly three centuries the burial place of the knights and baronets St. John, descended from Sir Oliver St. John and the Lady Margaret Beauchamp, Countess of Richmond, the grandmother of Henry VII.; it contains some fine monuments to members of this family: here is a recumbent stone effigy, under a canopy, of William St. John, dated 1600, and monuments to Oliver St. John, dated 1699: Francis Oliver St. John, 1700; Rev. John St. John, who was once rector of this parish, dated 1786; Sir Paulet St. John, 1780, and his wife, 1791: a tile was found in the restoration of the roof, bearing date 26th April, 1400: there are 100 sittings. The register dates, for baptisms, from the year 1593; marriages 1645, and burials 1612. The living is a rectory, yearly value £369, with residence, in the gift of the representatives of the late T. Woodham esq. and held since 1850 by the Rev. Thomas Fielder Woodham B.A. of Worcester College, Oxford, J.P. Mary St. John's charity of £150 Consols, the interest of which is for clothing, was founded in 1801. About a mile north of the church, on the old Roman road, stands a monument about 30 feet high, erected by Sir Paulet St. John bart. about 1795, to record the exploit of a favourite hunter, which leaped into a chalk-pit 25 feet deep, without injury to himself or the rider; it stands on one of the highest points in the county, and is an important landmark. The Rev. Thomas F. Woodham is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the Heathcote family, Henry Joy esq. and the Rev. T. F. Woodham. The soil is clay and loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,794 acres; rateable value, £1,701; the population in 1881 was 157.

SLACKSTEAD is a tithing, 1½ miles south and 4 miles north-east of Romsey, in the Manor house of which Thomas Sternhold composed his portion of the original metrical version of the Psalms attached to the Book of Common Prayer, in the year 1549, the same in which he died.

Parish Clerk, George Palmer.

FARLINGTON is a parish on Langston Harbour, 2 miles west from Havant station, 6 north-east from Portsmouth and 68 from London, in the Southern division of the county, Portsdown hundred, Havant union, Fareham petty sessional division, Portsmouth county court district, rural deanery of Havant and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The parish includes the villages of PURBROOK, STAKES and part of WATERLOO on the north side of Portsdown Hill, and the hamlet of DRAYTON, on the south, 1 mile west. The church of St. Andrew is a handsome structure of flint, with stone dressings, in the Early English and Decorated styles, and consists of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and small western belfry surmounted by low spire containing 2 bells; there is a piscina of the 12th century: the chancel was rebuilt in 1872 from a design by the late G. E. Street esq. and the remainder of the church was completed in 1874-5, under the same architect, who also furnished the designs for the windows, which are all stained as memorials to relatives of the rectors and of others connected with the parish, and the entire cost of rebuilding was about £4,000: there are 110 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £565, net £390, with residence and 4 acres of glebe, in the gift of and held since 1887 by the Rev. Arthur James Richards M.A. of Brasenose College, Oxford. Farlington Redoubt, which is in this parish, is now completed and mounted with guns Here are waterworks and reservoirs in conjunction with Havant, for supplying the forts on Portsdown and the towns of Portsmouth, Portsea and Southsea. William Henry Deverell esq. is lord of the manor and one of the principal landowners; others are Messrs. G. R. Mullens, the trustees of the late J. Sharland, Edmund Clark and George Curtis. The soil is loam; subsoil, flint and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 2,414 acres of land and 601 of water and foreshore; rateable value, £8,301; the population in 1881, including Purbrook and Stakes, was 1,223, and part of Portsdown.

PURBROOK will be found under a separate heading, and STAKES is given with Waterloo.

Parish Clerk, George Perry.

FARNBOROUGH is a railway station and parish, 6 miles north from Farnham and 33 from London, situated on the borders of Surrey; the London and South Western railway and the Reading and Reigate branch of the South Eastern railway both have stations here, and it is in the Northern division of the county, union of Hartley Wintney, hundred of Crondall, Odiham petty sessional division, Farnham county court district, rural deanery of Odiham and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church of St. Peter, situated in Farnborough park, is an ancient edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, transept, nave and tower, built of timber, and containing 4 bells: the walls of the nave are of the 12th century: on the south side of the nave is a wooden porch of the 15th century, of great beauty and in good preservation: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1682. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £152, with 22 acres of glebe and residence, gross yearly value £300, in the gift of Major-General P. G. Scot, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Arthur Edoe Kinch M.A. Brasenose College, Oxford. The churchyard has been enlarged by the addition of a piece of ground with a mortuary chapel. St. Mark's church, erected 1881 as chapel of ease to St. Peter's, in the Alexandra road, is in the Early English style, built of red bricks with stone dressings, consisting of chancel, nave, turret and one bell: the aisles and transepts are not yet complete: the cost of the building was £4,000, which was defrayed by subscriptions: there are 360 sittings, all free: the church is near the North Camp, Aldershot, which is within this parish. The Catholic memorial church, erected here 1887, by Her Imperial Majesty the Empress Eugénie, for the remains of the Emperor Napoleon III. and the Prince Imperial, and dedicated to St. Michael, is here situated on a grassy knoll amid a clump of evergreen pines, and is a large structure of pure white Bath stone in a mixed style of Gothic, from designs by a French architect: the church consists of a chancel with eastern sacristies, transepts, with a dome above the intersection, nave, and a turret with pinnacles on the eastern gable: the arches and capitals of the shafts in the chancel are floriated, and are adorned with the Imperial eagle and other heraldic insignia. The mausoleum is a spacious and lofty vaulted chamber extending under the chancel and approached by a flight of stone steps; at the extreme east end is an altar, on the right of which is placed the coffin of the Emperor and on the left that of the Prince Imperial: here a tablet of Sicilian marble has been fixed, recording the death of the Prince "on the field of honour, June 1, 1879." Close to the church is a priory, with a covered way to the mausoleum, and there live some Premonstratensian Canons Regular. The nave is free at times of divine service to the Catholic residents of the neighbourhood, but a fee of 1s. is charged to view the mausoleum in the afternoon: the Rev. Father Ambroise Garreau is the prior, and the Rev. Father Edward Pierre is the sub-prior. Here are Wesleyan Methodist and Baptist chapels. Parke's charity of £8 18s. 6d. yearly is for distribution to the poor on St. Thomas' Day, and the parish has also the dividend on £2,000, the purchase money of part of the common land taken for the Camp. Farnborough Park is the seat of Captain George Henry Elliott D.L., J.P. Farnborough Hill, the seat of H.I.M. the Empress Eugénie, is a fine Elizabethan mansion, built in 1860, and in 1883 a wing was added; it occupies an elevated site, commanding extensive views for miles round, and stands in a well-wooded park of 200 acres, with gardens. Knellwood, the seat of Major-Gen. Sir Richard Harrison R.E., K.C.B., C.M.G. is situated in about 100 acres of pine wood. Richard Eve esq. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are H.I.M. the Empress Eugénie, Maj.-Gen. Sir Richard Harrison, Capt. G. H. Elliott, Gen. Sir Thomas W. McMahon bart. C.B. Tredenham Fitzherbert Carlyon, and Mr. H. J. E. Brake. The Basingstoke canal passes 2 miles south. Aldershot North Camp is within this parish. Near North Camp station is an estate of about 150 acres, the property of Mr. H. J. E. Brake, which is being rapidly built on, and contains many handsome villa residences, forming the nucleus of a new town: it is delightfully situated at a considerable elevation, and possesses the advantages of a gravelly soil and a plentiful supply of good water. The Queen's hotel is a fine building, contains upwards of 100 rooms, and commands very extensive views of some of the finest and most picturesque scenery in England; combined with this are the Pine therapeutic baths, of which Mr. John Nethersole is the proprietor. The area is 2,208 acres; rateable value, £16,594; the population in 1881 was 6,266, including 3,538 military in the North Camp, Aldershot.

FAWLEY is a parish and village, and includes several hamlets in the New Forest division of the county, union of New Forest, Dibden liberty, Lymington petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Fawley and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, 11 miles south-east from Totton station, 5 south from Hythe, 8 south-south-east from Southampton by water and 15 by land, situated on a creek of the Southampton Water, and has a quay. The church of All Saints is an ancient edifice of stone in the Norman and Early English styles, consisting of nave and aisles and a tower containing 4 bells: the original church, to which the fine Norman arch at the west entrance belonged, is said to have been one of the four churches in existence when the New Forest was made: the present structure was repaired in 1840 and in 1866, when the tower was restored: there are sittings for 550 persons. The register dates from the year 1690. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £1,044; net yearly value £599, including 16 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1863 by the Rev. Arthur Malortie Hoare M.A. late fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, and rural dean of Fawley. Here are chapels, one for Baptists at Blackfield Common, and one for Wesleyan Methodists. A Public Hall was built here by subscription in 1887. Mary Trattle's charity of £28 yearly, founded by will in 1857, is for beef and clothing. This parish possesses much natural beauty and romantic scenery. Cadland house, the seat of Edgar Atheling Drummond esq. J.P., F.R.G.S. is a large white brick mansion, standing on a gentle eminence in an extensive and finely wooded park, about a mile north of the village of Fawley, on the banks of the western shore of the Southampton Water, from which delightful views are obtained as far as Spithead and the Needles: the house was built in the year 1773, but in 1836 was enlarged and improved by the late Mr. Andrew Robert Drummond, at a cost of over £40,000: the whole of the very extensive offices are below the surface line of the surrounding pleasure grounds: the park, including in all, 500 acres, is very undulating and picturesque: the Cadland estate extends from Dibden to Lepe, with about 15 miles of river frontage, and contains about 200 labourers' cottages besides other residences. Eaglehurst, belonging to Mr. Drummond, and leased to Frederick Cox esq. is a singularly built mansion, its situation and the prospect it affords being altogether unique. The land is mostly freehold: the copyhold being here under the manors of Cadland and Bitterne, of which Edgar Atheling Drummond esq. is lord. Until about the year 1866 there was here a piece of land called "the floating island," in area about 3 acres, with trees 25 to 30 feet high growing upon it and which used at certain seasons to move to and fro: this floating capacity has now been entirely stopped, by the draining of the surrounding bog, in consequence of which the trees have taken root, and the whole mass has become fixed. The principal landowners are the representatives of the late Hans Sloane-Stanley esq. and E. A. Drummond esq. The soil is light sandy; subsoil, gravelly. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 6,816 acres of land and 3,549 of water and foreshore; rateable value, £8,997; the population in 1881 was 1,894, of which 705 are in Hythe, which see.

CALSHOT CASTLE, standing at the extremity of a point, or headland, and now used as a coast-guard station, was erected in the reign of Henry VIII. as a protection to the coast; it was formerly extra-parochial, but is now incorporated with Fawley.

STONE, 3 miles south, Cadland, Stanswood, 1½ south, Buttsash, 3 north-west, Ipley, Badminston, 1 south, Holbury, 1½ west, and Ower, 1½ south-east, are tithings. At Langley, 5 miles south from Hythe, is a chapel school, licensed for divine service. HARDLEY is a hamlet, 2½ miles south from Hythe.

FLEET was formed into an ecclesiastical parish in 1863 out of the parishes of Crondall, Elvetham and Yateley: it is 6 miles north-east from Odiham, 11 east from Basingstoke, with a station on the South Western railway, in the Northern division of the county, petty sessional division of Odiham, county court district of Farnham, Odiham rural deanery and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church of All Saints, on Crookham common, erected in the year 1861 at a cost of £3,323, is a good example of building in red brick, with lofty, well-proportioned interior, relieved by extensive coloring: it is built in the style of the 13th century, with many of the details used in continental churches of that period: the west porch or narthex is continuous along the whole west front of the church and forms a peculiar and effective feature, it has apsidal chancel, nave of 8 bays and aisles, and bell turret and 2 bells: there are two beautiful recumbent figures to the memory of the founder, C. E. Lefroy esq. who died in 1861, and to his wife, who died in 1858: a very fine organ was added in 1870 at a cost of £300: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1863. The living is a perpetual curacy, yearly value £250, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1860 by the Rev. William Henry Plummer B.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. The Primitive Methodist chapel was erected in 1887 at a cost of £430, and will hold about 200. The Baptists have a chapel here. There are several charities from the mother parish of Crondall, in which this parish participates, also a share of a fuel fund of £94, derived from the investment of a sum of money obtained by the sale of allotments to Government. The Fleet pond or lake covers about 130 acres and is the property of the Crown. The parish is traversed by the Basingstoke canal. The common here, which is extensive, and stands 200 feet above sea level, has been laid out by the proprietor, Mr. H. J. E. Brake, of Farnborough, for building purposes, and contains many hundred lots; many of the sites overlook the lake and command extensive views of the surrounding country, including Aldershot Camp. The population in 1881 was 557, and is estimated to be now about double.

Parish Clerk, Thomas Liming.

FORDINGBRIDGE is a union and county court town, parish and station on the South Western railway, 6¼ miles north from Ringwood and 97 from London by rail, in the New Forest division of the county, hundred of the same name, Ringwood petty sessional division, rural deanery of Fordingbridge western division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The town is lighted with gas, and is pleasantly situated, chiefly on the west bank of the Upper Avon, which is here spanned by a handsome stone bridge of seven arches, and is near the borders of the New Forest, and nearly midway between Salisbury and Christchurch. In Domesday Book the town is mentioned under the name of Forde, and is stated to have contained a church and two mills. The church of St. Mary is an edifice in the Early English, Early Decorated, and later styles, consisting of chancel, with a chapel or aisle on the north side, of the 13th century, nave of 4 bays, aisles, north and south porches, and a fine embattled north-eastern tower containing a clock and 6 bells; the main structure of the church is Early English and Decorated: the tower is 16th century (Perpendicular) work and the windows have been altered to conform to that style: the roof of the chapel is of chestnut wood elaborately carved, and bears a marked resemblance to that of the nave of the church at Bere Regis, in Dorsetshire, and is probably the work of the same hand: an Early English font found in the Vicarage grounds has been placed in the churchyard: there is an inscribed mural brass to William Bulkeley esq. Jane, his wife, and eight children, dated 1568, and two stained windows to Major Brice, who died 23rd August, 1876, and his widow: there are sittings for 1,039 persons. The register dates from the year 1642. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of Ibsley annexed, tithe rent-charge (Fordingbridge) £675, joint net yearly value £400, including 7½ acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of King's College, Cambridge, and held since 1879 by the Rev. William James Boys M.A. late fellow of that college. Here is a Catholic chapel, dedicated to Our Lady of the Seven Dolours, also Congregational and Wesleyan chapels, and a Friends' meeting house. John Dodington, in 1638, left an annuity of £5 yearly in succession, out of a tenement situated at Sandy Balls, on trust to pay over the rent to the overseers of Breamore, Fordingbridge, Harbridge and Ringwood respectively for ever, for binding poor children of the several parishes apprentices. Catherine Eycott Bulkeley in 1801 left £200 in the 3 per cent. Consols, towards the support of the Sunday school. Caleb Gifford in 1710 left 30s. yearly, to be paid out of lands situated at Wimborne, 8s. part thereof, to be paid to a Presbyterian minister to preach an anniversary sermon on the anniversary of his decease, and 22s. the residue, to be given to the poor in bread. The Victoria Rooms, Bridge street, erected in 1874, are a red brick building, containing two large rooms, used for the purposes of the county court and for public meetings. The Oddfellows' Hall, High street, erected in 1879, is a building of red brick in the Gothic style: there is a large room in the rear for concerts and lectures; in the centre of the front is a clock fixed by public subscription. There are several good inns in the town. A market, formerly held on Friday, is now discontinued, but an annual fair is held on the 9th of September. A considerable trade is carried on in the spinning of flax and the manufacture of sailcloth and canvas: here are also two breweries. A police station was erected in 1857. In the neighbourhood, and chiefly at Godshill, are the remains of several ancient encampments. There are several very good residences in the parish. Burgate House, the seat of John Coventry esq. is pleasantly situated on the Avon. Charles Glynn Prideaux-Brune esq. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are C. G. Prideaux-Brune esq. John Coventry esq. Eyre Coote esq. of West Park, Rockburne, Salisbury, and Sir Edward Hulse bart. D.L., J.P. of Breamore. The soil is of a mixed character; subsoil, gravel, clay and sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, turnips and roots. The town contains 543 acres; the entire parish, 6,292 acres of land and 96 of water; rateable value, £13,136; the population in 1881 was 2,962, including Hyde, and 61 officers and inmates in the workhouse.

BICTON is a hamlet in this parish, 1 mile south-east from the town, containing 540 acres.

BURGATE is a hamlet and tything in this parish, 1 mile north from the town, on the road to Salisbury, containing 859 acres. John Coventry esq. is lord of the manor.

STUCKTON is a hamlet in this parish, 1 mile south-east from the town, containing (including Godshill) 1,738 acres. Here is a Congregational chapel.

MIDGHAM including SANDLE HEATH is a hamlet and tithing 1 mile west from the town and contains 1,214 acres. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel. Brick-making is carried on here.

GODSHILL is partly in this parish and partly in Ashley Walk parish.

Parish Clerk, Thomas Jefferis.

FORTON is a hamlet and ecclesiastical parish formed in 1841 from the civil parish of Alverstoke, on the old road to Southampton, from which place it is 16 miles south-east, 1 north from Gosport, 1½ by steam launch and 14 miles round the harbour north-west from Portsmouth by road and 90 from London, in the Southern division of the county, liberty and incorporation of Alverstoke, Portsmouth county court district, Fareham petty sessional division, rural deanery of Alverstoke and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The Church of St. John the Evangelist, erected about 1830, is a structure of brick, in the Pointed style, consisting of eastern apse, nave, with two square embattled western towers containing a clock and one bell: in 1871 the interior was greatly improved by removing the galleries, re-seating the whole with open benches and removing the screen, so as to open out the east end, which was also raised: a new organ and font were erected at the same time: there are 700 sittings, all free. The register dates from the year 1841. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £290, net £240, in the gift of the rector of Alverstoke, and held since 1888 by the Rev. John Stephenson M.A. of the University of London. There is a Baptist chapel, a small Primitive Methodist chapel and Baptist chapel at Brockhurst; and a Baptist meeting-room at Camden Town. Thorngate's almshouses, 54 of which are situated at Camden Town, Forton, and 10 at Brockhurst, were erected in 1867: some of these are exclusively devoted to single women and widows and the others to married couples not under 50 years of age. The Forton Barracks, are now occupied by the Royal Marine Light Infantry; there is also a large military prison, containing 150 cells: there is a cemetery for the military. The soil is loam; subsoil, brick earth. The chief crops are grain and garden produce. The area is 1,000 acres; the population in 1881 was 5,762, including 211 in the military prison and 578 in the barracks.

BROCKHURST is a hamlet, midway between Forton and Elson and partly in each district, having a station on the London and South Western railway. St. Luke's Mission Church, Brockhurst, has sittings for 350 persons, all free: divine service is held here on Sunday morning and evening.

Parish Clerk (S. John's), Joseph Lane.

FOXCOTT is a parish, 1¼ miles from Andover Junction railway station and 2 miles north-west from Andover, in the Western division of the county, Andover union and county court district, petty sessional division and hundred, Andover rural deanery western division and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church (not dedicated) is a building of flint with stone quoins in the Early English-Lancet style, consisting of chancel, nave, south-western tower and octagonal broach spire, with a clock and one bell: the base of the tower forms a porch and there is a vestry at the north-east angle: it was erected in the year 1855, at the sole cost of the late Miss Gale, replacing an ancient building on the same site; there are 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1871. The living is a chapelry, annexed to the vicarage of Andover, joint yearly value £570, with house, in the gift of Winchester College, and held since 1878 by the Rev. Philip Richard Pipon Braithwaite, of Trinity College, Dublin, and ad eundem Oxford; F.S.A. The Rev. J. H. Gale is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is gravel; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 921 acres; rateable value, £717; the population in 1881 was 54.

FROXFIELD is a village and parish, pleasantly situated, 4 miles north-west from Petersfield station, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of East Meon, Petersfield union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Alton eastern division and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Peter, erected at High Cross in 1862 by subscription, at a cost of £2,300, is a building of flint, with stone dressings, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, vestry, north porch, a square tower on the north-west, surmounted by an octagonal spire, with 3 bells: a new clock was placed in the tower in 1881 by the late J. Silvester esq. who also had one bell re-cast, and J. Silvester esq. presented a new bell: an organ was placed in the church in 1879 by voluntary contributions at a cost of £250: the Norman piers, capitals and stones of three of the arches of the arcade, were brought from the old church at Froxfield Green and reconstructed; the site was presented by John Silvester esq. who also contributed £300 to its erection, the late Joseph Martineau esq. of Basing Park, contributed £900: there are 350 sittings, all of which a e free. The register dates from the year 1545. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £300, in the gift of William Nicholson esq. J.P. and held since 1878 by the Rev. John Hosegood M.A. Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge. A new church, St. Peters on the Green, was built in 1887 on the site of the chancel of the old church, which was pulled down as it could not conveniently be adapted, the church is built of flint with Bath stone dressings in the Early English style, it has chancel, nave, shingle spire and western bell cot with one bell: the monuments from the old chancel have been fixed in the present building, the cost was defrayed by William Nicholson esq. J.P. of Basing Park. A small Wesleyan chapel was opened here in Sept. 1851. There is running through this parish from south-east to north-west an embankment, which, it is supposed, formed part of the boundary which separated the kingdoms of Wessex and Sussex. On the site of a Roman encampment, situated a mile south of the Green, several interesting remains have been discovered. Stonor Hill, from which the sea is visible through gaps in the South Downs, is a lofty eminence, rising abruptly from the valley of Steep, overlooking a valley of very great extent. The whole of this parish is considerably above the surrounding country and abounds in picturesque views; the bold woody acclivities rising from the north side of the valleys, and the upland lawns are here called "hangers" (hanging woods), and in these sylvan beauties the hills on that side are remarkably rich. Basing Park, the seat of William Nicholson esq. J.P. extends over 450 acres of richly wooded land: the mansion, which is in the Classic style, is approached from the London road through a long avenue of pines; near the park are extensive buildings for a model farm, erected by William Nicholson esq. J.P. Broadhanger, the seat of Mrs. Greenwood, occupies an elevated situation, overlooking the hangers which sweep down into the vale of Langrish. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are William Nicholson esq. J.P. John Silvester esq. and Daniel Darvell, but many of the farmers occupy their own land. The soil varies from a stiff clay to a light vegetable loam; subsoil chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 4,909 acres; rateable value, £3,656: the population in 1881 was 691, including part of Langrish.

GOSPORT.

GOSPORT is a seaport and market and railway town and polling place for the Southern division of the county, in the parish and union of Alverstoke, hundred of Portsdown, Fareham petty sessional division, Portsmouth county court district, rural deanery of Alverstoke and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester: and although not incorporated, it is styled, "the ancient town and borough of Gosport:" the county magistrates exercise jurisdiction within it: tradition states that the name is derived from God's Port, so called by Bishop Henry de Blois, who in the year 1158 put into this port for safety from a storm at sea, and a deed of grant still exists in the archives of the see of Winchester, confirmatory of this incident: it is 90¼ miles from London, 23½ from Winchester and 22 south-east from Southampton by rail, being also included in the Alverstoke urban sanitary district. Gosport port and harbour are under the jurisdiction of the Admiralty; it was 400 years back but an insignificant village, consisting of a few fishing huts, and has risen to importance chiefly from its proximity to Portsmouth: it occupies a small peninsula on the opposite side of the harbour, projecting into its mouth to within half a mile of Portsmouth, and the transit to and fro is maintained by means of steam launches and a floating bridge of great power, for the conveyance of passengers, coaches, waggons, cattle, and capable of transporting a force of 1,000 soldiers; the bridge being so constructed as to be always on a level with the shore, is available at any period of the tide. The steam launches and bridge depart from either side about every ten minutes.

Gosport is a well-built handsome town, and appears to much advantage in the approach by water; its finest buildings line the High street, which extends westward from the ferry; other streets run parallel to and several intersect it; it is lighted with gas supplied by a company, and the water supply is obtained from works situated at Bury Cross, the property of the Gosport Water Works Co. About a quarter of a mile from the town is the Gosport terminus of the South Western railway, from which there is an additional extension for the convenience of her Majesty, when embarking on or disembarking from her yacht at the Royal Clarence yard; the South Western Company have also an additional branch railway to Stokes Bay (whence steamers communicate with the Isle of Wight), with stations at Gosport Road and Brockhurst, suburbs of Gosport. Street tramways are laid from the Hard—passing up the High street—to Forton, Brockhurst and Ann's Hill, the cars running every ten minutes during the day.

Gosport was formerly a chapelry of Alverstoke.

Holy Trinity and St. Matthew are ecclesiastical parishes, taken out of the civil parish of Alverstoke, the former formed in 1860 and the later in 1845. The church of the Holy Trinity, built in 1696, and since enlarged, is an edifice of brick with stucco dressings, of the Ionic order; in 1887-8 the interior was entirely remodelled and the west end rebuilt at a cost of £2,300: it now consists of chancel, nave of eight bays, aisles and west porch: during the present year (1889) a detached tower containing 6 bells has been erected at the north-west angle of the church, the gift of the late Rev. W. L. Nichols, of Gosport: the cost of the tower and bells was about £2,500: there are three stained windows in the sanctuary: the organ was formerly in the chapel at Canons, Little Stanmore, Middlesex, and Handel while there composed on this instrument his oratorio of "Esther;" on the demolition of the chapel, in the middle of the last century, the organ was purchased by the inhabitants of Gosport, and re-erected here; it has since been altered and enlarged: there are sittings for 1,000 persons. The register dates from the year 1696. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £220, including 65 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the rector of Alverstoke, and held since 1889 by the Rev. William Lee M.A. of Clare College, Cambridge. The population of this parish in 1881 was 2,495.

St. Matthew's church, situated on the north side of the town, on a site in St. Matthew's square, near the New Barracks, is a building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles and south porch, and has 700 sittings, free and unappropriated. The register dates from the year 1846. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £270, with residence, in the gift of the rector of Alverstoke and the Bishop of Winchester alternately, and held since 1888 by the Rev. Charles Tanner. The area of St. Matthew's parish is 70 acres; the population in 1881 was 4,086.

Christ Church, in the Stoke road, as a chapel of ease to St. Mary's, Alverstoke, is a building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays and aisles; it was enlarged in 1862, at a cost of £2,100, and now has sittings for 630, all free.

The Portsmouth and Gosport Seamen's Mission was established here May the 1st, 1853, by Mr. Henry Cook, its present manager. Attached to this mission is a Seamen's Bethel, with Girls' Free Day and Sunday school, in South street, built in February, 1869; a Soldiers' Institute and Mission Hall, on the Stoke road, opened in 1860; Ragged Day and Sunday schools for boys, established in May, 1853; a Seamen's Floating Bethel; Mission ketch "Herald of Mercy," 72 tons register, holding 200 persons; Mission schooner "Mystery," 58 tons register, holding 185 persons, and a boat 26 feet in length. The mission is entirely supported by subscriptions and donations.

There is a Catholic chapel dedicated to Our Lady of the Sacred Heart, High street; 400 sittings: also Congregational, High street; 800 seats: Wesleyan, High street; 650 sittings: and Baptist chapel, Avenue road, 550 seats.

Union chapel, Stoke road, is for the use of Dissenters of all denominations, and seats 350 persons.

The Soldiers' Home, late The United Service Institute, Avenue road, Stoke road, was established in 1884, by Miss E. L. Gurney, for the free use of soldiers and marines; it contains a select library of over 300 volumes, reading and smoking rooms, and a room for religious meetings; also a refreshment bar, which is carried on upon temperance principles.

The Market House, erected in 1812, is situated at the east end of High street, and contains the armoury and drill room of the F and G Companies of the 3rd Volunteer Battalion Hampshire Regiment, for which Portsmouth is the head quarters.

The Thorngate Memorial Hall, situated at the top of High street, immediately behind the old town ramparts, is a fine building of red brick with stone dressings; the style is Flemish Gothic, having stepped gables in front and rear; the front is flanked by two crenellated and domed turrets: it was erected in 1885 by the trustees of the "Thorngate" charities, as a tribute to the memory of the late William Thorngate esq. a merchant of this town, the founder of large and extensive charities in the parish of Alverstoke, as well as in London and other parts of the United Kingdom, amounting in the whole to upwards of £3,000 annually: the interior is lofty and of good proportions, capable of seating 650 people, and is used free of expense for meetings and entertainments, having for their object charitable or other useful purposes: over the proscenium arch is a series of beautiful painted windows, the gift of the Sprent family, representing allegorical figures, below which are heraldic emblazonments: adjoining are offices for the trustees of the charities, and a large room for meetings of friendly societies, also offices for the Alverstoke local board, the guardians of the poor, and the churchwardens and overseers of the parish: in the northern gable, over these offices, is a large illuminated clock, the gift of the late Alderman Emanuel J.P. of Southsea. The total cost was about £9,000. It was opened on the 28th of October, 1885, by Lieut.-Gen. Sir Frederick Wellington Fitz-Wygram bart. M.P. of Leigh Park, Havant.

There are several breweries, ship yards and large yards for building yachts, and a considerable trade is carried on, chiefly in articles for the supply of the army and navy. Fairs are held on the 4th of May and 10th of October.

The land side of the town is fortified from Weovil to the shore of Alverstoke lake by strong lines, bastions, redoubts and counterscarps. Within the works, known as the Royal Clarence Victualling Yard, are the cooperage, biscuit-making department and an immense range of store-houses connected with those departments of the service. About a mile north is Forton lake, a large basin or creek of the harbour, which admits vessels of considerable burden. On Priddy's Hard, north of this lake and connected with the harbour by a small cut through the sand, is a strongly arched bomb-proof magazine for powder. Near it are the ruins of Borough Castle, traditionally ascribed to King Stephen, and now used as a drill ground and for the gunnery practice of H.M. ship "Excellent." On the same side is the military prison.

The Barracks, situated within the lines, were commenced in the year 1857 and completed in 1859: they will hold 1,000 men, with spacious quarters for their officers, non-commissioned officers and married men: the barracks are divided into separate blocks of buildings and extend from the end of North street to some distance beyond the gates of Clarence Victualling Yard, a frontage of more than a third of a mile in length.

The land here is defended from encroachments by the sea by a high and massive stone sea-wall.

About a mile south of Gosport, on the other side of Alverstoke lake (crossed by a bridge) is Haslar Royal Hospital, for sick and wounded seamen and marines, erected under the auspices of John, fourth Earl of Sandwich and first lord of the Admiralty in the reign of George II.: it is a quadrangular building, 1,600 feet in length, with fine piazzas and a small chapel named St. Luke's, and stands on a plot of ground formerly called "Haslar farm." There is also a museum in the establishment, to which the public have free access: the hospital is available for 2,000 patients.

Three-quarters of a mile south-west from the hospital is Monckton Fort, a regular and very strong modern fortification, from which 42 pieces of heavy ordnance may be brought to bear on an attacking force; this, together with a strong redoubt further west, and Fort Gilkicker, effectually secure the coast from attacks by sea. North-east of Haslar and near the extremity of the narrow slip of land which confines the entrance of the harbour, is another battery and strong fort, called the Blockhouse. There are likewise Fort Gomer and Brown Down battery at Stokes Bay and considerable forts at Rowner, Elson, Brockhurst and Grange, in the immediate vicinity of Gosport.

The Bishop of Winchester is lord of the manor. The population of the Local Board district in 1881 was 6,581, including 842 in the Barracks, 542 in Haslar Hospital, 322 in Fort Brockhurst, 135 in Fort Gomer, 217 in Fort Rowner, 220 in Fort Elson and 54 in Blockhouse Fort.

BURROW, or Rat Island, is about a quarter of a mile from Gosport in Portsmouth harbour: it is the property of the Crown.

GRATELEY is a parish on the London and South Western railway, with a station half-a-mile south-west from the village, 7 miles south-west from Andover and 72 from London, in the Western division of the county, Andover hundred, union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Andover western division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church of St. Leonard is an ancient stone building, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, and a square western tower with 2 bells, the tenor is inscribed "1583 I.W. God be our guyd," and the other "1583 I.W. God be praysed:" there were formerly 3 bells: this church has several interesting features, including the frame of an hour glass and some scraps of very ancient stained glass, and was restored in good taste about the year 1851: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1643: the previous registers were destroyed by fire in 1643. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £264, including 40 acres of glebe and house, in the gift of the Baron de Paravicini, and held since 1884 by the Rev. Frederick de Paravicini T.A.K.C.L. There are charities of about £14 yearly value, left by William Benson Earle esq. in 1796, half to be given away in beef, at Christmas, and the other half in cheese, at Easter; also 15s. yearly, left by John Pyle esq. for a great coat at Christmas. The principal landowners are Lord Lawrence, Miss Pickering, who is lady of the manor, and W. E. Boutcher esq. The soil is various: part red woodland and part of the secondary chalk formation; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, turnips, sainfoin and clover. The area is 1,541 acres; rateable value, £1,963: the population in 1881 was 256,

Parish Clerk, John Coster.

HALE is a parish 2 miles east from Breamore station, on the Salisbury and Dorset railway, 8 south-east from Salisbury and 4 north-east from Fordingbridge, situated on the river Avon, in the New Forest division of the county, hundred, union and county court district of Fordingbridge, Ringwood petty sessional division, rural deanery of Fordingbridge western division and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Mary, picturesquely situated in Hale Park, is a small and plain building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, and a central turret containing one bell: the east window is stained, and there are two others in the south transept, erected to the memory of Joseph G. S. Goff, 1881: the church contains several monuments to the Archer family, who once held property here, one of these, placed in the south transept, is a very handsome marble tomb, sculptured in Italy, consisting of an inscribed tablet, over which is a sarcophagus surmounted by a full length reclining figure of the deceased, with figures of his two wives, one standing at either end, dated 1743; one to Henry Archer, 1768, with a female figure resting on an urn; outside the south transept is a monument to Frances Chubb, 1644. The register dates from the year 1670. The living is a donative rectory, tithe rent-charge £250; gross yearly value £264, including 4 acres of glebe, in the gift of Lady Adelaide Henrietta Goff, and held since 1865 by the Rev. Henry George Windsor-Aubrey B.A. of Exeter College, Oxford. Lady Adelaide Henrietta Goff is lady of the manor and sole landowner, and has a very handsome residence here, Hale Park, which stands on an eminence in a park of 46 acres. The soil is of a mixed character; subsoil, clay, gravel, sand and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 1,368 acres; rateable value, £1,285; the population in 1881 was 149.

NORTH CHARFORD is a parish; the name is believed to be a corruption of Cerdic's ford, where a battle was fought in 519 between Cerdic and the Britons, which resulted in his assumption of the Crown of Wessex; the area is 868 acres; rateable value, £1,121; the population in 1881 was 104. Parts of NORTH and SOUTH CHARFORD, which have no church of their own, are associated for ecclesiastical purposes with Hale.

THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE.

This Institution, situated at North Charford, was founded in 1880 by Professor Wrightson, with the object of affording sound and practical instruction in agricultural subjects, so as to qualify its students for the positions of landowners, farmers, colonists, surveyors, or land agents. The building, originally a quaint old manor house, has been modified and enlarged and stands on sloping ground, with a gravelly subsoil; on the south and west are lawns, with flower-beds and shrubberies; on the north, the kitchen-garden, dairy and farm buildings, and on the east side green meads extend to the banks of the Avon. The interior of the College comprises a large dining-hall, common rooms, lecture-rooms, library and reading-room, gymnasium, laboratories and various offices; there is also attached a museum and a botanic garden. About 45 in-students can be received, but gentlemen above 21 years of age may enter as out-students, and reside in lodgings in the neighbouring village of Downton. The College farm, actually managed from and by the college, covers an area of 600 acres, of which 535 acres constitute the North Charford farm, appertaining, together with certain forest rights, to the old manor house mentioned above, and the remaining 65 acres consist of adjoining land in South Wilts. In addition there are gardens and orchards, which supply illustrations of fruit and vegetable cultivation, cider-making and bee culture. The dairy buildings are spacious and well adapted to their purpose, and the college maintains about 60 head of cattle, a permanent breeding flock of 700 sheep, besides pigs and poultry. A scholarship of £10 is offered for competition among first year students at the end of each session, and prizes are also awarded in various subjects; certificates of membership and proficiency are granted, on satisfactory examination, to students who have completed a two years' course; students are also prepared for the diploma examinations of the Royal Agricultural Society of England, the Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland, and the examination of the Surveyors' Institution. The College Athletic club promotes and manages various out-door games and sports, and the river Avon furnishes good boating, bathing and fishing; a debating society and a glee class are maintained during the winter months. The college is governed by a council, consisting of the president and professors. President, John Wrightson esq. F.C.S., M.R.A.C

HAMBLEDON is a parish and large village, 8 miles north-west of Havant station and 8 north of Cosham station, 8 miles south-east from Bishop's Waltham, 10 west from Petersfield and 12 north from Portsmouth, in the Eastern division of the county, Hambledon hundred, Droxford union and petty sessional division, Bishop's Waltham county court district, Droxford police district, rural deanery of Havant and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is in the Early English style, and consists of a chancel, nave and aisles, with square western tower, with pinnacles, containing 6 bells: the high altar was dedicated 16th November, 1334, by Adam de Orleton, then Bishop of Winchester: the church is remarkable for its beauty and history; it is almost an epitome of the history of England: one part of it was erected by the Saxons long before the Conquest, and enlarged about that time by the addition of a north aisle of Early Norman architecture: about a century later a south aisle was erected: in the 13th century an addition in the Early English style was made to the church by the erection of a new nave, aisles and chancel, all to the eastward of the original building and attached to them, so that the result is a "Village Cathedral:" a tower was subsequently built, and at the west angle a "Reclusorium" was erected for the residence of a "recluse" or hermit: the exterior of the structure is of flint, but the whole of the interior is of chalk: the church was restored in 1876 at a cost of £2,000, and since that date a turret staircase, clock and several stained windows have been erected: the tower contains a fine peal of 6 bells: there are 600 sittings. The register commences in 1650. The living is a vicarage, vicarial tithes commuted at £750, with 101 acres of glebe, net yearly value £550, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1874 by the Rev. Thomas White LL.D. of St. John's College, Cambridge. The rectorial tithes are commuted for £979 16s. The charities for distribution are £29 17s. yearly. The Hambledon Hunt keep three packs of foxhounds at the kennels in Droxford parish. There are barrows on the neighbouring downs. The country is richly wooded and very picturesque. Speltham Hill is a favourite resort of picnic parties from Portsmouth and other places in the summer season. Fairfield House, the residence of Captain Edward Adderly, is situated about half a mile north-east, with extensive lawns and grounds, and commands fine views to the south and west; West End, 2 miles north, of John Alexander Wilson esq.; Whitedale House, in the village, is the residence of Mrs. Charnock; Bury Lodge, beautifully situated on an eminence and embosomed in beech woods, is the seat of Capt. Thomas Dacres Butler J.P. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are Winchester College, Mrs. Charnock, Capt. Butler J.P. and the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The soil varies from a light chalky soil, with little subsoil in the north and north-east, to a stiff clay with stiff clay for subsoil in the south. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 9,446 acres; rateable value, £10,405; the population in 1881 was 2,047.

GLIDDEN, 2 miles east, and CHIDDEN, 2 miles north-east, are tithings.

Parish Clerk, George Collis.

Hipley is a hamlet, in the parishes of Hambledon and Boarhunt, 5 to 6 miles north-east from Fareham station and 10 north from Portsmouth, in Portsdown hundred, near the forest of Bere. The soil is loam and clay; subsoil, chalk and clay. The land is chiefly in pasture. WORLD'S END is another hamlet, half a mile north.

HANNINGTON is a parish 4 miles north from Overton station, on the Andover and Basingstoke branch of the South Western railway, 3 south-east from Kingsclere and 8 north-west from Basingstoke, in the Western division of the county, petty sessional division and union of Kingsclere, Chuteley hundred, Basingstoke county court district, rural deanery of Basingstoke south-western division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. Part of Hannington village is in Kingsclere parish. Hannington was mentioned in Domesday Book as possessing a church and belonging to the Bishop of Winchester. The church of All Saints is an ancient structure of flint with stone dressings, chiefly in the Norman and Early English styles, and consisting of chancel with a stained tripartite window, nave, aisles, north porch, and turret with shingled spire at the west end, containing 3 bells: there are 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1771. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £410, net £300, with 16 acres of glebe and rectory house, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1887 by the Rev. Charles Preston Lanchester M.A. of Clare College, Cambridge. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel, built in 1871. On Cottington's Hill, or Freemantle Farm, half a mile north of the Roman road, is a barrow; from this hill a very fine view can be obtained. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners possess the manorial rights. The principal landowner is the Duke of Wellington. The soil is clayey; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,986 acres; rateable value, £1,370; the population in 1881 was 281.

IBWORTH is a hamlet 2 miles south-east; it contains a small timbered house, the property of Wyndham S. Portal esq. still termed the "Warham Cottage," from having been the property of the "Warham" family from the time of Henry VII. until a comparatively recent period (vide "Church Oakley").

HARBRIDGE is a parish and village, 4 miles north from Ringwood and 3 south from Fordingbridge stations, on the west bank of the river Avon: in the New Forest division of the county, union, petty sessional division and hundred of Ringwood, Fordingbridge county court district, rural deanery of Fordingbridge western division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church of All Saints, which forms a very picturesque object from the valley of the Avon, was rebuilt in 1838 at the sole expense of the Earl of Normanton, and is an edifice of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, and an embattled western tower, containing 3 bells: the organ was presented by Lord Normanton in 1855: there are six stained windows: the medallions in the side windows were presented by the Earl of Normanton in 1884; there is a monument to the Lady Diana Herbert, Countess of Normanton, who died December 2nd, 1841, and one to E. Dodington, 1656: there are 200 sittings, all free. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1679; marriages, 1616; and burials, 1571. The living is a rectory annexed to the vicarage of Ringwood, tithe rent-charge £1,377, joint net yearly value £1,800, including 14 acres of glebe, in the gift of King's College, Cambridge, and held since 1884 by the Rev. William Douglas Bodkin M.A. late of that College, who resides at Ringwood. The curate in charge is Rev. Henry Amherst Orlebar. Here is a charity called "Sandy Ball's Charity," left in 1638, by John Dodington esq. of Breamore, who gave to certain trustees an annuity of yearly rent of £5 out of grounds called "Sandy Ball" in the parish of Fordingbridge, payable every fourth year to the poor of the parishes of Breamore, Fordingbridge, Harbridge and Ringwood, for binding poor children apprentice, with the consent of the heir for the time being. Welbore Ellis, Earl of Normanton, left by will in 1846, £400 £2¾ per cent. Consols upon trust, to apply the dividends to the repair of the church; the surplus to be applied triennially to the relief of the poor. Somerley, 2 miles south, is the seat of the Earl of Normanton D.L., J.P. where there is a magnificent picture gallery with a very good collection, including some of Sir Joshua Reynolds' finest works; the mansion, situated on the banks of the river Avon, is a square building, of white brick with Portland stone dressings, three stories in height, and having a handsome stone portico: it was remodelled in 1872, under the direction of Mr. Anderson. The Earl of Normanton is lord of the manor, and owner of almost the entire parish and of the adjoining parish of Ibsley, east and west of the river Avon; these portions of the Earl's property are connected by an elegant stone bridge of one span. There are many prettily-designed cottages and other buildings which add very much to the picturesque beauty of the estate, which is richly wooded. On Plumley heath are barrows. The soil is sandy; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 4,177 acres of land and 37 of water; rateable value, £2,594; the population in 1881 was 371.

Parish Clerk, George Wort.

HARTLEY MAUDITT is a small village and parish 2¾ miles south-east from Alton railway station and 10 south-west from Farnham, in the Eastern division of the county, Alton hundred, union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Alton western division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church (not dedicated) is a stone building in the Gothic style, consisting of a chancel, nave, and south porch: the chancel arch is remarkable, being among the few specimens of the horse-shoe form, and the font is of considerable antiquity: the church was almost entirely rebuilt in 1854, at an expense of £700, and a bell turret was added: the windows are stained; the eastern represents the Crucifixion and Ascension, and the two western represent the Agony in the Garden and the Resurrection: in the chancel are some ancient monuments to the Stuart family: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1672. The living is a rectory, yearly value £256, with residence, in the gift of Mrs. Plummer, and held since 1885 by the Rev. Alfred Cyril Hervey M.A. of St. Peter's College, Cambridge. Henry John Dutton esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is malm; subsoil, upper green sandstone. The chief crops are corn and hops. The area is 1,404 acres; rateable value, £1,334; the population in 1881 was 99.

HARTLEY-WESPALL is a parish and small village on the river Loddon, 3 miles from Hook station on the London and South Western railway, 6 miles north-east from Basingstoke and 7 north-west from Winchfield, in the Northern division of the county, hundred of Holdshot, Basingstoke union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Basingstoke north-eastern division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Mary the Virgin is a building in the Decorated style, erected in place of a timber framed church of the thirteenth century; the roof and main timbers are still in fine condition; it consists of chancel and nave, separated by an oak screen, and a north-eastern tower, with shingled spire, containing 3 bells, and a north porch: the church was restored in 1868 by subscription, at a cost of £2,000: there are six stained windows in memory of the Keate and Hudleston families and the Right Rev. Bishop Broughton, late of Sydney: there are sittings for 160 persons. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £389, net yearly value £378, including 30 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and held since 1849 by the Rev. John Charles Keate M.A. of Balliol College, Oxford. The charities amount to £25 yearly, arising from money invested in Consols. The manor formerly belonged to the Dean and Canons of Windsor, but it has been sold, and the land enfranchised. The Duke of Wellington, the Rev. J. C. Keate M.A. rector, and others have land in this parish. The soil is various; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and beans. The area is 1,420 acres; rateable value, £1,616; the population in 1881 was 236.

HARTLEY WINTNEY (the street portion of which is known as HARTLEY ROW) is a village and parish and head of a union, 36½ miles from London, 2 north from the Winchfield station on the London and South Western railway and 9 east-by-north from Basingstoke, in the Northern division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Odiham, Basingstoke county court district, rural deanery of Odiham and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The village of Hartley Row contains several good shops and private houses, also an extensive brewery. The church of St. John, situate at Hartley Row, is a handsome Gothic structure of red brick with stone facings, built in 1870, at a cost of about £4,000, raised by subscriptions: it is a cruciform building, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, aisles, north and south porches, and temporary belfry tower at the west end, containing one bell: the foundation stone was laid in 1869 by Lady St. John-Mildmay: two stained windows have been put in, one in the south transept, in memory of John Measure esq. of Sherwood, and one at the west end, by George Clift esq. of The Laurels, in memory of a son who died at sea: an organ was added in 1879 at a cost of £370: there are daily services at 8 and 6 and the church is open between the services; there is weekly celebration of the Holy Communion: there are 650 sittings. The register dates from the year 1658. The living is a discharged vicarage, yearly value £142, with residence and 4 acres of glebe, in the gift of Sir Henry B. P. St. John-Mildmay bart. and held since 1886 by the Rev. Arundell Glastonbury St. John-Mildmay B.A. of Magdalene College, Cambridge. The old church is now used as a mortuary chapel. The Baptists and Wesleyans each have a chapel at Hartley Row, and there is a Primitive Methodist chapel at West Green. Ray's charity of £30 yearly, which is divided between this parish and Odiham, is given to the poor in calico. A large cattle fair is held on the 4th December. Here are the head-quarters of the F Co. 1st Voluntr. Batt. of the Hampsh. Reg. Sir Henry Bouverie Paulet St. John-Mildmay bart. D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor, and Lord Calthorpe are chief landowners. The soil is light loam; subsoil, sand. The chief crops are corn and roots. The area is 2,405 acres; rateable value, £7,109; the population in 1881 was 1,799.

HAVANT is a market, union and railway town, parish and liberty, 66½ miles by S. W. railway from London, 21 east-by-south from Southampton, 28 south-east from Winchester, 7 north-north-east from Portsmouth, 9½ east from Fareham, 9 west from Chichester and 33½ from Brighton, by rail 37½, in the Southern division of the county, Fareham petty sessional division, Portsmouth county court district, rural deanery of Havant, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The town, situated on the old road from Southampton and Fareham to Chichester, consists chiefly of four streets, but is gradually extending and improving. The London, Brighton and South Coast railway crosses North street, where a station has been erected, and there is a branch to Hayling; the direct Portsmouth line of the South Western here joins the South Coast railway. The town adopted the Local Government Act, 1848, April 16th, 1852, and is governed by a Local Board of 12 members. In 1824 a swing bridge was erected, at an expense of £12,000, across the channel which runs between Langston and Hayling Island, lying about one mile to the south of Havant. Water is supplied from works the property of the Portsmouth Water Works Company, and the town is lighted by gas by the Havant Gas Co. The church of St. Faith is a handsome cruciform structure of flint with stone dressings, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave of 6 bays, aisles and transepts, north porch, with a tower rising from the intersection, with clock: it has been rebuilt, except the chancel and turret, at a cost of from six to seven thousand pounds: in the tower is a bell-chamber containing 8 fine-toned bells: the east window is stained, as also the windows in the transept, the north transept window being to the memory of Charles Frederick Mackenzie, first Bishop of Central Africa, and Anne, his sister and companion; and the south transept window to members of the Granville family; an organ chamber and organ were also erected: in stripping and cleaning the chancel (the handsome groined ceiling of which, with the ribs, are all of chalk, carried upon Purbeck pebbles), a beautiful Early English window of the 13th century, built of chalk, was discovered, together with a window of the same century, looking north from the private chapel, which is now used as a vestry, and another one looking east: in taking down the tower, several openings from the turret were revealed, one leading to the rood loft and another from the transept to the turret and thence to the rood loft: a two-light lancet window was also discovered in the south transept, on the jambs of which were found frescoes, one representing the burning of a virgin martyr in a cauldron; various other interesting discoveries were made, including a single-light Norman window and a Purbeck marble font of the Saxons, with the figure of a griffin engraved upon it: the church was originally Norman, and has been restored at various times; it contains a brass, with effigy and inscription to "Thomas Aylward, formerly rector of this church, who died 6th April, 1413, to whose soul may God be propitious. Amen. Be thou witness O Christ that this stone doth not lie here that the body may be adorned, but that death might be meditated on;" the plate is beautifully engraved; the stone slab in which the plate is inserted has been removed from its original position and placed in the floor of the chancel: there are 600 sittings. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a rectory, with manorial rights, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, yearly value £670, with residence and 9½ acres of glebe, and held since 1874 by the Rev. William Renaud M.A. canon of Salisbury cathedral and rural dean.

ST. JOHN'S ecclesiastical district was formed in 1840, and embraces the northern parts of the parishes of Havant and Warblington, including the hamlet of Durrants in the former and that part of the village of Rowland's Castle which is in the latter parish. Maize Copse farm, Prospect farm and Leigh farm are also included in this district. The church of St. John, situated at Redhill, about 2½ miles north from Havant, is chiefly a flint building in the Norman style, and consists of small chancel, nave, transepts and two small aisles: the east window is stained: there are 250 sittings, all in the nave being free. The register dates from the year 1841 (baptisms), 1842 (burials). The living is a rectory, yearly value about £180, with residence, in the alternate gift of the rectors of Havant and Warblington, and held since 1856 by the Rev. George Austen M.A. of St. John's College, Oxford, formerly a chaplain R.N. Area of the parish, 1,830 acres; population in 1881, 392. In 1876 an iron church was erected in Brockhampton lane to hold about 250 persons. St. Joseph's Catholic church, situated in West street, is a Gothic stone building, erected in 1874-5, with priest's residence and school buildings attached; it contains an elaborate marble altar-piece, with sculptured representations of The Marriage of St. Joseph on the left, The Flight into Egypt on the right, and The Death of St. Joseph along the bottom, underneath the above; the altar-piece is surmounted by three handsome stone pinnacles, and is 15 feet from the base to top of centre pinnacle: in 1883 a stained east window was inserted with full length figures of St. John the Evangelist and St. Barbara. The Congregational chapel, in the Pallant, is a commodious building, and has a small endowment: there are 250 sittings. The cemetery of 1¼ acres, situated in New lane, formed in 1850 at a cost of £416, contains a mortuary chapel, erected by a late rector, the Rev. Thomas Goodwin Hatchard, and is under the control of the vestry. Tanning, malting, brewing, the flour trades, and the manufacture of parchment, are the principal branches of business. In former times the fishery in Langston harbour used to be very productive, but it is now inconsiderable, except the oyster fishery, which is still of some extent. A Town Hall was erected in East street in 1870. A Working Men's Institute was erected in 1879, in West street, at the sole cost of Lieut.-General Sir F. W. Fitzwygram bart. of Leigh Park, who also built and supports a reading room at Durrants. A cattle and sheep market is held every Tuesday, in the meadow at the back of the Star hotel, North street. The Capital and Counties Bank has a building in West street, erected in 1884 from designs by Mr. H. R. Trigg of Hayling, in a rather heavy Renaissance style: on the ground floor upon a base of about 4 feet in height, with rusticated panels, there are four bays formed by square piers with floriated columns: in the rear is the room for books and securities: the first storey is pierced with four windows, circular-headed, surrounded by plain bands, with heavy keystones; all the rest of the surface of the storey is rusticated. A recreation ground of 8 acres adjoining the town was in 1889 laid out by the local board for the use of the inhabitants. Leigh Park, the seat of Lieut.-General Sir Frederick Wellington Fitzwygram bart. M.P., J.P. lord of the manor and principal landowner, is a fine mansion, situate in its own grounds, which are of considerable extent and laid out with much taste. The soil is clay; subsoil, flint and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats and roots. The area of the entire parish is 2,768 acres of land, 18 of water and 46 of tidal water; rateable value, £15,211; the population in 1881 was 2,750, including coast-guard and 119 officers and inmates of the workhouse.

Parish Clerk, John Marchant.

National School (mixed), built in 1874, for 112 children; average attendance, 112; Mrs. Annie Rayment, mistress

STOCKHEATH is 1 mile north-west. BROCKHAMPTON is a tithing, adjoining the town on the south-west. The town of Portsmouth derives its chief water supply from the springs of this district, in which are several reservoirs and a pumping station, the water being forced through large pipes a distance of seven miles.

LANGSTON, which gives its name to the harbour, is 1 mile south; here a chapel was erected in 1869 by the late H. W. Jeans esq. who afterwards endowed it with £30 yearly to keep it in repair; it will seat about 50 persons, and a service is held by the rector during the week. Langston harbour is an inlet from the English Channel, between Portsea (Portsmouth) and Hayling Island; the entrance at Cumberland fort is about a quarter of a mile wide, but it soon opens to a general width of about two miles; its greatest length is about three miles: at the entrance the depth at low water is about 8 feet and at high water about 35 feet; but in consequence of its being a bar harbour, vessels of more than two or three hundred tons, or that draw more than twelve feet of water, cannot enter, as the depth of water on the bar seldom exceeds sixteen feet. The London, Brighton and South Coast Railway Co. in connection with the London and South Western Railway Co. have a joint wharf here with warehouse accommodation and hand cranes.

Parish Clerk, Henry Wood.

HAWKLEY is a village and parish, lying on the slope of the high land running north and south from Nore Hill to Westham Hill, and known as the "Hawkley Hangers." Mention is made of these in White's "History of Selborne;" they are of some height, and the range of South Downs towards the east and the Wealden Valley to a great distance are seen from them: the village is 2½ miles north-west from Liss station on the direct Portsmouth line of the South Western railway, and 4 north from Petersfield, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of Selborne, Petersfield petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Petersfield and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of SS. Peter and Paul, erected in 1865 by J. J. Maberly esq. partly on the site of the old church, is built of the stone of the country, and in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles and a western tower containing 5 bells: all the windows are stained: there are about 200 sittings. The register dates from 1813 for baptisms, and 1815 for burials. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £120, with residence, in the gift of J. J. Maberly esq. and endowed by him, and held since 1885 by the Rev. James Clarke Harkness M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge. Hawkley Hurst is the seat of J. James Maberly esq. commanding a good view of the surrounding country. The principal landowners are the Tichborne trustees, J. J. Maberly esq. H. F. Andrews esq. and Winchester College. The tithe rent-charge, commuted in 1850, and wholly awarded to the landowners, amounts to £440 13s. In the parish is Rochelee Mill, an ancient mill of the Bishops of Winchester, taken from them by Sir Adam Gurdon, and given back under King Edward I. A.D. 1280; it was burnt down and rebuilt in 1774, and became a cottage in 1880. The soil in the lower parts is heavy clay, but light malm on the hills; subsoil, rock and stiff clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats and some hops. The area is 1,446 acres; rateable value, £1,816; the population in 1881 was 302.

Parish Clerk, William Marshall.

HAWLEY is a small village and ecclesiastical district, formed in 1838 from the civil parish of Yateley; it comprises the village of Blackwater, the northern portion of the tithing of Hawley and Frogmore, and is 1½ miles south from Blackwater station, South Eastern railway, and 2½ miles from Farnborough South Western station, and about 8 north from Farnham, situated on the Surrey border, in the Northern division of the county, Hartley Wintney union, Aldershot county court district, petty sessional division of Odiham, Basingstoke rural deanery north-eastern division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church of the Holy Trinity, which stands half-a-mile south of Blackwater village, is a brick and stone structure, in the Early English style, consisting of apsidal chancel, nave of four bays and aisles; the tower was added in 1882, at a cost of £1,500, defrayed by the Randell family: the bells were paid for by subscription: there are 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1838. The living is a perpetual curacy, yearly value £400, in the gift of John Charles Randell esq. and held since 1856 by the Rev. John Ingram Penfold Wyatt M.A. of Trinity Hall, Cambridge. All Saints' Home for Girls, erected 1881, at the sole expense of the late C. Randell esq. is a red-brick building, standing on an eminence, and will hold 30 children; there is also a small red-brick church attached for their use, who are in charge of the Sisters of St. John the Baptist, Clewer. Hawley House is a large stone mansion pleasantly situated in pleasure grounds and a well-wooded park, of about 60 acres; it is the seat of Arthur W. Bridge esq. The Oaks is the residence of John Charles Randell esq. The principal landowners are Bertram Wodehouse Currie esq. of Minley Manor House, Arthur W. Bridge esq. and John C. Randell esq. The soil is various; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are grain in succession. Rateable value, £11,122; the population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1881 was 783.

Blackwater is a large village and station on the Reading and Reigate branch of the South Eastern railway, 10 miles north-east from Odiham, 11 north from Farnham and 36 from London, on the old Western road, at the point of junction of the counties of Hants, Surrey and Berks, on the western bank of the river Blackwater, which is here crossed by a bridge. A fair for cattle and sheep is held on November 8th and 9th. Frogmore Park is the seat of Francis Horatio Fitz Roy esq. J.P.; the house is of brick, cemented, of pleasing elevation, and is situated in a small well-timbered park, on the edge of the Hartford Bridge Flats.

HAYLING ISLAND, situated between Langston and Chichester harbours, is 4 miles long and contains 10 square miles: it comprises the parishes of North and South Hayling, in the Southern division of the county, hundred of Bosmere, union of Havant, petty sessional division of Fareham, Portsmouth county court district, rural deanery of Havant, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The island is connected with the main land by a swing bridge, erected in 1824, and repaired in 1859; there is also a passenger ferry from Sinah to Cumberland Fort and Southsea: the oyster beds are nearly 300 acres in extent.

South Hayling is a parish, small watering place and village, with branch line from Havant and station on the London, Brighton and South Coast railway, 5 miles south from Havant, 5 east from Portsmouth and 72 from London. The firm sands extend 5 miles from east to west, along the shore of the English Channel. The church of St. Mary the Virgin is a handsome stone structure, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a central tower with spire: the east window has five panels: the crockets and finials are elaborately carved and the font is Norman: it was restored, except the chancel, which retains a double piscina, in the year 1869: a vestry was added on the north-west side of the chancel in 1885: there are 340 sittings. The register dates from the year 1571. The living is a vicarage, with the perpetual curacy of North Hayling annexed, gross joint yearly value £211, net £170, with residence, in the gift of Miss R. F. Padwick, and held since 1889 by the Rev. Charles Henry Clarke B.A. Oxford University. Here is a Congregational chapel. The National Life Boat Institution has a life boat here, superintended by a local committee. About a mile from the church is an ancient moated encampment called Tournerbury. There was a priory here, one of the alien possessions of the Abbey of Jumieges, in Normandy: it was bestowed on the Abbey of Shene, and at the suppression of the monasteries by Henry VIII. belonged to the College of Arundel: the dovecote is almost the only vestige remaining. The freedom from toll and market tillage ground, granted to the tenants of the manor under various charters, from that of Henry I. and downwards, are still preserved to the inhabitants. C. J. Park esq. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the lord of the manor, Frederick Padwick esq. Capt. Lynch-Staunton, Lynch White esq. Lieut.-Col. J. G. Sandeman and D. P. McEuen esq. A Hayling Island Golfing Club has been established and has 100 members; the links are on the beach common; there is also a ladies' golfing club. Here were salterns in constant use until the past few years, which were in existence previous to the Norman Conquest, and are mentioned in Domesday Book. The soil is loam; subsoil, gravel and clay. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 2,564 acres of land and 2,203 of water; rateable value, £6,552; the population in 1881 was 1,066, including the coastguard station.

Parish Clerk, Thomas Bowers.

POST, M. O. & T. O., S. B. & Annuity & Insurance Office.—Miss Caroline Jenman, sub-postmistress. Letters through Havant arrive at 7.15 a.m. & 3 p.m.; dispatched at 10 a.m. & 6.30 p.m.; on sunday at 10.10 a.m

North Hayling is a parish and village, with a station on the Hayling Island branch of the London, Brighton and South Coast railway, 2½ miles south from Havant, 72 by road and 68 by railway from London. The church of St. Peter is a very ancient structure of flint, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north transept, north and south porches and an eastern turret, with spire, containing 3 bells: it was restored, except the chancel, in 1881, at a cost of £1,000, all the ancient features of the building being carefully preserved: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1571. The living is a perpetual curacy annexed to the vicarage of South Hayling. C. J. Park esq. is lord of the manor. The land is held by several freeholders, among whom are Messrs. F. Padwick, W. C. Turner and Thomas Hoar. The soil is a deep and rich loam; subsoil, chiefly clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,308 acres of land and 1,456 of water; rateable value, £2,388; the population in 1881 was 268.

HAZELY HEATH, see MATTINGLEY.

HEADBOURNE WORTHY, see WORTHY.

HEADLEY is a large parish, 8 miles South from Farnham and 4½ north from Liphook station on the direct Portsmouth line of the South-Western railway, near the borders of Sussex and Surrey, in the Eastern division of the county, Alton hundred, union and petty sessional division, Farnham county court district, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, and rural deanery of Petersfield. The air is remarkably dry and salubrious, and the water of great purity. The church of All Saints is an edifice of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, north porch and a square tower, containing 2 bells, rebuilt, with the exception of the tower, in 1859, by the Rev. J. Ballantine Dykes, a vestry and chancel being then added: the pews are open and uniform: a very fine east window has been erected in memory of the Rev. J. B. Dykes: a new organ, costing about £300, defrayed by voluntary contributions, was placed in the church in 1885: there are 350 sittings. The register dates from the year 1530. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £776, with residence, in the gift of the Provost and Fellows of Queen's College, Oxford, and held since 1872 by the Rev. Wallis Hay Laverty M.A. late fellow of that college. Here are Congregational and Bible Christian chapels, each capable of holding 200 persons: there is also an iron chapel at Standford for the Brethren. Headley Park, situated on the border of Woolmer Forest, is the seat of Robert Samuel Wright esq. who erected the handsome mansion in 1884. The Bishop of Winchester is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are E. P. I'Anson esq. Robert S. Wright esq. of Headley Park, Mrs. Kingdom, Sir Archibald Keppel Macdonald D.L., J.P. Mrs. Petar, A. Ingham Whitaker esq. of Greyshott Hall, T. S. Smithers esq. James Mowatt M.A., F.R.G.S. of Kingswood Firs and Ulick John Burke esq. The soil and subsoil are sandy. The chief crops are barley and wheat. The area is 6,923 acres, 3,343 of which were waste land, but about 1,600 or 1,700 acres of the latter have been inclosed and plantations laid out, greatly altering the appearance of this parish, which contains a portion of Woolmer forest; rateable value, £6,702; the population in 1881 was 1,628. Standford and Greyshott, or Grayshott, are part of the parish.

Parish Clerk, William Speakman.

HECKFIELD is a small village and parish, 5 miles north-west from Winchfield station on the South-Western railway, 10 north-east from Basingstoke and 8 south from Reading, situated near the Berkshire border, on the river Whitewater, in the Northern division of the county, hundred of Holdshott, Odiham petty sessional division, Hartley Wintney union, Basingstoke county court district, rural deanery of Basingstoke north-eastern division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese, and includes part of the tithing of HOLDSHOTT. The church of St. Michael is an edifice of stone, brick and ferule stones, in the Early English style, restored in 1831 at a cost of £1,070, and again in 1877 at a cost of £2,250: it consists of chancel, with chapel, nave of four bays, north aisle, north porch and an embattled western tower, with pinnacles, containing 5 bells: the church contains some ancient monuments : there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £350, in the gift of the Warden and Fellows of New College, Oxford, and held since 1883 by the Rev. George James Thomas M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. The benefactions to the poor are of the annual value of £4 16s. There are almshouses for 6 aged women, erected by Viscount Eversley in 1863, in remembrance of Lady Eversley. There is a monument in this parish, on the Reading and Basingstoke road, erected in 1863 in memory of the great Duke of Wellington, by his son, the second Duke, tenants, labourers on the estate and tradespeople, at a cost of £3,000; the total height is upwards of 80 feet, the statue of the Duke, in the uniform of a Field Marshal, being about 7 feet high ; on the sides of the base of granite, which supports the pedestal, are suitable inscriptions. Heckfield Place is the seat of the Hon. Miss Shaw-Lefevre ; the mansion is a substantial and handsome brick building, well situated in a beautifully wooded park of about 200 acres. The Duke of Wellington K.G. is lord of the manor of Heckfield, and the Hon. Miss Shaw-Lefevre is lady of the manor of Putham, which includes Holdshott, Hazely, and Mattingley. The principal landowners are the Duke of Wellington and the Hon. Miss Shaw-Lefevre. Nearly 700 acres of the Stratfieldsaye Park are in this parish. The soil is principally light ; subsoil, sand and gravel. The chief crops are grain in succession. The area of the entire parish is 5,967 acres, of which 988 are common; rateable value, £3,671 ; the population of the civil parish in 1881 was 560.

MATTINGLEY hamlet and HAZELY HEATH tithing form an ecclesiastical parish, and will be found under the heading of Mattingley.

DICKER is three-quarters of a mile west.

HERRIARD is a parish, 5 miles south-east from Basingstoke, 6½ north-west from Alton, in the Northern division of the county, petty sessional division, union and county court district of Basingstoke, Bermondspit hundred, rural deanery of Basingstoke south-western division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Mary is an ancient building of flint and stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch, and a low pointed western tower containing 3 bells: in 1877 it was thoroughly restored, when a marble font was presented by the late Mrs. Jervoise: a new organ was erected in the year 1881 at a cost of £300, in memory of J. E. Jervoise esq. by his family, and the reredos of Caen stone, by Mr. G. Seale, erected in the year 1884, is also in memory of the same gentleman: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1656. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £200, net yearly value £162, in the gift of Francis Michael Ellis Jervoise esq. the impropriator of the great tithes, and held since 1887 by the Rev. George Henry Moore Preston B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. Herriard House is a stately mansion, erected in the reign of Queen Anne, pleasantly situated in the midst of an extensive and well-wooded park measuring seven miles round, extending into the parishes of Herriard, Tunworth and Winslade, possessing most picturesque scenery and commanding extensive views: it is the seat of Francis Michael Ellis Jervoise esq. M.A., J.P. lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is clay and chalk; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and roots, but a good deal of the land has lately been laid down in pasture. The area is 2,963 acres; rateable value, £2,108; the population in 1881 was 406.

SOUTHROPE is a tithing on the opposite side of the highway to the village.

HIGHCLERE is a village and station on the Didcot and Winchester line of the Great Western railway, 5 miles south from Newbury, 7 west from Kingsclere and 58 from London, in the Western division of the county, petty sessional division and union of Kingsclere, hundred of Evingar, county court district of Newbury, rural deanery of Andover northern division and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The old church of St. Michael and All Angels was situated close to Highclere Castle and was almost concealed by a grove of trees, above which used to show the square ivy-mantled tower, but in the year 1870 the parish church was, at the request of the parish, removed by the Earl of Carnarvon to the immediate neighbourhood of the school, the rectory and the little village of Highclere Street, and there rebuilt from the designs of the late Sir Gilbert Scott, at the cost of the Earl: the present church is of flint with stone dressings, and is a very good specimen of Early English architecture, consisting of chancel, nave and south aisle, with tower and spire on the north side: the monuments formerly in the old church were removed to this building, and a peal of 6 bells was given by the Dowager Countess of Carnarvon: the parishioners subscribed for a handsome organ: at the western end of the church is a large stained window to the memory of Edward Herbert esq. a cousin of Lord Carnarvon, who was murdered by Greek brigands near Athens in 1870; also a very beautiful stained window in memory of the late Countess of Carnarvon, presented by Lady Margaret Charteris: the burial ground, with a very pretty chapel, built at the expense of the Dowager Countess of Carnarvon, is a short distance from the church: there are 200 sittings, all free. The register dates from the year 1656. The living is a rectory, tithes commuted at £324 yearly, with about 70 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Earl of Carnarvon P.C. and held since 1889 by the Rev. Frederick Hermann Bowden-Smith M.A. of Trinity College, Oxford. A sum of £6 a year, being the interest of £200, left in 1815 by the Rev. Richard Gairdner, rector of Highclere, is divided between the school and the poor of the parish. Highclere Castle, the seat of the Earl of Carnarvon P.C., D.C.L., J.P. lord lieutenant, is situated on a bold eminence in the centre of an extensive and finely-timbered park, commanding exquisite views of the distant and surrounding country: the date of the original mansion is unknown: at one time the domain formed part of the estates of the bishops of Winchester, and in the reign of Edward VI. the manor was resigned by Bishop Poynet to the King, who granted it, with Burghclere, to the Fitzwilliams; eventually the property was purchased by Sir Robert Sawyer, Attorney-General to Charles II. and James II. whose memory is deservedly honoured for his defence of the seven bishops: his only child married Thomas, Earl of Pembroke, and thus the estates were brought into the possession of the Herbert family: the ancient edifice has, in the course of successive ages, undergone many changes, and was altered and improved by the late Sir C. Barry, the eminent architect: the general style is of the time of James I.: the elevated portions of the north and south fronts, the pinnacles and perforated work which surmount the building have a light and yet imposing appearance: the Herbert griffin, holding in its mouth the bloody hand, appears in stone, in every variety of attitude; and the portcullis, so long borne on their banners by that family, is continually seen mixed up with badges, shields and heraldic devices, introduced at different periods by alliances with other noble families, including the Howards, Aclands, Nevilles, Veres and Parrs: each angle of the building is flanked by a tower of elegant proportions, and on the western side, on the site of the old feudal keep, is a magnificent and massive tower; seen from the surrounding country, this tower, rising from the deep and ancient woods that environ it, is an object of much interest and beauty: the castle hall is of great antiquity; the gigantic fireplace, round which the feudal retainers were wont to assemble, was discovered at the time of the restoration of the castle, and passages traced within the massive walls, constructed probably as a means for concealment or of secret communication during the middle ages: the spacious apartments of the castle are adorned with several choice paintings by Sir Joshua Reynolds, Gainsborough, Vandyck and other celebrated masters. The park is 13 miles in circumference, and the scenery is unusually varied, and the views from its higher grounds are delightful and extensive: the cedars of Lebanon, sprung from those at Wilton, luxuriate here, and add much to the beauty of the pleasure grounds. The sister hills, BEACON and SIDDOWN, respectively rising 370 feet and 940 feet in height, give a peculiar character not only to the park, but to that part of the country. Siddown Hill is clothed with the most luxuriant foliage to its very summit, while Beacon Hill, standing out bare and clear against the eastern sky, exhibits on its bold summit the remains of a British encampment, with the traces of the ancient hutting, still fresh and uninjured by the lapse of ages. Towards the northern verge of the park a lake, embosomed in the forest, presents a scene of tranquil beauty: in this secluded spot the late Earl of Carnarvon restored a casino, built on the margin of the water by his ancestor, Thomas Herbert, Earl of Pembroke, in the 17th century, and there his lordship resided while the alterations were carried on at the castle; it is now used as a cottage. Looking across the lake, heath-clad islands and deep glades in the forest give unusual interest to this delightful scene. The banks are clothed with exotic vegetation and a profusion of azaleas and rhododendrons of every varying hue: for beauty, luxuriance and variety of its American plants, Highclere, "as it was the first place in the kingdom where they attained perfection," surpasses every other at the present day; indeed, the whole scene, as beheld from the windows of the casino when the sun is setting, is of such surpassing softness that it has often been compared to some of the most favoured scenes of Italy. But the most distinguishing feature of this interesting domain is its free warren and free chase: in virtue of these ancient rights, the game over all the district, whether on waste lands or on private properties, belongs exclusively to the Herbert family; they still claim the legal right (although it has been practically abandoned) of harbouring the stag, the wolf, the boar and other beasts of the chase within that woodland district, which, still rich in thorns, hollies and ancient oaks, was once the favourite haunt of these denizens of the forest. These rights have of late years, in certain parishes, been extinguished at the request of the freeholders. The Earl of Carnarvon P.C. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is stiff loam; subsoil, in parts red clay, but generally chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 3,432 acres of land and 52 of water; rateable value, £2,642; the population in 1881 was 378.

HIGHCLIFFE is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1843 out of the parishes of Christchurch and Milton, 2½ miles east-south-east from Christchurch, in the New Forest division of the county, hundred, union and county court district of Christchurch, petty sessional division of Ringwood, Fordingbridge rural deanery western division and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese; it is pleasantly situated in the bay of Christchurch, and much resorted to in the bathing season. The church of St. Mark, erected in 1843, is a building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of small chancel, nave with open roof, north porch, and a bell-cot on the western gable containing one bell, which was brought by Lord Stuart de Rothesay from St. Petersburg, and is believed to contain a considerable proportion of silver: the east window is stained, representing Our Saviour and the Four Evangelists, the work of Louisa, Marchioness of Waterford, and there are five memorial windows, a recent addition being one in memory of the late Lieut. Pardoe, who was killed in the Zulu war: the entire cost of the church was defrayed by the late Lord Stuart de Rothesay, of Highcliffe: there are 300 sittings, of which half are free. The register dates from the year 1843. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £175, with residence, in the gift of Louisa, Marchioness of Waterford, and held since 1889 by the Rev. Algernon Charles Dudley Ryder M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. Here is a coast-guard station. Sandhills, the residence and property of John D. Gibb esq. is a handsome building, standing in 16 acres of grounds: the terraces and slopes fronting the beach are a quarter of a mile in length, commanding extensive views of the Isle of Wight, the Needles and Hengisbury Head. Highcliffe, the property of Louisa, Marchioness of Waterford, is a noble castellated structure, situated on an eminence, not far from the New Forest, and its towering turrets may be seen for miles round. Wolhayes, the residence of Mrs. Entwisle, is a large mansion standing in beautiful grounds of 100 acres. Bure Homage, the handsome residence of Frank Ricardo esq. J.P. is situated near to the road: the principal entrance is at the north-east; the south-west view embraces a scene of lawns and grounds decorated with rare plants and exotics, near which are some extensive fishponds, well stocked. There are also many other residences and detached cottages. Louisa, Marchioness of Waterford, General Stuart J.P. and Frank Ricardo esq. J.P. are the principal landowners. The population in 1881 was 747.

MUDEFORD, which takes its name from the river Mude, is partly in this parish, and partly in that of Christchurch, the river Bure forming the ecclesiastical boundary. Mudeford chapel, built in 1871 by Mortimer Ricardo esq. is a red brick building in the Gothic style, having a detached bell-cot on the north-east containing one bell: there are 150 seats, all free: it is a chapel of ease to the parish of Christchurch, and the Rev. Henry Charles Mitford Barton M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, is curate in charge.

HINTON (or HINTON ADMIRAL) is a chapelry and ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1867 from the civil parish of Christchurch, 4 miles north-east from Christchurch, on the road to Southampton, in the New Forest division of the county, union, hundred and county court district of Christchurch, petty sessional division of Ringwood (Christchurch sub-division), Fordingbridge rural deanery western division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The Bournemouth direct railway has a station here. The church of St. Michael, consecrated in 1786, is a building of brick with stone dressings, consisting of chancel and nave, south porch, and a square western tower containing 5 bells: the chancel was restored in 1875 at a cost of £1,400, when a handsome reredos of Kent stone with black marble back was presented by Sir G. E. M. T. G. Meyrick bart. at whose expense the nave was restored and new seated and a south porch added at a cost of nearly £2,000 in 1883: a vestry for the choir has recently (1889) been added at a cost of £50: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1786. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £200, with residence, in the gift of Sir George Eliott Meyrick Tapps-Gervis-Meyrick bart. D.L., J.P. and held since 1885 by the Rev. George Owen Pardoe B.A. of University College, Oxford. Hinton Admiral is an ancient mansion, in the Queen Anne style, standing in a park of about 300 acres, and surrounded by very fine woods, the seat of Sir George Elliott Meyrick Tapps-Gervis-Meyrick bart. D.L., J.P. who is the principal landowner. The soil is loam; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans and barley. The population in 1881 was 284.

HOLDENHURST with THROOP are villages forming a parish, 3½ miles north-west from Christchurch, 3½ miles east from Bournemouth, East station, pleasantly situated on the river Stour and within the parliamentary borough of Christchurch, in the New Forest division of the county, union and county court district of Christchurch, Westover liberty, Ringwood petty sessional division, rural deanery of Fordingbridge western division and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church of St. John the Evangelist, erected in the year 1834, is an edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, nave and an octagonal belfry at the west end containing 2 bells: in 1873 it was re-seated, a chancel added and was consecrated by the late Bishop Wilberforce: there are sittings for 250 persons. The register dates from the year 1679. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £150, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1877 by the Rev. Frederick Hopkins M.A. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge, who resides at Haddon Hill. A vicarage house was erected in 1884 by the Rev. F. Hopkins: it is of red brick, in the Gothic style, pleasantly situated midway between Holdenhurst and Throop and now occupied by the curate, the Rev. George Sarmon Bevir. This is the mother parish of a large portion of the town of Bournemouth. Here is a Congregational chapel, built 1828, entirely renovated 1877, holding 270. The poor have £3 yearly from land left in 1667 by Thomas Browne, which is distributed in bread on New Year's day. Little Down House, the seat of James Edward Cooper-Dean esq. is a substantial modern building, on the slope of a gentle eminence; it is approached by a carriage drive overhung with evergreens and surrounded by a finely wooded estate. Haddon Hill, the residence of the Rev. Frederick Hopkins M.A. is a Gothic building of red brick, pleasantly situated on an eminence, commanding extensive views of the surrounding country. The principal landowners are the Earl of Malmesbury, who is lord of the manor, James Edward Cooper-Dean and Thomas Cox esqrs. The soil is loam; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 5,793 acres of land, which includes part of Bournemouth, as also Muscliffe, 1 mile west; Muccleshell, 2 miles north-west; Moor Down, 2 miles west; Stourfield, 2 miles south. Rateable value, £180,750; and the population in 1881 was 15,646; this includes part of Bournemouth and the whole of Moor Down.

HOLYBOURNE is a parish, 1½ miles north-east of Alton, on the road to Farnham, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred, union, petty sessional division and county court district of Alton, rural deanery of Alton western division and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The river Wey runs through the parish. The church of the Holy Rood is an ancient structure of flint and stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave and north aisle, a Norman tower and 3 bells: it was restored in 1879 at a cost of about £2,500, under the direction of the architect, Mr. Ewan Christian, Messrs. J. H. and E. Dyer being the builders, and was re-opened for divine service in 1879: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1693. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Winchester, and held since 1889 by the Rev. Charles Hans Hamilton B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. Here are chapels for Wesleyans and Presbyterians. Henry John Dutton esq. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Sir Charles John Hubert Miller bart. W. J. Complin esq. and W. Cole esq. The soil is clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are corn and hops. The acreage is 1,405; rateable value, £2,928; and the population in 1881 was 591, exclusive of Neatham.

Neatham is a tithing, half a mile east from Holybourne, and 2 miles north-east from Alton, on the south side of the Wey; it contains two farm-houses, also two mills and a few scattered cottages. This place was formerly superior in importance to Alton, and in the reign of William the Conqueror possessed a market. There was once a monastery here. The area is 1,117 acres; rateable value, £1,291; the population in 1881 was 90.

HORDLE (or HORDWELL) is a parish comprising the tithings of HORDLE and ARNEWOOD, in the New Forest division of the county, Lymington union and petty sessional division, hundred of Christchurch, Lymington county court district, rural deanery of Fordingbridge eastern division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, 4 miles west-south-west from Lymington and 8 west from Christchurch, situated on the coast of the English Channel. The church of All Saints, rebuilt in 1872, at a cost of £4,000, chiefly defrayed by the late J. P. Kennard esq. of Hordle Cliff, is a building of red brick with white stone facings, in the Early English style, from designs by Mr. Giles, architect, and consists of chancel, nave, with western tower (unfinished) containing 3 bells, and a south porch: there are three memorial windows, erected to J. Pemberton Heywood esq. and two children of Col. Raitt respectively; there is also a memorial brass to the memory of J. P. Kennard esq. erected by his children in 1884, a very handsome brass eagle lectern, presented to the church by the children of J. A. Russell esq. of Yeatton, to the memory of their father, who died December, 1882; and a handsome stone pulpit, erected by the ladies, past and present, of Arnewood House, in September, 1884, at a cost of £60: the mosaic reredos by Salviati, of Venice, has a centre medallion of Our Lord, by Forsyth: the font is a memorial to the late Col. Clinton, of Ashley Clinton: the organ is inclosed in a highly decorated case: the church has, excluding the choir seats in the chancel, 220 sittings, all free. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1773; marriages, 1754. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £120, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1885 by the Rev. Silvanus Key Borton M.A. of King's College, Cambridge, The Vicarage House, built in 1889, stands on 3½ acres of glebe adjoining the church, and replaces the former vicarage, which was remote and inconveniently situated. There is a small iron church, St. Andrews, erected by the vicar, in 1886, near Tiptoe Cross, in the northern portion of the parish, to meet the requirements of the increasing population, who were remote from the parish church: 175 sittings, all free. The cliffs on this part of the coast abound in fossils, shells, and antedeluvian remains; they are lofty and form downs of considerable extent and beauty, commanding fine views of the Needles and Isle of Wight. A considerable portion of the Milford-on-Sea building estate is situated on the Hordle cliffs, and building operations have been in progress since 1887. Hurst Castle is a detached portion of this parish: it is of some antiquity, having been erected by Henry VIII. to defend that part of the channel between the mainland and the Isle of Wight; and consists of a circular tower, strengthened with semi-circular bastions: the castle has undergone great alterations and improvements, with the view of rendering it more efficient as a place of defence, and has now communication by submarine telegraph with London and Osborne: it was used as a place of confinement for Charles I. in 1648, after his removal from Carisbrook Castle, about a month previously to his execution. The principal landowners are Lieut.-Col. Clinton, lord of the manor of Hordle, Col. Cornwallis West M.P. lord of the manor of Downton, N. Bond esq. H. C. Ward esq. and the Earl of Ravensworth. The soil is loam; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley aud oats. The area is 3,863 acres of land and 210 of water and foreshore; rateable value, £5,492; the population in 1881 was 1,041, including 81 in Hurst Castle garrison. DOWNTON is a portion of this parish.

HOUGHTON (consisting of the tithings of NORTH HOUGHTON and HOUGHTON DRAYTON) is a village and parish, situated on the river Test, 2 miles south from Stockbridge, 1½ north from Horsebridge station on the Andover and Redbridge line and 8 north from Romsey, in the Western division of the county, King's Somborne hundred, Romsey petty sessional division and county court district, Stockbridge union, rural deanery of Romsey and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church of All Saints is a plain, but ancient structure of flint, in the Early English style, originally Norman, and comprises nave, chancel, aisles, south porch and a low, square wooden belfry containing 3 bells; the smallest has been recast: the church, except the chancel, was restored in 1882 by subscriptions of the landowners and parishioners at a cost of £1,300: the chancel was thoroughly restored in 1875 by the rector, at a cost of upwards of £400; during the alterations two hagioscopes were discovered, the south one piercing the easternmost half pier of the nave, the north one, of large dimensions, piercing diagonally the east wall of the north aisle; at the side of this was found a piscina, there are also two others, one on the south side of the communion table and the other in the north aisle: there are 230 sittings. The register dates from the year 1669. The living is a rectory, gross rent-charge £625, with residence and 50 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1865 by the Rev. Edward Jacob Boyce M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. Here is a small Methodist Free chapel erected in 1833. Houghton Lodge is the seat of William Snow Clifton esq. North Houghton Manor is the seat of John James Trask esq. Charles Warner esq. of Winchester, is lord of the manor. Charles Thomas Wickham esq. of Winchester, owns the manorial right of fishing. The principal landowners are W Snow Clifton, William Henry Deverell, Mrs. Lywood, John James Trask esqs. and the trustees of St. John's Charity, Winchester. The soil is loam, chalk and a little peat; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area is 2,557 acres of land, chiefly arable, and 34 of water; rateable value, £2,816; the population in 1881 was 433.

HOUND and NETLEY ABBEY.

HOUND is a parish and village on the banks of Southampton Water, 3¾ miles south-east-by-east from Southampton, in the Southern division of the county, hundred of Mansbridge, Southampton petty sessional division and county court district, South Stoneham union, rural deanery of Bishop's Waltham, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. Netley station is equidistant between the villages of Netley Abbey and Hound. The church of St. Mary, situated at Hound, is a building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel and nave, south porch and tower containing 3 bells, and was, together with the priory, purchased from the monks by William de Wykeham, the founder of Winchester College. A new church near the Abbey has been erected, and has now become the parish church, and was consecrated by the Bishop of Winchester on October 13, 1886: the church is dedicated to St. Edward the Confessor, one of the patron saints of the old abbey: it is an edifice of stone, consisting of chancel and nave, south porch and square embattled eastern tower, with pinnacles, containing 8 bells; the principal contributors being Col. the Hon. Henry George Louis Crichton, of Netley Castle, and Hon. Mrs. Eliot Yorke, of Hamble Cliffe: the Incorporated Society for Building &c. Churches gave £150 in 1886 on condition that all the sittings are for the free use of the parishioners according to law, and the Hants Diocesan Society £150: it will seat about 500 persons. The register dates from the year 1792. The living is discharged vicarage, tithe rent-charge £150, gross yearly value £300, including 18 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Warden and Fellows of Winchester College, and held since 1874 by the Rev. William Stephen Ffrench M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford. The priory of SS. Mary and Edward was founded by Henry III. in 1237 and colonized by the Cistercians of Beaulieu; the church originally measured 211 by 58 feet, with a transept 128 feet in length: the ruins are still extensive and include the presbytery, transept, and on the east side of the cloister-garth, 114 feet square, the sacristy, vestibule of the chapter house, and common house; on the south side is the Early English door of the refectory, and on the west side the porter's lodge: at the Dissolution there were 12 monks and revenues estimated at £100. About a mile from Netley Abbey stands the Royal Victoria Hospital, a noble and very extensive building, for the reception of invalided soldiers, erected at a cost of over £400,000. Her Majesty laid the foundation stone in May, 1856, and the Hospital was opened in March, 1863; it is available for 1,000 patients. The Army Medical School, an establishment for the instruction of medical officers, preparatory to joining the military service, in special military sanitary subjects, is attached to the Royal Victoria Hospital. The hospital is under the command of theColonel commanding the troops at the station, and the professional superintendence is entrusted to a Surgeon-General as principal medical officer. A large building, containing the mess-room, reading and ante-rooms, and the quarters of the Medical Staff Officers, stands close to the hospital. There is also in rear of the General Hospital a large and extensive building opened in March, 1870, for the treatment of soldiers suffering from insanity. Tankerville Chamberlayne esq. B.A., D.L., J.P. of Cranbury Park, Hursley, is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is sandy; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and pasture. The area is 3,630 acres of land and 767 of water and foreshore; rateable value, £16,473; the population in 1881 was 4,068, which includes 300 persons on board the guard ship, which was lying off Hound in 1881; also 926 in the Royal Victoria Hospital and adjoining buildings.

NETLEY and HOUND, with SATCHELL, are tithings in the parish of Hound.

HURSLEY is a village and parish, situated on the high road from Winchester to Romsey, and head of a union, 4½ miles south-west from Winchester, 6½ north-east from Romsey and 3 miles from Chandler's Ford station, in the Western division of the county, Buddlesgate hundred, Winchester petty sessional division and county court district and in the rural deanery, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of All Saints is a handsome stone building, in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and south porch and has a western tower containing 6 bells and clock, and surmounted by an octagonal spire: the whole of the windows are stained, the pulpit and communion rails are of walnut elaborately carved: there are 500 sittings. The earliest register dates from the year 1599-1600. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £440, with good residence, in the gift of the trustees of the late Sir William Heathcote bart. and held since 1866 by the Rev. James Gavin Young M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. Beckley's Charity, founded in 1864, with an income of £100, is for five widows or widowers. Hursley Park, containing large and elegant mansion, built of red brick in the style prevalent in the time of Queen Anne, is the seat of Joseph William Baxendale esq. M.A.: the park is richly wooded and well stocked with deer, and surrounded for many miles by plantations and scenery of considerable beauty. Cranbury Park is the seat of Tankerville Chamberlayne esq. B.A., J.P.; the mansion is an ancient brick building with stone dressings and a Corinthian portico, pleasantly situated in a richly-wooded park extending over 500 acres, commanding extensive views of the Southampton Water and Isle of Wight: some fragments from the ruins of Netley Abbey, which are on a portion of the estate, are deposited here: the mansion is elegantly furnished and contains a valuable collection of water-colour drawings and oil paintings by Sir Joshua Reynolds, Romney, Callcott and Thomson: it was restored about 1860 from the designs of Mr. Chapman, architect, London. The principal landowners are the trustees of the late Sir William Heathcote bart. who are lords of the manor, the Rev. John White, Tankerville Chamberlayne esq. and J. W. Baxendale esq. The soil varies from chalk in the northern part, to clay, sand and gravel with peat in the southern. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 10,712 acres of land and 14 of water; rateable value, £10,784; the population in 1881 was 1,368.

AMPFIELD is an ecclesiastical parish formed from this parish, and will be found under a separate heading.

The river Bourne, a tributary of the Test, flows through the parish. The church of St. Andrew is a building of brick with stone dressings, in the Norman style, consisting of chancel with chapel, nave and an embattled western tower, containing 6 bells: the entrance is through the base of the tower; the west doorway is Norman: the font is of Caen stone, finely carved: in the chancel is an altar tomb with recumbent effigies to Robert Oxenbrigge and his wife, and a Latin inscription, dated 1705: the church was restored in 1870, the expense being defrayed by the Earl of Portsmouth: there are 250 sittings, about three-fourths are unappropriated. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1621; marriages and burials, 1604. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of St. Mary Bourne annexed—the tithes of Hurstbourne have been commuted for £161—joint gross yearly value £253, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1888 by the Rev. William Amos Barns M.A. of St. John's College, Oxford, who resides at St. Mary Bourne. Here is a Wesleyan chapel which will seat 100. Hurstbourne House, the seat of the Earl of Portsmouth D.L. stands on an eminence in a beautifully-wooded park of 700 acres, which is stocked with deer; the mansion is a large plain building, surrounded by fine gardens. The Earl of Portsmouth is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is partly clay, the rest light; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 3,228 acres of land and 21 of water; rateable value, £4,375; the population in 1881 was 409.

HURSTBOURNE TARRANT is a large village, 5½ miles north-by-east from Andover and 4 miles north-west from Hurstbourne station, situate on the road to Newbury and in a narrow but pleasant valley, through which, for three months of the year, flows a small stream called the Swift or Test, which rises in the parish: it is in the Western division of the county, Andover union, petty sessional division and county court district, Pastow hundred, rural deanery of Andover western division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Peter is a very ancient stone building, consisting of chancel, in which is a mural monument to the Paulet family, dated 1677, 1694 and 1697, a nave of three bays, with aisles separated by cylindrical piers and low pointed arches of the latter part of the 12th century, a south porch and a square wooden tower at the west end with 5 bells: there are 230 sittings. The register dates from the year 1546. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £220, with 10 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1887 by the Rev. Francis Henry Sumner M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. Here are Congregational and Primitive Methodist chapels. The Doles is the residence of the Earl of Dundonald. A. W. Dewar esq. who is lord of the manor, William Bound esq. A. B. Heath and Charles Phillips esqrs. are the principal landowners. The general surface of the land is hilly, but fertile and productive, and the soil, which inclines to the calcareous, is well suited to the growth of wheat, turnips and sainfoin. The whole parish including the hamlets of IBTHORP (or IBTHROP), three-quarters of a mile north-west, UPTON, 2 miles north-west and CONHOLT, 3 miles north-west, comprises 5,036 acres, in which there is a large wood and two commons of 200 acres and 70 acres, the latter distinct from the former, the owners and occupiers of the hamlet of Ibthorp only having a right thereon, and which extends to everything there growing, for their own use in the hamlet, but not for sale; and they are the lords, each in their own right, of their own soil. Rateable value, £3,082; the population in 1881 was 837.

PROSPEROUS is three-quarters of a mile north-east.

HYDE, 2 miles south-east from Fordingbridge, is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1855 from the old parish of St. Mary, Fordingbridge, in the New Forest division of the county, Fordingbridge union, county court district and hundred, petty sessional division of Ringwood, in the rural deanery of West Fordingbridge and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. BLISFORD, 1½ miles north-east; FROGHAM, half a mile north-east; HUNGERFORD, quarter of a mile west; and NORTH GORLEY, three-quarters of a mile south, are places in this parish. The church of the Holy Ascension, built in 1855, is an edifice of red brick with stone dressings in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, north vestry, south porch and a western bell turret containing 2 bells: the stained east window was erected by the Rev. Richd. Peter Warren M.A. late vicar, who founded this church in memory of his parents, A.D. 1875; there are four other stained windows: a finely carved stone tablet memorial to the Rev. R. P. Warren has been placed over the communion table by his widow; it is a representation of the Institution of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper: there are 230 sittings. A sum of £200, presented by Sir Edward Hulse bart. has been invested, the interest to be applied for repairing the church and insuring against fire. The register dates from the year 1856. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, by grant from the Ecclesiastical Commissioners and Queen Anne's Bounty, and including 5 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Keble College, Oxford, and held since 1885 by the Rev. Thomas Nathaniel Pearce. Here is a Congregational chapel. Eyre Coote esq. J.P. of West Park, Rockburne, who is lord of the manor, the Earl of Normanton and John Coventry esq. of Burgate House, Fordingbridge, are the principal landowners. The soil is of a mixed character; subsoil, gravel and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The population in 1881 was 781.

KINGS SOMBORNE, see SOMBORNE.

KINGS WORTHY, see WORTHY.

KINGSCLERE is a small but ancient town, agricultural parish and head of a union, 7 miles south-east from Newbury, 5½ north from Overton station on the Andover and Basingstoke branch of the South Western railway, and 4 east from the Burghclere station on the Didcot, Newbury and Winchester line of the Great Western railway, 8½ north-west from Basingstoke, in the Western division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Kingsclere, county court district of Newbury, rural deanery of Andover northern division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester; it is situated on a small stream, which rises about 300 yards from the town and drives four mills, situated within a quarter of a mile of each other. The parish is bounded on the south-west by a range of lofty downs which run from here to the Inkpen Beacon, near Hungerford. The town is lighted with gas by the lessee of a limited company. The church of St. Mary is a very ancient Norman cruciform fabric of flint and stone, consisting of a deep chancel, nave, south aisle, two transepts, south porch, and a large tower, which rises from the centre and contains a clock and 6 bells, and is supported by four Norman arches: it was re-seated and restored in 1848: in the 14th century a chapel was added by the Kingsmill family, who were formerly owners of property to a very large amount here; this chapel contains a handsome marble table monument, on which lie the figures of Sir Henry Kingsmill knt. of Sydmonton, in this county, who died in 1625; in 1670 the monument was erected by the Lady Bridget, his widow, who died 4th September, 1672: in the chancel is a monument to Edward Webbe D.D. chaplain to King Charles II.: there are several ancient brasses, one bearing the date of 1519, and six stained windows: the roof consists of oak covered with lead, and that of the tower is panelled and emblazoned: there are 450 sittings. The register, including Itchingswell and Sydmonton, dates from the year 1538, but the early part is imperfect. The living is a vicarage, tithes commuted at £443 1s. 6d. yearly, with residence and 3 acres of glebe land, net yearly value £300, in the gift of Lord Bolton, and held since 1849 by the Rev. Richard Nelson Barnes M.A. of Pembroke College, Cambridge. In 1850 a vicarage house, in the Elizabethan style, was erected on a site given by the late Lord Bolton.

St. Paul, Woodlands, is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1845: the church, occupying a site which formerly constituted part of the extensive commons of this parish, is a building of flint with stone dressings, in the Gothic style of the 13th century, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles and south porch, and western tower with spire containing clock and one bell, erected in 1859: there are sittings for about 480 persons, three-fourths of which are free. The register dates from the year 1845. The living is a vicarage, yearly value, including endowment for Headley, £330, with 2½ acres of glebe, and residence in the Elizabethan style, erected in 1846, in the gift of the vicar of Kingsclere for the time being, and held since 1862 by the Rev. Edward Bulkley M.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford. The area is 4,790 acres; the population in 1881 was 1,171.

Parish Clerk, Daniel Pauling.

The church of St. Peter, Headley Common, built on a site given by Mrs. Goddard and consecrated in 1868, is an edifice of brick in the Gothic style, consisting of nave only, provision being made for a single service on Sunday, mainly by the liberality of Joseph Bulkley esq.: there are 80 sittings, all free. There is here a Wesleyan chapel in George street, which will seat 280; a Baptist chapel at Headley Common, which will hold about 80 persons, and Primitive Methodist chapels at Plaistow Green, Ashford Hill and Wolverton End.

The Albert Hall in Swan street is a handsome red brick building faced with Bath stone; the architect was Peter Doller esq. of Great Marlborough street, London: it is owned by a company: the foundation stone was laid by Miss Beach, of Oakley Hall, on June 14, 1886, and it was opened by Mrs. Maples, Nov. 9, 1866. Here are various funds for repairing the parish church, amounting to about £20, and others for the benefit of the poor, amounting to about £117, derived from land &c. left by Robert Higham in 1722, distributed principally in clothing and apprenticing 2 poor boys of the parish; 12 boys of the Free school also receive £2 10s. each yearly. Fairs are held on Whit-Tuesday for pleasure, and the first Tuesday after Old Michaelmas day for hiring servants and pleasure. The principal landowners are Lord Bolton J.P. who is impropriator of the great tithes and lord of the manor, the Duke of Wellington, Edward Goddard esq. Edwin Curtis esq. and the Holding family. The soil is chalk and clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. Race horses are trained on the commons in the neighbourhood. The area is 12,948 acres of land and 12 of water; rateable value, £11,996; the population in 1881 was 2,770, including 78 officers and inmates of the Workhouse.

HEADLEY COMMON, Wolverton Common, Ashford Hill The Dell, and part of the village of Hannington are in this parish.

Parish Clerk, Henry Savery; Sexton, Henry Hughes.

KINGSLEY is a village and parish, 5 miles south from Bentley station on the Alton branch of the South Western railway, and 5 east-south-east from Alton, in the Eastern division of the county, Alton hundred, petty sessional division and union, Farnham county court district, and in the rural deanery of Alton western division and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The river Slea flows through the parish. The church of All Saints is an edifice of stone and brick in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, vestry, south porch, and a small bell-turret rising from the west end of the nave and containing two bells; it was built at the sole cost of the Hon. John Thomas Dutton, and was opened August 8th, 1876: the old church of St. Nicholas is now used as a mortuary chapel and is in good repair: the chalice used for the communion service bears date 1569: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1568. The living is a vicarage annexed to that of Binsted, joint value about £600, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Winchester, and held since 1854 by the Rev. Charles Bingham Walsh M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. Here is a Congregational chapel. Here is an extensive foundry and manufactory for all kinds of agricultural machines; the proprietor is Mr. William Moore. Lode Farm House was once the site of a royal residence: Edward II. is reputed to have resided here and to have had a chapel in his park; Henry VIII. when Prince of Wales, held the office of Ranger of Woolmer, and was then styled "Harry at Lode." Henry John Dutton esq. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Henry John Dutton esq. William Wyckham esq. and H. Burningham esq. J.P. The soil is light loam; subsoil, sand. The chief crops are wheat and barley, and some hops are grown. The area is 1,801 acres; rateable value, £2,257; the population in 1881 was 458.

Parish Clerk, William Lambell.

KNIGHT'S ENHAM is a parish situated on the road from Andover to Newbury, 1¾ miles north from Andover railway station, in the Western division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, union and county court district of Andover, rural deanery of Andover western division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Michael is a small but ancient building of rubble covered with stucco, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave and south porch with wooden bell turret and one bell: the stained east window of three lancets was erected in 1876 by Elizabeth Anne, Marchioness of Talicarne, to members of the Dewar family, and there are numerous mural tablets to the same family: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1683. The living is a rectory, joint yearly value £330 gross, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Robert Hawley Clutterbuck T.A.K.C.L. who is also vicar of Smannell, near Andover. In 1794 David Dewar esq. bequeathed £25 yearly, to be distributed at Christmas in bread, meat and clothing to the poor of this parish and the hamlets of King's Enham, Little London and Woodhouse; he also left £26 yearly for education, which goes to support the school at Smannell. Thomas Hughes Earle esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is light loam and gravel; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 779 acres; rateable value, £1,160; the population in 1881 was 163.

LANGRISH, 2½ miles east from East Meon and 3 west from Petersfield station, is an ecclesiastical parish, which includes the tithings of Langrish, Ramsdean (including part of Stroud Common), and Bordean, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of East Meon, Petersfield union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Petersfield, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. John the Evangelist is a handsome edifice of flint, with stone dressings, in the Early English or Pointed style, and consists of chancel, nave of three bays and north aisle with bell turret and spire, erected by subscription in 1871 at a cost of £2,040: there are 260 sittings. The register dates from the year 1871. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £323, derived from the following sources, £131 tithe rent-charge, £92 contributed by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and a rent-charge of £100 upon the vicarage of East Meon, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1872 by the Rev. Edwin Paine, of St. Bees, who is likewise chaplain to Petersfield union. There is a small Congregational chapel at Ramsdean; this was rebuilt and enlarged in 1887 by voluntary contributions, at a cost of £200. Hops are grown in this district; at Bordean there are lime works, and at Stroud bricks are made. Langrish House, the residence of Charles William Talbot-Ponsonby esq. J.P. has a fine lawn and beautiful gardens.

LAVERSTOKE and FREEFOLK, united in 1872 for ecclesiastical purposes, are in the Western division of the county, Overton hundred, Kingsclere petty sessional division, Whitchurch union, rural deanery of Basingstoke south-west division, and archdeacony and diocese of Winchester, 2 miles west from Overton station on the London and South Western railway, and 14 from Winchester. Laverstoke is situated in the picturesque valley of the Test trout stream. The church of St. Mary (formerly St. Andrew), situated in the park, and now used only as a mortuary chapel for the Portal family, is a small edifice consisting of chancel and nave only; it was decorated with mosaics and other ornamental work in 1885, and contains a series of tablets to deceased members of the Portal families. The register of baptisms dates from 1657, marriages and burials 1662. The Bank of England note paper mills, established here in 1719, give employment to about 250 hands; Messrs. W. S., W. W. and S. J. Portal are the proprietors: the bank note paper has been made here since the year 1719. There is a library and reading room, established in 1864, in connection with the Laverstoke mills; the library contains 500 volumes. Laverstoke House, the seat of Melville Portal esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. lord of the manor, is a fine building, situated in a park of 275 acres, which gradually slopes down to the river Test; it was rebuilt under the direction of Joseph Bonomi A.R.A. at the commencement of the present century. Melville Portal esq. D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is light; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and turnips. The area is 1,530 acres; rateable value, £2,822; the population in 1881 was 182, but now the population of the united parishes numbers nearly 500.

Freefolk Manor is a hamlet, 1½ miles east from Whitchurch, on the river Test. Freefolk Priors is annexed to Laverstoke and Freefolk for ecclesiastical purposes, and the united population is about 500. The parish church of St. Cross, for the united parishes of Laverstoke and Freefolk, situated here, is a small and plain structure, consisting of the ancient priory chapel of St. Cross, with chancel and transepts added, and has one bell: in the church is an altar tomb, with recumbent effigy, to Sir Richard Paulet kt. 1619; the tomb bears a shield of arms, of 28 quarterings, and his helmet and spurs are suspended over it: there are 100 sittings, all free. The register is included in that of Laverstoke. The living of Laverstoke is a rectory, with the perpetual curacy of Freefolk annexed, joint gross annual value £300, in the gift of Melville Portal esq. and held since 1884 by the Rev. Charles Powell Berryman M.A. of St. John's College, Oxford. A fine drinking fountain was erected by Melville Portal esq. on the side of the high road in 1870; it is of stone, surmounted by a cross of red sandstone, in one block, beautifully decorated, is about 15 feet in height, and cost about £400. Melville Portal esq. D.L. who is lord of the manor, and Messrs. Tasker and Sons are sole landowners. The soil is heavy; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and turnips. The area is 800 acres; rateable value, £1,475; the population in 1881 was 143.

LECKFORD is a parish and small village, situate on the river Test, 12 miles north from Romsey, 2 north-east from Stockbridge, 5½ south from Andover, and about 1¼ south-west from Fullerton station on the Andover and Redbridge branch of the London and South Western railway, in the Western division of the county, hundred of Thorngate, Andover petty sessional division, Stockbridge union, Romsey county court district, rural deanery of Clatford and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Nicholas is a plain but ancient structure in the Early Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and low square wooden western belfry containing 3 bells, dated 1583, 1620 and 1623: it has also an ancient font of Purbeck marble, with Norman arcading in low relief: the east window is stained in three lights, placed there in memory of five sisters (the Misses King) in 1875 by their relatives: in the chancel is a mural monument with emblazoned shield, to Sir John Thornburgh kt. ob. 1630, and Dame Jane, his wife, ob. 1646: there is a hagioscope, piscina and locker. The register dates from the year 1757, previous registers having been burnt. The living is a vicarage and sinecure rectory; the great and small tithes were fixed by the Commutation Act at £549 10s.: the value of the small tithes is £142 15s. with residence: the right of presentation to the rectory is in St. John's College, Oxford; the Rev. John Saltwell Pinkerton B.D. late fellow of that college, is rector and vicar, and as rector has the nomination of the vicar; he has been vicar since 1855 and rector since 1870. The Primitive Methodists have a place of worship here. The charities are £1 18s. yearly, arising from £50 Consols, left in 1858 by W. Longman esq. and in 1862 £100 Consols by the Rev. J. H. Hutton. Abbess Grange, the seat of Mrs. Longman, which has been in the family upwards of 100 years, is a red brick building in the Elizabethan style, on an elevated situation at the south end of the village, standing in grounds of about 50 acres. There is a fishing cottage rented by George Poston esq. situated on the Longman estate. The trustees of the late William Longman esq. hold the manorial rights of the manor of Abbess and Riches and part of Abbott's, and Joshua East esq. of the other part of Abbott's and New Farm; the same gentlemen are also the principal landowners. The soil is light and chalky; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are oats, wheat, barley and roots. The area is 2,162 acres; rateable value, £2,086; the population in 1881 was 288.

LISS (or LYSS) is a village and parish and station, pleasantly situated, 4 miles north from Petersfield and 52 from London, in the Eastern division of the county, Odiham (detached) hundred, Petersfield union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Petersfield and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, Since the London & Portsmouth branch of the South Western Company has opened a station here a great impetus has been given to this place, which has necessitated the division of the parish for postal purposes into East Liss and West Liss. Hill Brow, situated on the Sussex border, is a rising health resort, and in summer months many villas are let furnished to visitors. Water-works have been erected here by Robert Craft esq. for supplying the immediate neighbourhood. The church of St. Peter is an old building of stone and rubble in the English Decorated style, consisting of a chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch and tower with 5 bells, surmounted by a low shingled spire: the chancel was restored by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners in 1864: there are about 200 sittings. The register dates from March, 1599. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value, £383, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1889 by the Rev. Oliver Sutton Walford M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are the owners of the tithes. At Hill Brow there is an iron building used as a Mission hall with about 150 sittings; there is also a small Wesleyan chapel at West Liss, and the Plymouth Brethren have a preaching room at East Liss. Liss Place, the residence of Frederick Coryton esq. J.P., M.F.H. was anciently a religious establishment; it is situated one mile north-west of the railway station in West Liss. Stodham House, the seat of Mrs. Money-Coutts, 1 mile south-west from the railway station in East Liss and 3 miles north-east from Petersfield, is a substantial modern stone mansion, with extensive grounds, and bounded by a trout stream. The Wylds, the seat of Harry Taylor esq. is a modern building pleasantly situated and commanding extensive views; there is a fine piece of water within the grounds which is studded with numerous islands: it is about 2 miles north-east. Sir John Hawkshaw is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are William Nicholson esq. J.P. of Basing park, Frederick Coryton esq. J.P., M.F.H. and Mrs. Money-Coutts, and there are several substantial freeholders. The soil is principally a good sandy loam; subsoil, gravel and sand, but it varies from a very light soil to a very heavy clay. The chief crop is wheat, and a great quantity of milk is sent to the London market. The area is 3,620 acres of arable and meadow land, divided into the tithings of Liss Abbas and Liss Turney; rateable value, £6,091: the population in 1881 was 1,215.

iocese of Winchester. The extension of the line across the iver and approaching the sea, was completed and opened Iay 1st, 1884. The earliest account of Lymington is in )omesday Book, in which it is called Lentune, afterwards .imentum, from which its present name is derived. Lymngton, which is a borough by prescription, dating, as far as as been ascertained, from 1150, when the charter of Baldvin de Redvers, 2nd Earl of Devon, was issued, was further onfirmed in its privileges by Edward (Courtenay), 12th Earl of Devon, in 1405; but the name of the earliest recorded Mayor, William Lyteltane, occurs in a deed of 1319. The ncient charters of the borough were, in 1578, acknowleged y Queen Elizabeth and from the year 1585 it returned two nembers to Parliament, but by the "Representation of the 'eople Act," 1867, it returned one only and by the "Redisribution of Seats Act," 1885, it was disfranchised. The Corporation mace of silver-gilt dates from the reign of Jeorge I.; it is of large size, with the royal arms on the top, nd can be taken to pieces and re-adjusted so as to form a oving cup; the Corporate seal of silver dates from 1669. Jnder the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1888, he Local Board ceases to exist after the 9th November, 889, when the Corporation will take over its duties and the ld Borough be extended to the bounds of the parish. By he Municipal Act, a mayor, four alderman and twelve ouncillors are annually elected; the mayor and ex-mayor re justices of the peace, the county magistrates having conurrent jurisdiction. The town is situated on the western ank of the river Boldre, which falls into the Solent. The arbour at the entrance of the creek is excellent. On the uays are commodious wharfs and store-rooms. The trade s chiefly confined to coasting vessels. Yacht building, itting &c. is extensively carried on here. Lymington rose nto note in the reign of Henry I. having then been made a ort, and about the same time it became celebrated for its alt works, the salt-houses and salterns belonging to which xtended along the coast from Pylewell to Hurst; this trade s now wholly destroyed, but the sites of the salterns, one of vhich remained in operation until 1865, may still be traced. n the twenty-ninth year of the reign of Edward I. the port ontributed nine ships and 159 men towards the fleet for the rotection of the southern coast. Petty duties were levied y the inhabitants on certain articles of merchandise brought o the port; but the right was questioned by the superior ort of Southampton: the case was tried in the year 1329, nd was decided against Lymington. In 1750, having again aken these duties, the inhabitants were sued by the Corporation of Southampton, when they procured the removal f the cause to the County Assize Court, and obtained a erdict in their favour, since which time the petty customs ave been regularly paid. Lymington consists principally f one line of street, more than half a mile in length, includng St. Thomas street and High street. The town is lighted with gas. The Water-works at Ampress, about a mile north f the town, were constructed in 1883-4 at a cost of £9,000 the engineers and contractors being Messrs. Easton and Anderson, of London: and the sub-contractor for the buildings, Mr. F. Reeks, of this town; the water is obtained from springs adjacent to the works, thence conveyed through mains to the tower, at the west end of the town. Lymington gives the title of viscount to the Wallop family, Earls of Portsmouth. The church of St. Thomas à Becket is an edifice of brick and stone chiefly in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, south transept, north porch and an embattled tower on the south side of the chancel,rebuilt in 1670 and containing 6 bells, and a small bell in an open turret with a cupola and vane: it was thoroughly restored and re-pewed in 1874: in the year 1885 a system of warming the church with hot-water pipes and ventilating by a patent system of Lloyds, Winchester, was carried out with much success at a cost of £260, contributed by the parishioners: there are 1,500 sittings, of which 250 are free. The register dates from the year 1660. The living, formerly a chapelry of Boldre parish, is a vicarage, yearly value £300, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1852 by the Rev. Benjamin Maturin M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The vicarial tithes are now vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and held under a lease for three lives by Glyn and Co. bankers. There is a handsome Catholic chapel, dedicated to Our Lady of Mercy and St. Joseph: it has 200 sittings. Here is also a Baptist chapel in New lane, which has 700 sittings, a Congregational chapel in High street, with 500 sittings, and a Wesleyan chapel in Gosport street, seating 130 persons. The charities are:—Brown's charity, February 4th, 1667, for bread, about £10 arising from land being given to the poor of the parish, after service in the church, on Jan. 1st of each year. Admiral Rogers' in 1814, £32, being the interest of £1,000, in Government securities, given to five old men and five old women, on December 1st, January 1st and February 1st of each year. Howe's charity, £60 a year, given by Lieutenant Rogers, but called Howe's charity after the name of his wife, consists of the interest of £2,000 Consols, to be given in clothing on the 21st October in each year, to the poor of the parish. Fulford's charity, 1668, £20 a year derived from land in Buckland Newton, in the county of Dorset and applied by order of the Court of Chancery to the support of National schools. The Literary Institute, established in the year 1847, occupies four rooms in New lane; it has a library of about 1,000 volumes, and there are now (1889) 100 members. The Assembly Rooms adjoin the Angel hotel, in the High street. The fairs are on the 12th and 13th May, and the 2nd and 3rd October. The market is held on Saturday. A handsome drinking-fountain and trough of grey granite was erected April, 1885, in St. Thomas street, by the widow of the late W. W. Rooke esq. of Woodside. The Solent sea-water baths render it a favourite place of resort for invalids and others during the summer months. The Cottage Convalescent Home, pleasantly situated near the Solent, was erected in 1876, by the Misses Harding, of The Grove, in memory of the late General F. P. Harding C.B.: it receives nine women and girls, and occasionally boys under 14 years of age, from all parts of the kingdom, but those from a distance must be recommended by a subscriber: the payment is 7s. 6d. per week (in advance), this includes medical attendance, medicine &c.; an extra sitting-room is provided for patients wishing to be alone, at a small additional cost: it is under the superintendence of the lady patronesses and supported by voluntary contributions and the patients' payments. Buckland Castle, or the Rings, consisting of two camps, supposed to have been made by the Romans, is situated about a mile from Lymington, on the Southampton road. Coins of the reign of Claudius have been found here. The principal residences in the neighbourhood are Fairfield, the seat of Richard Blanshard esq. J.P.; The Grove, the residence of the Misses Harding; Ridgeway, the seat of Hugh Montolieu Hammersley esq. J.P.; and there are many other mansions and villas. The area is 1,493 acres of land, and 752 of water and foreshore; rateable value, £18,077; the population of the borough in 1881 was 2,410: the population of the parish and urban sanitary district in 1881 was 4,439 including 42 officers and inmates of the workhouse.

BUCKLAND, 1 mile north-west, and CROYDON, half a mile north-east, are tithings of this parish.

PRIESTLANDS is half a mile south-west; BECK HILL, 2 miles north-west.

Parish Clerk, John Wavell Cole.

LYNDHURST is a town and parish, pleasantly situated in the centre of the New Forest, 100 miles from London, 2¾ south-west from Lyndhurst Road station, 10 west from Southampton and 8 north from Lymington: it is in the New Forest division of the county, hundred, union and Eastern division of the New Forest, and in the Lymington petty sessional division, Southampton county court district, rural deanery of East Fordingbridge, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The courts leet and baron for the manor of Lyndhurst are held annually. The NEW FOREST was made, or rather enlarged, by William the Conqueror; it comprises 92,365 statute acres, of which under the Act Vict. 40 and 41, cap. 121, the Crown has a right to keep inclosed and planted, 16,000 acres: the entire plantations are under the superintendence of the Commissioners of Woods and Forests: the Forest laws and customs are administered by one official verderer, appointed by the Crown, and six verderers elected by the commoners and their officers; the Crown business is managed by the Deputy-Surveyor, the Hon. Gerald Wm. Lascelles: the forest courts, called courts of Swainmote, are held at the Verderers' Hall, Queen's House, where is preserved a curious stirrup. The church of St. Michael is a modern cruciform building of brick with stone facings in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel of two bays, chancel aisles, nave of four bays and aisles, tower at north-west angle with spire, pinnacles and clock and 5 bells, and north porch: it contains several monuments, some very good stained windows, and there is a beautiful picture of the Parable of the Ten Virgins, painted by Sir F. Leighton P.R.A. in fresco on plaster made of lime and sand and saturated with a composition of oil of spike and other things; the paint is made with turpentine and not with oil and has sunk well into the plaster: the decoration of the side wall of chancel is by Mrs. John Pollen, and there is some carving in Caen stone, mostly of leaves and flowers treated naturally, by G. W. Seale, of 284 Coldharbour lane, London: there are 600 sittings, The register dates from the year 1737. The living is a chapelry, annexed to the rectory of Minstead, joint gross yearly value £650, in the gift of the trustees of the late H. Compton esq. and held since 1842 by the Rev. John Compton M.A. of Merton College, Oxford, rural dean of Fordingbridge and hon. canon of Winchester, who resides at Minstead; the Rev. William Edwin Coghlan B.A. curate in charge. There is a Baptist chapel with 200 sittings: the Plymouth Brethren have two chapels here. A Cemetery of about 3½ acres was formed in 1885 at a cost of £1,000: there is one mortuary chapel: it is under the control of a burial board of 9 members. In connection with the church there are charities of about the value of £40 yearly, arising from gifts made by Dr. Berdmore, Mrs. Woodifield and the late Chevalier de Chatelain and others, and applied to the schools and charity to the poor. There are many seats around Lyndhurst, the parks of some of which are planted with fine timber and laid out with taste and judgment. Brooklands, the seat of Lieut.-Col. Wm. Martin Powell J.P.; Foxlease, the seat of William George Stevenson esq. J.P. and Wilverley Park, of Lady Dickson; Reginald Gervis Hargreaves esq. J.P. Cuffnells; Col. Alexander Caldcleugh Macleay J.P. Glasshayes; the Earl of Londesborough J.P. Northerwood. Her Majesty the Queen is lady of the manor of Lyndhurst and the Deputy Surveyor is the steward. The principal landowners are Lady Dickson, R. G. Hargreaves esq. J.P. W. G. Stevenson esq. J.P. the trustees of J. B. Pulteney esq. and Col. A. C. Macleay J.P. The soil is loamy; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are hay and grass. The area is 3,822 acres; rateable value, £8,598; the population in 1881 was 1,589.

PIKE'S HILL and BOLTON'S BENCH are hamlets in this parish.

EMERY DOWN is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1864 from the civil parish of Lyndhurst, 1 mile north from Lyndhurst. Christ church, built in 1864, is a plain edifice of red brick in the Early English style, from designs by Mr. W. Butterfield, architect, consisting of chancel, nave, north porch and bell turret at west end with one bell: there are 160 sittings. The register dates from the year 1864. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £132, in the alternate gift of H. T. Boultbee esq. and the Rev. William Bree, and held since 1880 by the Rev. Herbert Thomas Hughes M.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford. The population in 1881 was 465.

MATTINGLEY is a hamlet in the civil parish of Heckfield, and with Hazely Heath tithing and part of the tithing of Holdshott was formed into an ecclesiastical parish in 1863-64, is 3½ miles north-west from Winchfield station, on the South Western railway, and 9 north-east from Basingstoke, in the Northern division of the county, hundred of Holdshott, Odiham petty sessional division, Hartley Wintney union, Basingstoke county court district, and in the Basingstoke rural deanery north-eastern division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese: it is thus mentioned in Domesday Book, "Alsi, son of Brixi, holds Mattingley of the king; Alric held it formerly from King Edward. Then, and now, it was assessed at 1½ hides; there are 3 carucates of land and there are 8 villeins, 3 bordarers, with 3 carucates and a mill worth 5s. and 4 acres of meadow. It (the manor) was, and is (now) worth 30s." The church is a most interesting Perpendicular edifice, supposed to have been built in the 15th century by Bishop Wainfleet, of brick and oak, consisting of chancel and nave, with bell turret and 2 bells: it was restored about 1837, and was again restored and enlarged in 1867, at a cost of about £700: the west stained window is to the memory of the son of the present rector: a new organ was added in 1889 at a cost of £800: in 1850 a picture was discovered by some workmen over the chancel arch, embedded in the masonry: there are 220 sittings. The register dates from the year 1863. The living is a rectory (endowment, great tithes to the amount of £225), with house, in the gift of the Warden and Fellows of New College, Oxford, and held since 1863 by the Rev. John William Blackwell M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge. The Hon. Miss Shaw-Lefevre is lady of the manor; the principal landowners are the Duke of Wellington and Rev. Sir William Henry Cope M.A. The soil is principally light, upon sand and gravel, with London clay subsoil; in some parts the top soil is loamy and heavy. The chief crops are wheat and oats. The area is 2,617 acres of land and 14 of water; rateable value, £2,549; the population of Mattingley with Hazely Heath in 1881 was 508. Part of Bramshill Park is in this parish.

MEDSTEAD (or MEADSTED) is a village and parish, 4 miles west-south-west from Alton, with a station, 1½ miles south of the village, on the Mid Hants line of the London and South Western railway and 52 from London, in the Eastern division of the county, Bishop's Sutton hundred, Alton union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Alton western division, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester; it is 697 feet above the level of the sea: there are several ancient wells, but owing to their immense depth they are but seldom used, many of the inhabitants being supplied with water from an underground tank which receives the rain from the church and school roofs; several of the houses have now their own tanks, and all new houses must be so provided. The church of St. Andrew is an ancient structure of flints, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, small north transept, south porch and Pointed belfry containing 3 bells: it contains a fine old Norman arcade, in an excellent state of preservation; it was enlarged and restored in 1860, at an outlay of about £1,000: it contains an organ, erected at a cost of £160: there are 210 sittings. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a rectory, yearly tithe rent-charge £580, with 7 acres of glebe and house, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1881 by the Rev. Charles Stuart Parker Darroch M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. Here is a Congregational chapel. A cemetery of three-quarters of an acre was formed in 1884 at a cost of £150; the whole is consecrated; it is under the control of a Burial Board of 9 members, of which the rector is the clerk. There are several barrows, and also a very perfect semicircular intrenchment. Here is a Village Hall, consisting of two rooms erected through the kindness of Mr. Thomas Miller, late of this parish, for the benefit of the young men; lectures and entertainments are given in it through the winter months; coffee and refreshments are provided at a cheap rate, and games and daily papers supplied. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are Major Halliday R.A. the trustees of the late William Blackmore, the trustees of the late William Higgs and Messrs. C. W. Curtis, J. Cole and H. Wake. Boyne's Wood is that part of the parish near Medstead station. The soil is chalk and clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat and oats. The area is 2,848 acres; rateable value, £2,488; the population in 1881 was 503.

Parish Clerk, George Smith.

EAST MEON is a village and parish comprising the tithings of RAMSDEAN, BORDEAN, LANGRISH, OXENBOURN and a few smaller ones: it is situated 5 miles west from Petersfield station and 18 from Portsmouth, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of East Meon, Petersfield petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Petersfield, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. Langrish, Ramsdean, and part of Bordean form the ecclesiastical parish of Langrish, which will be found under a separate heading. The church of All Saints, said to have been erected prior to Winchester Cathedral, is in the Norman and Early English styles, and is cruciform, having chancel with side chapel, nave of three bays, aisles, transepts and south porch, central tower, steeple and 6 bells nd clock, and was restored in 1870 at a cost of £4,000: the ulpit is of stone: the arches supporting the tower, and the ower and the two principal doorways and some of the win-ows are Norman work: the font dates from the 7th century nd is similar in many respects to that in Winchester Cathe-ral: it is doubtless the work of the same artist and the gift f the same bishop: it is a black marble square block hollowed nto a basin, placed upon a circular shaft, supported by four ircular pillars without bases, and having capitals of plain pright leaves: on the north and east sides are carved the reation of Man, the Formation of Eve from the Rib of dam, the Eating of the Forbidden Fruit and the Expulsion rom Paradise, an Angel teaching Adam to Dig and Eve to pin: there are 400 sittings. The register dates from the ear 1560. The living is a vicarage, tithe commuted at 680 yearly, with 13 acres of glebe and residence, in the ift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1889 by Rev. dward Murray Tomlinson M.A. of Trinity College, Cam-ridge. Here are Calvinistic, Congregational and Primitive Methodist chapels. Five almshouses for poor women were rected in 1863 by Mrs. Forbes, of Bereleigh, in the centre f the village, "To the Honour of God and in Memory of eorge Forbes esq." A fair was formerly held on September 9th. Westbury House, situated about 2 miles west from he village, the property of Herman Le Roy-Lewis esq. is a ine mansion close to the border of West Meon parish. Bere-eigh House is the residence of Mrs. Forbes. Court House arm, situated in the centre of the village, is the ancient nanor house and is adorned with some royal and episcopal eads in the corbels, still in good preservation. The Ecclesi-astical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are Herman Le Roy-Lewis esq. J. B. Carter esq. J.P. Lord Hylton, W. Nicholson esq. J.P. of Basing Park, Mrs. King Wyndham, Mrs. Forbes, C. W. Talbot Ponsonby esq. J.P. William Sandford Hodgson esq. and Mr. Weeks. The soil is various; subsoil, clay and green sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley, hops and beans. The area is 11,377 acres; rateable value, £8,229; the population in 1881 was 1,559.

OXENBOURN, a tithing, 1 mile south-east; COOMB, 2 miles south-west; RIPLINGTON, 2 miles north-west; and PEAK, 3½ north-west. On the downs are many barrows and on Old Winchester Hill is a camp.

MICHELDEVER (or MITCHELDEVER) is a village and parish, on the South Western railway, with a station about 3 miles north of the village, in the hundred of the same name, Western division of the county, Winchester union, petty sessional division and county court district, Old Alresford rural deanery and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, 6½ miles north from Winchester, 60 from London and 9 south-east from Whitchurch. The church of St. Mary, erected in 1810 by Sir Francis Baring bart. of Larkbear, Devon, at a cost of about £10,000, is a singular edifice in Mixed styles, consisting of an octangular nave, with eastern and western bays, and an embattled tower containing 5 bells: the tower is the only remaining portion of the ancient church, which was almost wholly destroyed by fire; the lower stage serves as a porch: the chancel was handsomely decorated in 1880 at the cost of the Earl of Northbrook G.C.S.I. from designs by Mr. Colson, architect, of Winchester, and the west window was filled with stained glass in 1881: in the chancel are several monuments to the Baring family, with sculpture by Flaxman; there is also a memorial to the late Thomas Baring esq. M.P. who died Nov. 1873, and a stained window has been erected to Sir Francis Thornhill Baring bart. first Baron Baring, who died Sept. 6, 1806: the reredos, of English alabaster and Purbeck and Ipplepen marble and mosaics, was erected in 1883, from the designs of Messrs. Colson and Son, of Winchester: Henry de Massue de Ruvigny, first and only Earl of Galway, who is believed to have died at East Stratton, Sept. 2, 1720, was buried here: there are 360 sittings. The register dates from 1538. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of East Stratton annexed, gross value from tithe rent-charge £239 yearly, with residence and 4 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Right Hon. the Earl of Northbrook P.C., G.C.S.I., D.C.L. and held since 1870 by the Rev. William Arthur Whitestone B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. There is a Primitive Methodist chapel at Northbrook, erected in 1867: it is a plain red brick building. Attached to the church there are charities of the yearly value of about £10. There is an almshouse for 25 aged and infirm poor; in this building there is also a reading room. The Earl of Northbrook P.C., G.C.S.I. is lord of the manor and principal landowner: throughout the estate the cottages have been greatly improved. The soil is loam; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 9,767 acres; rateable value, £14,996; the population in 1881 was 1,039.

WEST STRATTON, 1 mile north-east and 2¼ from Micheldever station, and WESTON COLLEY, now called Weston, 1 mile north-west, are tithings. NORTH and SOUTH BROOK are also in the parish.

MICHELMERSH (or MITCHELMARSH) is an extensive picturesque parish, 4 miles north from Romsey, 1 east from Mottisfont station on the South Western railway, 84½ from London and 11 north-west from Southampton, in the New Forest division of the county, Thorngate hundred, Romsey petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Romsey, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Mary is a building of stone and flint in the Gothic style, restored in 1847 at a cost of £700, and consists of chancel, nave, south aisle, vestry and south porch, with a small aisle or chapel on the north-east; the pulpit is of stone: there is an ancient font, of Early English character: the eastern window contains some fragments of old glass: the chancel was laid with encaustic tiles and seated with stalls of pitch pine in 1876, at which time also the gallery was removed: the west tower is built of rudely squared oak timber of large dimensions strongly braced together and covered with planks, and has 3 bells: in 1888 the chancel was again repaired and the ceiling removed so as to show the old timbers, the nave was refloored and reseated and other repairs executed: a tablet, inserted in the north wall of the chancel to Trustram Fantleroy, bears the date, August, 1538; in the south aisle is a monument to Sir William Ogle, dated 1682; on the wall of the chancel is a tablet to Rev. Bhilip Baker, 24 years rector of this parish, dated 1796: there is also a recumbent effigy of a knight in armour on an altar tomb having no inscription: there is a small organ: the font is very old: there are 270 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, with handsome residence, tithe commuted at £804, with 72 acres of glebe, subject to a payment of £100 a year to Awbridge and £50 a year to Braishfield, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1884 by the Rev. Barrington Gore Browne M.A. of Emmanuel College, Combridge. The Hon. Ralph Heneage Dutton M.A., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Mrs. Annie Maria Wheable, Mrs. Tragett, Tankerville Chamberlayne esq. of Cranbury Park, Hursley, and Mrs. A. N. Thurston. The soil is chalk and gravel; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 3,983 acres; rateable value, £5,510 18s. 2d.; the population in 1881 was 1,156.

MILLAND is a village within the city of Winchester, which see.

MILLBROOK is a parish, village and station on the Southampton and Dorchester branch of the South Western railway, at the head of the Southampton Water, 2 miles west-north-west from Southampton, included in the Parliamentary borough of Southampton under the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885," and in Mansbridge hundred, South Stoneham union, Southampton petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Southampton and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of the Holy Trinity, erected in 1874 as the parish church, in place of the church of St. Nicholas, is a handsome structure, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel with aisles, nave, aisles, and a tower of Swanage stone, with spire 150 feet in height, from the designs of Mr. Woodyer, architect; there are 4 bells, 3 of which were placed in the tower as part of the Millbrook Jubilee Memorial: the stained east window illustrates the Te Deum; a series of windows on the north side was given by the late Mrs. E. Best, of Millbrook, and there are some smaller richly executed windows in the south side: there are 700 sittings. The register dates from the year 1633. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £484, net yearly value £245, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1889 by the Rev. Studholme Wilson M.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford. The old church of St. Nicholas is a plain structure, consisting of chancel, nave, erected in 1829, and an ancient embattled tower containing one bell: this church has sittings for about 750 persons, and is now used as a chapel of ease. There is a Wesleyan chapel at Wimpson. The charities left by the Rev. W. Harvest, Mrs. S. Pollock, Mrs. Spinks, Mrs. Mary Baker and W. Ross esq. are of £86 yearly value: these charities are available for the parishes of Millbrook, Shirley and Freemantle. The South Hants Water Works Company, which has its offices in this parish, was established in 1876, under an Act 39 and 40 Victoria, for the purpose of supplying the town of Romsey and surrounding districts and the populous suburbs of Southampton; the water is drawn from two wells sunk in the chalk in the parish of Timsbury. Mrs. Vaudrey, of Langley Manor, Colbury, is the lady of the manor and principal landowner. A court leet is held at the "Ship," Redbridge. The soil is good loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are market garden produce. The area is 3,014 acres of land and 854 of water and foreshore; rateable value, £66,342. The population of the parish of Millbrook, which includes FREEMANTLE, REDBRIDGE and SHIRLEY, was 15,054 in 1881.

MINLEY, a tithing (in the civil parish of Yateley), now formed with part of South Hawley into an ecclesiastical parish, is 3 miles north-west from Farnborough station on the South Western railway, in the Northern division of the county, Odiham petty sessional division, Basingstoke rural deanery north-eastern division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church of St. Andrew is a small modern structure of flint and stone, built and endowed by the late Raikes Currie esq. in memory of his wife; it consists of chancel only, and contains several very handsome stained windows, also a tryptich representing The Birth, Crucifixion and Resurrection of Christ, and a very elaborate altar-piece: the seats are all of carved oak, and the interior of the building is beautifully decorated: there are 66 sittings. The register dates from the year 1871. The living is a perpetual curacy, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1880 by the Rev. Charles Drummond Stooks M.A. of Clare College, who is also vicar of and resides at Yateley. Minley Manor, the seat of Bertram Wodehouse Currie esq. J.P. who is lord of the manor and sole landed proprietor, is a handsome modern mansion, situate on an eminence, and commanding extensive views over Aldershot Camp and the surrounding country.

MINSTEAD (or MINESTEED) is a parish and village, 5 miles west from Totton station, 2 north from Lyndhurst, 10½ south from Lymington and 10½ west from Southampton, in the New Forest division of the county, union and hundred of the New Forest, Southampton county court district, Lymington petty sessional division, rural deanery of East Fordingbridge and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester: it is situated in the NEW FOREST: it was at a place near STONY CROSS, 2 miles north-west, in this parish, that William Rufus was killed; the spot where stood the oak tree against which the fatal arrow glanced is marked by a stone, raised by Earl De La Warr. The church of All Saints is a building, portions of which were erected in the 13th century; the rest of the structure has been much disfigured by modern alterations; it now consists of chancel and nave (the old part is of Isle of Wight stone), and western embattled brick tower with pinnacles rebuilt in 1774, which contains 3 bells and a 13th century north door: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1682. The living is a rectory, with the chapelry of Lyndhurst annexed, tithe apportionment £605, and 21 acres of glebe £42, with residence here, in the gift of the trustees of the late Henry Compton esq. and held since 1842 by the Rev. Jn. Compton M.A. of Merton College, Oxford, rural dean of Fordingbridge and hon. canon of Winchester. The charities are about £18 yearly, for bread and clothing, arising from Dr. Berdmore's Charity in Consols, bringing in £6 annually, and Brown's Charity, consisting of lands at Christchurch. Manor House, the seat of Mrs. Compton, is a fine brick mansion standing on an eminence, with a southern aspect, situated in a park of 400 acres, remarkable for the beauty of the rhododendrons, of which there are 100 acres. Minstead Lodge is the residence of the Earl of Gosford K.P.; Castle Malwood, of Col. Henry Shakerley; and Malwood, the seat of the Right Hon. Sir William George Granville Vernon-Harcourt M.P., P.C., Q.C. Castle Malwood is the property of Mrs. Pigott. The principal landowners are the trustees of the late Henry Compton esq. who are lords of the manor, and John Jeffreys esq. of Canterton, Mrs. Pigott and the trustees of the late Mrs. Preston. The soil is loam; subsoil on the south of Stony Cross consists of Barton clay, and to the north of the Bracklesham beds the tops of the hills are of gravel and are from secondary deposits. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 10,236 acres, far the greater portion of which are forest; rateable value, £5,020; the population in 1881 was 880. Minstead includes CANTERTON, London Minstead and Emery Down; Alum Green, formerly extra-parochial, has been annexed to Minstead parish.

MOTTISFONT is a parish, 4½ miles north from Romsey, 12 north-west from Southampton and 12 east-by-south from Salisbury, in the New Forest division of the county, Thorngate hundred, Romsey petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Romsey, archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester, pleasantly situated in a vale through which the river Test flows, adding much to the beauty of the scenery. The South Western railway has a station here, on the Andover, Romsey and Redbridge branch, and the line of the South Western railway from Salisbury to Gosport also passes through, and has a station 85 miles from London, at DUNBRIDGE, so called from there being a cast-iron bridge erected at this spot over a small tributary of the Test. The church of St. Andrew is an ancient structure of flint and stone, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western wooden belfry containing 5 bells: it was partly restored in 1876 and reseated with open benches: the original architecture was Norman; a Norman arch divides the church from the chancel: the belfry is now supported by six large oak cross beams: some repairs were done in 1888; the plaster ceilings were removed and the old oak roof again exposed and repaired, the chancel floor raised and re-tiled and the porch repaired: there is a piscina in the nave and some remains of a former building: there is a handsome memorial stained window in the chancel to Sir J. B. Mill, erected by Lady Mill, of Mottisfont Abbey, also a marble monument to Lady Mill, dated 1884: there is also an ancient monument, but the inscription has become obliterated: there are 120 sittings. In 1888 an addition to the churchyard, of a quarter of an acre, was made by Mrs. Vaudrey. The register dates from the year 1709. The living is a rectory, gross yearly value £550, net £350, with residence, in the gift of Mrs. Vaudrey, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Frederick Henry Slocock M.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge. There is a Baptist chapel with burying ground at Spearywell, 1½ miles west. Here was once an establishment of canons of the order of St. Augustine, founded in the reign of King John by William Briwere, for a prior and 11 canons, and dedicated to the Holy Trinity; the revenues were estimated at £124. Lord Sandys exchanged Chelsea, in Middlesex, with Henry VIII. for this priory. Mottisfont manor was once owned by an Archbishop of York, as mentioned in Domesday Book. Mottisfont Abbey, a large and ancient mansion, is the residence of Daniel Meinertzhagen esq.; in the abbey are preserved some pictures and curious relics of embroidery once worn by the monks and also a curious old tapestry representing the "Last Supper," once the altar piece of the chapel of the Vine, near Basingstoke, endowed by Lord Sandys. In the chancel floor of the parish church is a brass, dated 1628: it states, "Whilst Lord Sandys' ancestors were interred at the Vine (Ad Vitem), he himself preferred to be interred in his own domain (Ad Fontem), Mottisfont." Mrs. Vaudrey, of Langley Manor, Colbury, is the lady of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is loam and sand; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and peas. The area is 2,874 acres; rateable value, £3,575; the population in 1881 was 520.

POST OFFICE.—Miss Sarah Cook, receiver. Letters received from Romsey; arrive at 8.30 a.m.; dispatched at 6 p.m.; sundays at 11.30 a.m. The nearest money order office is at Romsey; & telegraph office at Lockerley. Postal orders are issued here, but not paid

ODIHAM is a market town, parish and a polling place for he Northern division of the county, 42 miles from London, 28 north-east from Winchester, 7 east-by-south from Basingstoke, 40 north-east from Southampton and 2½ south from he Winchfield station, and 2 from the Hook station both on he London and South Western railway, in the hundred and petty sessional division of Odiham, Basingstoke county court district, Hartney Wintney union, rural deanery of Odiham, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The town is pleasantly situate on the side of a chalky hill, and from the neighbouring chalk-pits the adjacent country is supplied with lime for manure, the conveyance of which is much assisted by the Basingstoke canal, which passes about half a mile north-east of the town, and where commodious wharves are erected; to which, with the proximity of the railway, may be attributable the considerable trade carried on here in timber and coal. The church of All Saints is a large and ancient structure of brick coated with stucco, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave of six bays, aisles, north porch and a brick tower containing 6 bells and a clock: there are three stained windows at the east end of the chancel and aisles: in the nave are some brasses bearing the dates 1400 and 1498: in 1851 the chancel and aisles were restored and reseated with open seats: a handsome organ has been erected in the north aisle: the pulpit is a specimen of the 14th century, beautifully carved: there are 1,250 sittings, 500 being free. The register dates from the year 1539. The living is a vicarage, with Greywell annexed, joint yearly value £600, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1858 by the Rev. Thomas Grey Clarke M.A. of Queen's College, Oxford, who is also rural dean of Odiham. The vicarage house is a rare specimen of the Elizabethan style, erected between 300 and 400 years ago. Here are a Congregational, Baptist and Primitive Methodist chapels. A Cemetery of 2A. 2R. was formed in 1860, at a cost of about £2,000, and is under the control of a Burial Board of 7 members. There is a Literary Institute having upwards of 100 members, with a library of nearly 1,000 volumes. The old stocks are still standing in The Bury. Near the church are almshouses, founded by Sir Edward More in 1623, and endowed by him with property producing about £80 yearly, for the support of eight poor widowers and widows: and there are apartments for two more poor persons, with stipends from other benefactions; other charities, producing £320 yearly, are distributed in bread and clothing. The market is on Tuesday, and fairs are held on the fourth Saturday in Lent, and July 31st for horses and cattle. William Lilly, the grammarian, and first master of St. Paul's School, London, was born here about 1468. Sir Henry B. P. St. John-Mildmay bart. D.L., J.P. of Dogmersfield Park, Winchfield, is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is various; subsoil, clay and chalk. The chief crops are cereals and hay; hops are also cultivated. The area is 7,306 acres of land and 39 of water, including the tithings of Hillside, Murrell Green and Rye, with Stapeley and North Warnborough and Horsden; rateable value, £15,853; the population in 1881 was 2,623.

NORTH WARNBOROUGH is a tithing, a mile north-west, through which the Basingstoke canal passes. Here are some vestiges of Odiham Castle, which was built before the time of King John, celebrated for its resistance to the army of Louis the Dauphin of France, having sustained a siege for 15 days. In the 27th Edward I. the town, park and hundred were granted to the Queen, as part of her dower. In the reign of Edward III. David Bruce, King of Scotland, having been made prisoner at the battle of Neville's Cross, was confined in this fortress for 11 years. The remains of the royal residence have been converted into a farmhouse, which is called Palace Gate, having probably been the entrance to the grounds.

HILLSIDE is 1 mile south-east.

RYE is 1¾ miles east.

MURRELL GREEN is a tithing, 2¾ miles north.

STAPELEY is 1½ miles north-west.

OVERTON, formerly a market town, is a large parish situated on the river Test, 2 miles from its source, with a station half a mile from the village at Quidhampton, on the Basingstoke and Salisbury branch of the London & South Western railway, 54 miles from London, 3½ east-by-north from Whitchurch and 8 west from Basingstoke, in the Western division of the county, Overton hundred, Whitchurch union, Kingsclere petty sessional division, Basingstoke county court district, rural deanery of Basingstoke south-western division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church of St. Mary is an ancient building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and a low massive western tower, with shingled spire and containing 5 bells and clock: there is an ancient inscription on stone, to the memory of William Savage, who was rector in the early part of the 15th century: the arches in the nave are of the Early Transition period, the pillars which separate them being of Norman character: the church was restored in 1853 at a cost of about £1,500: there are 400 sittings, 200 of which are unappropriated. The register dates from the year 1610. The living is a rectory and vicarage, gross yearly value from tithe rent-charge £338, with 1¾ acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1864 by the Rev. Thomas Floud M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford; the rectorial glebe and tithes, estimated at £1,200 a year, are at present leased on lives. Here are Congregational and Wesleyan chapel, built in 1842. Jago's charity of £600 in the £2¾ per cent. Consols provides annually 20 poor men and women (alternately) with clothing; other charities amounting to £7 7s. 2d. yearly are for bread. Fairs were formerly held May 4th, Whit Monday, July 18th, and October 22nd; that on July 18th is still continued, and is a very considerable sheep and lamb fair, the average number being upwards of 50,000. Southington House, the residence of William Wyndham Portal M.A., J.P. is situated a quarter of a mile from Overton. The Ecclesastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. Melville Portal esq. M.A., D.L., J.P., of Laverstoke, Micheldever, is principal landowner. The soil is part light, the rest heavy; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 6,736 acres of land and 27 of water; rateable value, £10,992; the population in 1881 was 1,433.

OVINGTON is a parish and village, situated in a valley on the river Itchen, 2 miles south-west from Alresford, 5½ north-east from Winchester and 59 from London, in the Eastern division of the county, Fawley hundred, Alresford union, Winchester petty sessional division (Alresford district) and county court district, rural deanery of Old Alresford and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Peter was rebuilt in 1866, on a new site, adjoining the old one; it is of flint and ashlar stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and a dwarf tower surmounted by a square wooden belfry containing 4 bells: the floor is laid with plain tiles, the chancel with encaustic tiles: the chancel window is stained, representing the Crucifixion: the windows of the transepts are also stained: the Norman font is massive, and of polished Purbeck marble: a west window, representing the Ascension, was added in 1878, in memory of Mrs. Hammond: the church is seated with oak open benches and contains a good organ—the entire cost, about £3,500, was defrayed by Mrs. Hewson: there are 131 sittings. The register dates from the year 1591. The living is a rectory, present yearly net value about £130, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1889 by the Rev. Arthur Henry Stocker M.A. of Keble College, Oxford. Captain Hewson is lord of the manor, and owns almost the entire parish. The soil is chalk; subsoil, same. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and roots. The area is 1,300 acres; rateable value, £932; the population in 1818 was 116.

OWSLEBURY is a parish and pleasant village, 3 miles from Shawford station, 5 miles south-by-east from Winchester and 6 north from Bishop's Waltham, in the Western division of the county, hundred of Fawley, petty sessional division, union and county court district of Winchester, rural deanery of Bishop's Waltham and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Andrew is a small building of flint and rubble, in the Transition style, consisting of chancel, nave and aisles, north porch and square western tower containing 3 bells: the chancel floor is paved with Minton's encaustic tiles: it has three stained windows: there are 140 sittings. The register dates from the year 1678. The living is a vicarage, worth £171 yearly, in the gift of the vicar of Twyford, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Philip Henry Owen B.A. of Oriel College, Oxford. The Primitive Methodists have a place of worship at Baybridge, in this parish. Mrs. Alice Long left £16 a year to the parish. Marwell Hall, the seat of Rowland Edmond Walter Pery Standish esq. D.L., J.P. was erected about 1816, on the site of an ancient edifice, the residence of the Seymours, and afterwards of the Dacre family; in the present mansion the general style of architecture has been preserved, and the walls of the principal rooms, including the ancient baronial hall, are adorned with paintings by the old masters: connected with the old hall there is a tradition of the untimely death of a young lady who, having withdrawn herself from her companions in the course of some pastime or amusement, and to elude their search, took refuge in a retired part of the mansion, in an Old Oak Chest, which closed upon her with a secret spring; although search was made her remains were not discovered till many years afterwards. Longwood House, a seat of the Earl of Northesk F.S.A., D.L., J.P. also stands in this parish. The principal landowners are the Earl of Northesk, R. E. W. Pery Standish esq. who is lord of the manor, and Corpus Christi college, Oxford. The soil is chalk; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, turnips and sainfoin. The area is 5,391 acres of land and 22 of water; rateable value, £6,229; the population in 1881 was 848, including part of Colden Common.

BAYBRIDGE, 1¼ miles east, is in this parish.

PAMBER is a scattered parish, 6 miles north-west from Basingstoke, in the Northern division of the county, Basingstoke hundred, petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Basingstoke north-eastern division, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. There is no parish church and no endowment for the maintenance of clergy or public worship. The old chapel of the Benedictine Priory of Monk Sherborne (to which place this parish is annexed for ecclesiastical purposes), and which stands close to the boundary of this parish, is, by permission of Queen's College, Oxford, rendered available for the parishioners of Pamber, and in addition there is a mission church, school and parsonage, erected by Mr. Benyon, of Englefield House, on Pamber Heath for the benefit of the parishioners at that end of the parish, and in Little London there is a church cottage used for divine service on Sunday, and there is a chapel for Primitive Methodists. The charities are £4 yearly, given at Christmas in clothing. There is no manor: the parishioners here were what are called free franchisers and never held under any feudal tenure. Richd. Benyon esq. of Englefield House, Reading, and William Wither Bramston Beach esq. M.P., M.A., J.P. of Oakley Hall, Basingstoke, are chief landowners. The soil is clay and gravel. The crops are wheat, barley, beans, peas and roots. The area is 2,150 acres; rateable value, £1,944; the population in 1881 was 694.

PENTON GRAFTON, see WEYHILL.

PENTON MEWSEY is a parish, 3 miles north-west-by-west from Andover railway station, in the Western division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, union and county court district of Andover, rural deanery of Andover western division, and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. The church of the Holy Trinity is a flint and Bath stone edifice, in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, north transept and south porch, with a stone turret at the west end containing 2 bells: there is a very old octagonal font: the edifice was restored in 1888 at the expense of Captain Francis Sutton J.P. assisted by friends and the parishioners: there are 150 sittings. The registers are imperfect, and date from the year 1642. The living is a rectory, the tithes commuted at £286, and the glebe comprises 31 acres, with residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Montague Pain M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford. Here is a building, seating 100, called the Christian Lecture Hall, erected and endowed in 1865 by the late Miss Harcourt, in which religious services are conducted on Sunday mornings and evenings by the scripture reader. Penton Lodge, the seat of Capt. Francis Sutton J.P. is pleasantly situated in a well-wooded park of 70 acres; a notable feature is the number and variety of coniferous trees. William H. Medows esq. is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is light; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 1,059 acres; rateable value, £1,578; the population in 1881 was 286.

PETERSFIELD with SHEET.

PETERSFIELD is a market and union town, head of a petty sessional division and county court district, on the old road from London to Portsmouth, 52 miles from the former and 17 north-east from the latter, 12 south from Alton, 18 from Winchester, 10 from Midhurst and 27 from Southampton, and a station on the London and South Western railway; there is also a branch line to Midhurst; in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of Finch Dean, rural deanery of Petersfield, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The town was in 1885 drained at a cost of between £5,000 and £6,000, and a water supply brought from the adjoining parish of Sheet by sinking into the Hythe bed to a depth of 200 feet. The town returned one member to Parliament until disfranchised by the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885." The church of St. Peter is an ancient Norman structure, having chancel, clerestoried nave and aisles, north porch with square embattled western tower, clock and 8 bells: the fine chancel arch presents remains of the best period of the Norman style: it is supposed that the west tower and nave, with, perhaps, the north aisle, formed the old church, which was built about 1100, if not earlier, by Matilda, the then lady of the manor, with the assistance of her cousin Bishop Walkelin, and that the south aisle was added, and the whole building completed, about the year

1500: it was thoroughly repaired and restored in 1874, and now presents, with the exception of three windows, which are Early English, all the original features of the Norman edifice: it has been re-seated with open seats, and a new organ chamber built which contains a fine organ; the expenses were defrayed by voluntary contributions, W. Nicholson esq. the late member for the borough and his family being large subscribers: there are several monuments of the Joliffe family, now re-erected in the tower: the western entrance is through a Norman doorway in the tower: there are memorial windows to Bishop Wilberforce and Mary Sumner, the wife of the late rector: a new north porch in memory of the late rector, a new window and pulpit in memory of Mr. Cross, for 40 years surgeon of this town, the latter being a most beautiful piece of workmanship, have been added: there are sittings for 720 persons. The register dates from the year 1558. The living was formerly annexed to the rectory of Buriton, but by an Order in Council gazetted August 13, 1886, it was separated, and with the district of Sheet and the tithings of Lower Weston and Lower Nursted constituted a separate benefice, yearly value £400, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Francis Jervois Causton M.A. of University College, Oxford. A Congregational church was erected here in 1882 at a cost of £2,000; John Sulman, of Furnival's inn E C, was the architect: it is of brick with stone front, and is in the 13th Century Gothic style, and is rectangular with apsidal chancel: it has 300 sittings. The Wesleyans have a chapel in the New Way, which is of modern structure, with seats for 170 persons. The Cemetery is situated at Ramshil', in a retired and picturesque spot, covering about 3 acres of leasehold land at an annual ground rent of £16, and having two mortuary chapels and residence for the curator, which were erected at a cost of £1,100: it is under the control of a burial board of 9 members. The Town Hall is a small plain building, erected in 1824, on the site of the old market house with its court room and black hole. There are various temperance societies in a flourishing condition, and a house in the Square has been converted into a coffee tavern of modern style. Castle House was once the Castle inn, where Charles II. and his queen-mother slept, en route to France. The Corn Exchange, fronting the Square and High street, was erected in the year 1866 by a company with limited liability; the building is of white brick, with circular-headed windows and carved keystones, and a lantern roof; in it the corn market is held. The market, which is held every alternate Wednesday, is well attended, and considerable business transacted in corn and stock of all sorts. The fairs are held July 10th, October 6th (on the Heath), and December 11th: that on the 10th July is held in the Square, and is solely a pleasure fair; the one on the 6th October is for both business and pleasure, a large amount of stock of every description being brought into it: the third fair is for sheep only. In the centre of the large market square is an equestrian statue of William III. on a lofty pedestal; the statue formerly stood in the New Way, when the horse was gilded, but on being removed to its present site in 1815 it was painted. The London and County Bank, situate in High street, opposite the Corn Exchange, and erected about the year 1866, is a substantial building of Beaulieu brick, in the Italian style, with bold cornices, supported on carved trusses and artistically carved capitals to the windows. The "Petersfield Weekly News" is published here on Wednesday. The I Company of the 3rd Volunteer Battalion Hampshire Regiment, now (1889) numbering upwards of 100, have their head quarters at the Corn Exchange; the open Downs in the neighbourhood afford three separate shooting ranges. There are several small charities amounting together to about £7 yearly, for the relief of the poor. The Willow Almshouses founded by the late Mrs. Mary Ann Kennett, in 1863, are for three poor persons of Petersfield and Sheet, each of whom receives 6s. weekly: the income of this charity, derived from the interest on £2,000, is now £60 yearly. Holland's charity of £5 yearly is distributed to the poor in bread on St. Thomas' day. Miss Phillip's charity is for keeping a stone in repair in the church and the rest is distributed in bread to the poor on St. Thomas' day. Meeres' charity is derived from invested money to keep a tombstone in repair in the churchyard and the remainder is for the benefit of the Sunday school. The Cottage Hospital was built in 1871 by voluntary subscriptions, at an expense, including furnishing of £1,400, and will hold 8 patients, and is supported by voluntary contributions and the payments of patients, varying from 4s. to 8s. according to their station; the annual income is about £200: it contains 8 adults' beds and one child's bed: an operating room was built in 1879, at a cost of about £250, the amount having been raised by subscription. The Heath was inclosed in 1867, when a recreation ground was awarded, comprising 35 acres in the parish of Sheet, 4 acres in the parish of Buriton and 5 acres in the parish of Petersfield, all adjoining, and making together 44 acres, exclusive of a sheet of water covering 22 acres, around which is an agreeable promenade, much frequented during the summer months, and being encircled by the chain of the South Downs, the Steep Hills, and the heath-clad high grounds of Hindhead, it presents landscape scenery of great beauty; within is the cricket ground of the Petersfield Club. The Heath House, the residence of Captain and the Hon. Mrs. Grenville Wells, a sister of Lord Hylton, the owner, is situated about half a mile south-east. The principal landowners are Lord Hylton, who is lord of the manor, John Bonham-Carter esq. J.P. and William Nicholson esq. J.P. The area is 237 acres; rateable value, £5,909; the population in 1881 was 1,646, including 60 officers and inmates in the workhouse, and with the portions of the parishes of Buriton and Sheet included in the town makes the population of Petersfield 2,045.

Sheet is a parish, having its own vestry, appointing its own officers, and making its own rates, but is usually considered a tithing of Petersfield. Petersfield Cemetery and the Churcher's College are situated in this parish. The church of St. Mary is a handsome stone building, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, and lofty south-east tower and spire, containing one bell, built at a cost of £3,000 and consecrated in 1869: there are 200 sittings. The separate register dates from the year 1869. The living is consolidated with Petersfield. Adhurst St. Mary, the seat of John Bonham-Carter esq. M.A., J.P. who is lord of the manor of Mapledurham, is a substantial mansion in the Elizabethan style, erected in 1858: it is pleasantly situated on an eminence, commanding fine views of the surrounding country, with extensive grounds tastefully laid out. The area is 1,583 acres; rateable value, £3,502; and the population in 1881 was 648.

'OKESDOWN, 2 miles west from Christchurch, and ford, with station at Boscombe, on London and South Western railway, 1½ miles west on the river Stour, over which a bridge of 4 arches, together form an ecclesiastical parish, aken in 1859 from the civil parish of Christchurch, in the ew Forest division of the county, Christchurch union and ounty court district, petty sessional division of Ringwood, ordingbridge rural deanery western division, and Winchester rchdeaconry and diocese. The greater part of Boscombe and ll Freemantle adjoining are included within the ecclesiastial parish of Pokesdown. The church of St. James, erected n 1858, is a building of stone in the Gothic style, from esigns by the late G. E. Street esq. and consists of apsidal hancel, nave of three bays, and north aisle added in 1870, nd south porch and a turret at the west end containing one ell: three stained windows were added in 1885, one in the orth aisle in memory of Mrs. Liddell, one in the west to Irs. Popham, and the small one which admits light to the ulpit: there are sittings for 260 persons. The register ates from the year 1860. The living is a vicarage, yearly alue £35, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Christhurch, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Thomas William Vilkinson. The Congregational chapel, erected in 1858, will seat 250 persons: here is also a small Wesleyan chapel, erected in 1872. Here is the Convent of the Holy Cross, and Salvation Army barracks. The principal landowner is Frederick Moser esq. The population in 1889 is about 1,878.

Railway Station, Boscombe, Samuel Smith, station master

Freemantle is a district adjoining Boscombe. Here is a sanitary hospital, erected at a cost of about £3,000: it consists of 6 wards, containing altogether 12 beds: recently a quarantine cottage for convalescent patients has been added: there is a residence for the matron

POPHAM is a parish, 7½ miles south-west from Basingstoke, 4 east from Micheldever station on the South-Western railway and 10 north-by-east from Winchester, in the Northern division of the county, Bermondspit hundred, Basingstoke union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Alresford, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The church of St. Catharine is a building of flint with stone dressings, erected in 1879, in a modern Gothic style, at a cost of £2,500, defrayed by Lord Ashburton: it consists of chancel and nave and a small western belfry with one bell: there are 160 sittings. The register dates from the year 1628. The living is a vicarage, with Woodmancote annexed, joint yearly value about £210, with residence and 13 acres of glebe, in the gift of Lord Ashburton, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Bennett George Johns. The charities are £15 yearly. Lord Ashburton is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is clay and chalk; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and turnips. The area is 440 acres; rateable value, £756; the population in 1881 was 106.

PORCHESTER (or PORTCHESTER) is a station on the old Portsmouth line of the London and South Western railway and ancient extensive village and parish on Portsmouth Harbour, 87¼ miles from London by rail, and about 70 by road, 7¼ north-west from Portsmouth and 3 east from Fareham, in the Southern division of the county, Portsdown hundred, Fareham union and petty sessional division, Portsmouth county court district, rural deanery of Alverstoke and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. The views from the neighbouring Portsdown Hills are extensive and picturesque: here was formerly a Roman station. The church of St. Mary is a venerable stone structure, standing at the south-east corner of the Castle grounds near to the Prætorium gate; it was originally cruciform in shape, but the south transept is now closed, having long since yielded to time and neglect: the nave, chancel, north transept and western door are good specimens of Norman work, A.D. 1133; some of the mouldings are very fine: the tower at the intersection is low and truncated and contains 3 bells: there is a monument to Sir Thomas Cornwallis, groom porter to Queen Elizabeth and James I. who died November, 1618: there is a lepers' window: the font is ancient and of Caen stone, externally ornamented with strap work and semi-circular arches in relief: the church was restored by subscription in 1888, at a cost of upwards of £2,000: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from about the year 1600. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £240, in the gift of Thomas Thistlethwayte esq. and held since 1884 by the Rev. Alexander Arthur Headley. The Wesleyan Methodists have a chapel here. Porchester Castle is a grand and extensive ruin, washed on the eastern side by the waters of Portsmouth Harbour: the outer walls of immense thickness are of Roman construction, courses of thin red brick and other typical marks abounding in them; they inclose an area of upwards of eight acres and form a square, the sides of which correspond with the cardinal points of the compass: there are several roundels or small towers attached to the walls at regular distances from each other: within the inclosure are the ruins of several buildings, for defence or habitation, of varying date, probably down to the time of Henry VII.; they include the Landport or Western entrance, the Water port or Eastern gate, the Citadel, the Norman court, the Banqueting hall and Queen Elizabeth's tower: but the chief feature is the Great tower, standing at the north-east corner and probably founded in the 12th century (vide Parker's Introduction to Gothic Architecture): it is a massive square structure, and in the basement are two dungeons running north and south, measuring about 40 by 17 feet each; a flight of exterior stone steps leads to the tower, above these the summit being reached by successive flights of stairs, from which a magnificent view is obtained east, south and west, the north being obscured by the adjacent Portsdown Hill: the Castle has been a Roman, Saxon, Norman and an English fortress, and at various periods has undergone considerable alterations and additions; but after the time of Elizabeth it ceased to be a fortress, and became a depôt for the safe keeping of prisoners of war: during the French revolution nearly 8,000 were confined here, also the Dutch prisoners taken by Admiral Duncan at Camperdown. In 1814 the Castle was vacated, and being no longer required by the Government, it reverted to the possession of its manorial lord and is now and has been for some time much visited as a pleasure resort. Thomas Thistlethwayte esq. is owner of the great tithes, lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay and chalk on the hills. The chief crops are wheat and other cereals; market gardening is carried on. The area is 1,378 acres of land and 1,760 water and foreshore; rateable value, £4,399; the population in 1881 was 772.

Parish Clerk, Edward Boyce.

PORTSDOWN is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1870 out of the parishes of Farlington, Widley & Wymering: it is 4 miles north-by-east from Portsmouth and 1½ north-by-east from Cosham station on the South Western railway, in the Southern division of the county, Fareham union, Portsmouth county court district, Alverstoke rural deanery and Winchester archdeaconry and diocese. Christ Church is a large flint structure with stone dressings in the Transition style, consisting of apsidal chancel, nave, aisles and a square tower containing one bell; it was erected in 1874 at the cost of the late John Deverell esq. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1872, burials and marriages 1874. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £150, in the gift of John William Deverell esq. and held since 1881 by the Rev. Thomas Stringer M.A. of Brasenose College, Oxford. Two forts called Fort Purbrook and Fort Widley, mounted with guns, forming part of the defences of Portsmouth, are in this parish. Purbrook Park is the property of William Henry Deverell esq. J.P. and the residence of Mrs. John Deverell: the mansion is a modern stone building, situated in an extensive park. John William Deverell esq. J.P. is the chief landowner. The soil is sand and clay; sub-strata, chalk. The population in 1881 was 160, including 75 in the Industrial school.

PORTSMOUTH, PORTSEA, LANDPORT AND SOUTHSEA.

PORTSMOUTH, PORTSEA, LANDPORT and SOUTHSEA, situated at the south-west point of the Island of Portsea, form, with Portsmouth Harbour, and Gosport on the opposite shore, the seaport called Portsmouth. This great arsenal, the largest royal naval establishment and strongest fortress in England, is a seaport, county, parliamentary and municipal borough, market town, and railway terminus, head of a county court district, and a polling place for the Southern division of the county, in Portsea Island union, rural deanery of Portsea Island, and archdeaconry and diocese of Winchester. Portsmouth occupies the shores of a fine bay in the English Channel, opposite to the Isle of Wight, and is 66 miles from London, 75 by railway, 26 south-east from Southampton, 16 west from Chichester and 27 south-east from Winchester.

The town may be said to owe its origin to the retreat of the sea from Porchester, a naval station established by the Romans on the northern shore of Portsmouth Harbour; it was of importance in the time of Henry I.; a naval station in the reign of King John; and was fortified by Edward IV. Richard III. and Henry VII.; and subsequently became the principal, if not the only, station for the Royal Navy in the reign of Henry VIII. In the time of the civil war the town was garrisoned for the Parliament.

Portsmouth Harbour is admirably secure and sufficiently capacious to contain the whole navy of England; its entrance though narrower than the Thames at London Bridge, yet has sufficient depth of water for a battle ship to enter at any time of tide. The interior of the harbour expands into a spacious lake, 4 miles long and 2 miles wide, having good anchorage, and the depth of water, even at the lowest ebb, will float the largest ship in the British navy; it has also a low-water anchorage for large vessels of 385 acres. A sand-bank, called the Spit, projects towards the south-east from the western side of the harbour's mouth for about 3 miles; beyond it, indicated by buoys, and under shelter of the Isle of Wight, lies the well-known and safe roadstead of Spithead. The jurisdiction of the port extends from Emsworth on the east to the entrance of the Southampton Water on the west, and the roadstead of Spithead and the Bay of St. Helen's, between Portsmouth and the Isle of Wight. There is steam communication with Plymouth and Havre and Southampton several times during the day, and boats leave every hour for Ryde, Isle of Wight.

In the harbour are moored H.M. ship "Duke of Wellington," flagship of the admiral of the station, and near it is permanently stationed the famed "Victory," on which Lord Nelson was killed at the battle of Trafalgar, October 21st, 1805.

The Camber Graving Dock was built by the Corporation of Portsmouth, and is 350 feet long, with 18 feet water on the blocks, and adjoining is a patent heaving-up slip, the property of Mr. John Read, junr. suitable for vessels of 500 tons.

Portsmouth is connected with the metropolis by the London, Brighton and South Coast, and the London and South Western railways. The two companies have a joint station at Landport, called Portsmouth Town station, and another at Portsea, called Portsmouth Harbour station, completed in October, 1876; the latter, constructed on piles, faces the Hard, and adjoins the Dockyard, to which it has a single line of rails, thus placing all Her Majesty's Yards in communication by railway; a boat service connects the Harbour station with the Isle of Wight. There is a steam launch ferry across the harbour between Gosport and Portsea pier for passengers, and a powerful floating bridge, available at any period of the tide, every ten minutes, for vehicles as well as passengers from the point at end of Broad street, Portsmouth.

Portsmouth was incorporated and made a borough by Henry I. whose charter is in the Visitation book of Hampshire. The Reform Act enlarged the boundaries of the ancient borough and the whole of Portsmouth and Portsea, Southsea and Landport, with Kingston and other outlying hamlets, are now included within the borough of Portsmouth, which returns two members to Parliament. The enlarged borough is divided into 14 wards and is governed by a mayor, 14 aldermen and 42 councillors; it has a court of quarter sessions, recorder and coroner; petty sessions are held daily in a room over the gaol by the borough magistrates within the town of Portsmouth; the Guildhall, in High street, where the meetings of the Council are held, is a room of noble proportions, well lighted, and furnished with every convenience.

The silver plate of the corporation is ancient; the earliest is a silver cup dated 1525-6; a pair of flagons of silver gilt with the hall mark 1683, were the gift of Louise Renée, Duchess of Portsmouth.

By the Local Government Act, 1888, 51 and 52 Vict. c. 41, the borough has for certain purposes been declared a "County borough."

The borough is divided into two parishes, viz. Portsmouth and Portsea, the latter comprising Southsea and Landport. The town of Portsmouth is built in the form of a quadrangle, and has an area of 110 acres; the streets are mostly narrow, but it is well paved and lighted, and there are some substantial houses in the High street and on the Grand parade.

Portsmouth is the head quarters of the Southern Military District. Government House, the residence of the Lieut.-Governor of Portsmouth, is a large red brick building, situated in its own grounds in Cambridge road; the old Government House in High street being now used as the Garrison offices. An Institute for Soldiers has been erected on the site of the Old Fountain hotel, in High street.

Extensive drainage works, designed by Sir Frederick Bramwell C.E. which cost £130,000 in construction, were commenced in September, 1885 and finished in August, 1887.

The first Act for supplying Portsmouth with water was passed in 1741. The powers were assigned to a company, who obtained an Act in 1840, under the name of "The Portsmouth, &c. Water Works Company." In December, 1858, all their works were sold to the Borough of Portsmouth Water Works Company, established by Act of Parliament in 1857. Between 1858 and 1861, from £50,000 to £60,000 was expended in the purchase of the Havant springs, about 8 miles from Portsmouth, and in constructing new works; in 1868 further improvements were effected, and the total sum expended by the Company in the purchase of the old, and in the construction of new works, has been, up to the present year (1889), about £362,832. An additional service was completed by Midsummer 1886, which has augumented the supply to the borough by about 6,000,000 gallons per diem. The springs, reservoirs and collecting ponds cover an area of about 17 acres of land. In 1873 the company obtained an Act of Parliament enabling them, subject to the approval of the Corporation, to control the use of water at individual houses. The water is from time to time analysed by eminent chemists. Messrs. Joseph Quick and Son MM.I.C.E. 29 Great George street, Westminster, consulting engineers; Mr. Henry Robert Smith Assoct.M.I.C.E. resident engineer; R. W. Ford, secretary; Samuel Gamblen, accountant; John L. Wilkinson, chief clerk. Offices of the Company, Commercial road.

The church of St. Thomas à Becket is an ancient cruciform building of stone, founded by Richard Toclive, Bishop of Winchester 1173-80, and consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, transepts, south porch, and a western tower, surmounted by a cupola and containing 8 bells and a clock: the chancel and transepts are good specimens of the Transition period: the nave and aisles were rebuilt in 1691, after the debased style then in vogue: in the chancel is a monument to George Villiers K.G. Duke of Buckingham and Lord High Admiral, who was assassinated in the High street by Lieut. John Felton, 23rd August, 1628: the organ, said to be one of Father Smith's, has been rebuilt, at a cost of £620: there are 1,000 sittings, of which about 200 are free. The register dates from the year 1660 and contains the marriage register of King Charles II. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £555, with residence, in the gift of Winchester College, and held since 1868 by the Rev. Edward Pierce Grant M.A. late fellow of New College, Oxford, rural dean of Portsea Island, and surrogate. St. Mary's, in St. Mary street, a chapel of ease to the parish church, is a building of stone consisting only of chancel and nave: there are 1,200 sittings, all of which are free.

The Baptist chapel, in St. Thomas's street, will seat 400 persons; Congregational (temporarily closed), Highbury street; Unitarian, High street and the Wesleyan chapel in Pembroke road, will seat 800 persons.

The cemetery, situated at Eastney, was consecrated in November, 1854, and has two mortuary chapels: it is under the control of a Burial Board.

The Royal Naval Club, Portsmouth, was formed in the year 1868, for commissioned officers of all ranks in Her Majesty's navy and the royal marines; the buildings, constructed of stone and brick in the Italian style, from designs by Mr. Thomas Hellyer, of Ryde, Isle of Wight, architect, were extended in 1875 and in 1884. The club house is conducted on the plan of the leading London clubs, and contains dining and coffee rooms, library, reading and writing rooms, smoking, billiard and card rooms, with offices for the secretary, and an upper smoking room over the main entrance; the two balconies extend along the entire width of each wing, on either side of the entrance. The club consists of over 1,100 members. Secretary, Charles Henry John Collings esq. assistant paymaster R.N. (retired).

The Town Hall is in the centre of the town, opposite the chief railway station, from whence tram cars and other public vehicles run to every part of the borough; it is encircled by a fine carriage drive and broad pavement: on the north is the Victoria park, on the west the grounds will shortly be laid out as an ornamental garden by the Corporation; beyond these gardens are the United Service and Military recreation grounds. This situation has been brought about by the razing of the old Portsmouth fortifications, and as the land on which they stood is in the hands of H. M. War Department, it will probably remain open. The building is in the Classic style and was designed by the late Mr. William Hill F.R.I.B.A. of Leeds: the works have, since his death, been under the superintendence of his son, Mr. W. L. Hill, of Leeds, and Mr. Chas. W. Bevis F.S.A. architect, of Southsea: the east or principal front is approached by a grand flight of granite steps leading to a portico of six columns: in the centre of the tympanum stands Britannia, with symbolic figures of Peace and Plenty: each angle of the building is adorned with a cupola, with vase-shaped terminals, and on each flank of the portico is a turret: in the centre of this façade rises the noble clock tower: in the first stage above the roof the masonry for a height of 25 feet is of a plain bold character, 28 feet square: the belfry stage is 30 feet in height; above comes the more highly enriched clock stage, with four dials, 11 feet in diameter; above these the form of the tower is an octagon, with vase-shaped terminals at the angles, then an octagonal dome covered with copper, above which is a very beautifully designed stone lantern, crowned with a cupola and ball and finial of gilt copper: internally the building is divided into three floors, except that the large kitchen and other apartments occupy a fourth story partly in the roof: the vestibule forming the grand entrance beyond the portico is an apartment of stone; eight columns of polished Peterhead granite, each a monolith 12 feet in height, with corresponding pilasters in Portland stone, support a very handsome frieze and cornice; the floor is laid with marble mosaic in a geometrical pattern; the vestibule leads directly into the Great Hall, situated in the centre of the building, 129 feet long, 70 feet wide and 60 feet high: all the doors, dados and finishings to this room are in dark walnut, as also are the doors to all rooms opening from the corridors: on the ground floor are the public library and reading rooms: on the west are the police quarters and courts, the chief constable's and inspector's offices, charge room, reserve room, detectives' room and police parade, and beyond these eleven cells for prisoners. Surrounding the court on two floors are various rooms allotted to magistrates and their clerks, the Clerk of the Peace, barristers, solicitors and others. On the first floor and in connection with the upper galleries of the court is the grand jury room, which can also be used as a second court.

On the north side of the building are the rooms for sanitary officers, including the medical officers of health, on the ground floor: on the upper floor is the Council chamber; the fittings in this room are all in walnut wood. The portion of the structure north of the tower on the east front is entirely used by the town clerk and his staff on all three floors, including the rate offices, the book-keepers, cashiers, clerks and others, and the town clerk, chief clerk and assistants. The borough engineer, with the whole of his staff have rooms over the library: above these rooms are the mayor's parlour, reception room and dining room: near the dining room is the kitchen, with arrangements for cooking by steam and gas: there are also coroner's court and committee rooms.

The ventilating arrangements are very complete; there are two boilers which circulate a very large volume of hot water through 7,000 feet and upwards of pipes, arranged in tunnels below ground, forming air ducts from which flues are carried up the walls to every room in the building: the in-coming air is drawn over the pipes (by two fans worked by a powerful engine) into the building at the rate of forty thousand cubic feet per minute, while seven extraction shafts assisted by steam coils are constantly pulling the vitiated air out of the building at the highest points; when the air is very dry the necessary amount of moisture is restored by driving the air over a water spray. Gas is laid on to the whole of the building; the large hall, library, corridors and chief apartments are also illuminated by electric light.

The organ stands in the semicircular recess at the south end of the large hall.

The clock has four illuminated dials, eleven feet in diameter, which are visible from nearly all parts of the borough. To protect the building from damage by storms there are five lightning conductors, all in circuit and with two earth connexions.

The contract for the whole of the buildings was taken in September, 1886, by Messrs. Armitage and Hodgson, of Leeds, Mr. Henry Lawrence, of Southea, being then appointed by the Corporation as clerk of the works. The total cost of the building will be approximately £120,000. The foundation stone was laid by the Mayor, A. S. Blake esq. on the 14th October, 1886.

The area of the parish is 127 acres of land and 116 of water and foreshore; rateable value of over £34,038: the population of the borough in 1871 was 113,569, and of the parish 11,569; the population of the borough in 1881, was 127,989, and of the parish 7,967, which includes 197 in Colewort Barracks, 338 in Gun Wharf Barracks, 493 in Cambridge Barracks, 375 in Clarence Barracks, and 472 on board H.M.S. "St. Vincent."

Government Establishments.

PORTSMOUTH DOCKYARD, locally in the parish of Portsea, is entered through three gateways, one at the end of the famed "Hard," and others called Union gate and Marlborough gate; the dockyard comprises about 300 acres of basins, docks, slips, factories, workshops and storehouses. The magnificent extension works, occupying ground mainly reclaimed from the harbour, contain 3 large basins respectively for repairing, rigging and fitting, which have depth of water sufficient to float any ship now in existence, with an aggregate area of 53 acres. Here are also a tidal basin (10 acres) and steam basin (7 acres), besides 13 first class docks and five slips in which the largest vessels can be constructed. In the dockyard is a chapel, the chaplaincy of which is held by the Rev. Charles John Corfe R.N., M.A. of All Souls' College, Oxford.

The Gun-wharf, lying between Portsmouth and Portsea, is the grand depôt for ordnance and ammunition, both for land and sea service, a reserve being also maintained for the troops generally quartered in the southern district. The two armouries contain in the aggregate about 40,000 stand of arms. The creek which formerly separated the towns of Portsmouth and Portsea was filled up in 1876.

The Royal Powder Magazine at Tipnor, situated at the the northern extremity of Portsea parish, contains the store of gunpowder for Her Majesty's naval and military forces, and is in charge of an officer of the Ordnance Store Department, who resides on the spot; there is also a detachment of a regiment of the line to guard the magazine and premises.

The fortifications constructed in the eighteenth century round the towns of Portsmouth and Portsea have been razed, and works of a far more extensive character, with numerous detached forts, now form a circle round the town; the forts being placed at various distances, up to four miles, from a centre situate in the dockyard. Three of these detached forts are in the Solent, with foundations built up from the bottom, others extend from Stokes Bay to Fareham, thence along the Portsdown range of hills to Bedhampton, where the harbour of Langstone prevents any approach by land, and Fort Cumberland, at its entrance, prevents an approach by sea from this direction. The chain is further continued along the shore from Fort Cumberland to the entrance of the harbour by Eastney and Lumps Forts and Southsea Castle; while the entrance to Portsmouth Harbour is guarded by the batteries on the Portsmouth shore and the forts Blockhouse, Gilkicker and other forts on the Gosport side.

There are five barracks within the borough of Portsmouth —the Cambridge, the Clarence, between Portsmouth and Southsea, and the Anglesea barracks, situated near the east end of Queen street, Portsea, and occupied by regiments of the line; the Colewort barracks by the Army Service Corps and the Broad street and Gun Wharf barracks, near the Custom House, by the Royal Artillery.

Eastney Barracks, the head quarters of the corps of Roval Marine Artillery, are three miles east of Portsmouth on the outskirts of Southsea and near the Eastney Battery, and front the sea immediately in rear of two earthworks which are connected by a long curtain, and alongside of which runs a military road from Portsmouth to Fort Cumberland and Langstone Ferry. The barracks are brick, the main building, which is parallel to the line of beach, holding 1,200 men: in the rear are a covered drill shed, recreation rooms and stables, and behind these a theatre, canteen and provision stores, and quarters for about 150 soldiers' families: the parade ground is in the form of a square, the main building occupying the north, the mess establishment and single officers' quarters the east, and offices and officers' quarters the west side. The total area covered is 24 acres, and about 40 acres are made use of in addition as allotment gardens for the men.

At Fort Cumberland, one mile more to the east, a detachment of the same corps is quartered for drill and gun practice; it will hold 600 men, but it is principally occupied by married soldiers and their families.

Portsea Island is separated from the mainland by an arm of the sea called "Portsbridge Creek," and is situate between two natural harbours, Langstone on the east and Portsmouth on the west, and comprises PORTSEA, LANDPORT and SOUTHSEA, with FRATTON, BUCKLAND, COPNOR and KINGSTON. Fratton and Kingston form a street, 1½ miles long, leading towards the mainland. Fratton was anciently called Froddington, and there was a priory cell there, with a resident priest. The island is 3 miles long and 2½ wide, and has 4,832 acres of land; the population in 1881 was 128,022.

Portsea town owes its origin to the rapid increase of the Government establishments; it was formerly called "Portsmouth Common," but assumed its present name by Act of Parliament in 1792. The Portsmouth railway stations are on the borders. The Albert Pier, situated on the Hard, and extending into Portsmouth Harbour, is 1,200 feet long, and is a great convenience to the inhabitants, steam launches running at frequent intervals to and from Gosport. The parish church of St. Mary, situated in the tithing of KINGSTON, has been pulled down, and a new church in the Perpendicular style has been erected from designs by Sir A. W. Blomfield M.A. at a cost of about £42,000, towards which a layman has given £22,000: the first stone was laid on August 9th, 1887, by the Crown Princess (afterwards Empress of Germany), on behalf of Her Majesty the Queen, and it was consecrated October 10th, 1889: the walls are of flint, with freestone dressings and windows, and internally faced with Ham Hill stone, and round the walls runs a dado of marble mosaic: the roofs are of open timber except the sanctuary ceiling, which is of stone groining: the choir is not separate from the body of the church, but is surrounded by a low screen of alabaster, richly panelled and supporting wrought iron screens: on the south side is a chapel forming part of the south aisle, and intended for use for daily service and early celebrations: the principal entrance to the church is through the great western tower, which is 29 feet square on the exterior and rises to a height of 140 feet to the top of the parapet, and 156 feet to the summit of the angle pinnacles; this tower is built so as to be capable of receiving a spire, but is at present covered with a flat roof: the vestries on the north side of the sanctuary are arranged on two floors: the organ gallery is approached from the upper floor: the chapel is a memorial to Archdeacon Jacob, father of the vicar, and the reredos is of carved oak, decorated and gilded: the font of the old church, in which Isambard Brunel, the engineer, was baptized in 1805, and Charles Dickens in 1812, is still preserved: the church has sttings for 1,000 persons: in the churchyard is a monument to Admiral Kempenfelt and his crew, who perished by the sinking of the Royal George at Spithead 29th August, 1782. The register dates from the year 1653, though the first parish church was built in 1170. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £272, net yearly value £1,000, with residence, in the gift of Winchester College, and held since 1878 by the Rev. Edgar Jacob M.A. of New College, Oxford, honorary canon of Winchester, examining chaplain to the Bishop of Winchester, and surrogate and hon. chaplain to the Queen.

St. George's church, St. George's square, built and endowed by subscription, and consecrated 17th September, 1754, is a substantial building of red brick, consisting of nave and aisles and a western bell-cot containing 1 bell: during the year 1881 the high wall, built at the erection of the church and completely inclosing the churchyard, was taken down, and the present low wall with railings was erected; a pair of handsome gates and a brass lectern have lately been presented by Messrs. Read. About 1882 the churchyard was planted with trees. The organ, presented to the church in 1771 and which occupied the west end of the gallery, being quite worn out, a new one has been built by subscription, and placed in the north-east corner of the floor of the church, at the cost of £300, including necessary alterations. There are 979 sittings, of which 509 are free. The register dates from the year 1876. The living is a perpetual curacy, net yearly value £254, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Portsea, and held by the Rev. Cedric Edwin Crowley M.A. of Hertford College, Oxford, and Wells Theological College. The population in 1881 was 4,993.

St. John's church, Prince George's street, formerly known as St. John's chapel, was built in 1787, upon what was then known as Portsmouth Common, at a cost of £7,000; it is a large edifice of red brick, in the Venetian style, consisting of nave with apse, and aisles: in the year 1835, by an Order in Council, a district, including the Dockyard, was allotted to the church, but was subdivided in 1842 to form the parish of Holy Trinity: in the year 1865 it became a parish church: there are sittings for 1,800 persons. The register dates from the year 1865. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £307, with residence, in the gift (under an Act of Parliament passed in 1865) of trustees, and held since 1881 by the Rev. Henry Lindsay Young M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The population in 1881 was 4,700.

Holy Trinity is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1842: the church, situated in North street, and erected in 1840, is an edifice of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of nave with apse, and has 700 sittings, all free and unappropriated. The register dates from the year 1842. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £264, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Portsea, and held since 1854 by the Rev. Thomas Duodecimus Platt B.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. The population in 1881 was 6,858.

The chapel of the Good Shepherd, in White's row (chapel of ease to Holy Trinity), was bulit in 1866, and licensed for divine worship: it will seat 150 persons; the Rev. W. G. Rouse is curate in charge.

The Baptist chapel, in Kent street, built on the site of the old chapel, which was known as Meeting House Alley chapel, and founded in 1704, is a spacious building in the Gothic style.

Here are also Congregational and Wesleyan chapels, and a Jewish synagogue.

Charities producing £20 yearly are distributed in bread.

The National Provincial Bank of England Limited, in 1875 built handsome premises on the Hard.

Aria College, Portsea, was founded and endowed by the late Mr. Lewis Aria, of Portsea, who bequeathed the sum of £25,000 for the instruction and maintenance of Hebrew young men to be trained for the priesthood on orthodox Judaical principles; it was opened 6th January, 1874, by the Rev. Dr. Adler, chief rabbi; principal, the Rev. William Stern PH.D.

The Portsmouth Royal Sailors' Home in Queen street is a spacious building of brick and stone, remodelled in 1882-3.

Portsmouth Convict Prison, opened 1st April, 1852, is constructed to hold 1,300 prisoners, who are employed upon public works for the Admiralty and War Departments.

The population of the parish in 1881 was 120,022, which includes 1,962 in the different barracks, 1,612 on board vessels of the Royal Navy; Borough Lunatic Asylum, 456; Convict Prison, 1,305; Garrison Station Hospital, 246; Portsmouth Prison, 118; Royal Portsmouth and Gosport Hospital, 176, and 1,190 officers and inmates in Portsea Island Workhouse; of the ecclesiastical parishes:—Holy Trinity, 6,858; St. John, 5,931; St. Mary, 23,957; and St. George, 4,993. The area is 4,168 acres of land and 764 acres of water and foreshore; rateable value of the united parishes, £597,691.

HORSEA ISLAND, three-quarters of a mile long and half a mile wide, lies to the north-west, and is a marsh island, with a farm-house. WHALEY, north of Portsea town, is a small island, a quarter of a mile long, uninhabited until 1845. PEWIT ISLAND lies near Porchester: these islands are in Portsmouth Harbour. The soil is rich and highly cultivated, chiefly arable. The eastern shore abounds in water-fowl and shells in great variety are found there. Baffins Farm is 2 miles north-east; Tangier, 3 north-east; Stamshaw, 2 north; Eastney, 2½ east; Lumps, 1½ miles south-east.

MILTON, 2 miles east of Portsmouth, but within the borough, is a village and ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1844 from the civil parishes of Portsea and Great Salterns. The church of St. James, built in 1841 at a cost of £5,218, is a building of stone in the Norman style, consisting of nave and chancel, with a small apse and bell-cot containing one bell: there are sittings for 300 persons, all of which are free. The register dates from the year 1844. The church of St. Columba, at Eastney, in connection with the church of St. James, Milton, was erected in 1885, at a cost of £1,200, from the plans of Mr. J. Henry Ball, architect, and is a building of brick, consisting of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles, porch and a belfry containing one bell: the font was presented by Mr. Young, of Eastney. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £300, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Portsea, and held since 1884 by the Rev. Richard Arthur Kennaway M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. The Rev. Herbert Edward Egremont B.A. is curate in charge at St. Columba's, Eastney. Here is a Congregational chapel. The Borough of Portsmouth Infectious Diseases Hospital was erected here in 1883, at a cost, including site and fences, of £8,600, and consists of three blocks of buildings, each containing two wards, with six beds in each ward, and nurses' rooms, bath rooms &c.: the hospital stands in a considerable area of land, available, if necessary, for the erection of hospital tents in case of epidemic. The Borough of Portsmouth Lunatic Asylum, situated here, and opened September 30th, 1879, by Mr. Alderman King, now Sir W. D. King knt. the then mayor, is a structure of red Fareham bricks with bath stone dressings, in the Gothic style, erected at a cost, including the chapel and farm buildings, of about £120,000, and will hold 530 patients: the building is pleasantly situated on an estate of 75 acres, almost surrounded by water, and has a southern aspect immediately facing Spithead and the Isle of White. The population in 1881 was 6,357.

Parish Clerk, William Day.

GREAT SALTERNS, formerly extra-parochial, is a parish adjoining Portsea parish, north-east of Milton, and consists of 337 acres of land and 186 of water and foreshore, but has only five houses, with 33 inhabitants; rateable value, £456. Great Salterns House, formerly the residence of the late Mrs. Wyndham, is about 4 miles north-east from Portsmouth town.

Landport, formerly called "Halfway Houses," is a modern place, within the parish of Portsea and borough of Portsmouth, and has been built in consequence of the great increase of population within the town of Portsea. The artisans of the Royal Dockyard mostly reside here: and here also is the joint terminus (Portsmouth Town station) of the London, Brighton and South Coast, and London and South Western railways, and the Fratton junction station of line to Southsea. The well-known author, Charles Dickens, was born in this town 7th February, 1812, being the son of Mr. John Dickens, some time a clerk in the Navy Pay Depart.

All Saints' is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1835 from the parish of Portsea: the church, situated in Commercial road, and erected in 1827 at a cost of £13,000, is an edifice of stone in the Romanesque style, and consists of chancel, nave and aisles, and a small western embattled tower, with pinnacles, and terminating with a short spire containing a clock and one bell: the nave was re-seated in 1886; the chancel was added and the church restored in 1877 by the late Sir G. Gilbert Scott, architect, R.A. at an outlay of about £8,000: there are 2,000 sittings, of which 1,000 are free. The register dates from the year 1838. The living is a perpetual curacy, with residence, net yearly value about £200, which is derived from pew-rents and a grant of £110 from the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, in the gift of the vicar of Portsea, and held since 1861 by the Rev. Edward Beane Churchill Churchill M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford, surrogate. The area is 320 acres; population in 1881, 19,526.

St. Luke's, Marylebone, is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1864 from the parish of Portsea: the church, built in 1861 at a cost of £3,000, consists of chancel, nave, aisles, bell-turret and bell: there are 1,200 sittings, of which 600 are free. The register dates from the year 1861. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £345, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1864 by the Rev. Basil Duckett Aldwell M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin, surrogate. The population in 1881 was 11,021.

St. Mark's is an ecclesiastical parish: the church, situated in North End, and erected in 1874 at a cost of nearly £5,000, is a building of stone with red brick dressings in the Early English style, consisting of chancel with small side chapel, nave of four bays, north aisle, north porch and a tower with clock: there are sittings for 504 persons, of which 270 are free: it is proposed (1889) to add a south aisle when the funds are provided. The register dates from the year 1874. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £400, in the gift of the vicar of Portsea, and held since 1874 by the Rev. Samuel Lidbetter, of Downing College, Cambridge, and of Chichester Theol. Coll. The population in 1881 was 7,153.

St. Michael and All Angels is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1882 from the civil parish of St. Mary, Portsea, and the ecclesiastical parishes of St. Luke, Landport, and St. Paul, Southsea. The church, situated in St. Michael's road, is a building of red brick with stone dressings, consisting of chancel, nave and aisles, transepts, north and south porches, and bell turret containing one bell; the chancel and transepts are not yet completed. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1872 by the Rev. Reginald Neale Shutte B.A. of Caius College, Cambridge.

The Circus Mission Proprietary church, situated in Surrey street, is a plain building of red brick, containing about 1,500 sittings, half of which are free. The living is a perpetual curacy, in the gift of and held since 1865 by the Rev. John Cutlack Martin M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. The appointment will be in the hands of trustees after his decease.

Winchester College Mission church (St. Agatha's) in Charlotte street, containing 500 sittings, has a district assigned to it of about 6,000 inhabitants, Rev. R. W. R. Dolling, in charge.

The Catholic diocese of Portsmouth comprises Hants, Berks and the Channel Islands. The Catholic Cathedral of St. John, situated in Edinburgh road, is an imposing structure of red brick with Portland stone dressings in the Gothic style, and has several memorial windows by Hardman: there are sittings for over 600 persons. The new Episcopal residence for bishop and priests in charge of the district is a building of red brick, with black joints and Hamhill stone facings in the Gothic style, from designs by Mr. J. S. Hansom, architect, of London, and has a domestic chapel.

The English Presbyterian church (St. Andrew's), situated in St. Michael's road, on the site granted for the purpose by the War Office, is an edifice of brick with Bath stone dressings, in the Gothic style, from designs by Mr. Thomas Arnold, architect, of London; cost, including the lecture rooms and other buildings, upwards of £6,000. The foundation stone was laid 9th October, 1878, by Gainsford Bruce esq. Q.C. recorder of Bradford: the church will seat 512 persons.

There are Baptist, Congregational, Wesleyan, Primitive Methodist and Bible Christian chapels.

The Royal Portsmouth, Portsea and Gosport Hospital, situated at Mile End, is a handsome building, erected by voluntary subscriptions on land given by the Board of Ordnance: the foundation stone was laid by H.R.H. Prince Albert, September 28th, 1849, and the building was enlarged in 1866 and again in 1869, and has now 126 beds, 96 of which are for general purposes and the remaining 30 for government patients.

The Union Offices, St. Michael's road, consist of a building of red brick with Bath stone dressings, in the Gothic style, erected at a cost of about £4,500, from designs by Mr. C. M. Houghton, architect, of Southsea, on a site purchased from the War Department for a sum of £1,000: the building, which has a lofty tower, is arranged so as to comprise under one roof the whole of the working departments of the guardians of the Portsea Island Union: the ground floor of the building is appropriated to relief and dispensing, with separate entrances for each; on the first floor is a spacious board room for the use of the guardians and offices for clerks: detached are the overseers' offices, with a suite of apartments for the housekeeper, built to correspond with the main block: the cost, exclusive of land, was about £2,000.

The Freemasons' Hall and Club, Commercial road, intended for the use of the various lodges in the neighbourhood of Portsmouth, is a building of red Fareham bricks with Bath stone dressings, erected in 1879-80 from the plans of Mr. E. J. Smith, architect, of Portsmouth, at a cost of about £7,000: the front room of the first floor is used as a chamber of commerce.

The Port of Portsmouth Incorporated Chamber of Commerce was established in 1879, and incorporated in 1883, the first president being for many years the late J. Bonham-Carter esq. D.L.; it consists of some 150 of the leading men of the town, 24 of whom are elected to form a council, of which the members of parliament for the borough and Southern division of the county and the past presidents are ex-officio members; it has both railway and shipping committees, elected at each annual meeting, which deal with all questions bearing on these subjects. The registered office and rooms are situate at 79 Commercial road, Landport. The subscription is £1 1s. yearly, payable in advance on the 1st January, and entitles members to the use of the room, papers, information, writing materials &c. placed therein, and the free use of the valuable library of reference on commercial questions. The annual meeting of the chamber is held in February, other general meetings in April, August and October, and the council has a fixed monthly meeting on the last Wednesday in every month.

Her Majesty's Prison, situated in St. Mary's road, Kingston, and opened 31st August, 1878, is an edifice of Plymouth marble with castellated turrets, surrounded by a massive wall of the same material, with the governor's house adjoining: it will hold 139 male and 34 female prisoners, from the borough of Portsmouth, the city of Chichester, summary convictions from the Isle of Wight, Gosport, Havant and Petersfield, and the Western division of the county of Sussex; they may also be received from Southampton upon (and after) committal to the Borough quarter sessions: the prisoners are mostly employed on the treadmill, grinding corn and at mop and mat making, both for Her Majesty's service and the public.

The Sailors' Rest, Commercial road, was opened by Miss Weston in 1882, for the benefit of seamen and marines of the Royal Navy, and seamen generally: it contains reading and recreation rooms, cabins and sleeping accommodation, and a large hall seating 1,000, for evangelistic meetings and temperance work.

The Victoria Park, opened on April 25th, 1878, by W. D. King esq. now Sir W. D. King, consists of 8 acres of land, situated between the Commercial, Edinburgh, Park and St. Michael's road, and has entrances in the three former, the principal entrance being in the Commercial road: military bands play in the park on Sunday afternoons and on two evenings in the week during the summer months.

The Portsmouth Protestant Institute Limited, incorporated 1883, consists of a handsome block of buildings, comprising two halls known as the Albert hall and the Lower Albert hall, six lofty shops, and various rooms used for meetings of Friendly Societies, and numbered respectively 1, 3, 5, 7, 9, 11 and 13 Commercial road, Landport; secretary, Mr. J. Street, 1 Edinburgh road, Landport.

The Drill Hall, Alfred road, is a structure of red brick with stone dressings, from designs by Mr. A. H. Bone, architect, and is estimated to hold 11,000 people: the hall is primarily intended for the use of the 3rd Volunteer Battalion of the Hampshire Regiment, but can also be let for meetings and entertainments.

Southsea, occupying the south-western portion of Portsea Island, opposite the eastern extremity of the Isle of Wight and the anchorage of Spithead, is a place of recent origin, extending eastward from Portsmouth town, and is in the borough of Portsmouth and parish of Portsea. The town, now a beautiful and fashionable watering-place, with a fine beach, derives its name from Southsea Castle, a fortress erected in the reign of Henry VIII. on the extreme south point of the island, and may be said to have wholly sprung up since the year 1850, at which period only two or three roughly-formed roads traversed the waste lands now covered with streets and houses, and neither dwellings nor trees appeared. The town has of late been much improved by the erection of many fine houses and terraces, suited to the wants of a superior class of visitors. South of the town, and between it and the beach, is Southsea Common, extending from the Assembly Rooms and Baths on the west to Lumps Fort on the east, a distance of about 1½ miles: it is the property of H.M. Government, and is used for the drilling and exercising of the troops in garrison. At the western end of the common, near the Assembly Rooms, is the Clarence Esplanade pier, which has a concert hall and reading rooms; the Esplanade, stretching from this point to the fortifications of Southsea Castle, is protected by a substantial sea-wall of brick and concrete, continued round the castle and extending to St. George's road, between Lumps Fort and Eastney battery west: a carriage drive and parade run parallel with the south-eastern portion of the wall, which is interrupted between the castle and Lumps Fort by the South Parade pier, a structure of iron completed in 1879: steamers from Portsmouth call at the Clarence pier for the Isle of Wight, and at the South Parade pier for Sea View and Bembridge. The Provincial Tramways Company have about 12 miles of tramway line intercepting the principal thoroughfares of the borough with omnibuses connecting all side places: there is a regular 7½ minutes' service maintained throughout the whole borough; the fares are divided into penny sections: the tramway connects the railway stations with the piers, dockyard, gun wharf and all government establishments. The railway accommodation consists of a junction station at Fratton, which serves one section of Southsea and acts as a place of change for passengers for the East Southsea station, which is about 400 yards from the South Parade pier; the Town station serves the larger portion of Southsea together with Landport and Portsea; the Harbour station is convenient for the dockyard, and at this station there is a pier to and from which all the Isle of Wight steamers ply.

St. Bartholomew's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1865 from the parish of Portsea: the church, situated in Outram road, Havelock park, and built in 1862 at a cost of £2,786, is an edifice in the Early English style consisting of chancel and nave, to which a transept and tower will be added: there are 800 sittings, of which 200 are free. The register dates from the year 1864. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value, derived from pew-rents, £300, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1884 by the Rev. Edward Amyatt-Burney M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford.

St. Jude's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1851 from the parish of Portsea: the church, situated in Kent road, and erected in 1851, is an edifice of stone, in the Gothic style of the 14th century, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, south transept, south porch and a lofty tower with clock and spire: the cost of building was over £9,000: nearly all the windows are stained: there are 1,740 sittings, of which 350 are free: on the south side is a memorial chapel with white marble monument to Col. Sir W. Owen Lanyon K.C.M.G. (d. April, 1887). The register dates from the year 1851. The living is a vicarage; the income is derived from pew-rents, net yearly value £600, with residence, in the gift of Mrs. Nelson Byng, and held since 1869 by the Rev. Joseph Sewell Blake M.A. of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge, surrogate.

St. Paul's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1835 from the parish of Portsea: at the time of the first formation of the parish of St. Paul, the whole of Southsea proper was assigned to it, being therefore the mother-parish of Southsea: the church, in St. Paul's square, completed and consecrated 25th October, 1822, at a cost of £18,000, is a building of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave and aisles: a painting by Mr. Charles Skottowe, representing St. Paul giving thanks to God for his escape from the shipwreck, was presented to the church by the subscribers in 1827, and is now affixed to the chancel wall: the chancel has a rood screen: there are 1,300 sittings, of which 550 are free. The register dates from the year 1822. The living is a vicarage, with an endowment of £150, gross yearly value, including pew-rents and offertory, £500, in the gift of the vicar of Portsea, and held since 1887 by Rev. William Hunter Denovan M.A. Trinity College, Dublin.

St. Peter's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1883 from the parishes of St. Jude, Southsea, and St. Paul, Portsea: the church, situated in Somers road and built in 1883 at a cost of £5,218, is an edifice of red brick and stone in the Early English style, and consists of double chancel, with a trilateral apse, clerestoried nave, aisles, a small south transept forming an organ chamber, and a bell cot containing one bell: the communion table of oak is made from wood which formerly belonged to an old church in Sussex, and is inlaid with wood brought from the ruins of the church of St. Patrick: the church has sittings for 800 persons, but is designed so that when required it may be lengthened 40 feet at the west, in order to seat 1,000 persons, as originally intended: all the sittings are free. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £200, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Charles Russell Tompkins.

Here are Baptist, Congregational, Primitive Methodist, Wesleyan and Bible Christian chapels.

St. Simon's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1868: the church, situated in Waverley road, built in 1866, at a cost of £4,500, and consecrated in 1868, is an edifice of white and coloured brick, with Bath and Portland stone dressings, in the Early Decorated style, from designs by Mr. Thomas Hellyer, architect, of Ryde, and consisting of apsidal chancel, with aisles, an unusually wide and lofty nave of five bays, with clerestory, north and south aisles, the lower story of future tower at the south-east, vestry at the north-east angle and a western porch: including the clerestory there are 29 stained windows, of which 9 are memorials: the organ was erected at a cost of about £500: the church will seat about 1,080 persons, 200 sittings being free. The register dates from the year 1868. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value (derived mainly from pew-rents) £500, without residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1868 by the Rev. Frederick Baldey.

The Hampshire and Isle of Wight School and Home for the Blind, St. Mary's Hall, St. Edward's road, established by Miss I. Henn-Gennys, in 1864, for the purpose of educating and giving industrial instruction to the blind of both sexes, the only institution of the kind in the counties of Hants, Wilts and Dorset, has attached a shop for the sale of baskets, brushes and mats, most of which are made by the inmates, and is supported by voluntary contributions.

The South Coast Medical, Surgical and Convalescen Home for Women, 20 and 24 Granada road, was establisbe in 1877; there are 11 beds, and an average number of abou 65 patients annually; total number of patients 620.
